Anxious Cubans Packed Havana Square To Hear New President's Speech

. . . President Manuel Urrutia broadcast from Santiago headquarters

Urrutia Assumes Presidency, Names Castro Military Boss

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — Once-exiled Cuban Judge Manuel Urrutia took over Saturday night as provisional president of Cuba, and immediately named Rebel Leader Fidel Castro commander-in-chief of armed forces.

Urrutia took the oath of office in a ceremony at the University of Oriente in Santiago as Castro, who sparked the revolution that toppled the Batista government, headed for Havana where cheering mobs of his followers waited to welcome him.

In his acceptance speech, which was carried over a nationwide radio hookup and was often interrupted by cheers of crowds at the university, Urrutia made a slashing attack on Latin American dictatorships.

He pledged himself to appeal to the United Nations and to the Organization of American States in behalf of "human rights for the people of the Dominican Republic, Paraguay and Nicaragua."

Urrutia also vowed that under the new government there would be a concerted effort to recover "all money and property stolen from the people of Cuba by the Batista government."

URRUTIA

To carry out this promise, Urrutia named Faustino Perez Hernandez minister in charge of a new cabinet post to be responsible for recovering property the rebels claim members of Batista's government seized illegally.

Uurrutia promptly received support from former President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was booted out of office in 1952 by Fulgencio Batista and who returned to his homeland Friday from Miami exile.

Prio called on his Autentico Party followers to put aside firearms and follow orders of the new government.

In an interview later, Prio called on the U.S. to recognize the new Cuban government immediately. He said the U.S. should not permit Batista to resume residence in Florida.

'Can't You Point That Rifle Away From My Noggin?'

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and downright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bonafide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory," sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently, by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that

Red Rocket May Orbit Sun

And Lunik Jumps Over the Moon...

Red Claims Verified, Says U.S.

Soviet Scientists Praised by Ike

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

Garments Are Found

Kidnaped Newborn Infant Is Hunted

NEW YORK—(AP)—Two boys playing in a vacant store in Brooklyn Saturday found garments hospital authorities say were worn by a girl who was 2½ hours old when she was kidnaped from a hospital.

Sister Mary Kevin, night superintendent at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn, from which the baby disappeared, identified the articles as definitely those worn by the child. Two nurses also made the identification.

Detectives immediately launched a floodlighted house-to-house search in the area where the garments were found. In all, 125 detectives and 25 policewomen were assigned to the case.

Mrs. Frank Chionchio

. . . 'my baby, my baby'

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby——please have her baptized a Catholic."

MOSCOW — Russia's 1½-ton lunar rocket shot past the moon Saturday and headed toward the sun at a speed of more than seven miles a second.

The Soviets said the rocket will orbit around the sun as the first man-made planet. They said all the scientific tasks set before the launching of the cosmic rocket have been carried out completely.

Jubilant Moscow citizens called the new space traveler Lunik — a combination of Luna for moon and sputnik.

Moscow radio said the rocket skirted past the moon at 9:59 p.m. (Miami time) Saturday night at a distance of about 4,600 miles. The radio, quoting a Tass News Agency report, said the rocket's speed was too fast to enable it to be drawn any closer to the moon.

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship never again will fall back on the earth," Vice President Alexander Topchiev of the Academy of Sciences said.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev hailed the rocket's flight as a "new victory" for communism. Russian rocket authority Vladimir Dobronravov said the rocket's success has opened a new era in the conquest of cosmic space.

Preliminary calculations reported by Tass news agency showed the rocket will go into a gigantic orbit around the sun when it reaches a point about two million miles from earth on Jan. 14. This is as close as the rocket will get to the sun, which is 92,900,000 miles from earth, Tass said.

Tass said the rocket will go into a 213,502,000-mile orbit, with each circuit of the sun taking 15 months.

Dobronravov told the Tass agency that the rocket is large enough to carry two or three passengers.

Moscow Radio said that possible contact with the rocket will cease within 24 hours.

The radio said that as the rocket passed, a lunar telescope aboard the space laboratory sized up the pock marks on the moon.

The Soviet Union's commentator Viktor Shragin told Moscow Radio's home listeners why America is "lagging behind" the Soviet Union.

"To know and to conquer cosmic space requires maximum unity, single-mindedness of purpose and close human cooperation," Shragin said.

"This is only possible under socialism, when both the means of production and political power belong to the people and not to a band of monopolists."

Snowstorm Socks U.S. Midlands

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A giant snowstorm and a bitter cold wave socked the nation's midlands Saturday with a double-barreled punch from Texas to Michigan, stranding travelers.

Sub-zero temperatures accompanied the storm, which reached blizzard proportions over Kansas and Missouri, as it pushed slowly eastward. Snowfall ranged from two to seven inches and more, and blowing and drifting snow blocked roads and created hazardous travel conditions.

Cold wave warnings were issued from west-central Texas to Indiana, as the bitter frigid Arctic air, described by weathermen as abnormally cold even for mid-winter, pushed into the Southeast and headed for the Appalachians and the mid-Atlantic states.

Snow fell almost steadily in a belt from northwest Texas and east Colorado eastward through Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma into Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana. Roads quickly became snow-packed and, in some areas, highways were closed to traffic.

At Chicago, about five inches of snow blanketed the city.

In Florida, damaging winds and heavy rains raked the peninsula's mid-section. Tornado warnings were posted from Tampa to Cape Canaveral, the missile-launching center, but an all-clear was issued later by the weather bureau. Winds were clocked at 35 to 40 miles per hour, and ripped off palm branches and downed power lines.

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodeled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern terriroty.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out.

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a different design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Start Off The Year With $700

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.

SUNNY

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

No Dice With Castro

Havana Gamblers Fleeing to U.S.

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

"I understand," he said, "they worked both sides of the street, paying off Batista while buying guns for Castro."

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Apparently profiteering is aimed only at the Americans out to beat the Castro ban on liquor sales.

The evacuation of the Americans, all of whom had been told by the American Embassy to meet at the Hotel Nacional, was an orderly mob scene.

Some tourists groused about the experience and vowed never again. Others took it more philosophically. One, however, paraphrased a remark of a famous World War II correspondent:

Takes Presidential Oath in Santiago

Urrutia Sworn In Office, Names Castro as Army Boss

Cuban labor union officials in Havana, meanwhile, promised that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Castro arrives."

Castro was heading for Havana from easternmost Oriente Province, where he revolution got its start, but his triumphant march was slowed by a series of tumultuous welcomes along the route.

He was to arrive late Saturday night or today.

After taking over the provisional government, Urrutia named Dr. Roberto Agramonte, former head of the Cuban Peoples (Orthodox) Party and one-time presidential candidate, to the important post of minister of state.

Others named to top posts in the provisional cabinet were Angel Fernandez, minister of justice; Raul Chibas, minister of finance; Raul Capero Bonilla, minister of commerce; Julio Martinez, minister of health, and Manuel Fernandez, minister of labor.

Prio said in a radio broadcast that his organization had cooperated in the overthrow of the Batista government, but that no member of the group wanted to participate in the new regime. He said he himself has no personal political ambitions.

Prio also insisted that the backers of Castro are not Communists, and that the Reds will have no role of importance in the new government.

The former president said that Castro might possibly be a presidential candidate when elections are held in the future. Castro is 32 and the Cuban constitution specifies the president must be 35.

Prio said that the Civic Revolutionary Front — composed of Castro's 26th of July and Prio's organization — has no agreement over nationalization of industries in Cuba, and that "there will be no nationalization."

Asked about the reaction in Latin America if, the U.S. permits Batista to resume residence at Daytona Beach, Prio said:

"If they accepted Batista as an honored guest it would not appear well for the U.S. in Latin America."

While Castro headed for the capital, forces of his 26th of July movement took over the government offices in Havana. It was also reported that executions of some Batista army officers had started in the provinces.

But in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass in Havana said that six captured civilian officials of the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

The names of the captured six were not released immediately.

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario, are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

Blast Hurts 12 in Atlanta

ATLANTA — (UPI) — A trailer-truck load of industrial chemicals exploded here Saturday night, shaking the southeast section of the city and injuring 12 firemen fighting the resulting blaze.

The firemen were burned about the hands, face and eyes when they poured water on sodium peroxide, which turned it into caustic soda, or ordinary lye.

The men were treated at the scene and released.

The peroxide was among 23,000 pounds of industrial chemicals which exploded in an outlaying truck terminal, destroying five trucks and wrecking the depot building.

Batista's Relatives In Daytona

Special To The Herald

DAYTONA BEACH — The mother, sister and two young children of deposed Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista landed here with 12 other fleeing Cubans Saturday and were quickly hustled away to Batista's plush villa nearby.

The children are Fulgencio, six, and Marta Maria, four, who fled from revolt-torn Havana to New Orleans Thursday.

Batista's mother was placed in a wheelchair after the twin-engine chartered plane arrived from Pensacola.

Batista's sister, Martha Batista y Fernandez, is also his personal secretary.

Only Batista's sister admitted her identity. But she and the others refused additional comment.

The group included a Cuban Army colonel, two lieutenants and two other children.

In Daytona Beach, they were met by a representative of the Chamber of Commerce. He welcomed them briefly.

Then they boarded cars which were escorted quietly by four police squad cars to the Batista mansion here.

Batista has eight children. Two of his boys, Roberto Francisco and Carlos Manuel, are expected to fly in from New York City.

Ramon Novarro Held as Drunk

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — One-time movie heartthrob Ramon Novarro was jailed on a drunk driving charge Saturday after police said he flunked a sobriety test.

Novarro, 59, was stopped after officers said he ran a traffic signal. "Why did you stop me?" he asked. "I'm not drunk."

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain, which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains, and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

Get Tough With Latin Dictators, Ike Told

Milton Eisenhower
. . . dramatic action needed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— With the concurrence of his brother in the White House, Milton Eisenhower urged Saturday a tougher policy toward Latin American dictators.

This would be part of a dramatic effort to erase misunderstandings with Latin America, an effort Dr. Eisenhower called imperative.

No more medals for the dictators, he said, and no more warm embraces.

Dr. Eisenhower also proposed creation of a blue-ribbon, non-partisan U.S. council to foster stronger relations and good partnership among the American republics.

To meet a "need to up-grade U.S. activities affecting Latin America," the council would advise the secretary of state on all matters of hemispheric importance.

In a 10,000-word report to President Eisenhower, his educator-brother said that persistent misunderstanding between the U.S. and her 20 neighbors to the south is even more serious than it was five years ago. The report said that this "should warn us that new and dramatic action to overcome it is now imperative."

The document was made public, the White House said, with the complete approval of the President. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the chief executive is likely to follow its recommendations.

The report was based in major part on observations made on a swing through Panama and the five Central American nations last August. It was written in its final form well before the toppling of Cuba's dictator-President Fulgencio Batista on New Year's Day.

Among the report's score of suggestions are proposals that the U.S.:

Help foster a stepped up flow of private and public credit to Latin America.

Join in creating an Inter-American Bank as quickly as possible.

Encourage Panama and the Central American countries to move ahead with plans to set up a common market as a pilot model for other Latin American regions. Goods, services and individuals would flow freely across national boundaries.

But on such questions as stabilizing prices and meeting housing needs, the report offered more sympathy and advice than prospects of specific measures of assistance.

Dr. Eisenhower said many Latin American leaders consider the lack of housing their most serious social problem. But he said the financial aspect is so enormous that "any attempt to attack it by the use of public international funds would be doomed to failure."

The Johns Hopkins University president has served several times as a troubleshooter and good will ambassador to Latin America for his brother, the President. His new report was offered as a supplement to one submitted in 1953 after a fact-finding trip to the 20 South American republics.

While a number of government officials accompanied him to Central America last summer, Dr. Eisenhower said the report on the trip is solely his own and speaks for no one else.

"I reaffirm essentially all I said in my report of 1953," he told the President, "but now I must add a note of urgency to my general recommendation that the nations of Latin America and the U.S. re-examine their attitudes and policies toward one another and constantly seek to strengthen their economic, political, and cultural relations, to their mutual benefit . . .

"Misunderstandings seem to me to be even more serious than they were in 1953."

In this country, he said, misunderstanding stems primarily from a lack of knowledge. The U.S. frequently "does not truly comprehend the aspirations of our neighbors, and thus we sometimes take actions which are detrimental to the good relationships we wish to foster."

The report said unfamiliarity with the Spanish language is "a shameful shortcoming in a country which has the burden of free world leadership."

For their part, Dr. Eisenhower said, Latin Americans believe mistakenly that "our economic capacity is essentially unlimited and that we are doing much more for other areas of the world than we are for Latin America."

He said this leads them to conclude that their failure to get all the credit they want is "either sheer perversity or discrimination on our part."

Hunting Trip Ends Quickly

OKEMAH, Okla — (AP) — Sheriff E. L. Jeter spent weeks talking about and preparing for a deer hunting trip to Colorado.

It took him two days to get to the hunting grounds and considerable time fixing up his camp.

Finally ready to hunt, he walked 200 yards, saw a deer, and felled it. Another deer jumped up, and he shot it, too. So — it took him less than 15 minutes to get his limit.

Glass Boats

LONDON — (AP) — Twenty fibreglass lifeboats are being moulded for the 40,000-ton Oriana, new 39-million-dollar flagship of the Orient Line to be launched this year. Each lifeboat will carry 145 persons.

Atlanta Mayor Wants Schools Open

ATLANTA — (UPI) — Atlanta Mayor William Hartsfield has pledged to fight to keep public schools open in the face of state laws that would close them if they are ordered integrated.

"I refuse to see Georgia go through another period of ignorance," Hartsfield told a cheering civic club meeting here.

The executive said his own father was left schooless after the Civil War and "came to Atlanta ignorant and uneducated."

"I don't want to see another generation of Georgians like that," he said.

Hartsfield also returned to one of his favorite subjects — clashing with the state of Georgia.

He said the state does not treat the cities fairly as do other states and may force Georgia cities out of competition for business and industry because of this attitude.

"Six times I have been to the White House to discuss cities' problems with the President," he said. "Never has the governor of Georgia called the mayors together to discuss their problems."

Long Walker

BRIDGETOWN, N.S. — (AP) — John Fletcher Bath, celebrating his 101st birthday here, was active as a cattle buyer and seller in past years. He recalled that he once walked 115 miles to Halifax to sell a cow.

The Chiseler Who Got Away

SALISBURY, England — (AP) — Police are looking for a bearded man spotted chipping away with a chisel at Stonehenge, the prehistoric religious monument on Salisbury plain. He left before police got there, but left a hammer and chisel and a complicated design on a piece of paper. He did only a little damage before he was scared away.

Pilotless Plane Zooms 100 Miles, Then Crashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(AP)— A pilotless Civil Air Patrol plane traveled for more than 100 air miles at 16,000 feet Saturday before it crashed 300 yards from a farm house near Chillicothe, 40 miles south of here. The plane, a single engine L16 Aeronca, had gotten away from its pilot at the Rising Sun, Ind., airport.

Before it crashed, ending a statewide alert of both civil and military air facilities, jets from the 166th Fighter Squadron of the Ohio Air National Guard got it in their sights.

It had taken to the air at 11:40 a.m. It crashed shortly before 2 p.m.

The jets, two armed and two unarmed F84Fs, had planned either to flip it down by making contact with its wings, or shoot it down. As it turned out, neither was necessary.

Swoosh of the jets as they made several approaches to the plane at the high altitude caused it to veer away each time. Then, just as the jets gave up the attempt to make physical contact, the L16's propeller feathered and the engine quit. With the jets trailing close behind, the plane dipped and began a long glide toward a farmland area about seven miles north of Chillicothe.

Capt. Victor A. Rollins and Lt. Robert C. Preston manned the unarmed jets, and Lt. Col. James A. Poston, commander of the 166th, and Maj. Paul E. Hoover, piloted the two armed jets which took to the air.

Rollins and Preston said the slow speed of the L16 kept their high speed jets from getting close enough to touch its wings. They had made at least two passes at the plane before giving up.

Robert Murray, 33, pilot of the plane belonging to the Rising Sun Civil Air Patrol, said he was on the ground "cranking up" the plane and that apparently the throttle had been left on.

He said he had landed at the Rising Sun field a few minutes earlier, filled the tank with gasoline and was preparing to taxi the craft to a hangar when it took off on its own.

Mikoyan Arrives Today; Peace 'Feeler' Hinted

WASHINGTON — (UP[illegible] Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in Washington today for high-level talks which some American officials believe may lead to a break in the Cold War crisis over Berlin and European security.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, one of those with whom Mikoyan will confer, was reported to be willing to consider any constructive Russian suggestions for easing tension in Europe and elsewhere.

Mikoyan, 63-year-old Communist veteran, also is expected to see President Eisenhower, but neither the White House nor the Russian embassy has confirmed a definite date for such a meeting.

Whether it was planned that way or not, Mikoyan will reach Washington in the wake of a big Soviet propaganda and scientific victory stemming from the Russian moon shot.

High officials said they know Russia is concerned over the growing military might of Western Germany, worried by mounting unrest in Soviet-occupied East Germany and probably forced the Berlin crisis in an effort to see whether the U.S. and its allies were willing to reopen the entire question of European security and armament reduction.

They said that Mikoyan, considered to be Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's right-hand man, may well be coming to sound out American leaders on some compromise solution.

Mikoyan himself, at a conference in Copenhagen earlier Saturday, indicated Khrushchev may be seeking a graceful way out of his demand that the U.S., Britain and France withdraw their forces from West Berlin by June 1 and permit it to become a demilitarized Communist-encircled "free city."

Mikoyan and his party flew to the U.S. from Copenhagen Saturday night aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane. They are due to arrive at New York International Airport at 6:50 this morning.

He appeared, in the view of some American officials, to be paving the way for Russian acceptance of the Western counter-proposal for a four-power discussion of Berlin within the broader framework of German reunification and European security.

Her Work Is Never Through

REED, Okla. — (AP) — Mrs. Coleman Thompson of this southwestern Oklahoma community is a busy person. She makes the clothes for her four daughters — Nona, Dianne, Pam and Patsy Sue; drives a tractor, pulls cotton bolls, cans fruits and vegetables for family food during the winter, cooks and washes. And she also goes often to the Reed school to see her daughters play basketball.

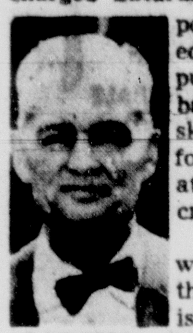
Probe Report Slanted—GOP

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Three Republican members of a House investigating committee charged Saturday that its report was slanted to put Republicans in a bad light but skipped over information derogatory to Democrats.



ADAMS

The report was made by the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee. The committee, while investigating activities of regulatory agencies, probed deeply into relations between former Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and Boston Millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Adams resigned after the committee heard testimony he had accepted gifts from Goldfine and had made inquiries of government agencies about matters in which Goldfine was interested.

Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota said that as written by the subcommittee staff the report was "slanted to convey the impression that all major wrong-doing was found in one political party since 1953."

"Innuendo was used at every opportunity," O'Hara asserted.

Another Republican, Rep. John B. Bennett of Michigan, said "the report is silent as to William T. McCarthy, a Federal District judge, a Democrat, an appointee of a previous administration and a long time personal friend and beneficiary of Goldfine's gratuities."

Bennett said the report criticizes delays by the Securities and Exchange Commission in forcing the filing of financial reports by Goldfine's East Boston Co. but it says nothing about testimony that, after McCarthy was assigned to a court action in the case, "the judge inexcusably stalled and delayed action on the case for over a year, although there was no disputed issue involved."

Boy Drowns, Is Revived, Then Dies

MONTICELLO, Ind. — (AP) — A four-year-old boy died Saturday, less than 24 hours after doctors revived him from apparent drowning by massaging his heart.

The boy, Gary Dahlenburg, was pulled from a nearby lake Friday after floating face down in the icy water for nearly half an hour.

His heart had stopped beating, but he was taken to a hospital where a surgeon opened his chest and gently began to massage the heart.

After 15 minutes the tiny heart beat once. As the youngster's parents looked on, the doctor continued the massage for nearly two hours in time to the rhythm of a resuscitator. Finally the heartbeat and breathing became regular.

New Testament Survives Wars

STARKVILLE, Miss. — (UPI) — When Payl H. Dunn was five years old, his father gave him a New Testament. That was 60 years ago. Dunn, now a geology professor at Mississippi State University, carried the Testament through two world wars and a tornado attack and still has it.

GOP Liberal Feels He Still Has Chance

Cooper in Uphill Fight for Senate Post

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R., Ky.) conceded Saturday he has "an uphill fight" to defeat Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) for the Senate Republican leadership, but said he felt he still has a chance.

A victory for the "liberal" bloc which is backing Cooper against Dirksen for the leader's post vacated by Sen. William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) "would put our party in an image to give it a better chance in 1960," Cooper said.

John Cooper

. . . 'better chance in '60'

The Kentucky Republican, who apparently is trailing Dirksen so far in support for the post, said in a radio interview that his group's winning leadership posts "would present a more hopeful view for our party" in the 1960 presidential and congressional campaigns.

Cooper said that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has kept strictly hands off so far in the fight. He said he had talked with the vice president but that Nixon volunteered neither support nor discouragement.

The senator also acknowledged that President Eisenhower has done nothing to help the "liberal" cause and perhaps has given an indirect boost to the Dirksen forces.

"The President has said he would prefer that there be no fight," Cooper said, "but we disagree. We think a battle within the party is a good thing."

Everett M. Dirksen

. . . conservative leader

Cooper said his forces are not waging their fight on the basis of personalities but "for the opportunity to express our viewpoint from the Republican leadership to the White House and to the country."

He said that if elected he would guarantee full discussion of all issues within caucuses of GOP senators. He said this had not been the practice under the leadership in the past few years.

Too Late

GRANTS, N. M. — (AP) — When postage went up in price, there were red faces at the Grants Post Office. The new supply of four-cent stamps didn't arrive for first-day use.

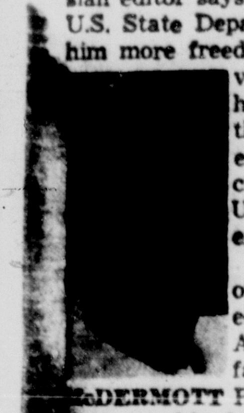
Red Editor Raps U.S. Travel Bars

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer



McDERMOTT

MOSCOW — A leading Russian editor says that unless the U.S. State Department permits him more freedom on his next visit to America he will urge the Soviet foreign office to crack down on U.S. correspondents in Moscow.

Daniel Fedorovich Kraminov, editor of the American affairs section of Pravda, claims that on his last three visits to New York he was restricted to Manhattan.

"I was not even allowed to go to Brooklyn," he told me.

"If it happens the next time, I will recommend to the Soviet foreign office that American correspondents in Moscow be restricted to the city alone."

As a matter of fact foreign correspondents in Moscow work under duress all the time.

Rigid censorship limits them to the official government versions of happenings in the Soviet Union. Sometimes even these are held up or delayed.

Correspondents are permitted to travel — subject to permission of the foreign office for each trip — but are limited to specific cities or areas.

Their copy must be sent back to Moscow for scrutiny by the censors before being cabled or phoned to the outside world.

Apparently, what happened to Kraminov on his trips to the U.S. was that his accreditation was for the U.N. Therefore, his visa was stamped "New York only."

$62,000 Fees Allowed in Goldfine Suit

BOSTON — (AP) — U. S. District Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. awarded a total of $62,689.27 in fees to lawyers who acted for the plaintiffs in a minority stockholders suit against Bernard Goldfine, the East Boston Co. and the Boston Port Development Co.

The attorneys had asked a total of $400,000 for their efforts in achieving a settlement of $662,500 in the suit.

Among the awards by Wyzanski was $45,000 to Abraham L. Pomerantz and Associates Jules E. Angoff and Irvin M. Davis who acted for George B. Heddendorf of Fayette, Maine.

Wyzanski said he will consider modification of the fees at a Jan. 9 court session when the court may appoint the necessary directors to supervise liquidation of the two firms and their reorganization into one company.

He Can't Face Music in Jail

CHICAGO — (UPI) — The Rev. Mr. Louis R. King, chaplain of the Cook County Jail, confessed he could face the music no longer and dismissed the jail's band.

"It was terrible," the minister said of the band. "Music, they say, should soothe the savage beast, but what they played only aroused the beast in man."

Rail, Airline, Union Leaders Asked for Law Ideas

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government announced Saturday it will soon call a labor-management conference for the airline and railroad industries to determine whether their labor relations law needs revamping.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said the recent rash of airline strikes requires a new look at the Railway Labor Act which governs labor troubles in both the railroad and airline industries.

Mitchell said he himself has an open mind on the matter and "it may well be that all is required is more realistic bargaining by the parties."

He added in a statement: "I do believe, however, that in view of the recent strike activity, a reappraisal of the act is in order.

James P. Mitchell
. . . new look needed

"Consequently I intend to convene shortly a meeting of top representatives of labor and management in both the railroad and airline industries to solicit their views and advice as to whether the Railway Labor Act needs any amendment and if so, in what respects."

It was indicated Mitchell plans to hold the conference in a week or two.

The Railway Labor Act was enacted in 1926 and 10 years later was extended to cover the airlines. It provides for a system of conferences, mediation and arbitration and for White House fact-finding boards to recommend settlement terms in disputes. Under this procedure it takes months, sometimes years, before strikes can develop, but but in the end strikes are permitted.

The Public Suffers Most

Recent strikes in the airline industry have brought a rash of recommendations on the revamping of labor laws. Some persons have advocated outlawing all strikes in transportation industries, others have not been so extreme.

There is no question but the public is the principal loser when transportation facilities are tied up. In the South Florida area the airline strikes have been an economic blow.

Now the government is taking steps to obtain a realistic method of dealing with such strikes. The following article details one of these steps.

Mitchell said that because of the unprecedented amount of strike activity in recent weeks many persons have questioned whether the Railway Labor Act has become outmoded, at least as it applies to the airlines.

There have been prolonged strikes on Capital, Eastern and American Airlines. The latter walkout is still in progress.

The airline labor troubles started to affect the traveling public just before the Thanksgiving holidays in a series of disputes over new contracts for mechanics.

Stuart G. Tipton
. . . wants overhaul

Then the Air Line Pilots Association and Flight Engineers International Association began squabbling over new wage contracts and about crew requirements for the new jet airliners. The latter dispute is gradually being settled by increasing crews for the jets to four men — three pilots and an engineer.

It's unlikely Mitchell will get any agreement at his scheduled conference. The rail and airline unions have indicated they want no changes in the present law. But President Stuart G. Tipton of the Air Transport Association, a management group, recently said the Railway Labor Act needs overhauling.

Experts Say Its Future Is Bright

Port Everglades May Turn Into Cruise Hub

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Port Everglades may be on the brink of becoming the East Coast's cruise capital.

The first world cruise ship to touch at the port will make three stops there in 1959.

Anybody who wants to go and has the price ($650 to $1,900) can book passage from Port Everglades, circle the globe and get off at home.

In addition, the Port Authority will try to interest a half-dozen lines which operate ships between New York and Europe part of the year and cruises in the winter in using the port for their Caribbean cruises.

These include the Holland-American Line, Cunard, Home, Swedish-American and Norwegian-American. They all operate winter cruises from New York.

Every one of them will be watching the Furness Lines' experiment in operating the Ocean Monarch from the port this winter.

"They're bound to be interested, since the Ocean Monarch is booked solid for four of its five cruises and was nearly solid for the first one," said Robert S. McConnaughey, vice chairman of the port.

The port seems such an obvious point of departure for winter cruises that members of the Port Authority which takes over next week are almost giddy at the prospects.

"The possibilities are tremendous," said E. J. Crowells, who will be chairman.

"People can come here for a vacation and a cruise. As for me, I think I'd like to take the cruise first and then loll around here."

Both he and McConnaughey, feel Port Everglades has far more to offer than any other East Coast port for cruise ship passengers.

"They can land at the airport a mile away in a warm climate and leave from a warm climate," McConnaughey said.

"They won't have to fight the winter weather in New York and part of their cruise won't be in cold northern waters," said McConnaughey.

"I predict that by next winter we will be seeing the advent of a tremendous tourist ship business. I don't think most of the shipping lines are aware of the facilities we have here."

They're rapidly finding out. The world cruise ship which will visit here is the 21,300-ton William Ruys, operated by the Holland-American Line.

It will come here first April 28. Passengers on the first voyage will be unable to debark at Port Everglades. However, passengers leaving on it Oct. 2 from the port will return to the port 10 weeks later, Dec. 12.

R. T. Spangler, who is returning to his old position as port manager, has been in contact with the Holland-American Line and feels that it is interested in operating Caribbean cruises from the port.

Getting additional lines will take "a selling job," he said. The port will have to develop information on the passenger potential and persuade the major lines that they can do a bigger business from Port Everglades than they can from New York, he said.

Teamsters Boss' Pal Seized as Fugitive

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive from justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Communists Launch Big Drive to Woo Latins, Split Hemispheric Solidarity

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

McDermott

MOSCOW — The central committee of the World Communist Party has launched a combined economic - political infiltration drive in Latin America aimed at splitting the Western hemisphere.

Reports circulating here in Moscow are that the Red Party leadership figures one of the best ways to undermine U.S. strength is to drive a wedge into South and Central America.

Targets at present appear to be Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela with lesser thrusts also being made in Chile, Colombia, Bolivia, Costa Rica and Guatemala.

The Communists have been repulsed repeatedly in their drives for a Latin American foothold, the most noteworthy example being their setback in Guatemala four years ago.

But now, behind an economic spearhead, they seem to stand a better chance for penetration.

Cloaked behind their economic offers for trade relations is, of course, their primary aim of political achievement.

Even if they can only develop Latin American "neutralism" in the East-West cold war, they will have achieved significant success.

Solidarity is vital to the U.S. in the Western hemisphere, where the Reds in the past have been unable to line up more than token support. "Neutralism" would be a direct loss to the Western allies in their continuing fight against communism.

A gimmick in the Russian Communist strategy appears to be playing up the U.S. in Latin America as an "interventionist" power.

The Latins, who are strongly nationalistic, resent any intervention by their big powerful neighbor from North America. The Soviets hope to be able to convince the Latins that the U.S. is trying to dominate them.

Regardless of the facts, the Reds are assured of a sympathetic ear in many Latin capitals where resentment is deep-rooted over U.S. tariff barriers to South American minerals such as zinc, copper, petroleum products and the like.

One report here has the Communist Party claiming nearly 400,000 card-carrying members in the Latin countries. These are concentrated largely in the labor unions.

Biggest obstacle facing the Reds in both Central and South America is the high percentage of Catholics in those countries.

The Catholic Church, highly influential there, is an avowed foe of the Communist Party which has almost stamped out religion and belief in God here in the U.S.S.R.

Economically, Russia has worked out an agreement in Argentina to provide 100 million dollars credit toward the purchase of Soviet oil equipment. Moscow has indicated a willingness to make trade pacts with most of the other Latin countries.

Brazil is understood to be anxious for extended trade with the U.S.S.R.

Politically, the Reds have not fared too well in the Latin countries. However, since 1955, the Communist Party has been legalized in Venezuela, Colombia and Chile. This brings to eight the countries among the 20 Latin republics where the Reds can operate in the open.

It marks progress for the Red party which needs only the slightest encouragement to intensify its efforts.

The Latin-Communist situation is a menace which the U.S. State Department cannot afford to shrug off lightly.

Our Atom Defenses Deplored

'Survival' Units Held Inadequate

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A house - Senate "watchdog" committee warned Saturday that the nation is still unprepared to meet a nuclear attack.

ROBERTSON

It said mobilization program to achieve preparedness "remains largely in the organizing, planning and development stage," despite eight years of work and the spending of 446 million dollars for civilian defense alone.

The warning was contained in the eighth annual report to Congress by the joint committee on defense production. The group is headed by Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.).

"Eight years . . . have produced blueprints for survival," Robertson said, "but blueprints alone won't save a single life, treat a single casualty, or feed a single citizen.

"We must be ready — as soon as possible after an attack — to move food, medicine and other survival items and to restore governmental authority, business, industry and essential public services."

Otherwise, Robertson said, "we could become a demoralized people."

Robertson's committee strongly urged the comparatively new Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization to get going "on some definite objectives and priorities" and consolidate all mobilization measures into "an overall action program."

The committee noted that the U.S. has adopted a national policy of placing chief reliance on a strong "retaliatory capability" in the event of a general war.

This was a reference to atomic missiles and the Strategic Air Command's long-range nuclear bombers which are poised for instant action.

But the committee said the possibility of limited scale wars was ever-present and this country should be prepared to fight this way. "The traditional functions of mobilization should not be de-emphasized," it cautioned.

The committee said it asked the administration a year ago to provide a report on the advantages or disadvantages of dispersal in protecting defense industries from attack but had yet to receive it.

The congressional group asked the government to come up with such a report not later than March 31.

Egypt, Syria Arrest 200 Communists

CAIRO — (AP) — Communists estimated to number 200 have been arrested in Syria and Egypt in the first two days of the new year, authoritative sources said.

It was the biggest action so far in the anti-Communist campaign kicked off by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic in a speech Dec. 23. He denounced Reds as enemies of Arab unity and promoters of Zionist and imperialist objectives.

(Similar news came from Beirut, where an unconfirmed report from just across the border placed the total arrested by Syrian police at 600 Communists in Damascus, Aleppo, Homs, Hama and other cities.)

Apparently the big Communist fish slipped out of Nasser's net. The list of those arrested in Syria did not include Syria's top Communist, Khaled Bagdash. One Egyptian source described the Reds now in Syrian custody as "all small frogs."

This Thief Stole Lungs

CHICAGO—(AP)—A thief stole a polio victim's lightweight mechanical lungs while he was getting a post-surgery check.

Henry Messerschmidt, 32, of Elkhorn, Wis., left the 100-pound multilung equipment in his brother-in-law's parked car while undergoing a checkup at a hospital.

Messerschmidt, who can remain outside an artificial lung no longer than two hours, returned to Elkhorn using the bulky, heavy mechanical lungs the multilung replaced.

The new equipment — valued at $2,000 — was obtained a month ago.

Labor Legislation to Spark the Next Congress

Unions Claim the Credit

The next Congress may well become known as the 'labor law' Congress, to judge by all the bills that are being prepared for the legislative hopper in the Capitol.

Organized labor, which claims credit for big Democratic majorities in the last election, also is demanding a wide variety of concessions on the social welfare front.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A barrage of labor law proposals is going to light up the new Congress like a battlefield.

Some are likely to get lost in the congressional whirl. Yet this could turn out to be the most labor-minded Congress since the one that enacted the Taft-Hartley law in 1947.

Bills that will draw most attention will be aimed at:

1 — Curbing labor-management corruption and regulating union affairs.

2 — Overhauling the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act.

3 — Increasing the amount and scope of the dollar-an-hour minimum wage.

4 — Setting minimum federal standards to raise the levels of jobless pay in the states.

Organized labor, claiming a big chunk of credit for helping elect the heavy Democratic majorities to the House and Senate, demands action on these and other proposals, including medical-surgical benefits for social security beneficiaries, bigger pensions and jobless payments for railroad workers, and business development loans for chronically depressed areas.

The AFL-CIO says the November election results represented a public mandate to Congress for "bold forward steps . . . for broad progress on the social welfare front."

But business still exerts a powerful influence on Congress, and conservatives still dominating key positions can retard or block action on union-supported bills.

President Eisenhower, moreover, can exercise his veto power anytime he disapproves a bill. Even with the top-heavy Democratic majorities, it will be hard to muster the necessary two-thirds vote to override vetoes.

Observers should be mindful, too, that congressmen, being politicians, will operate with an eye on the 1960 presidential election. For that reason, action may be postponed on many labor issues until the second year of the coming two-year 86th Congress.

It's likely a test vote early in the new Congress could set the mood for the entire two years.

It appears almost a cinch that Congress will adopt historic legislation to curb union corruption and regulate internal union affairs, and do this in 1959.

The moves to change Taft-Hartley could well result in another stand-off between business and union views. But new laws to broaden the minimum wage, jobless pay and social security programs, and to provide aid to depressed areas, seem definitely in the cards.

Any anti-corruption bill that clears Congress probably will contain these features:

Complete disclosure to the government of union financial operations, as well as management expenditures on labor relations; strict federal penalties for false filing or union fund embezzlement; periodic union elections by secret ballot; rules restricting national unions from ousting local union officers, and a ban against convicted criminals holding union office.

Sen. John F. Kennedy
. . . to offer bill again

Chairman John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) of the Senate's labor legislation subcommittee says he plans to reoffer an anti-corruption bill patterned after the Kennedy-Ives bill that was defeated in the House last session.

"The first priority objective of the committee will be to report out a labor reform bill similar to the one that passed the Senate last time by 88 to 1," Kennedy told a reporter.

"Attention also will be given to a comprehensive review of the Taft-Hartley Act and to minimum-wage legislation, particularly with respect to extension of coverage.

"The attitude of the incoming Congress indicates there are very good prospects of early action on labor reform legislation followed by action on other labor legislation."

Rayburn, Liberals Make Deal

Rules Fight To Be Dropped

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Leaders of self-styled Democratic liberals in the House Saturday gave up their fight to limit the rules committee's power in return for a promise that legislation would not be blocked.

HOLIFIELD

Rep. Chet Holifield (D., Calif.) and others announced the decision after Holifield conferred with Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

"We have received assurances from Speaker Rayburn that legislation which has been duly considered and reported by legislative committees will be brought before the House for consideration within a reasonable period of time," their statement said.

The statement was signed by Reps. Holifield, Lee Metcalf of Montana, Henry S. Reuss of Wisconsin, George M. Rhodes of Pennsylvania, Frank Thompson Jr., of New Jersey, and John Blatnik of Minnesota.

The group had proposed to change House rules so that the conservative-lead rules committee would not be able to hold up a vote on legislation.

The rules commitee was set up originally to act as a sort of traffic policeman to preserve an orderly flow of legislation to the House and cooperate with the majority leadership in advancing bills.

However, under the chairmanship of an avowed conservative, Rep. Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) the committee in recent years has frankly gone into the merits of proposed legislation and has held up such measures as the 1957 civil rights bill.

The liberal group had discussed a 21-day time limit for committee consideration of a bill, or a change in the composition of the committee, now eight Democrats and four Republicans.

Rayburn had privately indicated opposition to either of these changes.

Holifield said he had been assured that Rayburn would use his influence to prevent blocking of legislation in the rules committee.

"This is good enough for us," Holifield said. "I feel much better satisfied with this assurance than I would if we had fought and perhaps narrowly won a fight over the rules that would have meant arousing antagonism."

FDR Jr. One Defendant in Million Suit

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An Alabama automobile firm has filed suit in Federal District Court for one million dollars in damages from several defendants, including former Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. of New York.

Alabama Imported Cars, Inc., Birmingham, contended that Roosevelt, Dyke Cullum, of Gaithersburg, Md., and the Fiat Motor Co., violated a sales agreement and failed to deliver a number of cars for sale.

Damages sought include $250,000 from Roosevelt and Cullum, who were partners in Roosevelt-Cullum Motors; $500,000 from Roosevelt and the Roosevelt Auto Co., successor to Roosevelt-Cullum Motors, and $250,000 from Fiat Motor Co.

Cullum filed a damage action against Roosevelt in New York last June, contending he was forced out as a partner in the motor firm.

Dad's Walk To Spur Son

TURIN, Italy — (UPI) — White-haired Paolo Bertino, a 68-year-old former bricklayer, is ready to attempt an unusual endurance test in the hope of lighting the spark of ambition in his 20-year-old foster son.

"I worked hard to give him a good education and also taught him to be an expert bricklayer," said Bertino, who now lives on a pension. "But he doesn't want to work. I think if I show him up a little it might help."

His plan for showing up the boy: A walking race between two points about a half-mile apart. Speed doesn't count. Endurance does. Bertino is ready to walk until his opponent gives up. But to qualify, his opponent must be at least 50 years old.

Outdoors Great

MILVERTON, Ont. — (AP) — Richard Coulter, who has just celebrated his 99th birthday, still lives on the farm on which he was born. He spends as much time as possible out of doors, but reads his newspaper and the Bible every day.

January Seen Victory Month for UF

January will be victory month for United Fund, officials of the drive declared Saturday.

The $3,477,000 goal can be met and conquered, said Max Orovitz, UF president.

GIVE UNITED NOW

"Everything adds up to success," he said, "if the volunteers will pitch in to get the contributions.

"The Eastern strike is over. Christmas business was good and the weather is perfect."

This will be one of United Fund's biggest months, with the Cerebral Palsy Telethon Jan. 17 and 18 and the Labor Jamboree Friday at Miami Beach Exhibition Hall.

In addition, Dade County's three kennel clubs, two race tracks and jai alai fronton announced Saturday they will contribute to UF annually on the basis of the previous year's pari-mutuel betting.

The program should add up to $75,000 a year.

As UF headed into the final month of the drive, it had collected $2,103,000 or two-thirds of its goal.

"We're ahead of where we were at this time last year," said Orovitz, "and still haven't completed the big donors' cards from commerce and industry."

He said "the money is in the community" and now the big question is to get the volunteers out to get the contributions.

"Everybody's going to work," he said, "from the top right down through the ranks."

Fund workers started in mid-October but stopped two weeks ago for the holidays and to regroup their forces for the final punch for funds.

Orovitz blamed the long drawn-out campaign on "starting too early."

"There's no reason we can't get the money," he said, "but we'll have to go out and work for it."

The Labor Jamboree, sponsored by the Community Service Committee of the Dade County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, will feature top personalities.

Gloria de Haven, Billy Eckstine, Pupi Campo, Diosa Costello, Rocky Marciano, Willie Pep and Archie Moore already have signed up for the show.

For seven years, proceeds were given to the March of Dimes, but this year they will go to UF.

The telethon, which brought in $312,000 last year, will begin at 10:30 p.m. Jan. 17 and continue until 2 p.m. Jan. 18 on Channel 7.

The plan set up by the kennel clubs, race tracks and fronton calls for Hialeah Race Course and Tropical Park Race Course to give .0003 per cent or 30 cents per thousand dollars.

Biscayne, Miami Beach and West Flagler kennel clubs and the Miami Fronton will give .0004 or 40 cents of each thousand dollars.

The system first was set up by Dade County banks, which give eight cents per thousand dollars, based on June deposits.

Chautauqua Scheduled

The third annual Miami Beach Chautauqua series, "The World We Live In," will be offered on eight successive Monday evenings beginning this week at the Ocean Front Auditorium. Admission is free and all programs are scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Chautauqua is an eight-week program of courses and lectures in arts, sciences and humanities.

Monday's opening program, is "Music: A Contemporary Review." Jacques Donnet, conductor of the Carillon Hotel Symphonette, will be guest. He will discuss "The Heart of the Orchestra."

Woman Collects 'Brass' Pinups

KEARNY, N. J. —(AP)— Mrs. Joseph Bersey's scrapbook is filled with pictures of soldiers and sailors — the leading generals and admirals of World War II.

She began collecting autographed pictures of them after she wrote Gen. Eisenhower in 1945 sending him a four-leaf clover and he sent back a signed photograph and a letter. She has 44 pictures now and sends a Christmas card to all her "gallery."

Got It Made

HOBBS, N. M. — (AP) — It'll be no surprise if Zane Edward Cargile gets just a little spoiled.

Born here recently, he has four grandparents, four great-grandparents and two great-great grandparents. Eight of them live in his hometown Hobbs.

Teamster Abandons Drive To Organize N.Y. Police

NEW YORK—(AP)—A Teamsters official has agreed to give up his campaign to unionize New York's 24,000 policemen under the threat of losing his $8,500-a-year city job.

Henry Feinstein, president of Local 237 of James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union, also is transportation superintendent in the office of Manhattan Borough President Hulan E. Jack.

Jack and Mayor Robert F. Wagner told Feinstein he either would abandon his drive or face departmental trial on charges of violating city administration policy and acting contrary to the public interest. A departmental trial would be tantamount to his losing his city post.

Feinstein then announced he would abandon efforts to organize the police, but added: "The real issue in this controversy is not Henry Feinstein. The real issue is whether the police are getting a square deal.

"They are not and, as time goes on, the mayor will recognize it."

Feinstein continued: "I tell the mayor in all good friendship . . . if he doesn't take action now to reform the Kennedy (Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy) labor policies, there will be a union ultimately in the police department to fight for the rights of all policemen and policewomen."

Earlier last week, Feinstein announced that Teamsters would picket headquarters and other police installations.

January Seen Victory Month for UF

January will be victory month for United Fund, officials of the drive declared Saturday.

The $3,477,000 goal can be met and conquered, said Max Orovitz, UF president.

GIVE UNITED NOW

"Everything adds up to success," he said, "if the volunteers will pitch in to get the contributions.

"The Eastern strike is over, Christmas business was good and the weather is perfect."

This will be one of United Fund's biggest months, with the Cerebral Palsy Telethon Jan. 17 and 18 and the Labor Jamboree Friday at Miami Beach Exhibition Hall.

In addition, Dade County's three kennel clubs, two race tracks and jai alai fronton announced Saturday they will contribute to UF annually on the basis of the previous year's pari-mutuel betting.

The program should add up to $75,000 a year.

As UF headed into the final month of the drive, it had collected $2,103,000 or two-thirds of its goal.

"We're ahead of where we were at this time last year," said Orovitz, "and still haven't completed the big donors' cards from commerce and industry."

He said "the money is in the community" and now the big question is to get the volunteers out to get the contributions.

"Everybody's going to work," he said, "from the top right down through the ranks."

Fund workers started in mid-October but stopped two weeks ago for the holidays and to regroup their forces for the final punch for funds.

Orovitz blamed the long drawn-out campaign on "starting too early."

"There's no reason we can't get the money," he said, "but we'll have to go out and work for it."

The Labor Jamboree, sponsored by the Community Service Committee of the Dade County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, will feature top personalities.

Gloria de Haven, Billy Eckstine, Pupi Campo, Diosa Costello, Rocky Marciano, Willie Pep and Archie Moore already have signed up for the show.

For seven years, proceeds were given to the March of Dimes, but this year they will go to UF.

The telethon, which brought in $312,000 last year, will begin at 10:30 p.m. Jan. 17 and continue until 2 p.m. Jan. 18 on Channel 7.

The plan set up by the kennel clubs, race tracks and fronton calls for Hialeah Race Course and Tropical Park Race Course to give .0003 per cent or 30 cents per thousand dollars.

Biscayne, Miami Beach and West Flagler kennel clubs and the Miami Fronton will give .0004 or 40 cents of each thousand dollars.

The system first was set up by Dade County banks, which give eight cents per thousand dollars, based on June deposits.

Chautauqua Scheduled

The third annual Miami Beach Chautauqua series, "The World We Live In," will be offered on eight successive Monday evenings beginning this week at the Ocean Front Auditorium. Admission is free and all programs are scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Chautauqua is an eight-week program of courses and lectures in arts, sciences and humanities.

Monday's opening program, is "Music: A Contemporary Review." Jacques Donnet, conductor of the Carillon Hotel Symphonette, will be guest. He will discuss "The Heart of the Orchestra."

Woman Collects 'Brass' Pinups

KEARNY, N. J. —(AP)— Mrs. Joseph Bersey's scrapbook is filled with pictures of soldiers and sailors — the leading generals and admirals of World War II.

She began collecting autographed pictures of them after she wrote Gen. Eisenhower in 1945 sending him a four-leaf clover and he sent back a signed photograph and a letter. She has 44 pictures now and sends a Christmas card to all her "gallery."

Got It Made

HOBBS, N. M. — (AP) — It'll be no surprise if Zane Edward Cargile gets just a little spoiled.

Born here recently, he has four grandparents, four great-grandparents and two great-great grandparents. Eight of them live in his hometown Hobbs.

Nikita Concerned Over Indian Plant

NEW DELHI —(AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has sent Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru a personal expression of concern over the progress of the 275 million dollar steel plant being built by Russian engineers at Bhilai, India.

NEHRU

NIKITA

Nehru told newsmen that Khrushchev "expressed the hope that there would be no delay and that various matters would be speeded up."

Bhilai is one of three steel plants being constructed as part of India's second five-year plan.

A West German plant at Rourkela and the Soviet plant at Bhilai are supposed to light their first blast furnaces early this year. A British plant at Durgapur is to commence operation later. All three plants are well behind their original schedules.

Without specifying what led to Khrushchev's complaint, Nehru acknowledged some problems have cropped up at Bhilai.

Knitting Helps Keep You Quiet

LONDON —(AP)— A London psychologist says knitting is about the best tranquilizer you can find. He means for men, too.

Dr. F. R. C. Casson in the magazine "Family Doctor," gives men this prescription:

"Take two No. 6 and four No. 8 needles, 26-ounce double-knitting wool, one sweater pattern, and knit yourself one man's fisherman-knit sweater.

"The sense of creating a garment or a piece of fabric from its basic elements is very satisfying."

Dip of Patronage

Five Judgeships About to Open In Metro Setup

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

The 11-man Metro Commission's six freshmen members will have their first chance to take a dip from the patronage well when Metro's courts are enlarged and its planning department activated early this year.

Metro Court appears certain to add five more $13,500-a-year judges to its present three soon after the State Supreme Court's mandate on its county-wide powers is handed down.

* * *

THE HIGH COURT HAS ALREADY RULED, in the suit brought by Miami Shores Village, that Metro can enforce its traffic code inside the municipalities. The Supreme Court will rule on a rehearing plea, and then issue the formal mandate to parties concerned in the suit.

GIBSON

SNOWDEN

Appointment of a civilian advisory board by the commission is the next step in setting up Metro's planning shop.

Tuesday the commission will vote on an already informally-approved resolution enlarging this board from 10 to 11 members. There are 11 commissioners, and they agreed they didn't like the idea of one member's being shut out when the time came for naming the powerful board.

* * *

PLANNING ADVISORS ARE NON-SALARIED, receiving $15 "expenses" for each meeting they attend. It's not the monetary compensation but the powers of this board which makes appointments so desirable.

The advisory board provides the legislative commission with a check and balance against the planning department appointed by the administrative county manager.

As the Metro planning ordinance is set up, the advisory board will have virtual veto power over the "master plan" for Dade County development, prepared by new Planning Director Paul Watt.

* * *

THE MASTER PLAN WILL BLUEPRINT the county's land use, transit and road development, recreation facilities, and the financing of public improvements — all matters of vital interest to commissioners.

Law prohibits commissioners from influencing the appointment of the administration's planning staff. A commission member could be removed from office for trying to get persons of his choice on Watt's 17-to-19 man staff.

Commission desires in master planning will be expressed through the advisory board it will shortly name. This board has final say-so on the drafting of the plan. Commissioners can only send sections it doesn't like back for further study.

* * *

NAMING THE NEW JUDGES could be a contest among eight Metro commissioners. The three existing judges were choices of Commissioners Edwin Mason, John McLeod and Ralph Fossey.

Shut out the first time, "old" Commissioners Charles Hall and Faris Cowart must now make themselves heard over as many as six new voices.

A Dade County Bar Association spokesman said Friday he hopes the commission will again ask the bar group to screen its judgeship nominations.

"But we won't take the initiative and ask the new, enlarged commission to do this," said Michael Isenberg, chairman of the bar association's courts committee.

* * *

ISENBERG SAID THE COMMISSION already knows of the association's "willingness to help" and still has its previous list, submitted last September, of attorneys considered "best qualified" for judgeships.

When the first Metro judges were being appointed, the bar association urged the commission to choose "only the best qualified men of the profession."

The commission submitted a list of 14 attorneys to the bar group. Senior Judge Ed Strickland, former law partner of Commissioner Edwin Mason, had already been named. The bar association praised his appointment, and chose five "best qualified" from the list of 14.

* * *

THE COMMISSION APPOINTED CHARLES SNOWDEN and Jack M. Turner from the list of five.

One man from the list, Robert R. Taylor, has since died. The other two recommended by the lawyers' group are Henry K. Gibson and Albert Saperstein.

"That list still stands, as far as we are concerned," Isenberg said.

The issue which has kept the commission busy since its enlargement to 11 members in October, airport concession contracts, may have its last inning at a special meeting Jan. 9.

Three Dade Women Draw Up List

School Books Called 'Subversive'

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

Florida school children are getting their learning from "subversive" textbooks, three Dade County women charged Saturday.

Reporting to the legislative Interim Committee on Education at Marianna, they singled out social studies books, plus a health text they said contained an illustration that was "a little too complete."

The three women, Mrs. Oscar Kennedy, Mrs. N. J. Carden and Mrs. Michael Farkas, studied 43 books. They made an oral report to the commitee, supplemented with marginal notes made in copies of the texts.

United Press International reported the legislators "spent hours" mulling over the books at the final meeting of a two-day session called to discuss school financing.

Questioned by telephone in Marianna, Mrs. Kennedy could not recall the names or authors of any of the books with the "subversive leanings."

Some of the authors had belonged to groups listed by some investigators as subversive, however, she said.

"Of course there are also some good books, too," she said.

One of the books singled out for criticism was "American Problems Today," which recently replaced another book dropped from the state list after critics complained about its political leanings.

"American Problems Today" mentions class conflicts and calls the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People the "Robin Hoods" of the American conscience.

Two Dade social studies teachers queried by The Herald said, however, the books lack any dangerous tendencies.

"How silly can some people be?" asked one. "You can object to any book if you look for things that you don't agree with and take them out of context."

Dade Supt. Joe Hall also refused to be alarmed by the charges.

"As far as I know, we aren't using any subversive books," he said.

Local school authorities have no choice over the textbooks used which are adopted at the state level. A Dade administrator, Miss Birdie McAllister, is a member of the State Textbook Rating Committee, but refused to comment on the charges.

"As a member of the committee, I'm not supposed to comment," she said.

At Saturday's meeting, the Dade women also criticized a fourth-grade history book as having "confused make-up and vague references."

However, Rep. Robert Mann of Hillsborough took issue with some of the sweeping criticisms and cautioned the legislators that there are "two sides" to every criticism.

Mann said he had made a "quick study" of two of the books mentioned by the women as having subversive leaning and found they had taken some of the statements out of context.

He said he doubted if the women's presentation had been worth all the time the committee spent on it when there were so many other problems it needed to deal with.

But the committee chairman, Sen. L. K. Edwards of Irvine, said he thought the problem was worth every minute spent on it.

Rex Farrior of Tampa, a lay member of the committee, also defended some of the books. He said that an adequate textbook must deal with both sides of any question.

Raid Uncovers Plush Fortress For Gambling

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Metro and State Attorney's officers battered down a six-inch-thick steel-plated door in North Dade Saturday and found a "plush gambling fortress."

The raid gave immediate credence to reports that gambling overlords are trying to open up the county.

Investigators smashed open a seemingly unpretentious downstairs apartment house at 21000 Biscayne Blvd. They had posed as tourists to gain inside information.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein led the raid shortly after midnight.

Investigators used crowbars and sledgehammers for almost two hours to bull through thick steel and a fake front door.

The place was empty of customers, but "obviously ready to go into large-scale gambling," Gerstein said.

Inside he found a huge 60 by 25-foot room lavishly furnished with wall-to-wall carpeting, new air-conditioning, wall curtains, a sleek bar and two washrooms.

Heavy wire mesh covered the windows and a one-way identification mirror was built-in the entrance.

Tips that bigtime gambling was going on at the place leaked out during the week.

But apparently someone also tipped off the gamblers about the raid. The hangout was deserted.

"The size, the facilities, and the unusual precautions to protect it," said Gerstein, "leave no question it was to be an extremely big operation."

The place adjoins Martha and Roy's Steakhouse. Gerstein's men, posing as tourists, learned from a bartender there they could expect "heavy action" Friday night.

But there was no indication that the management of Martha and Roy's knew of any plans for gambling.

The raid came off without a warrant.

Said Gerstein, "Based on statements from the bartender to my investigators, we had probable cause to believe a felony was being committed."

Gerstein said the woman who owns the building gave investigators permission to break in.

The woman is Mrs. Angeline Sekerich, 54, who operates Lena's Motel next door. She said she knew nothing about the setup.

Mrs. Sekerich said she had leased out the building last month. The investigation is continuing.

"There will be no illegal gambling in Dade County," Gerstein declared. "Anyone who has ideas to the contrary will find out the hard way."

Who Hit Tommy?

Mrs. Thomas Fillyaw, of 11510 W. Biscayne Canal Dr., tries to ease the pain of her seven-year-old son, Tommy. The boy was struck in the back by an automobile and knocked unconscious while playing beside the street in front of his home. One tire of the car left tread marks on Tommy's shirt, but the boy escaped without critical injury.

Revise Railway Act to Heal Labor Woes -- Rickenbacker

Law Conference Coming, Page 18A

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Eastern Air Lines board chairman, Saturday became the first airline executive to call for a revision of federal laws to heal the industry's labor woes.

The famed flier urged a revamp of the Railway Labor Act and compulsory arbitration in cases involving public carriers.

Eastern, which emerged from a 38-day strike New Year's Eve, and several other airlines have been knocked inoperative by labor troubles within the last few months.

As a result, several Congressional leaders—including Sen. George Smathers—have come out in favor of changing the 1926 Railway Labor Act, under which the airlines operate.

The inability of the government to step into airline disputes on behalf of the public prompted demands for more stringent laws.

Rickenbacker asked revision of the Railway Labor Act to:

ELIMINATE loopholes "which now permit such a time lag between mediation and settlement that carriers can be forced to operate for months under duress of strike threats."

PROVIDE adequate governmental authority to allow service to continue until settlement is reached.

REQUIRE compulsory arbitration "for such disputes as cannot be resolved through mediation and other related provisions of the law."

Rickenbacker said he was making his stand known in answer to inquiries on Labor Secretary James Mitchell's call for a conference to study the Railway Labor Act.

"A hard look at the Railway Labor Act, designed to resolve labor disputes which threaten the nation's railroad and air transportation systems, is long overdue, in my opinion," Rickenbacker declared.

His announcement came somewhat as a surprise since it had been presumed that both labor and management would be opposed to provisions involving mandatory arbitration.

Plan Tied To Change In Havana

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Bigtime syndicate-styled gambling barons are plotting to pry open Dade County, Crime Commissioner Dan Sullivan warned Saturday.

Sullivan said he expects a concerted underworld attempt to revive the lush casino operations of the pre-Kefauver days.

He tied in his prediction with the collapse of Havana's gambling empire.

"They saw the handwriting on the wall," Sullivan said. "They knew Batista's downfall was coming.

"The attempt here a few months ago to legalize gambling was a piece from the same fabric. I am not saying those particular people worked with gangsters," he said, "but the gangsters certainly were sympathetic."

Sullivan labeled that attempt a "trial balloon that went dead."

"You can expect another attempt at the state legislature this spring," he said.

The Havana hoodlums wanted Miami opened as an "insurance policy" of sorts even before the revolution, he said.

The probable trouble spots include Motel Row, north of Miami Beach proper.

The usual wintertime influx of hoods from the North is migrating in that direction. The law there is spread thinner and gangsters stand less chance of being recognized.

The way things stand now, most of the local sin is unsyndicated and unorganized.

Miami Beach, renowned tourist mecca, possesses a plentiful supply of call girls, bookies, B-girls, floating crap games, and private club gambling by residents.

"But it is mostly on a sneak basis," said Sullivan.

He has long contended such things go on only with unofficial sanction from city officials.

A tough B-girl ordinance, passed with much hullâbaloo a year ago, is a case in point. It has resulted in exactly one conviction. One B-girl went free when her shrewd lawyer pointed out police failed to prove she was a woman.

With the Havana upheaval, however, Sullivan expects woes worse than B-girls.

Dade's racket intelligence squad, he said, needs strengthening. "It spends too much time on subversive activities, dynamiting and bombing cases, and shipment of arms to Cuba. It should concentrate on keeping track of racketeers."

Hope Dims For Eyes of BB Victims

Hope dimmed Saturday in efforts to save the BB-blinded eyes of two South Dade boys shot with air rifles over New Year's weekend.

"It is too early to say for sure, but chances look bad for both boys," said Dr. Harry Horwich at Variety Children's Hospital.

"A ban on BB guns would be a great public service," Dr. Horwich said.

David Congden, 14, of 9160 SW 87th St., was shot in the right eye New Year's Eve when a BB gun was fired by passing teenagers whom he had never seen before.

Harold Walker, 13, of 6366 SW 22nd St., was also shot in the right eye. A BB pellet fired by a friend richocheted off a piece of wood while they were camping in the Everglades.

Dr. Horwich said a third eye-injury victim, Eric Jonas, 14, of 1340 SW 60th Ct., struck by an air-powered model rocket, will probably regain his full sight.

Miami Sees Stars Over 49th Star

By ELVALEE SWIFT
Herald Staff Writer

Old Glory took on a 49th star Saturday and Miami historians, military men and flag makers promptly declared the new design illogical and impractical.

They criticized the new flag for having staggered rows of stars instead of straight rows.

"Well, I declare," said retired Rear Adm. Charles D. Leffler, "who thought that up?"

He said he thought the designers should have lined up the stars "so that the other flags wouldn't look so outdated."

Retired Vice Admiral Telfair Knight was astonished that the flag wasn't planned so that a 50th star could be added, if Hawaii is admitted to the Union.

"This way," he said, "adding another star will throw the whole thing out of kilter."

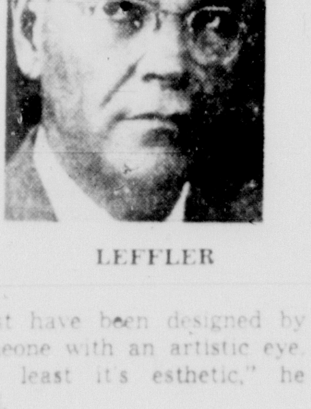
City Manager E. A. Evans, a retired brigadier general, echoed Knight's thoughts on the 50th star.

"They'll certainly have to do it all over again soon," he said.

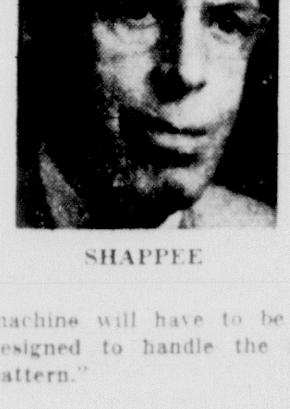
Dr. Duane Koenig, University of Miami history professor who was in Alaska a few years as a visting professor, thought the design was attractive, but he was worried about Hawaii, too.

"If this flag is in use just a few years," he said, "in about 50 years it'll be a rare souvenir."

Dr. Nathan Shappee, also a University of Miami history professor, decided the flag must have been designed by someone with an artistic eye. "At least it's esthetic," he said.



LEFFLER



SHAPPEE

"They use an embroidering machine to sew those stars on," said one, "and now the machine will have to be redesigned to handle the new pattern."

Flag makers were elated about the sure boom in business, but not so happy about the indented design.

Final Event In Festival

The game is over. The parades are gone.

Only a big-league tennis match remains on today's eighth and final day of the 1958-59 King Orange Silver Anniversary calendar.

The International Cup finals get underway at 11 a.m. at Flamingo Park. Brazil, Venezuela, Chile and the U.S. are in the playoffs.

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

* * *

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

* * *

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

* * *

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON — (AP) — "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The farther the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper. "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

* * *

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."

Rebel Flag Their Passport, Tourists Return From Cuba

By AL FINKELSTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

A blood-red, coal-black, bandana-sized rebel flag was their passport to safety.

With it, a group of the Havana-visiting tourists—mostly all Americans—made it home in one piece Saturday afternoon from the sacked Cuban city.

"We waved that flag (rebel leader Fidel Castro's colors) like crazy," said Mrs. M. Mahl of Cocoa Beach, "and we weren't touched."

She was among six busloads of tourists deposited at the McAllister Hotel after an all-night ferry hop from Havana to Key West.

The Havana-Hilton Hotel management machine-sewed the midget flags "while the bullets crashed through lobby windows," Mrs. Mahl said.

"We were told to hold the cloths in front of us . . . and that would guarantee we wouldn't be shot."

Although not visibly frightened over their harrowing ordeal, almost all of the first-returning tourists said they were "confused" and "ill-informed" on evacuation procedure and safety precautions by the U.S. Embassy office.

"So far as I am concerned," said H. S. French of Chicago, "our State Department seemed to hear nothing, know nothing and do nothing."

Even in danger, Americans wisecrack.

Her traveling companion, Flora Dodd of Cleveland, salvaged "only a crock of old Canadian rye."

Detroit School Teacher Elizabeth Evans thought the Cubans were celebrating New Year's — "not shooting seriously."

When machine-gun shells shattered the giant lobby windows of the Hilton Hotel, Joe Mahl, of Cocoa Beach, said "we dug foxholes . . . right through that marble floor."

Citrus Grove Junior High School Teacher Henry Cornehlson said he "thinks" he picked up enough material for "one history lesson, at least."

Courteous Revolution, Says Abe

By HARRY CAICEDO
Herald Staff Writer

—Herald Staff Photo by Harry Caicedo

Abe Aronovitz Gets a Big Hug
. . . from daughter Carol at Key West

KEY WEST—"It was the most courteous revolution I ever heard of," said former Miami Mayor Abe Aronovitz.

"The rebels did everything they could to protect us and make us as comfortable as possible at the Havana Hilton Hotel," he said.

Aronovitz was one of some 500 tired, sleepless but surprisingly cheerful Americans who set foot on U.S. soil here Saturday after witnessing 48 hours of Cuba's New Year's Day revolution.

They streamed from the SS City of Havana shortly after dawn, burdened with luggage, coats, packs of liquor, children and even dogs. Many of the men sported a good growth of beard.

But on the whole, they had a smile for the host of photographers, newspapermen and other officials waiting on the pier.

While the State Department-chartered ferry boat was docking, dozens of passengers crowded the railing. One fellow shouted to observers on the pier:

"Who's in control of this country?"

Some of the Americans even managed a cheery round of applause when Alan Scott and his trio blared out "When the Saints Come Marching In" in welcome.

Many of the American "evacuees," including Aronovitz, had words of praise for Cuban rebels. Almost an equal number, it seemed, griped about the American Embassy in Havana.

Aronovitz, his wife and several other family members were met by his daughter, Carol, who drove from New York City for his return from the revolt-hit Cuban capital.

Aronovitz said the American Embassy itself did everything possible to cooperate with the stranded U.S. tourists. But he described the "young embassy assistants at the boat as less courteous than the rebels."

Mrs. Nonie Morgan of Mobile, Ala., said members of the rebel 26th of July movement maintained strict discipline and tried to impose order in the rioting city.

"It was the local citizenry that raised hell with joy and jubilation," she said. "I saw them sack one house in Havana's Miramar section that belonged to one of Batista's men."

A Hollywood, Fla., man and a couple from New Kensington, Pa., joined the chorus of complaints about their handling by embassy personnel. "They treated us like cattle," protested the Hollywood man, who declined to identify himself.

Despite the reported rioting and gunfire in Havana, Mrs. Nick Barberi of New Orleans said she liked the Cuban capital.

Her two-month-old son smiled contentedly from the counter where she had him lying.

"I would have stayed there with my husband — we just went down two days ago to take over a new job — but for the baby. I was worried about getting him the right food," she said.

And round-faced, quiet Lynn Aaron, 12, of Paterson, N.J., although she had had only 90 minutes of sleep the previous night, thought she'd "like to return to Havana, but under different circumstances."

None of the tourists interviewed felt that they were in particular danger during their 48-hour exposure to a full-fledged revolution.

One young man from Brooklyn, however, bore the wounds of the affray.

Flying glass from a stoned plate window cut him in the legs at the Capri Hotel Casino. His injuries weren't serious, but he hobbled off the ferry with the aid of a crutch.

Ashore, the milling throng of displaced tourists sought out their luggage and a customs inspector to set them loose. The big job took under two hours.

Red Cross workers, classifying the project as "emergency relief," aided the weary travelers.

Half a dozen buses awaited to return a portion of the ferry's passengers to Miami. National Airlines scheduled extra flights to handle the overflow traffic.

Meanwhile, the City of Havana made preparations to sail back to Havana Saturday afternoon — this time with a load of Cubans eager to return to a Bastista-free Cuba.

Capt. Alf Thorson said that, contrary to reports received in this country, his vessel had no difficulty in entering or leaving Havana harbor.

The only delay was in loading the mob of Americans wanting to get home. He said he had to leave some behind because the ship took on a full load.

Another shipment of stranded U.S. tourists was expected to arrive here on the City of Havana's return voyage Sunday.

Rebels Vow to Hunt Down Batista and Take His Life

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

Cuban rebels vowed Saturday they'll hunt down Ex-President Fulgencio Batista, kidnap him and kill him, "no matter where he attempts to hide."

Top-level patriots in Miami who were keeping close tab on the deposed Cuban president's whereabouts, said:

"He is safer in Ciudad Trujillo than anywhere else. Dictator Rafael Trujillo has made it almost impossible for Cubans to enter that country, and those that do are kept under continuous observation."

"Batista won't be killed with a single bullet," the rebels said, ruling out the possibility that a sniper with a high-powered rifle would be put on Batista's "tail."

"The horrible massacres and assassinations which he ordered as president will be brought home to him personally before he is slain."

Some rebels in Miami believe Batista may seek asylum in Spain, and wait for the "heat" to cool off before moving into his palatial home at Daytona Beach.

"But the dictator will not be safe anywhere," the rebels claimed, "although it is most likely his kidnaping will come when he is in this hemisphere so that all Cubans may enjoy it."

Rebels admitted their task would not be easy, "since the U.S. government probably will give him extra FBI, State Department and police protection when he comes to this country."

The rebels spoke matter-of-factly of their plans, but wouldn't venture a "target date" for completion.

"We fought two years for our liberty," one said, "so what is another year now that we are free?"

Batista himself, safely behind the tight security of Trujillo's government, has announced no plans for the future.

It was expected, however, that the next several weeks would be dedicated to reestablishing his family, which now is spread out from Miami to New York City and into the Caribbean islands.

Glades Drilling Time Extended

An extension of time for drilling two oil wells in Dade County's Forty-Mile Bend field has been granted to increase chances of bringing in a gusher.

Trustees of the State Improvement Fund granted a two-month extension to Commonwealth Oil Co. and Coastal Petroleum Co. The companies had been scheduled to start drilling of the first well by Feb. 15.

Prio's Kin Deporting Is Delayed

A Cuban politico, brother-in-law of Carlos Prio Socarras, isn't going to be deported—immediately, at least.

But this doesn't mean administration of Uncle Sam's immigration statutes has changed with the political complexion of Cuba, authorities say.

Policies on deportation are based on law and the laws do not change, U.S. Attorney James Guilmartin noted.

Federal Judge John D. Martin ordered that deportation of Enrique C. Henriquez, a former congressman of the old Cuban republic, not be affectuated while an indictment against him is pending in New York. Immigration authorities, who earlier ordered Henriquez to show cause why he shouldn't be deported, agreed to the delay.

Henriquez argued in his petition seeking to avoid deportation that he had been deprived of his right to serve in the Cuban congress by Batista's uprising.

Guilmartin said in deportation matters or arms shipments there is no reason to expect changed attitudes in the future from those of the past.

Boy Waits... Life Hangs in Jeopardy

The curly haired, 18-year-old boy wheeled around a Miami Beach hospital ward Saturday, waiting for one of the most important mile stones in his life.

Shortly before 9 a. m. Wednesday, Richard Mountain will be taken into an operating room at St. Francis Hospital for a delicate abdominal operation — and some of the nation's outstanding surgeons will be watching via closed circuit television.

For members of the International College of Surgeons attending a convention at the Americana Hotel, the operation — a new one called an ileo-conduit — should be informative.

It will mean a great deal more to Richard.

If the operation to reroute his urinary tract is not performed, Richard's doctor said, the youth has only a 50-50 chance of living five more year and practically no chance of living 10.

The surgeon said there is a 60 per cent chance the operation will be successfu.

Richard has been a chairty patient at Jackson Memorial Hospital since last fall. His parents are separated.

A pre-birth spinal defect has left him crippled.

One effect of the spine injury has been a wasting away of Richard's legs.

The illnesses have kept him from going beyond grade school.

Happy Reunion

Her Life Was Miserable So She Tried Bank Robbery

By Herald Wire Services

People

MRS. VERA WILSON, 57, told New York police she held up and robbed one bank and tried to rob another because she "wanted to get out of the miserable life I was leading."

That's the nearest to an explanation that investigators had from the wan, middle-aged widow in black, accused of two brash forays on midtown banks in the last month.

She was booked on charges of assault and robbery.

She was homeless, penniless and friendless, she said—she "had to do something."

But the case had puzzling overtones. The sedate, gentle-seeming woman was comparatively well groomed in black knit suit and beret. Her nails were long, well cared for, her makeup tasteful.

She identified herself as a widow without a family, and said she had survived for the last year by begging, sleeping in subways and bus and rail terminals.

"I can't figure it," said Detective Lt. Arthur E. Schultheiss, scratching an ear. "She's sure not the kind we usually have in here. She's very meek and tender spoken, a woman you'd accept as a member of your family."

Yet she readily admitted, police said, that she robbed one Manhattan bank of $3,000, and tried unsuccessfully Friday to rob another a block away — in both instances, she maintained, to end her lonely poverty.

Judge Denounces Sophia as Bigamist

SOPHIA LOREN, Italian film star, and her husband, Carlo Ponti, have been legally denounced in Rome for bigamy, court sources disclosed.

SOPHIA

The denunciation was filed by Judge G. Guasco late in December, the sources said.

The denunciation means that the couple could be arrested and tried on criminal charges of bigamy if they return to Italy. They also could be tried in absentia.

Miss Loren and Ponti were married in a proxy ceremony at Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 17, 1957.

Under Italian law, Ponti is still married to an Italian woman. The director obtained a Mexican divorce from his wife but such divorces are not recognized by Italy.

Royal Family Approves Marriage

THE ROYAL FAMILY of Nepal has approved the marriage plans of Prince Basundhara Bir Bikram Shah and a Cleveland, Ohio, girl.

An announcement from the Nepal U. N. headquarters in New York said in part: "His royal highness . . . has been told by the queen mothers of Nepal that they have no objection to his marrying Miss Lynn Waldron of Pepper Pike (a Cleveland suburb), Ohio."

Miss Waldron, 22, has been in New York pending publication of a book about her foreign travels. She met the prince during a stay in Katmandu, capital of Nepal.

'Most-Liked' Banker Admits Theft

LAFAYETTE, Tenn. — (UPI) — Officials of the Citizens Bank here checked their books Saturday trying to learn the "full story" of the embezzlement charge against the "most-liked" employe of the bank.

William P. Meador, 30, was arrested Friday and charged with embezzling $48,615 over a period of 10 years. He was released under $1,000 bond.

Meador said he got "just a little bit" of the money, and indicated that there were others involved.

He said the full story would come out when the FBI completed its investigation.

"We're checking all the books used during the time one of our former employes was here — that's all I can say," was the comment of J. W. Taylor, cashier and vice president of the bank.

Meador used two sets of ledgers, Taylor said, and when auditors showed up for routine checks Meador knew about it ahead of time "and just changed ledgers."

But he failed to do it in November.

"I asked him why he didn't substitute the books and he told me, 'You've heard about everybody slipping up sometime. I just slipped up,'" Taylor said.

Sweet Spite, Go Thou Away

CHICAGO — (UPI) — Mrs. Sarah Richardson, 23, has filed suit to annul her five-day marriage, claiming her husband married her just to be malicious.

She said her husband returned to Army life three hours after the ceremony after telling her he "just wanted to tie her up as a married woman."

Evacuees Blister Embassy 'Bungling'

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Americans streaming back from turbulent Cuba, Saturday blasted the U.S. embassy in Havana for bungling their evacuation.

But a State Department spokesman in Washington said "it was not our fault."

Some among the 500 returnees who arrived at Key West by ferry charged that embassy personnel "treated us like a bunch of cattle."

In Washington, Clint Olsen, executive director of the State Department's inter-American affairs, shot back:

"They were damn lucky to get the boat."

Olsen said U.S. officials in Washington and Havana had worked out elaborate evacuation plans — including an airlift with a plane every 30 minutes.

"But when we tried to carry them through, the rebel forces blocked us," Olsen said.

He said negotiations were still in progress to get the planes into Cuba.

"Everybody who wants out will be able to leave by noon today," he said.

Walter M. Walters, State Department representative in Miami, said he had checked and found there were "no hardship cases reported on this end."

William Tieger, 1795 Normandy Dr., Miami Beach, echoed the sentiment of the critics.

"The information give us by the State Department was vague and confused."

F. A. Greve, Fort Lauderdale insurance executive, said, "They gave no cooperation. Everybody we talked to had different answers."

But Olsen countered that "there were many changes in instructions (from the rebels) which muddied the waters. Nobody in the rebel forces would take it upon himself to do this or that."

The spokesman said embassy personnel were "just interested in protecting American lives — not getting them out in luxury accommodations."

He said the department had received "not one single report" of any U.S. citizen being harmed.

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith could not be reached in Havana for comment.

He was called to Washington, D.C., early last month to frame plans for protecting U.S. citizens and safe-guarding their property in the event the Batista regime was overthrown.

Olsen said that conditions in Havana were such that no coordinated program could be worked out immediately with the rebels — but predicted that the evacuation problems were "just about solved."

Another ferry was preparing to leave Havana Saturday night with 500 more mainland-bound refugees. Another estimated 500 U.S. citizens still are in Havana.

Olsen said Cubana Airlines "is flying Cuban refugees from the former government over to the island and bringing our people back."

Boat Towed In

The motor of a 75-foot Miami Beach pleasure boat, the Marie II, quit 30 miles off the Beach Saturday afternoon and the vessel was towed back by the Coast Guard.

The six persons aboard were not injured, the Coast Guard said.

It's X-Rays For Beach

The mobile unit of the Dade County Tuberculosis Association will offer free chest X-rays for days this week in Miami Beach.

On Tuesday, the unit will be stationed at Howard Johnson's, 166th St. and Collins Ave.

On Wednesday the X-rays will be available at Food Fair, 94th St. and Harding Ave.; on Thursday at Fun Fair on the 79th St. Causeway; and on Friday, at Pumpernik's, 67th St. and Collins Ave.

The units will be open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m.

Man Faces Charges

Miami police Saturday posted three charges against a Hialeah man arrested Thursday in a hit-and-run investigation.

Manuel Calixto Rojas, 21, of 409 W. Ninth Ave., also faces a federal charge of possessing a machine gun.

Officers said they found Rojas' car two blocks from the W. Flagler-32nd Pl. intersection, where Mrs. Irene Hughes was struck down Thursday.

A search of the car turned up the machine gun.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor, confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . . "

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops they had only words of praise.

"They treated us courteously, helped all they could. As a matter of fact, the only food we ate the past few days was a little bit the Rebels brought to the Americans in the hotel once."

They watched the battle rage on the Prado just one block away when the hold-out force of beleaguered Batista troops was dislodged after bloody fighting.

Cruiser Headed for Cuba Seized; Crew in Custody

A 32-foot cabin cruiser apparently headed for Cuba landed back in Miami waters Saturday night at the end of a Coast Guard tow line and its 12 passengers and crew in federal custody.

Joseph A. Fortier, supervising customs agent in Miami, said the boat is probably the same one which gave officers the slip Thursday night off Mercy Hospital in Biscayne Bay.

Agents found two .45 automatic pistols aboard, but later found several rifles in the water near the hospital. They are believed to have been part of an arms load dumped before the boat broke down and was intercepted by Coast Guard vessels, Fortier said.

Three of the men on the boat were under $2,500 bonds each as a result of arrests in a gun-running raid on Key Biscayne Dec. 10.

Fortier said, however, that no new charges would be pressed against the three, pending further investigation. They were released, along with two other Cubans aboard the vessel "My Marie II"

The three men under bond are Casado Enrique Cuervo, 43, of 970 SW Seventh St., Diego Febles Lambeira, 30, of 1452 SW Fifth St., and Hector Garcia Soto, 34, of 710 SW 19th Ave.

Beach to Get Reserve Unit

Miami Beach is getting a military reserve unit — its only one — a Coast Guard admiral announced.

Designated Coast Guard Reserve ORTUPS 07-437, it will meet Tuesday evenings at 19400 Collins Ave., according to Rear Adm. W. W. Kenner, commander of the 7th U. S. Coast Guard District.

Cmdr. Norman N. Carr will head the organization of seven officers and 44 enlisted men. Former members of any branch of the armed forces are eligible to join, Coast Guard recruiters said.

Charge Filed In Shooting

J. W. Albury, 37, of 9100 NW 31st Ave., was charged Saturday with aggravated assault in the New Year's Day shooting of two men in Rungee's Tavern, 2939 NW 54th Ter.

The victims, Jack Clounts, 31, and David Kaney, 37, both of 2221 NW 57th St., are in serious condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital, each with a .22 caliber bullet wound in the stomach.

Metro detectives said the three men were drinking when they quarreled over Albury's former wife, Irene, a barmaid at the tavern.

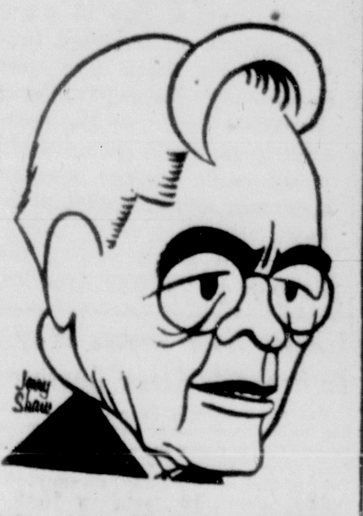
Today's Cele-Birthday

By JOY and JERRY SHAW
Of The Herald Staff



John Alex McCone, engineer-industrialist; born: Jan. 4, 1902, in San Francisco.

* * *

Atomic Energy Commission's new member long has been a close friend and an unofficial adviser to President Eisenhower on missile and satellite policy. McCone left the steel and iron business for shipbuilding—and while building success in both fields, found time for gardening, golf and active participation in community and world affairs. Time magazine's description of him: "A private dynamo in the public service."

Insurance On Health Going Up

NEW YORK —(AP)— Chances are you, your boss, or both, soon will be paying more for your group health insurance.

Main pressure behind the upswing is a steady climb in hospital costs for handling everything from babies to oldsters.

That's the consensus among officials of some leading insurance companies.

K. C. Foster of the group insurance division, Prudential Life Insurance Co. of America, Newark, N.J., puts it this way:

"We understand several of the larger companies plan rate increases in hospital and surgical insurance early in 1959. Some of the others went up in 1958.

"Hospital rates are going up year after year. The general feeling is they'll continue to go up five to seven per cent a year for awhile."

The uptrend in health insurance rates affects many of the 21 million Americans — about 70 per cent of the population — now covered by sickness and accident policies. That's 30 million more than only five years ago.

The Health Insurance Institute, a trade association, says around 4¾ billion dollars was paid in health care benefits by all insuring organizations during 1958, 14 per cent more than in 1957.

Picking up the tab were employers, labor unions, government agencies and in many cases workers, who saw a slice of each paycheck deducted for this purpose.

The institute represents 267 private stock and mutual companies, which write 85 per cent of private health insurance business. It estimates half of its members raised group insurance rates 10 to 15 per cent over the past five years.

More than 50 million persons receive health coverage through two nonprofit concerns, Blue Cross and Blue Shield, each actually a network of independent plans.

The Associated Hospital Service of New York, which operates the Blue Cross plan in New York City and suburbs, was granted a 22.3 per cent rate boost by the state insurance department last September. It was the service's first increase since 1952.

Blue Cross rates went up 18½ per cent in New Jersey last July. During the year they also rose in several other major cities, including Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Detroit.

An evidence of the pressure for higher rates comes from private industry sources who say average health insurance costs in the past six months have run $1.12 to each $1 of premiums.

Here are comments of insurance executives on the upswing in health insurance costs:

From Don Cody, group department, New York Life Insurance Co.:

"Hospital personnel is being upgraded. The rank and file hospital worker is beginning to take his proper place in the world."

Cody says some costs are going up because of public abuses but he adds, "Mostly it's a case of bona fide better care; we have a marvelous medical profession and these things probably reflect an improvement in living standards.

Here's the Latin News to Watch in 1959

By WILLIAM G. GAUDET
Special To The Herald

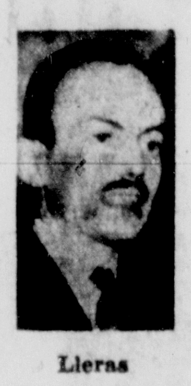
Castro

Betancourt

Frondizi

Kubitschek

Lopez



Lleras

Based on the news pattern as it developed during the months of 1958 here are some of the countries and the news which should be watched during 1959:

CUBA: The big issue is whether the vast mass of Cuban people will accept Fidel Castro.

VENEZUELA: Big "if" here is whether President-elect Romulo Betancourt will follow the junta's lead in imposing increased taxes on various corporations, with particular emphasis on the foreign-owned oil companies. The aspect for Betancourt to consider is whether increased taxation will result in any voluntary cutbacks by the companies. This could hurt both the president and his country.

ARGENTINA: The news picture here centers on the austerity program announced by President Arturo Frondizi. Few can deny the wisdom and urgent need for such a program, but whether the Argentinian masses will accept the idea is the big question mark.

URUGUAY: The developing pattern will center on efforts to curtail the supersocialism which was sponsored by the Colorado Party. Voters ousted the Colorados and indicated a desire to swing from the sharp left to the more conservative right. Labor unions, however, remained loyal to the socialist idea and trouble in this area could cause some real problems for the new government.

BRAZIL: Big problem is whether President Juscelino Kubitschek will be able to find a way to check the dangerous inflationary spiral. So far many quarters have resisted his efforts to curb inflation. A sharp increase in demand for coffee, Brazil's principal export product, could do much to ease Kubitschek's problems, but there can be no denying that there is still need for a government program to halt the trend in inflation.

MEXICO: This is the first year for Mexico's new president, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, and his job will be to continue the economic growth which made such progress during the six years under President Ruiz Cortines. Indications are that the attitude of the new government toward foreign corporations will play a significant role in whatever economic progress is maintained. At year's end there was no clear pattern as to the thinking of foreign-owned corporations.

COLOMBIA: Inflation was becoming the really big problem for the government of President Alberto Lleras Camargo. One happy note was that the civil strife, involving the Conservative and Liberal parties, had come to an end.

CENTRAL AMERICA: Coffee is the big question in most of the countries of Central America. Even El Salvador, which has been able to maintain a strong foreign exchange position for many years, was having troubles. Guatemala, in an effort to retain dollars, put in new restrictions on so-called luxury imports. Hope was that the newly formed Central American Union, at the business level, could do much to offset some of the areas economic and financial problems by a greater interchange of goods among the nations of Central America.

Colombian Tax Bite Is Painful

By GIL SLOAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia — Like most any other, the government of Colombia has its hand out.

But because the standard of living isn't so high, the tax collector doesn't reach quite so deep into the pocket of the average Colombiano.

Taking it all into consideration, the income tax bite adds up to about one-third of the chunk taken from an employe in the U.S.

It "hurts" just as much, though. And it is a complicated process to fill out the four-page declaration. They also have a longer name for it here, "El impuesto sobre la renta," literally, "the tax on the income."

There is no easy, less painful way of paying like "pay as you go" or "withholding."

Declarations by the poorer wage earners, those in the annual income bracket of less than 10,000 pesos, are a must. Payment is then made whenever the government sends the bill, which can be any time before September of the following year.

Above the 10,000 peso figure, taxes can be settled on a quarterly basis. The burden continues to fall on the few. More than half of Colombia's 13 millions toil for peasant wages. Recent records show that barely half a million wage earners owe any taxes.

To illustrate, a married breadwinner with three children could earn 8,000 pesos (about $1,000), considered a good native wage, without giving up a cent.

At 30,000 pesos, the tax is 2,980 pesos; 20,830 comes out of an income of 100,000 pesos.

There's not too much to worry about here, but there is a flat 48 per cent "take" from proprietors of five million pesos and up.

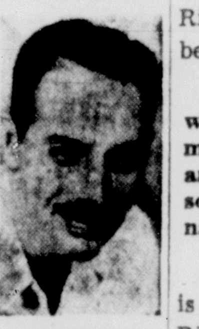
Second Year in Row

Puerto Rican Influx Drops

By DAVID KRASLOW
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — For the second straight year, there was a sharp drop in the number of Puerto Ricans moving to the U. S. in 1958.



KRASLOW

An estimated 29,400 Puerto Ricans moved to the U.S. in 1958, compared with 37,704 in 1957 and 52,315 in 1956.

Pedro A. Gonzalez, administrator of the Office of Puerto Rico in Washington, said the decline reflects primarily a drop in job opportunities in this country as a result of the recession.

Some 800,000 Puerto Ricans have established homes in the U.S.

While the majority are comparatively recent arrivals (since World War II), they are already pulling their weight in a score of communities.

In New York City alone they earn 575 million dollars a year and pay 90 million dollars a year in taxes, Gonzalez said.

There are 620,000 Puerto Ricans in New York, with the remaining 180,000 scattered in Chicago, Miami, Philadelphia, Rochester, Cleveland and several other cities.

The Puerto Rican government estimates the Puerto Rican population in Miami at between 25,000 and 30,000.

Gonzalez pointed out that while most Puerto Ricans fill modest jobs in manufacturing and the service industries, some have already made a name for themselves.

Actor-Producer Jose Ferrer is one of the best known Puerto Ricans. Others include Metropolitan Opera star Graciela Rivera, Boston Symphony pianist Jesus Sanroma, actress Rita Moreno, and major league baseball stars Orlando Cepeda, Ruben Gomez, Vic Power and Terin Pizarro.

Puerto Ricans represent the largest group of newcomers to the U.S. since 1914, but they are a small factor in the constant shifting of Americans.

More than five million Americans cross state lines every year to set up new homes, and another five million move across county lines.

The 40,000 yearly average of Puerto Ricans coming to the U.S. in recent years is less than one per cent of the interstate migration.

J. FRED MUGGS—the chimpanzee who became a television star? Personable Fred was born in West Africa of humble parentage in 1952. He entered TV around the start of 1953, soon was dragging down hundreds of dollars and fan letters a week. Off camera, he was an avid video watcher, loved to look at Westerns. He left Dave Garroway's "Today" show in 1955.

Today at 6½, J. Fred Muggs is single and living on an animal farm at Ramsey, N.J. He just got back from a TV appearance in Canada, toured Puerto Rico for three weeks earlier this year, shows up at grand openings of supermarkets. Trainer Bud Menello says Fred hasn't grown since leaving the "Today" show because he is a pygmy chimp. Muggs is considered too young for marriage now, but may get hitched at nine.

Now—regardless of age—
you can apply for
Blue Cross-Blue Shield

More security for more people

The years from 65 and over are usually years when hospital and doctor bills are hardest to meet because of fixed incomes and strained budgets.

Now regardless of your age, you can apply for Blue Cross-Blue Shield. Previously you had to be under 65 to be eligible for protection under our Non Group, Type F Blue Cross and Blue Shield contracts.

HERE'S HOW TO JOIN

Everyone with the same contract pays the same rate, and gets the same benefits, regardless of age. No penalty to those over 65.

1. NON GROUP: You can apply for a non-group contract (either single person or family) if you are in good health. No age limit. Medical information required on application.

2. GROUP: If you work where there are 5 or more people, including the boss, a group can be formed. No age limit. No medical information required on application.

What So Proudly We Hailed Now Sports 49 Little Stars

Did you know our flag once had 15 stripes? Here's the history of Old Glory, which has just added its 49th star for Alaska.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — By the dawn's early light of next July 4th the nation officially will have a new flag flying—the 27th in U.S. history.

For the first time in almost half a century, the U.S. has admitted a new state —Alaska — and by law that calls for a change in the flag.

The last change, to the familiar Star Spangled Banner now in use, was made in 1912 after the admission of Arizona as the 48th state.

Proclamation of Alaska as a state and the unfurling of the new flag design with 49 stars came simultaneously from the White House Saturday.

But the U.S. code provides the addition of one star to the flag for each new state "shall take effect on the fourth day of July then next succeeding admission."

Flag makers, who have been turning out an estimated seven million American flags annually, will be getting busy right away. Some folks may start flying the new flag as soon as they can get it, but nothing's really official until July 4th.

Since George Washington and an official delegation dropped in on a Philadelphia needlewoman, Mrs. Betsy Ross, in the summer of 1776 with a sketch of the nation's first flag, the symbolism has remained the same. But the flag design has had some helter-skelter changes in the intervening 183 years.

The stripes were fixed, but nobody ever specified the pattern the stars were to take. Besty Ross stitched hers in a neat circle, each star with five points. Later, as the nation grew and added states, the stars went every which way, sometimes placed in rows, sometimes in the outline of a great star, or an enlarged circle with one star in the center.

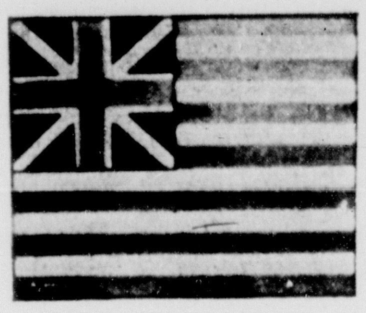
But what the flag stood for, in the words of Washington, has never changed:

"We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberity."

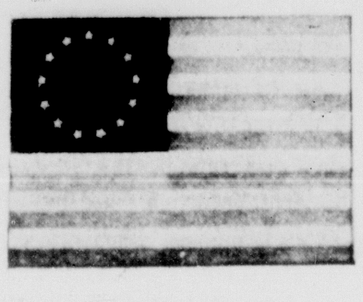
On June 14, 1777, a date now celebrated as Flag Day, the Continental Congress decreed "that the flag of the 13 U.S. be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

Historians say it was a variation of "The Grand Union flag" itself.

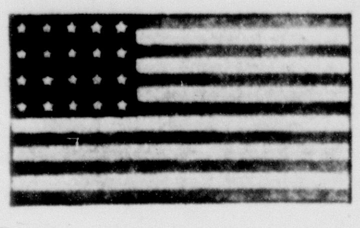
That banner had 13 red and white stripes, but in the upper left corner, instead of stars on a blue field, were the union of England's red cross of St. George and Scotland's white cross of St. Andrews, similar to Great Britain's flag.



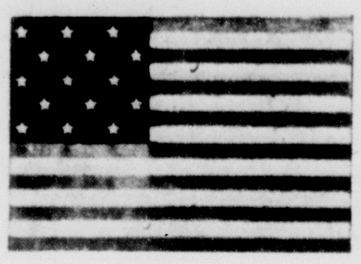
Grand Union Flag



Betsy Ross Flag



Flag of 1818



Ft. McHenry Flag

The first U.S. flag waved grandly and unchanged for 17 years of the nation's history. Then, with the admission of Kentucky and Vermont, a resolution was adopted in 1794 giving the flag 15 stars and 15 stripes.

It was that banner, flying over Fort McHenry, that inspired Francis Scott Key to write America's national anthem.

With the country growing the way it was, it soon became apparent the flag would get pretty unwieldly adding a star and a stripe for each new state.

So, on July 4, 1818, Congress ruled that henceforth the flag would have just 13 stripes, one for each of the colonies that struggled to found the nation, and that a single star would be added for each state coming into the Union.

The next flag thus had the 13 stripes and 20 stars in four rows of five across.

And that's the way it has done since.

The last time the flag was changed in 1912, a joint Army-Navy board headed by Adm. George Dewey came up with the six rows of eight stars that have been the flag flown through much of this century and two world wars.

For Alaska's entry into the Union, a committee of the secretaries of state, defense and treasury and the chairman of the Fine Arts Commission picked the final design. About 1,900 suggestions were submitted from all sorts of groups ranging from schools to veterans organizations.

With the design finally fixed, the nation can get ready for the changeover.

It isn't necessary for government, military or civilians to toss out the 48-star flags. A presidential order signed by Woodrow Wilson in 1916 permits current flags to be worn out first.

The General Services Administration, which buys flags for non-military government agencies, estimates the life of these official flags is generally about three months. The agency replaced 30,300 worn flags last fiscal year and the military estimated it replaced 56,800 in 32 sizes, including tiny grave markers.

Alaskans Accept Statehood Calmly

JUNEAU —(AP) — Alaska on its first day as a state wasn't much different than Alaska on its last day as a territory.

The sensation was that of observing another birthday—you know you're a year older, but you don't feel like it.

Some 210,000 Alaskans shared the experience Saturday.

With a pen stroke in Washington, President Eisenhower Saturday made them residents of the nation's largest and newest state — the first since New Mexico and Arizona joined the Union in 1912.

They knew they should feel that change — but the difference was not immediately a tangible thing.

"It's mostly psychological," said Hugh J. Wade, sworn in as the first secretary of state. In the new state government, Wade is the lieutenant of Gov. William A. Egan.

It was not that Alaska's actual admission came as an anti-climax to the great Northland's romantic 91-year history as a possession of the U. S.

There was no lack of appreciation by Alaskans for the importance of the president's proclamation at the White House, or the swearing in of the first elected state officials in Juneau.

It was just that there were no joyous, impromptu celebrations such as those that broke out in Alaska last June 30. That was the day the Senate passed the statehood bill and sent it to the president for his signature.

"It means we've come of age," says Gov. Egan. "We're ready now to take up our responsibilities."

A lot of water has flowed down the Yukon River since 1867, when the U. S. paid Russia $7,200,000 for Alaska. It was called "Seward's Folly" then by critics of Secretary of State William Seward, who engineered the purchase.

Now Alaska boasts modern cities, growing pulp and oil exploration industries, an excellent school system, and a young population eager to meet the challenges ahead.

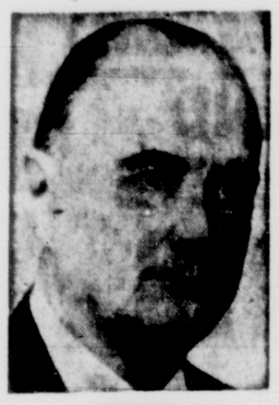
Aid Americas With Tourism Drive Started

By NED AITCHISON
Herald Travel Writer

TRAVEL INTERESTS in Miami's neighbors to the south are joining hands to "Unite the Americas Through Tourism."

Through the new Confederacion de Organizaciones Turisticas de America Latina, a co-operative campaign has been launched to induce more travelers from the United States, Canada and Europe to visit the participating countries, all of which have so much to offer in scenic and historic interest.



AITCHISON

During the period from March 31 to April 4, Chile will be host to the COTAL, as it is known, with elaborate programs set up in beautiful Santiago and in Vina del Mar for the anticipated 1,000 delegates and their wives.

Through the kindness of G. K. McCoun, South American sales manager for Pan American-Grace Airways, Inc., with headquarters in Lima, Peru, details of the projected convention and its purposes have been received by The Miami Herald.

"What ASTA (the American Society of Travel Agents) is to the United States, and what FIAV signifies to Europe, COTAL is to Latin America," Mr. McCoun, one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the co-operative campaign, writes.

"All travel agents, airlines, boat companies and hotels belong to it or are associate members in Latin America."

* * *

Chile Already Working

CHILE, he explained, already has proceeded with setting up sufficient blocked-off facilities to house and entertain the large expected attendance at the early Spring sessions.

Likewise, the work program, which will deal with problems of mutual interest and importance to all Latin American countries which are bidding for tourist business, is being formulated.

At the recent ASTA international convention in New York City, invitations were extended to all active and allied members to be present for the Santiago convention.

And, through Porter Noris, an invitation has been forwarded to Miami Skal club members and their wives to be special guests at the big meeting.

* * *

14 Countries Represented

AT the organization meeting held in Mexico City, with 14 countries and 38 delegates participating, James Dubin of Mexico Travel Advisors, was chosen the first president of COTAL.

A second session, held at the Hotel Hilton Panama in Panama City, saw 250 delegates on hand to take part in the program, an indication of the rapidly increasing interest in the co-operative organization.

A rollcall at that time showed that Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Venezuela, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Panama, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, Mexico and the United States, all were represented.

12,000-Mile Tour Helps

DURING a 12,000 mile tour of South America, Tom Donovan, then president of ASTA, sought out responsible officials in each country he visited and conducted an intensive missionary campaign to induce the various governments to sponsor and finance well thought-out programs to attract more tourism.

He emphasized they have much to offer the visitor, but that so far, most of the burden and expense of promoting South American travel has been left up to private interests, such as shipping lines, airlines, hotels and allied businesses. (This has not been true of the Caribbean islands, most of which are aggressively fighting for tourism.)

His campaign was not notable successful, despite the sincere interest and enthusiasm with which the big, husky ASTA chief presented it.

But with COTAL now linking arms to campaign co-operatively to attract more tourists, it is possible the organization's influence may yet gain a measure of government support, at least to the extent of shouldering some of the burden.

The Soviet Capital — A Sea of Glittering Lights
. . . with snow piled high around the buildings

Everybody in Moscow Seems In a Hurry—Just Like N.Y.

By JOHN McDERMOTT
Herald Travel Writer

MOSCOW — The American tourist gets a friendly reception in this snow-draped capital of the U.S.S.R.

He may even gnaw away to his heart's content if he's a camera enthusiast — military installations, airports, railroad bridges and such like excluded — once he's on the ground. But he has to wait till he gets there.

McDERMOTT

Our plane was only an hour out of Amsterdam heading north over Denmark before swinging east over the "Iron Curtain" when we got our notice.

It read: "Taking of pictures in the air whilst flying over the territories of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Eastern Germany, Russia and Greece . . . is strictly prohibited."

The notice, however, was the only sign we had we were leaving the Free World and passing into the region of Soviet domination.

A few years ago the Russians required all aircraft entering Soviet territory to carry a Russian navigator. This no longer holds true though we did have a Russian-speaking Dutchman at the radio.

The Soviet capital was a sea of glittering lights as we circled over it in sub-zero temperature for some 40 minutes. Planes ahead of us — the Russian jet from Copenhagen, a Finnish plane and others unidentified — were also circling awaiting landing clearance.

Later, on the ground, the rural, sparsely inhabited countryside around Vnukovo airport was like a storybook fairyland. Trees hung heavy with icicles; snow banks were piled high.

A smiling, uniformed Russian immigration officer greeted us as we stepped from the plane. He collected our passports and assured us — in English — they would be returned at the customs desk. They were.

Clearing customs was a mere formality. No bags were opened. The only requirement was to present money and customs declarations which included a pledge that you were not carrying arms.

In downtown Moscow things looked different. Everybody seemed in a hurry just as they do in New York, Chicago, Miami and other big American cities.

Here, however, the cold is the spur rather than urgency of business. In Moscow no man worries about the day's cash register total. All business is state owned.

Latin America Is Gay

Here are some of the festivals, holidays and big events scheduled in Latin America during January:

1-7—Chalma Festival, Mexico. The sanctuary of Chalma near Cuernavaca is renowned for the cures wrought by its Christ. At night, forest trails are a spectacle of endless torchlight processions. Thousands of Indians sing native chants and perform native dances.

6—Epiphany is the day on which children throughout Latin America receive their presents, though the custom of Christmas gift-giving is spreading. In Popayan, Colombia, a classical miracle play is performed; another, in Cuzco, Peru is markedly Indian.

6—At Montevideo, Uruguay, the biggest horse race of the year is run. In this international competition, Argentine and Brazilian colors are represented.

13-23—Patron Feast Day of San Sebastian in Puerto Rico. Parades, dancing in public squares.

15—Feast of Black Christ of Esquipulas, Guatemala. One of the most famous of Guatemalan festivals, attended by pilgrims from all over the country and from Mexico. The miraculous statue, carved in 1595, is dressed in gold-embroidered white satin and laden with jewels. The church is immense.

15-30—International Auto Racing season in Argentina. The world's outstanding speed drivers converge on Buenos Aires to compete in three races, two of which count for the world's championship.

17—Day of St. Anthony of Padua. In Mexico, animals adorned with ribbons and flowers are brought to the churches to be blessed; typical ceremonies are at the Church of San Bernardino in Xochimilco and at Tlalpan, both near Mexico City.

20—A fiesta in the plaza Yungay in Santiago de Chile celebrates the anniversary of the Battle of Yungay in 1839, distinguished by the bravery of the rotos (literally, ragged ones). Name of the day is Dia del Roto Chileno or Day of the Chilean Vagabond.

24-26—Alacitas Fair, Bolivia. Held in the main square of La Paz, the capital, this fair honors Ekeko, the good-natured, pot-bellied Aymara god of prosperity. Booths abound with Indian crafts.

Far Off Places Common Names on Miami Beach

By HORACE SUTTON
Herald Travel Writer

SUTTON

MIAMI BEACH—No other civilization has done as much to change the face of the world as this settlement inhabiting the cement canyons of this island, a few yards off the southeast corner of Florida.

Places that were once thought to be located thousands of miles from here have suddenly turned up in this international outpost.

For instance, do you remember when Fontainebleau was a forest outside Paris? Eden Roc a playground off the French Riviera? The Sahara a desert in Africa inhabited by Beau Geste and Marlene Dietrich?

Miami has addled the atlas. Therefore, for those going south this winter we have prepared the Miami Migrant's Gazeteer and Guide to Local Place Names. For instance:

TANGIERS—Luxury resort motel, recommended by Duncan Hines, TV in every room, coffee shop, 230 feet of private beach. Eighty rooms, none with view of Gibraltar.

SAHARA — Camels and Arabs on front lawn are no mirage. Part of decorations. Actually located on Collins Avenue, surrounded by oases. Few Arabs inside.

SINGAPORE — Oriental decorations could give you idea of being in Singapore. Actually at 96th St. and Bal Harbour. Included in Malayan atmosphere is a Charm School for Teenagers held in the Rock 'n Roll Room.

SUEZ — Located on the ocean at 182nd St. Can't miss it. Big Sphinx on lawn. Inside visit the Pyramid Game Room; Desert Oasis Coffee Shop; also Tut-Tut Cocktail Lounge presumably named for King Tut-Tut.

DAKAR—70-room motel on South Ocean Boulevard. Only a short drive to Gulfstream Park, the dog track, and the jai alai fronton. Also just 5,674 miles across the Atlantic from Dakar, French West Africa.

WAIKIKI — 100 per cent air-conditioned motel on the beach, swimming pool, free parking, sea view. Many views of Diamond Heads, also minkbacks.

BALI — ditto, less Aloha lounge.

TAHITI—Motel with South Sea atmosphere. View of sea and outstretched palms.

MANDALAY—Motel where the flying herrings play. Dawn comes up out of Hialeah across the bay.

BARCELONA — 250-room hotel, 43rd to 44th St., Miami Beach. Not to be confused with seacoast city in Spain. Has mural of bull goring a picador in lobby. Also Bravo Bar and Lounge, Flamenco Room, Don Quixote Coffee Shop, Granada Dining Room.

ANKARA — Motel at 23rd St. in heart of Miami Beach. Sightseeing boats park in front. However, none sail the Bosporus. Swimming pool, 90 rooms, all with Turkish bath.

MONTMARTRE — New hotel in French section of Miam Beach. Has Bon Jour Cafe Les Girls Supper Club, Mon signore Dining Room. Serve drinks in the Bardot Bar.

With all these foreign ele ments crowding the beach clear up to the Georgia bor der, it was essential to estab lish some sort of ambassado rial headquarters.

Fortunately, this was ac complished this season with the opening of the Diplomat Hotel and Country Club, a $2 million embassy at Hollywood by-the-Sea, north of Miam Beach. Covering 400 acres this cantonment stretche from the Atlantic across t the inland waterway.

The hotel practices peacefu co-existence. Guests from th West can use all the faciliti of the East. And West-versa.

Vacations Spaced Around Calendar

By SYLVIA PORTER

And now, just as I return to home base and a New York dateline, what useful hints can I give you about taking a vacation in Europe yourself in the off-season months?

SYLVIA

Every year additional millions of us shift to fall-winter holidays; more and more corporations are spreading employe vacations over 12 months. Travel to Europe smashed all records in 1958, is heading for new peaks in 1959. A European vacation is now within the time and budget limits of vast numbers of middle-income American families.

What about going abroad at this time of year, then? After a four weeks' holiday spent in Spain and Portugal, I've come up with some positive pros and cons. For your future guidance, here they are:

FIRST, THE ADVANTAGES:

(1) Going off-season is impressively cheaper.

When Charles S. Thomas, president of Trans World Airlines, told me the day before we left that, "The smartest dollar stretchers today are the poeple who take late fall or winter vacations in Europe," I reported his remark to you, but I had no personal experience to confirm it. Now I can back it up with persuasive statistics.

Not only did we save $300 on our round-trip airline tickets alone by going at this time of year, but we also saved substantially on hotel rooms, auto rental, etc. We stayed at the finest hotels at rates that would have paid for only second-class accommodations in season.

As the manager of our hotel in Granada, Spain, put it with disarming frankness, "I'm charging you the normal rate for your room now. This is the time we get the 'good' tourists."

(2) It's a chinch to get around and you can see in comfort what you came to see.

In Toledo, Spain, we were among only about a dozen people visiting the church in which El Greco's greatest masterpiece (Burial of Count Orgaz) hangs. "I couldn't get you in here in the spring or summer," said our guide. "You'd have to wait in line for hours."

In Jerez, we spent two hours on a leisurely tour of the city's world-famous sherry wine cellars, and while we were sampling the product at the end of our visit our host remarked, "In the season, hundreds of people try to get into these cellars every day. They can only get a glimpse of them."

And in Portugal we were able to get rooms in tiny inns and converted castles without advance notice. But, said the manager of the castle in the walled city of Obidos, "We already have reservations for 1959's season." And so it was on the roads, in the stores. You can drive, shop, sip, sightsee in ease.

(3) You meet the natives, not just other American tourists.

When you're tourists in lands new to you, there's not much point in spending all your hours with folks from home. The chances are you would do this in season, though, because other Americans would be visiting the same places.

But off-season you meet the natives of the lands, and we found it exhilarating to try to learn how they live, what they think, and to attempt to converse in Spanish and Portuguese.

(4) The service is superb.

The reason is obvious. The people have more time to give the service.

THE DISADVANTAGES? SURE, THERE ARE TWO BIG ONES.

(1) This is known as off-season because the weather if off-season.

In most of Spain and Portugal the weather is similar to that in New York in November — hardly what the seeker of the sun would want. You don't go swimming outdoors in Manhattan now, and you don't go swimming outdoors on the "sunny coasts" of Spain and Portugal now, either.

(2) You miss many events that usually attract the tourist.

We didn't see a bullfight in Spain or Portugal or witness the spectacular festivals of these countries because these aren't the months for bullfights and festivals. My reaction to this was one of indifference, because what we did see was enough for me — but you might not feel the same way about it.

Would we go to Europe again in the off-season months? With delight—which summarizes how I appraise the pros and cons.

No Returns Easier to Select

Where Have You Been That You'd Like to Go?

By DAVID M. NICHOL
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NICHOL

FERRING-ON-SEA, England — Where have we been, that we would most like to go again?

In complete honesty, it would be much easier, and require much less space to list the places to which I hope never to return. I can't think of any that I would write off absolutely.

But a favorite above all others?

Except in any given moment of time, it would be almost impossible to say. Tomorrow's choice probably would differ from today's, and next year's almost certainly would differ from both of them.

The fact that one may go in search of these changing goals and often find them is the very core and fascination of travel as such.

We once spent a lazy and delightful month on the Spanish island of Mallorca. It would be no chore at all to stretch this into a year, if it were possible.

During the war I spent a few hours on a jungle landing strip in the heart of Africa at a place with the improbable name of Bumba on the middle reaches of the Congo.

For reasons I would find difficult to explain to anyone (include myself) I would like to go back.

Perhaps it's a hangover from a boyhood reading of Stanley's travels. It was somewhere near Bumba that he found David Livingstone.

Some of the things I want to see again require only a few seconds — if one is sufficiently lucky. Driving South in Italy after the war we came around a bend in the hills north of Florence as the sun was sinking.

The sandstone city in its cup of hills was jewel-like in the slanting rays. For only moments it had a shimmering opalescence that was breathtaking in its beauty. It faded as we watched.

* * *

TWO OR THREE times during our stay we drove back up the hills in the late afternoon, hoping to catch this fleeting instant again.

We haven't managed it. It's as elusive as the Alpine glow, and just as spectacular.

This year, for a variety of personal reasons, we wanted genuine peace and quiet, and we have found it in a seaside cottage only an hour and a half from London by comfortable train.

Income tax and the occasional whistle of a fighter patrolling the English channel are almost the only ties that Ferring has with a disturbed and worried world that begins a few hundred yards from here.

I would plunk for Ferring again in similar circumstances. If we should return, there is a long and varied list of things I would like to do. Nelson's flagship, the victory, lies at anchor in nearby Portsmouth. I would like to see it.

In the other direction is the battlefield of Hastings, which had a great deal to do with the present complexion of our world. And there is a delightful supper club in Worthing I would like to join.

No one with normal curiosity learns all there is to know about a people or a place the first time he encounters them. The standard tourist's three or four days in Rome or Paris can be little more than a reconnaissance.

The next time he can be more selective, and probably will want to stay longer.

* * *

I'VE BEEN visiting and working in London at intervals since 1942 and I still have to see the Ewer except from its exterior. Something always seems to intervene, but one day I will manage it.

Somewhat similarly I can have only sadness for those whose cathedral tours have taken them to Chartres on a dull day. The sun through its stained glass is worth any number of trips.

If one's heart is set on something, its achievement repays an enormous amount of trouble. One of Soctt's companions on his tragic Antarctic expedition about half a century ago, set out on a subsidiary voyage of research and exploration.

One of its objects was to learn something about the King Penguin, then an almost unknown species, and to bring back some of its eggs.

Safely back in London Aspley-Goddard wrote a vivid account. It was titled, without much exaggeration, as "The Worst Journey in the World."

Was it worth it? People wanted to know. I can't give you his answer precisely, because some well-meaning friend has pinched my copy, and it is now out of print.

But the general tenor was that of course it was worth it, if what one really wants is a penguin's egg.

I hope every traveler can have his own "penguin's egg," no matter how inexplicable it may be to others.

What others think in this case doesn't matter.

January Finds Florida in Full Operation

Visitors arriving in Florida during January will find the winter season in full swing at the state's resort centers with entertainment of every type offered.

Florida sun followers can choose between dog and horse racing, jai alai, county fairs, the colorful Epiphany Festival at Tarpon Springs, water ski shows, boat races, golf, polo and tennis.

The list is long and diversified and many of the state's hotels and motels offer impressive entertainment programs of their own for visitors.

No Florida visitor need ever find himself in a quandary as to what to do. In addition to a crowded calendar of events, the state's vast park system, with parks located in every section of Florida, offers activities for everyone, such as fishing, boating, nature trails, picnicking and bird watching.

Wildlife fanciers may take advantage of the National Audubon Society's five tour schedule offering trips to Everglades National Park, Corkscrew Swamp Sanctuary, Fisheating Creek and Brighton Indian Reservation and tours in the Keys.

The Festival of the Epiphany at Tarpon Springs next Tuesday, is a colorful religious ceremony. Participants, dressed in highly ornamented costumes proceed to Spring Bayou where a golden cross is thrown into the waters. Youths of the community dive for the cross and the retriever has a traditional year of good luck and receives the blessings of the head of the church.

Dog racing tracks are located near all resorts. Opening dog racing dates include Biscayne Kennel Club, Miami, Feb. 27-June 2; Bonita-Fort Myers, Jan. 2-April 18; Orange Park Kennel Club, near Jacksonville, April 13-June 2; Palm Beach Kennel Club, West Palm Beach, Jan. 2-April 20; Sarasota Kennel Club, Sarasota, Feb. 16-June 2; and St. Petersburg Kennel Club, St. Petersburg, Jan. 2-April 18.

Closing dates for dog racing tracks already under way include Associated Outdoors Clubs, Tampa, Feb. 14; Broward County Kennel Club, Hollywood, April 1; Jacksonville Kennel Club, Jacksonville April 11; Key West Kennel Club, Key West, March 28; Miami Beach Kennel Club, Miami Beach, April 16; Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club, at Longwood, March 30; and West Flagler Kennel Club, Miami, on Feb. 2.

The county fairs offer something different from usual resort activity. Hitting the sawdust trail is a popular Florida pastime for visitors.

January fairs include DeSoto County Fair and Livestock Exposition, Jan. 13-18, at Arcadia; Pasco County Fair, Jan. 14-17, at Dade City; Palm Beach County Fair, Jan. 23-31, at West Palm Beach; Manatee County Fair, Jan. 26-31, at Palmetto; and Southeast Florida and Dade County Youth Show at Miami Jan. 29.

Florida horse racing tracks are not far away from resort headquarters. Starting dates for horse racing tracks include Hialeah, Jan. 16-March 3; Gulfstream, March 4-April 22; and Sunshine Park, Jan. 23-March 24. Racing at Tropical Park is under way and concludes Jan. 15. Opening date for the trotting track at Bayard, near Jacksonville, is Feb. 20-April 11.

Activity at jai alai frontons at Miami, Tampa, Dania and West Palm Beach is under way and the closing date for all frontons is April 10.

Fresh and salt water fishing in Florida waters is popular with visitors. Not only are the fish more numerous in the state's waters, but fishing is year round. Winter fishing tourneys are held all over the state.

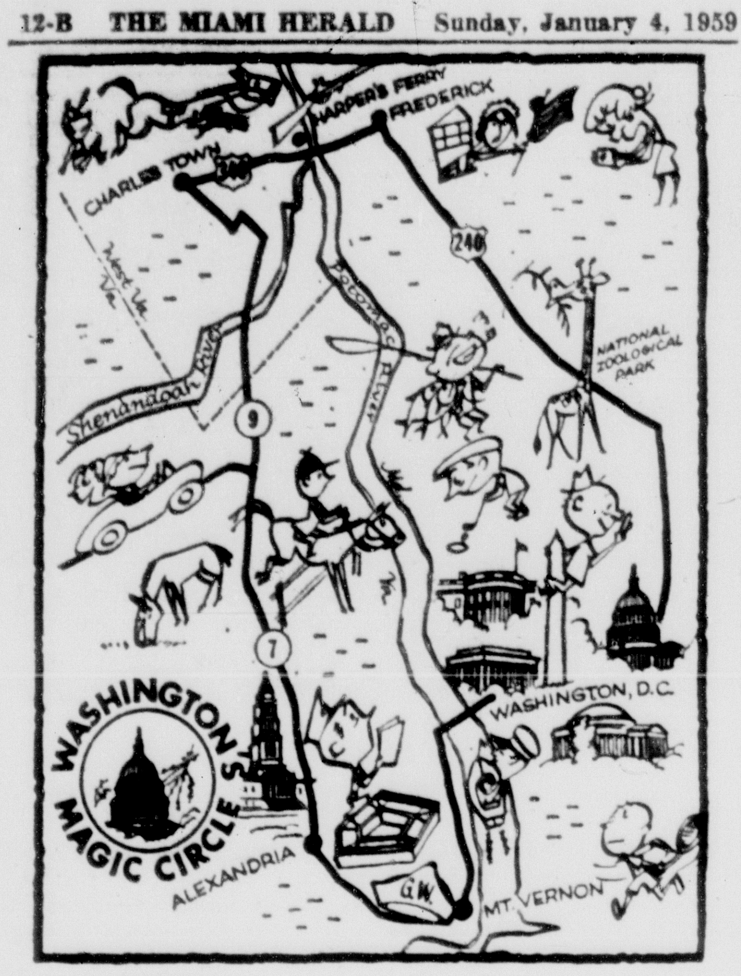
Golfing fans have three tournaments from which to choose in January. Golf tourneys to be held will be the St. Petersburg New Year's Invitational Golf Tournament, Jan. 7-11; the Annual Suncoast Senior Men's Golf Tournament on Jan. 13-17; and Hollywood's Women's International Amateur Four-Ball Tourney, on Jan. 29-Feb. 21.

Palm Beach polo will be held Jan. 4 and Jan. 11, with polo at Boca Raton scheduled for Jan. 4 through April 26.

At Tampa, the Dixie International Tennis Championships will be held Jan. 5-11. The Miami Beach International Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Club Matches will begin Dec. 31 and conclude Jan. 4.

Lakeland offers a water ski show to be held Jan. 11 and 25, Feb. 8 and 22, and March 8 and 22.

Florida is the spot for a relaxing vacation, wonderful accomodations and numerous winter sports.



MAGIC CIRCLE tour from the nation's capital starts at Washington Monument and continues to such free-world landmarks as the Capitol, Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials and the White House. Across the Potomac is the home of George Washington at Mt. Vernon, the Washington National Memorial in Alexandria and the Pentagon Building.

Hotel Awakens Sleepy Salvador

By ETHEL TOMBRINK
Herald Travel Writer

Just as a new coiffure can change a woman, a hotel can change a city. So with the new El Salvador Intercontinental, the once sleepy Central American capital San Salvador is becoming cosmopolitan.

ETHEL

Few travelers, other than business men making necessary stops, dallied here as they went country hopping through Central America, due to insufficient first class accommodations. But now more and more travelers pause a few days in this land of lakes and volcanoes.

The new resort-type hotel, is changing the way of life of elite Salvadoreans, too. As a change from entertaining at home or at private clubs, they are using the hotel's facilities for dinner, luncheon or splash parties.

Businessmen drop in for a snack. Women meet here for coffee before a morning of shopping and groups gather of an afternoon for cocktails.

With little other night life in San Salvador, couples often drop in for a last dance or a night cap at the smart supper club at the hotel.

"We get a chance to mix more, see more people here than just going to private clubs. It's more cosmopolitan," . . . This came from one of the women in a group with the First Lady of El Salvador, Dona Coralia Parraga de Lemus.

The First Lady and a group of friends and government officials were meeting there one evening for cocktails and dinner, planning a performance of the ballet to benefit the Division de Menores (which aids miners — infants to 18 years), founded by the First Lady.

Open last spring the hotel is the largest in Central America. It's just 10 minutes from the city and 20 minutes from the airport.

Set on a hill, the hotel commands a panoramic view of of the Salvadorean capital on one side, with the green slopes of an inactive volcano forming a backdrop on the other.

Besides the resort life at the hotel, there's plenty of sightseeing to do in and around San Salvador. Drives through the rolling countryside, past coffee plantations to beautiful lakes such as Lake Coatapeque, where a number of Salvadoreans have summer homes. Set in a ring of mountains, the lake offers fishing, swimming and water skiing.

To La Libertad, the Pacific port where the volcanic sand is black and glareless. Or to one of the many volcanoes, El Salvador's scenic trademark. Most of the volcanos are now extinct.

The most famous active volcano, Izalce, is known as the Lighthouse of the Pacific. It's now laying down on the job, however, but when it's in action, it erupts every 15 to 20 minutes. One of the favorite tourist trips is a late afternoon drive to a neighboring hill to watch the fireworks of Izalce by night.

A Barbados Harbor Policeman

. . . will pose for camera fan

Barbados Policemen Colorful

Special To The Herald

A sight guaranteed to make any tourist reach for his camera is his first glimpse of a Barbados Harbor Policeman. Garbed in their colorful uniform of straw hat, white drill jumper with blue neckerchief and blue bellbottom trousers, the policemen are modern reminders of the days when Lord Nelson himself was a Caribbean tourist.

Visitors have found these guardians extremely friendly, and literally hundreds of thousands of photographs of them have been taken since Barbados became a popular tourist port of call. Although they are constantly on duty patrolling the Careenage in their rowboats, the policemen always find a moment to provide a camera "bug" with a picture or two.

Many theories have arisen as to the origin of the unique uniform. One of the most popular is that in an effort to display their loyalty to England at the height of the first World War, Barbadians chose this costume because it most closely resembled the dress of the sailors of Admiral Nelson's time.

Nelson has always been close to the hearts of the Barbadians. The island was his last port of call before his death, as well as a stopping-off port on his way to the Battle of Trafalgar.

Several other reminders of Nelson's role in Barbados' history may be seen throughout the island. One of the outstanding is the bronze statue of the admiral created by the English sculptor, Sir Richard Westmacott. Erected in 1813, this statue stands in the main square of Bridgetown named after the British naval hero.

The attachment of the Barbadians to their "Nelsonian" history was clearly demonstrated a few years ago when the Commissioner of Police attempted to change the uniform of the Harbor Police.

So many protests were made that the idea was abandoned, and thousands of grateful tourists are still snapping away at the colorful "cops."

Only Hawaiians At This School

Kamehameha School, founded by a Hawaiian princess, has one main requisite for its pupils: they must have some Hawaiian blood in them to attend. The school is located on landscaped grounds high in a tropical park, affording a view of the city from Diamond Head to Pearl Harbor.

Still an Onion

The name scallion for an onion derives from the ancient Palestinian city of Ascalon.

Desert Resorts Have Visitors

Visitors at desert resorts around Phoenix and the Valley of the Sun often catch close-up glimpses of the region's animal and bird life as such denizens as roadrunners, quail, jackrabbits and tiny ground squirrels become temporary "guests."

Mountain Chain In the Atlantic

The Atlantic Ocean hides the world's mightiest range of mountains, winding beneath the cold waters from Antarctica to the Arctic. Although peaks of the submerged chain average 10,000 feet, only the loftiest pinnacles emerge as islands above the sea.

Nightlife with George Bourke

Club Honors Joe E. Brown at Lauderdale This Week

CIRCUS SAINTS and Sinners Club of Pompano Beach will honor Comedy Star Joe E. Brown and Mrs. Brown, at an installation dinner at Governor's Club Hotel in Fort Lauderdale next Saturday. Al Deutsch's music and the attendees can only hope that Joe will do that marvelous commercial on the substitute for "you-know-what!" . . . Buddi Satan's keyboarding has been replaced at Saints and Sinners Lounge (no kin) on Coral Way in Miami by the organ stylings of Juanita. Satan moved to El Patio.

Remember Gene Carey, a college thespian at University of Miami a half dozen years ago? He's movie star Philip Carey now, as almost every local knows. Disney's "Tonka" is his latest film. But did you know he's also developed into a golfer of some skill? Shoots in 70's regularly.

Add predictions of the future: Bob Hope fears television will develop a race of "square-eyeballed" people . . . Variety refers to those roof cafes — like Saxony's Ivory Tower, and the Columbus, Biscayne-Terrace, DuPont-Plaza and Everglades Hotel restaurants as Rye-in-the-Sky resorts . . . Frank Capra may be back in Our Beautiful Town again with "A Hole in the Head." He's agreed to go out on the road with it when it is released.

Newsstand and drug sundry store operators had better check the fire insurance. Fawcett-Gold Medal bought the paperback rights to "Lolita" for $100,000 . . . And good news for the lazy amateur song writers is that Crown Publishers will issue Larry Holofcener's Rhyming Dictionary for Songwriters in the spring. Which shows Crown knows good timing.

* * *

Is Peace Too Controversial?

THE DAY before the fall of Batista, the Miami Herald relayed news of a pastorial plea issued by Msgr. Enrique Perez Serantes of Cuba, a Roman Catholic clergyman, in which he called for action by the entire Cuban nation in the cause of peace.

"Enough of civil war!" he declared. "Cubans are now devoted to the task of killing Cubans with impunity. The destruction of property is on the increase. With peace, nothing is lost. With war all can be lost."

It's a good thing the Monsignor wasn't writing for television. His plea would have been called too controversial! Last April, after close contract with the Cuban situation we wrote a teleplay, "A Blow for Armando." Our agent thought it good enough to send to a top production set-up. It came back, after two months or so of study, marked "subject too hot."

* * *

Why 'Too Hot to Handle?'

THE CLIMAX of our story was the killing of the patriot Armando, by what side it is not known. A bloodthirsty American writer views the bullet-riddled body and becomes sick. His army friend acquaintance taunts: "But isn't that what you wanted—blood? Bloody victory I think you called it."

"But that (the slain man) was my friend," he pleads.

"Every bloody corpse was once somebody's friend," the army man replies. "The blood always looks redder when it is the blood of a friend." Then there is a discussion about which side did the deed.

"Does it make any difference to him whose finger was on the trigger? . . . in the final analysis it was a little bit the work of every Cuban, especially those whose complacency allowed this situation to be born. The guilt is national. I am a soldier. I sought that career to defend Cuba against aggressors. But I have been called upon to fight only other Cubans."

And the final lines plead, even as did Msgr. Perez Serantes: ". . . There is just so much blood a country can safely lose. But even more precious a resource for a country is the idea of love of freedom for which men are willing to shed that blood. This idea itself will never die and in the end there will be no more need for shedding of blood — for an idea, when it is good, will eventually triumph, even over the most seemingly insurmountable forces of power."

That was our fade-out. Mebbe it was too hot a topic for television — in April, May or June. But in substance it is what the monsignor said in December — and what we fervently hope the current powers in Havana believe. Wonder if Abner Greshler, was handling it, might not now resubmit "A Blow for Armando" to Desilu. It couldn't hurt anybody's toes now! The toes are too busy running!

Borgnine to Play Boris Morros

LYDA FAIRBANKS will do her singing in the Living Room, a swank New York spot starting Feb. 23 . . . Lilo, current Diplomat Cafe Cristal headliner, goes to Caribe Hilton in San Juan in April . . . Sophie Tucker, who just finished a wow engagement at the Latin Quarter due at New Orleans Roosevelt Jan. 22 . . . Ernest Borgnine will be the screen Boris Morros . . . Our guesses on the identity of the subject for February "This Is Your Life" program to originate here would be a well-known ex-sports figure, an English producer or male show star of great magnitude. Or Judy Garland? She'll be at the Fountainebleau starting Feb. 17.

Oops. We followed the billing for spelling the name of Abbe Lane dancing-singing aide at the Deauville when it should have been Vitorio! He's teamed with Don de Natale . . . Among acts that are clicking so big they've been paced to holdover are: pianist Maurice Rocco at El Patio, through Jan. 22; the entire Sid Kuller-Selma Marlowe "A Rag, a Bone and a Ponytail" revue at the Americana Bal Masque; Guy Rennie at the Bar of Music, and Steve Gibson and the Red Caps at Ciro's. Alan Gale closed there Saturday night but will be back on Jan. 27 . . . Joe Cohen is breaking so many records at Luau that he can joke about it. He says he broke another one last night—dropped a Lawrence Welk album! . . . Drummer Flea Madden and Angie Gillette turning in a Cavalcade of Sports-sharp musical job at the Bird Bowl.

Jack Kofoed Says

Miamian Flew Veal To Princess Grace

When the swallows homeward fly,
Be it bourbon, gin or rye,
Have a care if you are driving,
Better far to curb your thirst
Than be coming home feet first.
—C. A. Jensen

VICTOR BIDONE flew a refrigerator full of veal rollantine to Philadelphia for Princess Grace's party . . . Denise Darcel will be the first star of Les Girls Room in the Montmartre, when the hostelry opens Jan. 23 . . . that new entertainment mag, "Beachcomber," is edited by ex-newspaperman, Al Leslie . . . Stan Klim, who mixes drinks at the Castaways, says aging roues should order Geritol on the rocks instead of bourdon.

Princess Grace . . . must

Lou Farber . . . mirth

I can't understand why some lounge owner hasn't hooked Lou Farber, former bantamweight boxing star and hilarious story teller, as a host . . . If you haven't been fooled by Magic Rudy's card tricks, done at the table right under your nose at Old Scandia, you've missed one of the best prestidigitation acts, anywhere. . . Jack Carter, starring at the Fountainebleau, is the best utility man in show business. He can replace almost any stage, TV, or night club star without missing a beat . . . Pete Peterson, sparkplug of the old Vagabonds, is better than ever in the Tambourine Room of the Carillon.

Art and Dotty Todd, who entertain in the Bamboo Room of the Roney Plaza, have sold more than 2,000,000 platters of their "Chanson D'Amour" recording . . . Though it won't happen, because they play at different jai alai frontons, I'd like to see front court man Alex, of Dania, team with back court man Churruca, of Miami. What a pair they'd make!

Hotel's Best Move

NIG STEIN once owned the Esquire, which is now Wally's Clover Club, and was a big night time operator. Currently, Nig, whom you feel just stepped out of a Damon Runyon story, is a floor captain at Ciro's.

Palate pleasers: Strawberry tarts, with the world's biggest strawberries and a bucket of whipped cream at Nick and Arthur's . . . Boned Cantonese duck at Al Goldman's Fu Manchu . . . A half dozen of Don Julio's Mexican dishes, which I like, but can't pronounce . . . Maryland crab at Mike Gordon's . . . Stonecrabs at Joe's . . . The best pot roast I've eaten since mom made it, at the Bonfire.

The Saxony's best move of the year, booking Gracie Barrie . . . That young man with a horn, Jerry Marshall, in the Jolson Corner at the Crown, graduated from the University of Miami recently.

Though Al Fortini, maitre d' at Gallagher's, doesn't get through until 5 in the morning, he'll make a 9 o'clock golfing date, and still play in the 70's . . . Though the beauties at the Latin Quarter catch the eye, Sophie Tucker has a monopoly on all ears . . . I don't know how long Frank Carroll and Johnny Gorman have been dittying, but I caught them at Mother Kelly's before the war. They're now at the Martinique.

* * *

Diosa's Funniest

THE SID KULLER-Jerry Fielding material Diosa Costello handles in the '59 edition of "Havana Mardi Gras" is the funniest in her career . . . When Lou Rubin, who owns Chandler's Fan and Bill's, opened his first sandwich shop, he didn't even know how to make a Western sandwich. Within a few years he had a chain of 15 eateries.

Louis Banfi, maitre d' at the Ivanhoe, gave up auto racing for the dining room. Louis thinks the Thunderbird is the best sports car in the world, which will infuriate foreign car manufacturers . . . Charlie Farrell, raconteuring at Gray's Inn, will play Broward County sheriff in the one of "Stakeout" TV series being filmed here.

Bonnie Davis, with the Picadilly Pipers at the Clover Club, doubles in brass as homemaker as well as a singer. Wife of Clem Moorman, who tickles the ivories for the Pipers, she has six children, who all croon melodies. With such musical parents, why not?

Familiar faces back in familiar places: maitre d' Marcel at the Deauville, and singer Ruth Palmer at the Ivanhoe . . . About as blonde an eyeful as you can imagine, Pat Darling in the Peep Show Room of the Copa.

Week's New Entertainment

MOVIES

RALLY ROUND THE FLAG, BOYS—Joanne Woodward, Paul Newman, and Joan Collins co-star in film version of Max Schulman's best-selling novel about what happens to a small New England town when the Army moves in to establish a base. In color at the Carib, Miami and Miracle Saturday.

Hollywood Pops to Play

The newly organized Hollywood Philharmonic Pops Orchestra will present its second concert at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the Young Circle Amphitheater in Hollywood.

Jan Wolanek, musical director of the series, will conduct a program featuring the music of Victor Herbert, Leroy Anderson, Fritz Kreisler, Waldteufel and others.

Soloists will be Luella Franks, soprano, and Claudio Frigerio, baritone, who will sing solos and duets.

One Opening This Week

Ringling, Two Other Circuses Miami-Bound

The Circuses Are Coming!

That's right. Plural. Three different circuses, to suit just about every taste and pocketbook, will be in the Miami area in the first few weeks of January.

KELLY

The Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus will roll into the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall on Jan. 23 for a 10-day stand.

The Great American Circus, produced by David B. Endy Productions, will set up at Tropical Park race track on Friday, Jan. 16, for a three-day showing under auspices of the Junior Museum Guild.

And more immediately, the Cristiani Brothers Circus will move into the lot at N.W. 12th Avenue and 14th St. on Friday morning of this week for a run through Jan. 18 under the sponsorship of the Jim Dooley Fishing Club.

Proceeds will be used to subsidize Dooley's activities for youngsters. Pre-circus headquarters are in the Biscayne Plaza Hotel, 314 Biscayne Boulevard.

Emmett Kelly, famous clown will appear for five days of the run, according to Al Lange, a Dooley associate.

A feature of the circus, which will give performances at 3 and 8 p.m. daily will be a parade from the Flagler St. bridge down Flagler to Biscayne Boulevard and thence to Fifth St.

Kelly is expected to participate in the parade, which will feature what the sponsors call "a million dollar collection of wild animals." The Raydell Flyers, Hollywood Aerial Ballet, Manuel Barragon and the Renaults are also billed.

The Great American circus will give three shows daily, at 2, 4 and 8 p.m. Proceeds of the events will be used in maintaining the museum and its planetarium, but the prices are so nominal that the circus itself might be termed a Junior Museum project.

Among the acts to be seen at Tropical will be Prof. George Keller's Jungle Killers, Celeste, aerialist, the Simro Duo, the Flying Hartzells, the Hartorse and the Two Linares, in addition to lions, tigers, jaguars and a black leopard.

The Ringling Circus will be presented in four parts.

THE SHOW SEASON will soon be enhanced by another Lindsay-Crouse attraction. This is how their hit parade began: Back in 1934, Lindsay submitted a musical to producer Vinton Freedley. It concerned gay goings-on aboard a ship during a fire. Unfortunately the day Freedley received the script the Morro Castle maritime disaster hit the headlines. Lindsay agreed to salvage the show, provided Freedley could obtain a collaborator. The producer called in Russel Crouse. The result was the click, "Anything Goes."

What makes a star? Talent is important, of course. Equally vital is driving ambition. Roz Russell is equipped with both qualities. Her ambition was the consequence of a wise father's decision . . . He died when she was 19, leaving an estate of a half-million dollars and a provision that his children get all the education they wanted, but no support for three years after graduation. Miss Russell says with admiration: "He didn't want us to sit around waiting for some husband to drop by and support us. A very smart fella." Right-t.

A GIRL can become a star — but to her parents she is always a little girl. Pat Suzuki emerged as a star in "The Flower Drum Song." Time mag quotes Miss Suzuki's 66-year-old father: "Pat have very very sweet voice when she little girl. I like better her singing when young."

Frank Lovejoy, Wife Rehearsing 'Hole in Head'

Week Brings Youngman, Eckstine, Pinky Lee

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

The marquee lights will be off at the Coconut Grove Playhouse most of this week but there'll be considerable activity both in its boxoffice department and backstage as the George Engle organization gets ready to launch its regular season after a premiere run of Tennessee Williams' "Period of Adjustment," which is being held-over through Wednesday night.

Frank Lovejoy, star of radio, television, screen and stage, and his wife, Joan Banks Lovejoy, are already in town and perfecting performances in Arnold Schulman's "A Hole in the Head."

"A Hole in the Head," tale of a Miami Beach hotel operator, will open a two-week run a week from this Monday.

Elsewhere on the nightlife front the situation will remain at its scintillating status quo, as only a handful of shows will bring in new or additional talent.

Foremost among the changes in bills will be those of Henny Youngman, following Lilo at the Diplomat Cafe Cristal on Friday. Pinky Lee, who takes over from Sophie Tucker as added attraction in Donn Arden's revue at E. M. Loew's Latin Quarter, and Billy Eckstine, who'll open at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii on Wednesday, with the Ballet Moulin Rouge holding over.

The Deauville Cavalcade Theater's line-up of free star shows for Lansburgh Hotel guests will be Tony Martin, tonight; Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane, Tuesday and the Four Aces on Thursday.

Owen Phillips will direct "A Hole in the Head," the first of the Coconut Grove Playhouse's program of 10 plays. Lovejoy's association with Phillips has been a long one, since Lovejoy was given a boost at the start of his career by an engagement at the Barter Theater with which Phillips was associated.

Since Stanley Kramer brought him out to Hollywood for "Home of the Brave," Lovejoy has appeared in many movies, including "Julie," "Three Brave Men," "Sound of Fury" and "Strategic Air Command."

His wife, Joan, was in "Private Secretary" with Ann Sothern for three years and has been in such movies as "Mister Cory" and "My Pal Gus." "A Hole in the Head," as it will be played at the Playhouse, concerns a Jewish family. This circumstanee was changed to an Italian family for the Sinatra screen version.

Disc Design Is Miamian's

A piano recording for use by modern dance instructors, recently released in New York, has a local implication.

The recording, a series of 25 studies by Sarah Malament of the physical education department of Hunter College, New York, has a jacket design by Eugenie Schein, Miami painter and modern dance instructor. It is called "Improvisations for Modern Dance."

When she taught dance at Hunter College, Miss Schein's classes were accompanied by Miss Malament.

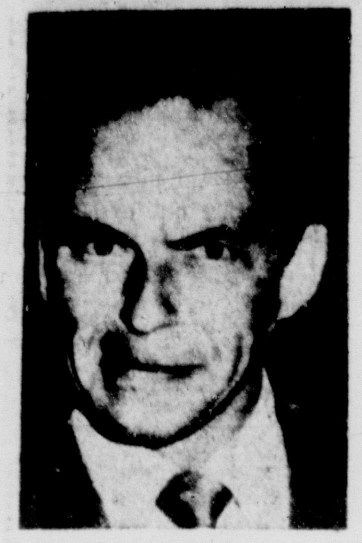
What Makes Frankie Fight?—I

Sleeping Is a Waste of Time, Sinatra Claims



Frank Sinatra
. . . an Army of One

This is the first of five articles on Frank Sinatra, whose warmth of song has charmed millions yet whose pugnaciousness has made almost as many enemies.

By SCOTT LAWRENCE

The world of Frank Sinatra is a battlefield. He functions as an Army of One with the audacity of Napoleon, the rampant indignation of Donald Duck and the pugnacity of a Dead End Kid.

More often, however, his fury is sparked by pure unreasoning ferocity. In such instances, he gives the impression of a man grappling with youthful ghosts.

Enigma of Sinatra

One of Sinatra's associates told us: "Frank is a tiger. He'll fight anything. He'll fight the whole world." In a deep sense, Sinatra's eagerness for combat is motivated by a civil war raging within himself.

He ignores the substance of a struggle in his willingness to battle with a shadow. Sinatra, the tiger, has the unfortunate habit of roaring loudly about issues which would hardly excite the aggressive instincts of a mosquito.

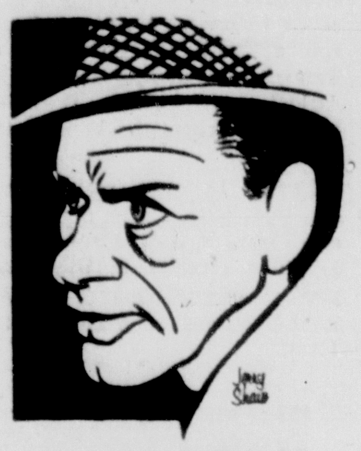
His combat record indicates that he has employed heavy artillery in situations which could be handled with nothing more potent than a putty blower.

According to the Freudians, the excessively aggressive are compensating for a sense of insecurity. Despite Sinatra's almost overpowering self-assurance, there is reason to believe that his cockiness is a cloak for insecurity. He once admitted that "every time I felt insecure I used to go out and get 10 more suits."

The accumulation of luxuries is calculated to inspire self-confidence. Expensive toggery, however, neither covers nor soothes the spirit. The seething discontent within Sinatra is common to many Golden Boys and Girls in show business. The heights cause dizzying sensations.

The truth is that success in show business is never permanently won. It is a triumph that must be gained almost every day. The problems and pressures have been intelligently and candidly explained by Sinatra:

"I do know it's terribly difficult to remain completely stable when you suddenly zoom from no place to where you're constantly surrounded by people pushing you in several directions. The money is always there when you want it, although you don't really know how much is there. Soon you get so confused you don't care."



'Frank's a Tiger'
. . . ten more suits

Sinatra is not the type of man who will accept pushing casually. He is a pusher himself. From the first, he has guided his career with almost meteor-like directness.

* * *

NOT LONG AGO he expressed his battle cry to an interview:

"My theory was to learn by trial and error. Not sing in the shower, but really operate. Execute!"

In the field of battle—professionally and personally—Sinatra really operates and executes with exclamation-point emphasis. The result is a firecracker personality that is popping in all directions.

The dramatic, occasionally violent incidents Sinatra has been involved in represent a throwback to his youthful struggles in the streets of Hoboken, N.J. He existed in a jungle neighborhood where survival depended on being wary of the wild life. Sinatra once wrote:

"If it hadn't been for my interest in music, I'd probably have ended in a life of crime."

His interest in music may have rescued him from a life of crime. Nevertheless, music's classic power to soothe the savage breast has not really operated effectively with Sinatra. To a certain degree, he remains untamed. The man who sings a ballad with silky charm retains the tough foundation of the Hoboken Kid.

Sinatra's explosive temper can be explained from the bare physical point of view. He is one of the original Night People. Sleeping, in his estimation, is a waste of time. "I enjoy seeing the sun come up," he says.

* * *

IT IS EASY to understand how a man who works and lives with such zest, while ignoring the opiate of sleep, can be ill-tempered. As a matter of fact, it is a wonder that Sinatra has survived the abuse he gives his pipe-cleaner torso.

Incidentally, his physical appearance is deceptive. Despite the emaciated look, Sinatra is rugged and wiry. His rigorous schedule has worn out associates who are far more physically impressive.

When someone inquired why Sinatra doesn't get more rest, a fellow performer explained: "For him, activity is a form of relaxation."

Unlike many others, Sinatra continues fighting even after winning a fight. In addition, his battling lacks discrimination. He will strike back at a pest in a night club with all the fire and fervor he directs against such massive problems as bigotry.

His dominant characteristic is probably his rigid independence. And his refusal to compromise is undoubtedly a source of numerous rhubarbs. He doesn't know the meaning of flexibility.

When friends try to offer counsel he will flare up: "Don't tell me! Suggest! But don't tell me!" One of his associates declares that "he often mistakes a suggestion for a command."

Independence, when stretched to an extreme, becomes a form of isolation. Sinatra is a rich and famous island surrounded by Sinatra—battling to retain his lonely position.

NEXT: Sinatra's war on the press.

Our master chefs love their work. For there is something very infatuating about our exotic dishes from the warm tropic islands of the Pacific that pacifies temperament without impairing artistry. Even the most cold-blooded of our clients have been known to lose their heads over such Cantonese delicacies as Chicken Lotus. Try it some time.

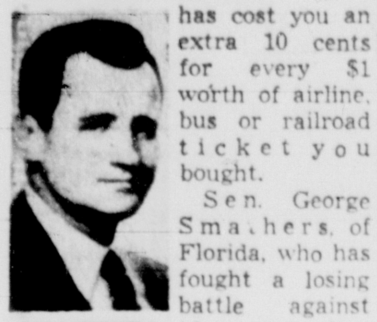
Smathers Sights End of Travel Tax

From Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—It looks as if this is the year for Congress to repeal the 10 per cent tax on domestic travel.

Ever since World War II it has cost you an extra 10 cents for every $1 worth of airline, bus or railroad ticket you bought.



SMATHERS

Sen. George Smathers, of Florida, who has fought a losing battle against the tax for years, came very close in 1958 and thinks he will make it this year.

Despite opposition from the White House, the Treasury Department and Senate leaders, Smathers won Senate approval for the measure late in the session.

Included in the Senate-approved bill was the repeal of the three per cent transportation tax on freight, also opposed by the administration.

House leaders compromised. They accepted repeal of the freight tax but refused to go along on the travel tax.

Smathers has argued that the travel tax, which brings in some $220 million a year, has long since served its purpose.

It was designed as a wartime measure to discourage civilian use of transportation facilities badly needed for the war effort.

This the tax did.

But Smathers, the transportation industry and many others can't understand why there should be anything to discourage travel in peacetime.

"This is not a tax relief measure," Smathers says in answering arguments that the government needs the money to help balance the budget.

Smathers says the purpose of repealing the tax is to stimulate business and remove another artificial obstacle toward economic progress.

The reasoning is that with an expected increase in business for the transportation industry when the tax is lifted, corporate earnings will rise and there will be bigger income tax payments to the treasury.

Smathers feels the Democratic sweep in the November congressional elections will give his bill enough votes to get through the House this year.

"We'll have a better chance this year than ever before," he says.

Jet Fighters Go to Italy

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. — (AP) — The 18 supersonic fighters of the 36th Tactical Fighter Squadron will make a nonstop transfer flight Jan. 13 from Myrtle Beach, S.C., Air Force Base to the Aviano Air Base, Italy.

Tactical Air Command headquarters said the squadron would be assigned on temporary duty in Italy for about four months. A spokesman said the move is part of a program to rotate units to overseas bases for orientation and training and is designed to test the flexibility and mobility of operations.

Tankers of the TAC air refueling squadrons will refuel the 18 North American F100 Supersabres over Bermuda and the Azores.

SPOT REDUCE

HIPS, THIGHS, TUMMY, WAIST

TAKE INCHES OFF WHERE YOU WANT THEM OFF—
THE Vibra-Slim "HOME SALON" WAY!

Select The Spot That Needs Slimming Most... Then Let Vibra-Slim Go To Work!

TUMMY, WAIST: Conditions, tones and exercises weak, inelastic muscles...helps tighten sagging skin. It's the pleasant "minutes a day" way to spot-reduce unsightly fatty deposits on your Vibra-Slim "home salon" reducing program...without starvation diets! Delightful tingling vibrations are so kitten soft...so whisper-quiet.

BACK, BUTTOCKS: Like a thousand busy fingers massaging you...blissful Vibra-Slim pulsations set fatty tissues into exercising, slenderizing motion, gives many times more massaging action than a professional rubdown. So soothing too...and how pleased you'll be as embarrassing bulges are whittled down the Vibra-Slim way...as excess layers of flesh are remolded into sleeker, smoother, more curvacious lines.

SPOT-MASSAGES YOU
3600 TIMES PER MINUTE!

HIPS, THIGHS, CALVES, UNDER KNEES, ARMS: You'll love the way Vibra-Slim's exclusive contour-shape home exerciser snugly fits around fleshy limbs and fatty layers... saturates sagging tissues with a delicious shower of purring pulsations. Excess flab seems to vanish away like magic on your safe, scientific Vibra-Slim spot-reducing program. You'll look inches slimmer...firmer, smoother too!

Like having a private reducing salon in your own home!

Yes, your first two weeks of daily slimming sessions with Vibra-Slim pays for the entire cost of the machine itself in money you save on salon fees.

Stretch Out Like a Pampered Princess And Slenderize While You Relax!

Vibra-Slim gives you the same spot-reducing benefits as the finest reducing salons ...and there are no appointments to make, no travel, no inconvenience. So luxurious, too! Just 15 minutes a day helps whisk unwanted inches away while you read, watch TV, even nap. And you'll be the proud owner of a marvelous "home salon" exerciser that the whole family can use and enjoy for years to come for invigorating body tone...penetrating deep massage... soothing relief for minor aches and pains ...healthful "exercise without effort!"

More effective in a few minutes than days of exhausting exercise

To get the merest idea of how much excess flabby tissue your Vibra-Slim exerciser can massage and manipulate in just one minute's time—do this: Just place both your hands on your waist, thighs or tummy...and gently rotate your hands.

Now imagine if you can, that this soothing manipulation is going on at the fantastic rate of 3600 times a minute...and you'll begin to understand how Vibra-Slim is so remarkably helpful in coaxing excess puffy flesh into taut, smooth lines so quickly! And remember, it is this speeded-up motion of your tissues...3600 times per minute that aids in fast, effective, spot reduction...that actually helps trim down the size of your measurements wherever it embarrasses you most! Your own measurements before and after starting your Vibra-Slim slenderizing program will dramatically prove that to you!

Every conceivable advantage of the finest salon methods is yours with Vibra-Slim. Along with your machine you also get a generous supply of Vibra-Slim's safe, proven appetite satients for lowering your caloric intake without special diets of any kind whatever.

Remember, Vibra-Slim goes to work directly on the cause of your "Fatty Problem Spots"— helps to firm and tighten while you relax.

So now is it any wonder why the Vibra-Slim method can actually accomplish in just a few days what exhausting exercise can only accomplish in weeks, even months. Or why it's more efficient than a professional rubdown in an expensive salon. Remember, no two hands...or even a dozen, can possibly put so many of your tissues into scientific slimming motion at once. Best of all, you'll know as the minutes fly by that you're creating a newer, lovelier you... that each luxurious flexing-vibration is molding you toward perfection and that its magic slimming-action is helping to take years off your figure as you arise refreshed, alive, glowing, stimulated!

Exclusive contour shape fits any part of your body.

Data's Fine If Corrected

By NIXON SMILEY
Herald Farm and Garden Editor

EVERY YEAR AT THIS TIME we receive from the National Garden Bureau in Chicago the first of a series of press releases for use by garden editors throughout the country.

The information is good, but one must be careful in applying it to South Florida. For the material was prepared for use in most of the country where snow is lying on the ground now or where frost is almost a daily occurrence.

However, we have been receiving and reading this service for years, and have gained a lot from it.

But we have revised the material some in order to apply it to our own South Florida conditions.

For one thing, the editors of this service assume that spring begins in spring and that spring is the time to plant gardens.

This is a correct assumption.

And it can be assumed in Florida, provided we consider spring as beginning in the fall, so far as annual and vegetable gardening are concerned.

But wait. There is a middle season in South Florida gardening. We may begin our gardens in the fall, but we can make progressive plantings over several months.

The peak of the middle season is January. It is the last month when one may plant from a full calendar.

For, beginning in February, this calendar begins to thin down some, and by the first of May it is but a shadow of its fat self from October to the end of January.

* * *

IN THE NORTH it is necessary to wait for the end of frost to begin planting the garden. Here one must plant in the cool season, and be careful that the last planting is not made so late that it will meet the return of summer weather before maturity.

We note with interest that the first publicity release by the National Garden Bureau deals with children's gardens.

There's a story about children's gardens in the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, now in their 45th year, where nearly 400 boys and girls join each year to cultivate vegetables and flowers which they plant in their own plots.

Each child pays $3 for the rental of the land, seed, supplies and instructions.

* * *

GARDENING BY YOUNGSTERS is a bigger deal in Cleveland, where about 15,000 boys and girls are enrolled each year in gardening classes.

Gardening is done under supervision by school teachers and parents. Last year these little gardens produced $75,000 worth of vegetables and annual flowers of inestimable value.

Last summer while in Canada we saw the children's gardens at the Montreal Botanic Garden, and were much impressed by the quantities of high quality vegetables and colorful annual flowers grown in these small but productive plots.

But gardening by the young and the old alike offers opportunities to gain insights into the ways of nature that are denied those who have never planted a seed with hopeful expectations or cultivated a row of new seedlings with impatience.

The Inquiring Gardener

Readers with queries should include a self-addressed stamped envelope. Limit queries to two or three. Complete specimens are needed for identification, including a twig with foliage and flowers or fruit.

QUESTION — Please straighten me out about something. Last year I bought a couple of shrubs which the nurseryman called golden dewdrops. But when they bloomed the flowers were purple. Was I gypped? — August M., Miami.

ANSWER—I doubt it. From your description everything's okay so far. It is normal for a golden dewdrop shrub to produce purple flowers. They are followed by clusters of small fruit which turn yellow, or golden. Thus the name, golden dewdrop. (See the illustration on this page.).

QUESTION—My centipede grass has turned yellow in spots, especially near a septic tank drain. I fertilized it but now it seems even more yellow than it was. What do I do next? — S. Planter, Miami.

ANSWER — Your centipede needs iron rather than nitrogen fertilizer. You can buy iron from garden stores. Use chelated, neutral or iron sulphate, and follow directions on the container. Do not let material come in contact with walls or walks.

QUESTION—What are the brown specks on my citrus leaves? The leaves are falling and the trees don't seem to be getting any bigger. — Mrs. Hayder, Miami.

ANSWER — The leaves you sent in were covered with Florida red scale, a serious pest of citrus. You can control by spraying with malathion or oil emulsion or with a combination of the two.

QUESTION — My key lime tree is getting huge, over 10 feet high in four years, but it has never bloomed. What is wrong? — E. R. L, Coral Gables.

ANSWER — Perhaps you have used too much fertilizer and water. Lay off both for awhile and see if your tree will bloom next spring.

QUESTION — What is a tibouchina? I bought one from a nurseryman but he didn't know anything about it, except that it made pretty flowers. — A Newcomer, Fort Lauderdale.

ANSWER — There are several kinds of tibouchina, but the common one that is widely grown in Central Florida is a striking ornamental shrub when well grown. It requires an acid soil. If there is any doubt about the soil, make an occasional application of gardenia fertilizer.

The tibouchina is not recommended for planting in limestone soil, such as the rockland of Dade county, except where large holes have been made in the rock and refilled with a sandy acid type soil.

QUESTION — I would be interested in knowing if anyone has tried white clover on their lawns and your opinion concerning it. — Mrs. G. H. Shipley, Fort Lauderdale.

ANSWER — White clover does well in South Florida during the cool months. I can see no objection against mixing clover and grass or clover and dichondra, or, for that matter, against growing clover as a winter ground cover.

Clover, however, does poorly in high and dry sandy soil, unless it receives a great deal of irrigation. Where there is doubt it's a good idea to try a small patch before going all-out with a lawn full of clover.

The clover should receive regular mowing to keep it from smothering out the permanent grass, if there is any.

QUESTION — A neighbor has advised us to spray our mango tree with a combination of bleaching agent and soap powder. This, we were told, would keep the insects away from the flower. Would you please inform us what percentages to use in making this spray? — A Telephone Caller.

ANSWER — Your neighbor may be well meaning but nevertheless has given you a bum steer. In the first place, don't use a bleaching agent on any kind of plants. And in the second place, don't discourage insects from visiting the flowers of your mangos.

Insects that visit the flowers of mangos and other fruit trees are generally seeking nectar. But in doing so they transport pollen from one flower to another and thus play a necessary part in nature.

Philodendron Pays for Its Care

THE NON-VINING type of philodendron, variously known as self-heading or arborescent philodendron, is without doubt one of the outstanding ornamentals for landscape planting that is being grown in Florida.

There are several species and varieties of these philodendrons. Best known is Philodendron selloum, which under good growing conditions makes a plant eight to 10 feet across and might eventually get to be 15 feet tall if permitted to grow full height.

Improper use of this philodendron has caused it to lose some of its popularity. It does not thrive in dense shade and thus is not suitable for use as an indoor plant.

Nor is it suitable for use in a planting bin of any ordinary type, on account of the large size which it attains.

These philodendrons do better in full sun than in full shade. They seem to do their best in broken sun and shade, as found in slathouses or in fairly open forests. But when in doubt plant in full sun.

While the better known kinds make very large plants, there are dwarf species now available which get to be no more than one-fourth the size of the giant kinds.

These are becoming popular with the owners of small gardens.

However, the large kinds are quite suitable for use in the proper places. But they should be planted where they have ample room to grow, as on the borders of gardens or patios.

* * *

THERE'S NOTHING especially difficult about growing arborescent philodendrons, but if these plants are to be kept in good growing condition they must be fertilized and watered regularly.

Once a month isn't too often to fertilize. Use one part of general purpose garden fertilizer and one part of sheep manure. Do not apply close to the plants, but out in the area where the roots are growing.

It is important to plant a philodendron in a good soil to begin, a soil that is loose and which contains a lot of humus.

Original richness isn't as important as humus and aeration, for richness can be supplied by fertilizer.

In preparing a planting hole, it should be remembered that these philodendrons develop a widespread root system.

We have seen their roots extend for 15 feet, where the going was good. However, preparation of a planting site five or six feet in diameter is sufficient.

As the plant, or plants, grow additional humus can be supplied by mixing leaves and peat moss and heaping it somewhat about the plants and over the site occupied by the root system.

* * *

WATERING IS very important. A well established plant will stand drought, it is true, but if a plant is to be kept in a deep green, healthy condition it must receive water at least once a week.

When watering do it thoroughly, wetting the soil to a depth of several inches. Then let the soil dry out again somewhat before watering again.

The philodendron is a lush, tropical looking plant, and it has a place in the tropical garden. However, it's good use is yet to be learned by most gardeners.

More often the arborescent philodendron is seen as a yellow, sickly plant, set out in the middle of the yard, and getting hardly any attention.

It's better not to plant this philodendron if you do not intend to provide good care for it.

TROPICAL LUSHNESS is reflected by this planting of self-heading philodendrons in a swimming pool patio. The drabness of concrete is softened by the favorable atmosphere created. This planting was done by the Shaw Nursery and Landscape Co.

Idle Land Provides Challenge

There's no need to let land stand idle on the farm.

Forester A. S. Jensen of the Agricultural Extension Service at Gainesville suggests the planting of trees on acres that are likely to stand vacant for several years.

Even small areas, amounting to no more than an acre or two, might be planted to trees that eventually would produce wood and timber, or to food plants for wildlife.

Often these areas are isolated from the main plantings by fields or streams. The landowner may feel that it is too much trouble to try to cultivate these remote areas, so they are left idle.

Jensen suggests planting a few hundred trees with hand planting tools or dibbles. "Let your boy or girl have this area for use as a 4-H Club forestry plot," he suggested. "Using a dibble, a boy can plant 500 trees easily in an afternoon."

What trees to plant? Well, that depends on what part of the state you're in. In North Florida it might be red cedar for a small area or pine for a large area.

If there's a state forester in your area, check with him. If not, check with your county agricultural agent.

Spray Is Best In Combination

A combination of malathion and oil emulsion makes a good spray for the control of most pests on ornamentals and fruit trees, including scale, whitefly and aphids. This combination can be purchased already mixed. It is sold under various trade names.

Ti Plant Growers Here Get Tips From the North

Here's an article written in Chicago about how to grow as a house plant in the North a plant that is commonly grown outdoors in South Florida. But wait. You can learn something about growing plants outdoors here from an article that deals with the growing of plants indoors in Chicago. That's why we offer you the article.

By ROBERT T. VAN TRESS
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO — An excellent plant to grow in the house is the Ti plant of the Hawaiian islands, also referred to as the "good luck plant."

According to old Hawaiian legend, persons growing this plant will have good luck, for it wards off "evil spirits" around the home.

Botanically, the plant is cordyline terminalis, a member of the lily family and a close relative of dracaena.

Actually the Ti plant is native to the East Indies, but grows luxuriantly in the Hawaiian islands as well as in California and places with similar climates. Only recently has it been publicized as a house plant.

The Ti plant is often sold in the form of a cutting of the stem which may be two to four inches long. This should be laid horizontally in very light soil or sand, being barely covered. Sprouts come up along the sides in about three weeks to a month and gradually the leaves in green or a combination of green and red appear.

As soon as they have developed about six leaves, these shoots are cut off with a small heel and again placed in the propagating bed until rooted, after which they are potted up into small pots.

They thrive in a mixture of three parts good turfy loam and one part well-decayed manure or leafmold with a liberal sprinkling of sand.

A warm, moist atmosphere suits them best while growing but toward fall the plant must be gradually exposed to full sunshine and a dry atmosphere, which develops their high colors.

This is the plant from which native Hawaiians make their hula skirts for dancing. The glossy leaves, which grow from 12 to 20 inches long, are used for a popular sport called "Ti leaf sliding" down a hill after a rainy day.

The plant is also used for cooking roasts and for garnishing food.

During the days of Hawaii's monarchy the natives made okolehao, an alcoholic drink, with the thick white roots. The drink was distilled from the fermented mash made of the baked root. A leaf worn around the neck of the Hawaiian priests was the symbol of divine power.

Eventually your Ti plant may grow large and become unsightly, because of bare stem.

In this case the top of the plant may be cut off and rooted. Cut the rest of the old stem into pieces about two inches long and imbed them as previously described, in which case you will have extra plants for your friends.

Your Garden Guide

Now's the Time To . . .

Jan. 4, 1959.

ALL-FLORIDA
On The Farm-- In The Garden
Registered in U.S. Patent Office

GARDENING — Now's the time to get in whatever spring garden you are planning. Vegetables and annuals planted now will mature before hot weather arrives. (See planting calendar for suggestions.)

PLANTING—It's a sound idea to buy started vegetable and annual plants rather than grow them from seed, unless you are a skilled gardener.

TOMATOES — Blight has already done in many dooryard tomato "farms" because gardeners failed to spray. It's too late, usually, after the spores of the blight fungus have developed in the tissue of the tomato leaves. Spraying should be done as a preventive measure. Use zineb, nabam or maneb. These fungicides are sold by garden stores.

PRUNING—Lay off heavy pruning until spring. Recovery is too slow at this time of year.

GROUND COVERS — If they aren't looking as healthy as you think they should, apply fertilizer. Use a mixture made up of one-half sheep manure or pulverized cow manure and one-half regular garden fertilizer. Apply when plants are dry but when soil is moist. Wash fertilizer off leaves and into soil with aid of garden hose.

MANGOS — Spray new bloom with a fungicide such as copper. Follow directions on container. Fungicides may be purchased from garden stores.

Planting Calendar

VEGETABLES — Beans, beets, broccoli, cabbage, Chinese cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, collards, corn, cucumbers, endive, garlic, kale, kohl rabi, leek, lettuce, mustard, onions, parsley, peppers, peas, radish, spinach, squash, tomatoes, turnips.

ANNUALS — Ageratum, alyssum, aster, balsam, blanket flower (gaillardia), calendula, celosia (cockscomb), cosmos, dahlia, delphinium, globe aramanth, lobelia, marigold, morning glory, nasturtium, petunia, portulaca, phlox, pinks (dianthus), salvia, snapdragon, statice, stock, torenia, verbena, zinnia.

BULBS—Amaryllis, caladium, calla (white and yellow), eucharis, gladiolus, gloriosa lily, Easter lily, paperwhite narcissus.

Lot More From Less

We can't resist running these figures which illustrate the progress of agriculture in the South:

"In 1935," according to T. S. Buie in Better Crops magazine, "386,000 agricultural workers in South Carolina used 3,284,000 acres of land to produce 744,000 bales of cotton, 22,825,000 bushels of corn, and 89,760,000 pounds of tobacco.

In 1954 "there were only 232,000 people employed in agricultural production in the state. Yet, the next year this smaller number produced 572,000 bales of cotton, 27,440,000 bushels of corn, and 197,200,000 pounds of tobacco on only 1,826,000 acres of land.

"One fourth more corn, over twice as much tobacco, and one-third less cotton on 55 per cent of the acres used 20 years earlier — all by 40 per cent less workers."

DEEP SOIL IS NEEDED for growing carrots like these. It is a new variety recently released—Long Imperator No. 58. This variety requires about 77 days to reach maturity.

Rosy Year Predicted For U.S.

If predictions come true, 1959 will be the rosiest year in history.

Charles H. Perkins, president of the rose growing firm of Jackson & Perkins Co., expects the sale of roses at the wholesale level to exceed 20 million dollars this year.

This would be a 10 per cent increase over estimated 1958 sales.

According to the Agriculture Department, rose growers in 10 states, which supply 80 per cent of the market, had an inventory this year of 49.9 million plants for ultimate sale.

Discounting normal losses, about half of these plants will reach the market, Perkins said, since No. 1 grade rose bushes must be two years old.

Mango Reveals Malnutrition

Small, yellow foliage on mango trees may be a sign of malnutrition. Young trees especially are quick to show signs of poor nutrition. It is hardly possible to grow healthy, productive fruit trees in South Florida without the use of fertilizer.

Australian Wool

Australia leads the world in wool production. The annual clip from the country's 131,000,000 sheep sells for about $900,000,000.

Sturdy, Shady

The pongam makes a sturdy, hurricane resistant shade tree.

Yellow Grass Needing Iron

The light yellow color of centipede or St. Augustine grass, which is often seen where there is over-fertilization or in the vicinity of septic tank drains, can be corrected by spraying with iron. Follow directions on the container and do not let spray come in contact with walks or walls as staining will result.

Typical Mound of Fire Ant Government Is Trying to Eradicate

Fire Ant Control Criticized

Sharp criticism of the government's fire ant control program has been made by the Conservation Foundation and by the New York Zoological Society.

The government is accused of launching an expensive program that might "cost well over $100,000,000 and will require 25 years" without first making a complete biological study of the subject of eradication.

"Only limited study of the biology of the fire ant was made before the eradication program began," it was stated in a report by biologist Dr. John L. George.

The report is entitled "The Program to Eradicate the Imported Fire Ant."

The report points out that there is strong conflict of opinion about the effects on wildlife of the pesticides being used.

"We recommend," the report said, "that fundamental biological studies of the fire ant be undertaken by the federal government. Knowledge of its parasites, diseases and other natural enemies, as well as its environmental needs, could lead to the development of less dangerous biological or cultural controls . . ."

The report concludes that a "detailed account of the economic effects of the fire ant is long overdue."

And that the widespread use of insecticides, such as dieldrin, should be re-considered in view of man's lack of knowledge of the ultimate effects.

Shrub or Scrub, They Make Landscaping Chore Easier

THE SHRUB is the most important type of plant used in landscape planting, and some knowledge of shrubs — what they are, how they differ from trees, how they are developed through pruning, and their use in design — is helpful to the gardener.

Shrub, scrub and bush are often used interchangeably. These terms may be used to describe a type of plant or even a type of woods. We hear the term "in the Australian bush," or "in the Florida scrub."

Scrub and bush are terms used to describe the stunted and usually nearly impassable low plant growth covering poor soil, as in the sandy rolling hills of the Ocala National Forest.

These terms have come to mean something undesirable. Thus to refer to a plant as a bush or scrub is to depreciate it.

A shrub, although the word refers to the same kind of plant—a low, sprawling woody plant of several trunks and with lateral branching beginning near the ground—is usually restricted to ornamentals.

We call the hibiscus a shrub and the native wax myrtle a scrub.

Yet, the particular hibiscus referred to may be a leggy plant with few lateral branches near the ground, while the wild wax myrtle may be a bushy plant with a rounded top whose contour begins at ground level.

Thus the term shrub comes to be used to describe any category of woody plants that are not trees, while scrub denotes any wild woody plant not a tree.

* * *

IN LANDSCAPE planting shrubby plants are used for making hedges or screens, and they also are used for foundation planting.

The ideal shrub would grow to the desired spread and height and remain in that size, requiring no pruning or other attention.

But while nature is usually quite accommodating, it has never gone this far to cooperate with the gardener.

So, if nature won't come to us we must go to nature. We must look for plants that, although they are vigorous, tend to make but small trees under the best conditions, and which can be trained by intelligent pruning to develop and to retain a low, sprawling and compact form.

The most popular of the ornamental shrubs are those which produce flowers, such as the hibiscus, the ixora, the gardenia, the calliandra or the poinsettia.

And these are the kinds of shrubs that are most widely planted by gardeners, and especially by newcomers to the tropics and subtropics.

Then there is a long list of plant types which, although they are small like shrubs and are listed as shrubs, they are seldom seen in compact, graceful forms. Such are the dwarf poinciana (Poinciana pulcherrima), coral plant (Jatropha multifida), frangipani and the lucky nut shrub (Thevetia peruviana).

* * *

ON THE OTHER hand, in some books on tropical plants we find the common periwinkle, the castor bean plant, and that plant known as the devil's backbone (Pedilanthus tithymaloides) listed as shrubs.

In common practice, then, a shrub can be any small plant that is not an annual, perennial, a vine or a foliage plant such as a philodendron.

And even here there are exceptions. For many sprawling vines are used as shrubs, including the cryptostegia, the Chinese hat plant (Holmskioldia sanguinea), and the bougainvillea.

Such large-leaved herb-like plants as the alpinia, arborescent philodendron, pandanus, and even the agave, are used as shrubs and are often referred to as "shrubs."

Even the palms come to serve the purpose of shrubs, among them being the rhapis, whose growing habit is similar to bamboo; the cluster-type arenga.

The term "shrub," then is nearly meaningless when used in general gardening.

But when we use the word in a restricted sense, or dictionary sense, it becomes both a descriptive and helpful term.

Flower Arranging Expert Scheduled At Local Garden

One of the nation's top-ranking flower arranging authorities, Julia S. Berrall, will lecture and demonstrate the art of arrangement at the Fairchild Tropical Garden at 2 p.m. Jan. 26.

Mrs. Berrall is widely known for her books on flower arranging, two of which are required reading for flower show judges.

Her lecture is expected to be centered around the use of tropical materials in arrangements, thus it should be of interest to garden club members and to others who go in for artistic flower arranging.

The Coral Gables Woman's Club and the Fairchild Garden are cooperating in bringing Mrs. Berrall here.

Members of these two organizations will be able to buy tickets at a special price.

Information about the purchase of tickets may be obtained by calling the Fairchild Tropical Garden. Seating in the garden's auditorium is limited to 400.

Of immediate interest to members of the Fairchild Garden is a beginners' class in pandanus weaving which will begin at 9 a.m. next Wednesday, and a course in plant identification which will begin at 9 a.m. next Saturday.

Those completing the pandanus weaving course will be able to take an advanced course beginning on April 1.

A limit of 36 has been set for the plant identification course, which will be taught by Dr. R. Bruce Ledin of the Subtropical Experiment Station, Homestead. Advanced registration has reached 31.

Grasses Display Carrying Demands

Grasses vary greatly in their maintenance demands, and each should be handled according to its needs.

This was suggested at a panel discussion on grass care at a recent meeting of the Men's Garden Club of Miami. Chan Baker and Allen Witherspoon were panel members.

Here are the main points brought out:

Some grasses require considerable fertilizer while others require less, or almost none, to be healthy.

(Bermuda requires more fertilizer than any other grass. Zoysia comes next, then St. Augustine, bahia and centipede.)

Sandy soils require watering more frequently than soils containing humus or soils where there is a high water table. Do your watering early of a morning.

(Turf specialists are agreed that at least one inch of water should be put down where the soil is dry. Daily sprinkling, wetting only the top inch or so of the soil, is harmful to grass.)

While centipede is a good grass, it requires careful management. It cannot stand fertilizing more than once a year. It will not be of good color in the winter, but the color can be improved by using iron. Most people make the mistake of using fertilizer. The time to fertilize centipede is in the fall. Centipede must have adequate water.

(If the soil is fairly rich in humus it may never need fertilizing. When fertilized the application should be light, not more than 15 pounds to 1,000 square feet.)

Both Baker and Witherspoon agreed that the reel type of mower is superior, in general, to the rotary type. The reel type mower cuts with a minimum of bruising, while the rotary bruises and tears the blades of grass, no matter how sharp.

Zoysia grass should be planted by runners rather than plugs. Plant the runners close together, but don't bury deeply, and keep watered.

Warm weather is, of course, the best time to plant grass, as growth is very slow at this time of year.

Winter grass, such as rye, is recommended for planting now. It will remain green until hot weather, when it will die.

Cattlemen Planning Field Day

The 12th annual field day at the Florida Range Cattle Experiment station at Ona will be held next Friday.

Morning and afternoon tours of the 2,000-acre experiment station are planned. Visitors will have a chance to see 855 experimental animals.

Dr. W. G. Kirk, in charge of the station, and Dr. E. Hodges, agronomist, will lead the tours.

The tours, in the form of motorcades, will include demonstrations of cattle on various kinds of pastures, use of silage, methods of wintering calves, and the use of herbicides to control palmettos.

Following a noon meal served by the Hardee County Cattlemens' Association, an afternoon program will be devoted to discussions of the cattle industry.

The morning tours will get underway at 9:30 a.m.

Answers to Last Week's Puzzle

Across

1—He's very seldom a popular boss who has a tendency to HARRY his staff (Hurry).—Note that he has only a tendency to HURRY them. Very seldom is too extreme, under the circumstances. It's more apt with HARRY. Even a tendency to HARRY, harass them, can nearly always reduce his popularity rating to about zero.

4—Whether you have a DULL day depends largely on yourself, as a rule (Full).—Not FULL, because too much depends on other people and circumstances over which you have no control. DULL is better because this depends on your attitude toward life, as a rule.

7—A man's perspective on life is probably the broader for his being male (Hale). — Although women usually have the better of it with intuition and powers of discernment, men are probably more knowledgeable in worldly affairs, hence MALE. HALE, healthy, is more open to question.

8—It's usually plain to her friends when a woman is BORED by her husband (Bowed).—It's much more obvious to her friends when she is BOWED, made submissive, by her husband than when she is BORED by him; usually doesn't go far enough with BOWED.

10—People who SEEM to be paragons are seldom really so (Seek).—People who SEEK to be paragons, models of perfection, obviously cannot yet have attained that state of perfection. The aptness of SEEM is substantiated by common experience.

13—How disgusting it is when people drink so much liquor that they REEK! (Reel).—To REEL is to sway or stagger, a person very susceptible to liquor might reel after drinking very little. It's overindulgence that causes such disgust, as when people REEK of it.

14—It's WHY people tell lies that's so often surprising (Way).—Not WAY, because there's seldom much ingenuity or originality in the way lies are told. More often surprising is the reason for those lies, WHY people tell them.

15—As a rule, a shrewish type of woman is soon TAPED by a man of the world (Tamed).—As a rule soon TAMED? He's only a man of the world, not a superman! Such a man, however, would soon have her TAPED. He'd have her measure, know her for what she is.

Down

1—When she has several children, a mother might have little time to devote to her HOBBY (Hubby).—That she will be fairly well occupied is understandable; it's just as understandable that she should devote her spare time to her HUBBY rather than to her HOBBY, for which she might have little time left.

2—To be proficient at most games of skill you must be well acquainted with RULES (Ruses).—A mere knowledge of RUSES, tricks, doesn't make for proficiency; it's a knowledge of the RULES that is the fundamental necessity.

3—It's sometimes very satisfying to GULL an adversary (Gall).—Because of very, sometimes is not too restrained with GULL, to trick, which is a comparatively mild term. GALL goes much further; it means harass; it implies a degree of savagery more suited with a hated enemy than with a mere adversary.

5—Women are usually quicker than men to sympathize with a DEJECTED suitor (Rejected). — Not REJECTED; women know women, and women know full well the rejection might be a mere postponement of acceptance. A DEJECTED suitor is not necessarily a rejected one, but he presents a picture arousing maternal instincts!

6—A criminal is often caught when desperation makes him BOLD (Bolt).—Often fits BOLD, because the desperation that makes him bold might be a need of food or money; the desperation that makes him BOLT might be due to the closing in of pursuers. Usually is called for with BOLT.

9—A person of weak character tends to be unduly discouraged by a personal DEFECT (Defeat).—Note unduly. The DEFEAT might be such that his discouragement might be justified. His discouragement by a personal DEFECT is more likely to be unreasonable.

11—Not many women fail to get their man without a good CRY (Try).—The woman who fails to get the man she's after without a good TRY must be quite rare. Not so rare, however, is the woman who doesn't have a good CRY in such circumstances.

12—Reflective people are usually tolerant of a youngster's GAPE (Jape).—JAPE, jest, is weak because it might be a harmful one, to others if not to himself. Usually fits well with GAPE, open-mouthed stare; not always because it could be rude and provoke irritation.

New Roads Outlook Is Bright

Big Building Year Ahead for State

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut said Saturday that 1959 finds Florida launched on a new era of road building. He anticipates total construction expenditures will be 169 million dollars compared with the 1958 record of $111,771,180.

Grotegut said 1958 was marked "by the greatest expansion of road building in the department's entire 43 years history in road projects actually put under contract."

Grotegut, former chief administrative aide to Gov. LeRoy Collins, became road chairman in the middle of 1958 when Collins said progress of the department had been good but had failed to meet his anticipation. Grotegut replaced Wilbur Jones, chairman since 1955, who now is director of the interstate system, a new job created last year.

The chairman said the department last year placed "special emphasis" on the state's four-laning program, doubling the mileage of four-laned highways over the previous year.

The year also was marked by a period of "rigid and realistic economies," Grotegut said, "in an effort to turn into road mileage every available dollar."

GROTEGUT

Summarizing the activities of the past year, the road board chairman said:

"We built more four lane highways than we constructed in any previous like period in our history and we have completed plans for additional four lane mileage which, by the end of this administration, will give us four times as much four laned highway as we had at the beginning of 1955.

"In 1958 our interstate program was stepped up to a pace we did not believe a year ago would be possible.

"In arriving at this record setting pace, every phase of the department's activities was increased in 1958. Our secondary road program was boosted to new levels of construction, as was work on projects paid for by bond issues.

Engineering plans and data developed during 1958 will help step up construction on the interstate, primary and secondary road systems. Bond projects also will increase in size and number this year to boost probable construction outlay on all systems, Grotegut said.

Arthritis Victims Find New Hope In Florida

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 4 . . . (Special) . . . Science continues its research to combat mankind's most crippling disease. Yet, the Bragg Chiropractic Clinic, famous for its specialization in arthritis, contends that shots, "wonder-drugs" and pills do little more than offer temporary relief to the symptoms . . . if that.

Case study reflects permanent help can be had ONLY if causes are considered at the time treatment is outlined. Its own highly successful methods employ as many as 20 individual modalities correlated into one treatment system designed to ELIMINATE THE CAUSES and thus effect permanent results.

As a public service, an amazing FREE 16-page book, explaining arthritis, the primary and secondary causes, method of correction, etc., is offered all readers of this notice without obligation.

SALESMAN
OPPORTUNITY UNLIMITED

OPPORTUNITY is everywhere but opportunity combined with immediate earnings of $12,000 to $15,000 per year, is worth investigating.

IF YOU are the man we seek, you are between the ages of 30 and 50; you are now successfully selling a business service, high-grade specialties, advertising or high-price tangible where the "Idea" is sold.

YOU will represent The Stevens-Davis Company of Chicago, a highly rated organization with a background of over 50 years of success. You will sell to presidents and owners of businesses with the attendant prestige and respect of those in your community, the newest and finest sales training program ever devised. It is based on the latest developments in Sales Motivation. 1958 was our best year.

IF YOU are the man we seek, you now rate in the top 10% of your organization and you are looking for your "last connection" with a firm which considers selling a profession and which rewards success with advancement.

YOU will receive an ironclad territorial contract. Your travel will be limited. You will be carefully selected, thoroughly trained inside, at our expense, as well as in the field under actual selling conditions to assure your success.

IF YOU feel you qualify for personal interview, please telephone Mr. R. C. Montgomery, Sunday 1:00 P.M., to 5:00, or Monday 8:30 to 4:00 P.M. FRanklin 9-1079.

YOUNG married man, mechanically inclined, for an interesting local position, may mean double your previous income if you qualify. Phone WI 5-6611, 9:30 A.M. to 11 A.M. only.

MEN WANTED
WHO NEED AT LEASE $500 PER MONTH
THIS IS IT!
DUE to the fabulous increasing demand for our product, we just must have more salesmen with a minimum high school education. Our salesmen know of this ad and they don't mind as they have more than enough to do. This job has the following advantages:

1—JOB RECOGNITION. THE salesman is the most important person in our organization.

2—JOB SECURITY. THERE is no such thing as politics or ear banging in our organization. Therefore our salesmen know what real job security means.

3—JOB SATISFACTION. YOU will really enjoy selling this product since there is canvassing or high pressure.

4—JOB PROMOTION. AS YOU qualify for promotion, you will be promoted regardless of time in service.

5—JOB EARNINGS. OUR trained salesmen earn from $500 to $800 per month plus fringe benefits such as group insurance, hospitalization, Etc. Plus the world's best training to insure your success.

PICK up the phone between 9 A.M. and 12 Noon and dial HI 5-2261 and Mr. Snyder will arrange personal interview.

SALESMAN
OPPORTUNITY UNLIMITED

OPPORTUNITY is everywhere but opportunity combined with immediate earnings of $12,000 to $15,000 per year, is worth investigating.
IF YOU are the man we seek, you are between the ages of 30 and 50; you are now successfully selling a business service, high-grade specialties, advertising or high-price tangible where the "Idea" is sold.
YOU will represent The Stevens-Davis Company of Chicago, a highly rated organization with a background of over 50 years of success. You will sell to presidents and owners of businesses with the attendant prestige and respect of those in your community, the newest and finest sales training program ever devised. It is based on the latest developments in Sales Motivation. 1958 was our best year.
IF YOU are the man we seek, you now rate in the top 10% of your organization and you are looking for your "last connection" with a firm which considers selling a profession and which rewards success with advancement.
YOU will receive an ironclad territorial contract. Your travel will be limited. You will be carefully selected, thoroughly trained inside, at our expense, as well as in the field under actual selling conditions to assure your success.
IF YOU feel you qualify for personal interview, please telephone Mr. R. C. Montgomery, Sunday 1:00 P.M. to 5:00, or Monday 8:30 to 4:00 P.M. FRanklin 9-1079.

YOUNG married man, mechanically inclined, for an interesting local position, may mean double your previous income if you qualify. Phone WI 5-6611, 9:30 A.M. to 11 A.M. only.

HOMES with low down payment seem to be plentiful, BUT they sure are scarce in good locations! Here's one that is a couple of blocks from Sylvania Heights Elementary school, Baptist church, Jewish Temple, close to Church of the Little Flower, several big shopping centers, Merchants bank, several bus lines, St. Clair Cafeteria, just across the street from the Gables, Etc., Etc.
KEEP IN MIND — modern CBS construction consisting of foyer entrance, big living area, separate dining room, bright kitchen, 3 bedrooms, tile bath, oak floors, tile roof, built in garage 60' x 102' landscaped grounds, Etc. Etc.
BEST OF ALL, pay only $650 down, no closing costs and balance in one FHA mortgage of $14,250 payable about $97 month including all the insurance, taxes, principal and interest. Its an excellent buy with excellent terms—seller transferred out of Miami has to sell fast. Come on out and look through at your leisure.

THIS PRIME 100%
RETAIL stores corner property in one of Miami's most prominent locations WITH 5 NATIONAL CHAINS on long term leases. Now offered, for 1st time, for $475,000 with $205,000 cash above $270,000 Provident Life Insurance Co. 15 year 5½% mortgage just recently placed. The Keyes Co. has managed this property for many years. THIS institutional quality investment can give you with the continuation of Keyes management, after all operating, fixed and maintenance expenses, interest and depreciation, precisely as will be reported on your income tax, an average of $24,000 per year Net Taxable Income and $22,400 tax free income. This is the equivalent of a 20% dividend return on high grade stocks.
NATIONAL inflation is more than offsetting property depreciation. 15 years from now the $270,000 Mtg. is liquidated. You have a $475,000 property plus having had $360,000 NET Income.
ONLY in real estate such as this can these rewarding gains be achieved. For complete information see

Hungry Frank Lane Arrives With 'Refugees' from Cuban Revolt
. . . shaky Americans leave Cubana plane at Miami International

When Bullets Start Whanging, Who Talks Baseball?—Lane

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer
and STEVE McNAMARA
Herald Sports Writer

Clutching a book entitled "Too Young to Die" and trying to suppress the growls of an empty stomach, baseball's Frank Lane flew to Miami from Havana Saturday with a planeload of Americans fleeing the Cuban revolution.

"Trader Frank," general manager of the Cleveland Indians, had praise for the courtesy and care given Americans by the forces of Fidel Castro.

But he was very gratified to leave the land of loaded guns and shuttered restaurants.

Lane had gone to Havana with nothing more on his mind than a vacation and the re-signing of Outfielder Minnie Minoso, playing in the Cuban Winter League. But while strolling through the city, he ran across more excitement than any of his legendary trading sprees has provided the baseball world.

With the city looking more like beleaguered Budapest than gay Havana, Lane found the scene so unreal "I kept thinking I was looking at a movie, until 'whang' a bullet would hit the wall and I knew it wasn't a movie."

Under those circumstances, Lane said, he wasn't thinking much about baseball.

But apparently even a revolution fails to calm the ardor of baseball-crazy Latins.

Lane said he encountered a group of submachinegun-toting youths who recognized him, rushed up, clapped him on the back and wanted to talk baseball.

MEANWHILE, major and minor league clubs Saturday considered the advisability of recalling their players from the Cuban Winter League.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has given the green light to such action without fear of violating any agreement. A similar statement was issued by George Trautman, president of the minors. Club owners were told to use their own discretion.

Almendares and Marianao, each of which has seven players under contract to major league teams, are involved in a hot fight for the pennant.

Bardstown Rips Tropical Mark In OB Victory

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Calumet Farms' Bardstown, with Steve Brooks shoving, lopped a fifth of a second off the mile and a sixteenth track record at Tropical Park Saturday to win the $24,750 Orange Bowl Handicap.

Chasing the seven-year-old son of Alibhai-Twilight Tear to the mark-smashing performance was Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Amerigo, owner of the previous mark. The duo made it one of the best bangtail duels here in recent years.

A throng of 13,259, Tropical's second largest crowd of the season, bet $1,361,710 — the top mutuel figure of the year.

It was Bardstown's day at the races. Favored at $2.65 to the dollar and top weighted at 124 pounds, he assumed command just after the break, saved ground while hugging the rail, and won with authority. He was a length and a quarter in front of Amerigo at the wire, with John L. Applebaum's Mister Jive two more lengths back for third.

Florida-bred Betty Linn, coupled as a member of the mutuel betting field and the only mare in the race, finished fourth. Then it was Hoop Band, Pineapple, Meeting, Wise Margin, Ekaba, A Dragon Killer, Point of Order, Sharpsburg and My Night Out. One-Eyed King, Nadir, Gray Phantom and Village Idiot were scratched.

Bardstown paid $7.30, $3.90 and $2.90. Amerigo was worth $5.50 and $3.70, while Mister Jive returned $3.60 show.

Bardstown, who won two out of seven in 1958 and four out of six in 1957, showed Trainer Jimmy Jones' careful hands had done their work well in grooming the old fellow for his first 1959 start.

He was all horse in zooming over the mile and a sixteenth speedway in his sparkling 1:40 2-5. Swaps' world mark for the distance is a flat 1:39 set at Hollywood Park.

First to shake Brooks' hand after the ride was Trainer Jones. Steve, a former Calumet rider, rode the record-breaker as though he "owned" him, Jones remarked, but it was Mrs. Gene Markey of Lexington, Ky., who'll pocket the $14,600 check for the winning share.

Amerigo, who set the record of 1:40 3-5 in his only start at Tropical last Dec. 6, ran a powerful race behind the Calumet blazer. So did Mister Jive, who was eighth after a half mile, improved to fifth on the stretch turn, and was "heading for home" under Bobby Ussery midway through the stretch. But he had no tired horses in front of him.

Tropical's handle for the first 33 days shows $25,562,917 to $25,203,750 for the comparable period last year. Attendance is down slightly — 1,921 — with 290,025 against 288,104 this year.

* * *

FOLKS WHO questioned the arrival of "fresh money" around Miami got their answer when Tropical's daily double pool "hit the moon" for a record $116,880. The old mark for this mode of wagering was $110,702.

After the state and track took their cuts, the remainder was distributed in portions of $150.90 to each holder of a two-dollar ticket on the three-nine combination.

Mt. Brilliant ($17.20 — Mike Kay) won the first, while Nancy's Chance ($17.50 — L. C. Cook) took the second.

Mt. Brilliant ran down Tad to win the first by a half length with Fun Lover third. Nancy's Chance was a head winner over The Joker, with Sky Bid third.

RACES for two-year-olds who marked their second birthday just four days ago have been discontinued at Tropical and the youngsters will have more time to mature before showing off under silks.

Tropical officials said there was a lack of interest in such races.

The action is something of a blow to Florida Breeders who are now denied a chance to get their young stock to the races at Tropical.

Hale: Surprised but Happy

7-Foot Cage Star Quits N'Western, Heads for Miami

Bruce Hale apparently is getting another seven-foot basketball player—and nobody could be more surprised than the University of Miami's coach.

Seven-foot Mike McCoy, Indiana's top-rated high school cager last year, told newsmen in Fort Wayne, Ind. Saturday that he was quitting Northwestern and heading for the UM.

"It's good news to me," said Hale, "but it's a surprise.

"I tried my best to recruit Mike last summer. But when he chose Northwestern, I forgot about him."

McCoy said he "wasn't happy" at Northwestern during the fall quarter, and was "disapointed" in his grades, although he didn't flunk any courses.

"He would have to pass our entrance exams here," said Hale, "and I would have to talk with Jack Harding (UM athletic director) about the possibility of his getting a scholarship."

The Hurricanes already have three Fort Wayne products—Guard Dick Hickox, Forward Bruce Applegate and Center Dick Berghoff, the seven-footer who has seen little duty in recent games.

"I guess knowing these boys is why McCoy decided to transfer here," Hale said. "I certainly haven't talked with him since he entered Northwestern.

At Wilmette, Ill., Northwestern Coach Bill Rohr said the news of McCoy's departure for Miami "hit me as a shock."

"That's all I can say now," Rohr added.

Two weeks ago, however, Rohr told the Chicago Basketball Writers' Association, "You'd be surprised at the ruthless pressure outside schools put on freshmen after they sign Big Ten athletic tenders."

He jokingly said at the time that Northwestern had a delegate watching over McCoy every time he was back in Fort Wayne.

MOBILE — (AP) — The South defeated the North, 21-12, in the Senior Bowl football game Saturday in a tremendous running duel between Notre Dame's Norm Odyniec and Georgia's Theron Sapp before a crowd of 33,183 and a national TV audience.

The two powerful runners stole the show from passers Buddy Humphrey of Baylor and Lee Grosscup of Utah. Ripping off huge chunks of yardage, the chunky, 180-pound Odyniec scored two touchdowns for the North to set up a 12-7 halftime lead. He netted 192 yards in 25 carries. Sapp had 158 in 23.

Sapp, the 200-pound powerhouse of the Georgia Bulldogs, sparked a second-half surge by the Southerners. He picked up 53 yards on five carries on a 71-yard scoring drive in the fourth period, plunging over from the one for the touchdown.

Earlier, in the third quarter, the Macon, Ga., youth rammed over from the seven for another touchdown which was set up by a marvelous run by Mississippi State's Billy Stacey on a pass from Humphrey. The play covered 52 yards.

Phil Blazer of North Carolina converted after each South touchdown to run his streak of all-star game PAT's to 10. Last Saturday night Blazer kicked seven straight for the South team in its 49-20 rout of the North in the Shrine game at Miami.

The first of the Rebel touchdowns came after just 3½ minutes of the first quarter when Humphrey passed 20 yards on fourth down to Bob Pepe of North Carolina State. The Southerners drove 67 yards on nine plays after the opening kickoff.

On the following kickoff, Grosscup directed the North on a 74-yard touchdown drive, with Odyniec going over from the one. The Notre Dame back provided the biggest gainer of the drive with a 21-yard burst down the middle.

Odyniec rammed over from 27 yards out for the other Yankee touchdown early in the second quarter. The play followed a 27-yard toss from

Tulane Deflates Florida Cagers, 68-62

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — Tulane staved off a Florida rally in the closing minutes and opened its Southeastern Conference basketball season with a 68-62 victory over the gators Saturday night.

Tulane's 6 foot 5 Vic Klinker was more than Florida could handle and he paced the victory with 28 points.

The first half was close, with Florida leading by as much as four points and Tulane as much as seven. Tulane took a 36-32 advantage at the half.

Dick Hoban led Florida with 16 points.

Bardstown Trained Real Well And Ran Better at Tropical

BEFORE THE $20,000 Orange Bowl Handicap at Tropical Saturday, I asked Calumet Trainer Jimmy Jones about Bardstown, the favorite.

"He's trained awfully well," Jones replied, but hastened to add, "Bardstown is seven years old and you know that's the equivalent of a 45-year-old prize fighter."

Jimmy Jones

This inspired the comment that Archie Moore has done very well at fighting, and according to some calculations he's past 45. Jones laughingly agreed, but being race wise would not make a flat prediction of victory. He reminded, "Moore is one in a million."

A few minutes later, Bardstown had not only won the Handicap, but set a new track record by going the mile and 1-16th in 1:40 2-5.

This leads to the conclusion some oldsters are faster than others.

* * *

Big Day for Saul, Ernie

IT WAS A big day for Saul Silberman's Tropical and Ernie Seiler of the Orange Bowl Committee. Seiler's presence at the track, plus distributing Orange Bowl silver decorations around the infield, indicated he had forgiven Saul for running in competition with the Orange Bowl game New Year's afternoon. That will be standard procedure in the future, without hurting either event.

Seiler was accompanied by President Hood Bassett, who presented the OB Handicap trophy, flanked by Vice Presidents Everett Clay and Jess Yarborough, Schedule Chairman W. G. Ward, Queen Nanita Greene and her lovely princesses.

Silberman appreciated all of this co-operation, but more pleasing was the crowd of 13,259 wagering $1,361,710, or $91,978 more than on the same day last year.

* * *

Parking Tip Hunch Flops

SEILER WAS enthralled with horse racing, using his parking ticket number of 3-5 to play the daily double . . . The first number hit, but the second missed . . . Seiler was undismayed because he'd made another hunch bet, Nancy's Chance, because his daughter-in-law is named Nancy . . . The winner paid $17.50 . . . Pretty soon hunches started going sour.

"Silberman made the right move in running on New Year's afternoon," said Hialeah's General Manager Walter Donovan . . . He thinks Hialeah will have a bigger season . . . Bob Breitenstein, diplomatic aide to Seiler, came to the races, but promptly repaired to the lounge to watch the Senior Bowl game at Mobile on television . . . He found Bill MacDonald and other football fans were ahead of him .

* * *

Seiler Enjoys Last Laugh

THE PAST few weeks have been hectic ones for Seiler, who makes the Orange Bowl wheels click. Seiler did not keep regular hours as he planned for the Orange Bowl Jamboree parade and the New Year's Day game shows.

ERNIE SEILER

Ernie's work did not end with the game in which Oklahoma's speed gave the Sooners a 21-6 victory over Syracuse. There were final plans to make for the repeat performance of the halftime extravaganza, plus fireworks at the Orange Bowl Friday night.

A tired Seiler had enough strength left to chortle, as he heard the paid attendance was 43,568.

"So the people don't like halftime shows," Seiler commented, mindful that his critics often try to remind Ernie that the game is more important.

"Wonder what that Clure Mosher thinks now that our halftime show drew so many people?" Ernie inquired.

Knowing Mosher, I imagine he would sneer that the 43,568 people were lured by the fireworks.

Why Musial Is Popular

DURING THE Cardinals' tour of Japan last fall, Stan Musial was one of the more popular players, Manager Solly Hemus revealed here before flying to the Dominican Republic.

"To show you the kind of fellow Musial is, he played in several games despite an injured leg, because he did not want to disappoint the fans," Hemus said. "I had to insist on Stan coming out after five, or six innings."

SOLLY HEMUS

Hemus, who radiates confidence toward his first test as a major league manager, thinks Musial is good for two more seasons.

"Musial will never lose his batting stroke," said Hemus. He is counting on Stan being a big help in the Cardinals' bid for the pennant.

Gus Has Open Ear (but No Contract) For Coaching Hopefuls at NCAA Meet

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

University of Miami's Andy Gustafson leaves Tuesday to attend the NCAA Coaches Convention, but he does not plan to hire another assistant coach while in Cincinnati.

"I expect a lot of young coaches will be interested in talking to me about a job," Gustafson said, "but no decisiion will be made until after I return to Miami."

Gustafson recently was authorized by Dr. Jay F. W. Pearson, university president, to augment his staff with an additional backfield assistant coach.

Miami's mentor, whose Hurricanes (2-8 in 1958) must face the toughest schedule in their history next fall, also is seeking two top-flight professional specialists to help during spring practice.

"But the players I'm mainly interested in are playing in the Pro Bowl at Los Angeles on Jan. 11," he said.

"So I won't be able to get together with them until after that game."

Leaving Monday for the three-day coaches huddle are four assistants — Walt Kichefski, Gene Ellenson, Bob Blaik and Armand Vari.

Kichefski, senior member of the UM assistants corps after 15 years, was named assistant head coach on Dec. 23.

Ellenson will continue as line coach in 1959; Blaik will be one of the backfield coaches, and Vari will serve his second year with guards and centers.

A former Miami High, Georgia and Miami Seahawk star, Ellenson Saturday spiked rumors that he was not satisfied at the UM.

"I'm crazy about Miami. I like coaching under Andy Gustafson and have talked with no one concerning a coaching job elsewhere," Ellenson said.

"I would not consider leaving for less than a sound head coaching job or unless someone offered me a terrific raise in salary . . . which isn't likely."

Said Gustafson: "I never had any doubt but that Ellenson would continue with us. I'm happy to have Gene as my line coach."

Bowling Lanes Sold

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

The 32-lane Bowlerama will change hands Monday.

Al Green, present owner of the 79th street establishment, told the Herald he has sold out to Stanley Crayer of West New York, N.J.

Green in turn probably will look for some town in South Florida to build a new bowling house.

At West Palm Beach today, Hazel Verdes, Florida's representative to the National Match Game Championships in Buffalo this month, will open her new Verdes Tropicana.

The 32-lane Brunswick house is located on 1801 Belvedere Road.

DOC KERR won the Bowland New Year's tournament with a 1706 for eight games. Bob White (1702) and Jim Chesnutt (1607) trailed in scratch competition.

Paul Parker's 875 led the handicap division. Floyd McColm was runnerup with 874 Milt Levinsky third with 836.

* * *

TROPICAL'S "red-pin tournament" proved such a success New Year's that John Sprow will repeat it on every Saturday and Sunday.

One change, however, will be made in the format. Four red-pins instead of one will be placed in each automatic pinsetter. This will give contestants a better chance of registering strikes when the head pin has a red crown.

John Daubner beat 62 entries Thursday with his three red-pin strikes. Eleanor Duffy and Robbie Robison each posted two strikes.

In Tropical's Junior Christmas Tournament Curtis Clouse's 278 handicap for two games won the bantam singles. Dan Beall and Art Trask paced doubles with 537. Lani Haviland and Bobby Shankwitz won mixed competition with 557.

Terry Wheatley's 622 was best among the teenage competitors. Larry Boney and Jim Robison led the doubles with 1092. But Booney had to convert the 3-6-7-8-10 split in the tenth frame for the one-pin victory.

Louise Puglisi and Jim Robison's 1131 led mixed action. The winners' scores will be compared on a national level.

ONLY 55 pins separated co-winners Vern Saunders and Lou Mandragona and 17th place finisher Bill Barrett in the $500 added Harry Rich Tournament last week. Saunders and Mandragona each won $375 for their 861s . . . Al Schlazer, a member of the Teenage Traveling League, qualified for The Herald's Lend-a-Hand Bowling Tournament with a 660 handicap set.

Hurricanes To Repeat Cage Classic

The inaugural Hurricane classic basketball tournament was so successful that it will be staged by the University of Miami again next December.

Reporting a two-night attendance of approximately 5,200, Athletic Director Jack Harding announced the tourney again will be held as part of Orange Bowl Festival week. Tentative dates are Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 28-29, at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Harding and Coach Bruce Hale already have began putting out feelers in an effort to lure outstanding teams. Pittsburgh has expressed a desire to participate.

Miami (Ohio) won last week's four-team event by shading host University of Miami in overtime, 87-85.

Timber! Pin Houses Clear Decks For All-Out Lend-a-Hand Drive

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

The big push starts today in The Herald's Lend-a-Hand Bowling Tournament.

Only 15 days remain for Miamians to enter Florida's largest tournament. So far, 3,950 entries are in.

With the holiday season completed and the Eastern Airlines strike settled, league secretaries, proprietors and the tournament committee believe entries will continue to soar.

Bowlers are shooting for Grand prizes of two twin-console stereophonic high-fidelity sets with stereo recordings of top show tunes, two 17-inch portable television sets, two transistor radio sets, 34 handsome trophies and hundreds of golf certificates.

League secretaries who enroll their leagues 100 per cent also will be rewarded with a Parker pen.

All money collected will go into The Herald's Lend-a-Hand bowling account to support the summer camp for unfortunate youngsters.

The Herald will pay for all additional bowling and expenses. The only cost to you is the $1 entry fee. You pay but once in each league. You may enter from every league in which you participate.

Multiple entry guarantees bowlers a better chance of representing a league in one of the 17 house finals.

Looks Like TV Repeat For '59 OB Regatta

There's an excellent chance the Orange Bowl Regatta will be seen on nation-wide television for the second time next December.

That was the word Saturday from Judson Bailey, CBS executive.

"We thought we had a real good show last Sunday," said Bailey, "one that had the best motorboat races ever seen on TV anywhere."

"Of course," added Bailey, "last Sunday's 90-minute program was sustaining. So we're going back to New York and try to find sponsors for it."

* * *

DON DUNNINGTON, Bethesda, Md., merchant who was denied the regatta's International Grand Prix title on a belated disqualification, changed his mind about protesting Referee Charlie Pierce's decision.

When the Grand Prix ended Sunday, Dunnington thought he had won on three successive second-place finishes.

It seemed nobody had bothered to tell Don that Pierce had ruled him ineligible to run second to George Byers in a qualifying heat, re-started after Julius Howard flipped in its first running.

Accusing Pierce of "putting my life in jeopardy" by permitting him to drive "all out" without a chance of winning, Dunnington said he would protest to the APBA.

After a good meal (as guest of the OB committee) and several hours of cooling off, Dunnington dropped the protest idea, Pierce said.

* * *

A NINE-HOUR ENDURANCE race starter — George Schmid, Miami Beach fireman — still has a protest pending on a ruling which, he says, was made by APBA official S. E. (Sunny) Jones.

"He disqualified my boat as unsafe after it flipped me out on the third lap," said Schmid, fourth-place finisher in the Around Miami Beach Marathon.

"It was a bad knock against the boat's builder, Harold Christensen of Miami. And I don't think it was fair.

"Another boat (Bobby Deeson's outboard) flipped him but he swam back and was allowed to continue.

"My Scandia-Craft (19-foot inboard) has the capability for such a race and I had a good chance to win."

* * *

MIAMI'S Gene Dangerfield, piloting an Al Martin-designed 17-foot runabout, missed by only seven gallons of completing the Nine-Hour test without a refueling stop. His boat, the 12th place finisher, was powered by a Swedish-made Volvo engine, first ever in the race.

'59 FSU Football Slate Set

By BILL McGROTHA
Herald Correspondent

TALLAHASSEE—Four new opponents are on a 1959 football schedule announced Saturday by Florida State.

William and Mary, Richmond, Memphis State and The Citadel replace Georgia Tech, Tennessee, Furman and Tennessee Tech.

Like last year, the Seminoles will play five games at home and seven within the state.

William and Mary, Richmond and Memphis State are being met for the first time. FSU has played The Citadel once before, winning, 39-0, in 1955.

Eight of the 10 opponents are classified major by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the same number FSU engaged last season. But this year's caliber of rivals appears Less frightening than 58's.

Unlike last year the Seminoles won't have an open date before their meeting with Florida, scheduled at Gainesville on Nov. 21. FSU plays William and Mary in Tallahassee the week before.

The schedule: Sept. 19 — Wake Forest. Sept. 26 — The Citadel. Oct. 3 — Miami. Oct. 10—At Virginia Tech. Oct. 17—At Memphis State. Oct. 24—Richmond. Oct. 31—At Georgia. Nov. 14 — William and Mary. Nov. 21 — At Florida. Nov. 28—At Tampa.

* * *

PREVIOUSLY announced University of Miami and University of Florida football schedules are:

Miami

Sept. 25—Tulane; Oct. 3—at FSU; Oct. 10—at LSU; Oct. 17—Navy; Oct. 23—Auburn; Oct. 30—Kentucky; Nov. 6—North Carolina; Nov. 13—South Carolina; Nov. 20—Michigan State; Nov. 28—at Florida.

Florida

Sept. 19—at Tulane; Sept. 26—Mississippi State; Oct. 3—Virginia; Oct. 10—at Rice; Oct. 17—at Vanderbilt; Oct. 24—LSU; Oct. 31—at Auburn; Nov. 7—Georgia at Jacksonville; Nov. 21—FSU; Nov. 28—Miami at Jacksonville.

U.S. Masters Chile Strategy to Join Brazil in Finals

By LUTHER EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Finals of the 13-nation Orange Bowl Junior Cup Tennis matches will pit the United States against Brazil at 1 this afternoon — and the talented teen-agers are likely to hook up in a real war.

The U. S. Junior Davis Cup squad had to overpower Chile's Pabst brothers — Omar and Ernesto — in Saturday's decisive doubles duel to earn a 2-1 semifinal victory at Flamingo Park.

With Ronnie Barnes, OB Junior champ, setting a classy example, the Brazilians straight-setted Venezuela into 3-0 submission while losing only 13 games in eight sets.

Despite Chile's defeat, talk of the tournament at day's end was Omar Pabst, an 18-year-old who plans to study chemical engineering at the University of Portland.

While 17-year-old Ernesto said "I still asleep" Saturday morning, Omar decided that neither had much chance against Chuck McKinley, America's No. 2 junior.

So Omar, nominally Chile's No. 1 racqueteer, decided to drop into the No. 2 slot against the Americans in the hope of breaking even in singles.

That left Ernesto with the unenviable assignment of taking the licking from McKinley, a St. Louis 17-year-old.

And a licking it was — 6-0, 6-0, 6-1 — as Chuck radared his powerful drives to the court's corners.

But Omar's strategy paid a dividend.

In a brilliantly-played three-hour struggle, Omar staved off two match points in the tenth game to overhaul and out-steady 16-year-old Paul Palmer of Phoenix, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7.

The Chilean brothers, with Omar weary and Ernesto inexperienced, had little left for the doubles.

Larry Nagler of Los Angeles, who hadn't played earlier in the day, and McKinley, with nearly two hours rest, alternately ran and bombed them into defeat, 6-2, 7-5.

Barnes, unbeaten since Earl Buchholz mastered him in the Wimbledon Junior Finals last summer, made tennis look easy in trimming Venezuela's Haralt Valentiner, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

Teammate Edison Mandarino disposed of Juan Rubio, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1. Then they toyed with the Venezuelan pair in doubles, 6-1, 6-1.

Considerable player juggling may precede today's title jousts.

Dale Lewis, acting as the U. S. team's advisor, is due to confer with Robert S. Piatt, USLTA Junior Davis Cup chairman, by long distance phone before submitting his lineup.

And Lewis wouldn't be surprised to see the Brazilians attempt to guarantee a singles triumph with Barnes playing No. 2 and then putting title faith in their doubles duo.

Coming to the net behind his serve and playing the backcourt on Omar's service, the No. 4 ranked Palmer grabbed a 4-1 fifth-set lead in the singles.

On both his match points in the tenth game, Palmer overdrove the baseline as Omar, clinching his fist and giving himself pep talks in both Spanish and English, stroked and awaited such mistakes.

Asked if any phase of the Chilean's game bothered him particularly, Palmer said, "yeah . . . that last point."

McKinley credited his near-perfect game to "a shot of penicillin for my cold last night" and "when the umpire says things like 'United States serving' it makes you play harder than just for yourself."

The results:

BRAZIL 3, VENEZUELA 0

SINGLES: 1 — Ronnie Barnes, Rio de Janiero, defeated Haralt Valentiner, Caracas, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1; 2—Edison Mandarino, Rio, defeated Juan Rubio, Caracas, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

DOUBLES: Barnes-Mandarino defeated Rubio-Valentiner, 6-1, 6-1.

U.S. VS. CHILE

SINGLES: 1—Churck McKinley, St. Louis, defeated Ernesto Pabst, Santiago, 6-0, 6-0, 6-1; 2—Omar Pabst, Santiago, defeated Paul Palmer, Pheonix, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 9-7.

DOUBLES — Larry Nagler, Los Angeles, and McKinley defeated Pabst brothers, 6-2, 7-5.

Consolation

MEXICO 3, BELGIAN 0

SINGLES: 1—Jaime Camarasa Molas, Guadalajara, defeated Eric VandenBussche, Brussels, 7-5, 7-5; 2—Raul Katthain, Mexico City, defeated Luc Despiegeleare, Brussels, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

DOUBLES: Rolf Schlettwein-Katthain defeated VandenBussche-Despiegeleare, 6-2, 6-2.

COSTA RICO 2, ARGENTINA 1

SINGLES: 1—Julio Rojas, San Jose, defeated Ricardo Aubone, Buenos Aires, 6-0, 6-1; 2—Gerardo Wortelboer, Buenos Aires, defeated Luis Rojas, San Jose, 6-4, 6-2.

DOUBLES: Rojas-Rojas defeated Aubone-Wortelboer, 7-5, 6-1.

Maxim Turns Mat 'Villain'; Fangio Titled

Former World Light Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joey Maxim is now a rassler.

The Hollywood, Fla. resident, who earned the ring title while managed by Miami's Doc Kearns, is appearing in wrestling shows throughout Georgia.

Maxim's last "big" fights were 1957 losses to Eddie Machen in Miami Beach and Louisville.

Maxim won the light heavy title in 1950 by knocking out Freddie Mills in London, defended it successfully against Bob Murphy and Ray Robinson, lost it to Archie Moore, and tried unsuccessfully twice to win it back from Moore. Moore is now managed by Kearns.

I Was Using Live Bait, And . . .

LONDON—The biggest catch of 1958 belongs to James Stansfield, a 52-year-old retired news agent from Rawtenstall, England.

Stansfield was fishing in the fast-flowing River Wyre when he heard screams and saw 3-year-old Robert Reid drifting helplessly downstream, 20 yards from shore.

His first attempt to hook the child's clothing missed . . . the second was a bullseye. As he worked the boy in toward shore, the boy's sister tried to swim out to his rescue. Stansfield made it a double by preventing her from entering the water with one hand while he reeled the boy in with the other.

Boxer-Cop Reverses Field: Will Fight

NEWARK, N.J. —(P)— Newark's punching policeman, Eddie Dixon, Saturday night confirmed an International Boxing Club statement that he will go through with his featured television bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The 24-year-old Dixon, who Friday decided not to risk loss of his $4,600-a-year patrolman's beat here by prize-fighting, said Saturday night:

"I'm going to fight. That's all I can tell you. For further information get in touch with my manager, Obby Nelson."

Dixon, who has a 14-4-2 record, is scheduled to meet Gene (Ace) Armstrong, ninth-ranking middleweight contender, in a 10-rounder.

Friday Newark Police Director Joseph F. Weldon told Dixon that he would have to chose between the ring and police work. Weldon said he couldn't handle both jobs at the same time.

Weldon, informed of Dixon's latest decision, said he had "no comment."

Earlier Friday, an IBC spokesman said: "Dixon feels he has a moral obligation to fulfill the contract for the fight."

And Newark Councilman Irvine I. Turner said he would ask Weldon to let the patrolman fight his last bout Friday night.

"I am in full accord with Weldon," Turner said. "But the patrolman will gain a considerable sum of money which will help his family."

Manager Nelson said his fighter will make $4,000 from the Armstrong bout, and could easily earn $20,000 a year.

City Plans Links Talk

Plans for a revolutionary type of nine-hole golf course, proposed by Luther O. Morris of Atlanta will be weighed by the Miami Commission Monday, City Commissioner Otis Shiver announced. Morris is coming here to explain his idea in detail.

The city is interested because it is on the verge of letting a contract for a par-three course, adjacent to the full sized Miami Springs links.

Golfing Architect Mark Mahannah has told Shiver that Morris' plans have merit. His idea is for a golfer to hit three drives from the same tee and play a par three, four and five hole in succession.

Shiver favors the plan because it would involve little extra expense in constructing the par-three layout.

Eagles Sign Theron Sapp

Sapp, who hails from Macon, Ga., was the leader of the South's 21-12 conquest of the North.

As Pact Nears End, OB Casts Friendly Eye Toward Big 10

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Having profited more than once from long range planning, the Orange Bowl Committee will send a three man delegation to the National Football Coaches meeting at Cincinnati later in the week.

"We're going mainly to become friendly with Big Ten coaches," said Executive Vice-president Ernie Seiler Saturday in revealing he will make the trip with Jack Baldwin and Jess Yarborough.

The Big Ten's exclusive pact with the Rose Bowl expires after the 1960 game, Seiler explained. He added the word is out it will not be renewed, and the OBC wants to interest the Big Ten in the Orange Bowl game.

Even if no tieup is available, the OBC would like to set the stage for a Big Tem team being available to the OBC. Feelers were put out this past year to see if the Big Ten would permit Wisconsin to come here for the 1958 game, but this was impossible because of the Rose Bowl agreement.

President Hood Bassett, OBC chairmen and members were well satisfied with the success of their past Orange Bowl Festival, particularly the added feature of the Regatta being telecast nationally for 90 minutes by Columbia Broadcasting System. However, this increased the committee's expenses by $15,000.

"The city of Miami should have picked up the tab, in view of the excellent advertising for this area," said Seiler.

The OBC also plans to send representatives to the spring meeting of the Big Eight to emphasize in no uncertain terms that it expects the football teams from that conference to co-operate in use of the Orange Bowl dugouts.

Coach Bud Wilkinson set off a storm of protests by fans in refusing to have his team use the dugout and thus not obscure the view of fans in the North box seats. The current pact with the Big Eight has two more games to run.

It is likely the OBC at that time will return to the open shop policy in seeking both of its teams. Oklahoma is ineligible to return for the 1960 game under the Big Eight's no repeat rule. It was waived because of the past contest being the Silver Anniversary game.

Pending a full audit there will be no change in the estimate that Oklahoma and Syracuse will receive $180,000 each for their appearances here. The OBC which keeps only 25 per cent of the gate receipts and a like amount of the $175,000 TV and radio money, hopes to break even mainly because the Friday night fiesta, with the added attraction of fireworks, attracted more than 43,000 paid admissions.

First Landing, Tomy Lee, Tudor Melody

Top Juveniles Head 79 Flamingo Entries

The world's top juveniles of 1958 — First Landing, Tomy Lee and Tudor Melody — may meet in Hialeah's $100,000 Flamingo, it developed Saturday.

All three names were among 79 nominations announced for the 1 1-8-mile test to be run Feb. 28 as the first "hundred-grander" for 3-year-olds of 1959. The race seldom fails to point up favorites for the Kentucky Derby.

C. T. Chenery's First Landing, American champion whose $396,460 earnings set a world record for juveniles, and Tudor Melody, imported by Mrs. James S. Abercrombie and associates in an American syndicate, are two barns apart at Hialeah.

First Landing, beaten once in 11 starts, won six stakes including the world's richest race, The Garden State. Tudor Melody won five of six starts, including three stakes, all in England. He heads the 1959 English Free handicap at the exceptionally high weight of 133 pounds.

Owner Fred Turner, Jr., who has Tomy Lee in California, told Hialeah officials he wants to give his ace another fling at First Landing, who out-photoed Tomy Lee in The Garden State and Champagne Stakes. Tomy also is named for the Santa Anita Derby March 7, but Turner said that whether the colt is flown here for the week-earlier Flamingo will depend largely upon weather and track conditions at the west coast track. Tomy Lee won four stakes as a 2-year-old.

Eleven Flamingo eligibles won 23 stakes in 1958. Atoll captured a pair, as did Easy Spur. One each went to Sword Dancer (third in The Garden State), Troilus, Snommis, Scotland, Cedar Brook, and Rare Rice. The English Solvilio won three handicaps before being sent to America for Sanford Stud Farm.

The Flamingo will be having its 30th running. Only one foreign-bred horse ever won it—Irish-bred Turn-to in 1954.

Cane Pole Fishermen May Lose 'Free-dom'

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission Saturday endorsed an even dozen proposed law changes, including the controversial measure to eliminate free "cane pole" fishing.

All the bills, which will be put before the 1959 legislature, were recomended by the Florida Wildlife Federation.

O. Earle Frye, assistant director of the game agency, said six of the federation bills are considered of major statewide importance. The other six are worthwhile, but of limited or local interest.

One bill calls for a uniform $2 fresh water fishing license for all residents between the ages of 15 and 65, doing away with the current law allowing unlicensed residents to fish with no more than three poles in their home counties.

The bill would continue to exempt residents over 65 and under 15. It would license trotline fishermen.

Another measure in the package asks a special appropriation of $1,000,000 for statewide fish restoration and improvement, including land acquisition, boat launching sites and control of water hyacinth. The last legislature appropriated $532,000 for this purpose.

Sanders' Golfing Dilemma: Short Swing Vs. Long Future

By EDDIE STORIN

Herald Sports Writer

Doug Sanders, a calculating young golfer with a country-boy swing, sat propped on the edge of a motel swimming pool rubbing his bronzed left arm.

"Time is running out," Sanders winced. "I've got to change this cock-eyed swing of mine before it puts me out of golf for keeps."

STORIN

This came from the gent who upped his annual earnings more than $15,000 in 1958, only his second year in professional golf. But it's not a new theory. Sanders' fellow linksmen have been saying the same thing since he entered the amateur field back in the early 50's.

At first he pooh-poohed such thinking. His punch-swing made for superb accuracy. He got extraordinary power out of the terrific snap in his wrists. And he was winning.

Now, older, wiser and a victim of numerous injuries (more or less the result of his three-quarter swing), Sanders has altered his thinking.

"My career's going to be over by the time I'm 35 or 40 unless I do something . . . quick," he said.

"I'm going to have to quit the circuit for about six months or a year and put myself in the hands of an expert. I want him to teach me to turn away from the ball . . . lengthen the arc of my swing . . . get away from that brute strength stuff."

* * *

He Had to Hurry

The story of how Sanders developed his unorthodox swing isn't new. But it's worth re-telling.

Sanders was born in Cedartown, Ga., in 1933, which means he is nearing the golfer's prime of 25 years. He had hard knocks as a youth. His only interest in golf was the caddying fee needed so badly at home.

He began to sneak hurried and not-too-hidden swings on the narrow local course when players weren't looking.

Having neither the time nor money to play golf, Doug for several years was confined to these sneak swings. Their hurried nature probably accounts for what many pros say is the fastest backswing on the circuit.

"My parents didn't care much for my golf playing either," Sanders said as he puffed on a cigaret. "And I used to sneak out of the house at night, go out to the course, turn on the flood lights and chip and putt till daybreak."

Practice is almost an obsession with the handsome, curly-haired Cracker. "I used to practice until my hands bled," Doug will tell you. "I'm positive I wouldn't be half the golfer, if it weren't for hard work."

"Like most every other golfer, I developed ability," Sanders states without qualification. "Sam Snead and (Julius) Boros are the only two I know with natural ability.

"Boros is phenomenal. He never gets excited . . . always swings every club the same. Even his walk remains stable."

* * *

Killer on the Links

SANDERS who plays out of Miami Beach's LaGarce Country Club, has been described as the golfer with the "killer instinct." The reference brings extra sparkle to Doug's blue eyes.

"I don't believe in goofing around on the course," he said. "I think you have to play this game with everything you've got all the time. Right now he's giving his competitors fits in the Los Angeles Open.

"When I get over a ball and ready my swing, I think of somebody I dislike. I get so mean I almost want to hit myself. I simply try to make every shot count."

Sanders won the National Jaycee Junior Tournament in 1951, a lot of Georgia titles in his middle teens, and a scholarship to the University of Florida.

In 1955 he took the Mexican Amateur, repeated the Florida Intercollegiate, for the second time, and captured the Tam O'Shouter World Amateur title.

A Sport In Our Town

A year later he walked off with the Florida State Amateur on a sizzling 273. Then Doug became the first non-pro in 53 years to win the Canadian Open. A short time later he turned pro.

* * *

Tough to Stay Amateur

"I WOULDN'T have turned pro so soon," snapped Sanders, "if it hadn't been for the U.S. Golf Association (USGA). They don't realize it's almost impossible to be a true amateur.

"Golf is the toughest sport in the world in which to be an amateur. Heck," he explained, "an amateur football player gets room, board and expense money. A golfer can lose his amateur standing for just accepting a golf ball as a gift."

Off the links, Sanders packs a warm personality. He enjoys talking sports (especially football), plays a strong gin rummy hand and is "sort of a nut" on television and movies.

His first year as a pro, Doug earned only $2,893.57. Thanks mainly to more consistency and victory in the Western Open last spring, he hiked this figure over the $17,000 mark in '58.

"It's the future," Sanders says. "I'm worried about. And unless I get this swing straightened out, I won't have any future."

Braun's 364-Pound Shark Grabs Met Fishing Lead

A record 8-lb., 8-oz. trout, a blistering battle with a 364-lb. gray shark and the catch of a 125-lb. blue marlin paced the week's action in The Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament.

Thousands of entries indicate fishing is at its seasonal best in South Florida.

L. D. Pendleton of Islamorada set the high mark on trout, topping the former spin-casting record in the Met by 12 oz. He fished with Capt. Jake Muller, using 8 lb. line over the inside flats to boat the trout that measured 26½ inches in length.

The leading shark was hooked off Molasses Light by Philip G. Braun of Toms River, N.J., and weighed at Tom Cadenhead's Mandalay Fishing Camp on Key Largo. Its exact weight was 364 lbs., 14 oz., its length, 8 feet, two inches. Guiding honors went to Capt. Bill Ballard on the Paul Linda.

Capt. Gene Wall, Skylark II., on a charter to Cat Cay, found the tourney's first blue marlin for Edward G. Carpenter of York, Pa. His catch weighted 127 lbs. and was outstanding on 25-lb. monofiliament line.

Competition reached a high pitch in the third week of the Met with 23 anglers scoring citation catches and leading positions.

In the general division, outstanding fish included an amberjack weighing 61 lbs., for top score by Jack Pritzker of Chicago; a bonefish scaling 10 lbs., 8 oz. for Ralph Nichols of Linden, N. J.; a kingfish that hit 43½ lbs. for Sheldon Jospey, Glencoe, Ill.; and a permit of 33 lbs., 6 oz. to threaten the all-time Met record which stands at 39½ lbs. Credit for the catch went to George Ford, Jr., Philadelphia, who fished out of Key Largo Anglers Club with Capt. Earl Friday on the Sally II.

Buddy Carey on the Sea Boots, Pier 5, posted the leading wahoo for Gus Robert of Omaha, Neb. It weighed 40 lbs., 3 oz.

Another general division catch was a snook weighing 19 lbs., 13 oz., registered by Robert B. Richardson of Miami, who caught it in a Coral Gables waterway. It was weighed in at Gordon's Tackle Shop.

Plug casters showed gains on chiro, pompano and trout while spin casters hung eight new leaders on the scoreboard. Outstanding catch of the week, tacklewise, is the 17½-lb. jack brought in by Richard S. Coe, Miami, taken off Ajax Reef on 8-pound line.

Anyone of any age is invited to enter the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. There is no charge of any kind. Any of the 33 eligible fish reported at any one of the 80 or more weighing stations will win at least a free Year Book.

The angler's name and fishing record is inscribed on the front page. And your fish may win a trophy or a citation. If you catch more fish than you need and report the ones you turn loose, you may win a Sportsmanship Award or a Release Trophy.

Gun Cay-Miami Powerboat Race

'Finest' OB Regatta Winds Up on Saturday

By LUTHER EVANS

Herald Sports Writer

The multi-feature Orange Bowl Regatta, already acclaimed by participants as the "finest ever," will offer its sixth and final event next Saturday — the Gun Cay-Miami powerboat race.

More than 20 craft, including several of the world's fastest cruisers, are expected to make the run across the Gulf Stream to a finish point near Donovan's Channel off Dinner Key.

EVANS

About the time the leaders begin finishing, another major event will be getting under way in south Biscayne Bay — the annual Sunshine Sailing Regatta.

With one national and two state championships to be decided during the two-day competition, the Sunshine is certain to lure more than 150 sailboats.

The OB's 60-mile race from Gun Cay, replacing last year's Miami-Bimini test, will be in two divisions — an all-out speed run and a predicted log contest.

Starting gun is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday. It probably will be answered by such well known long-distance racers as Sam Griffith, two-time winner of the Miami-Nassau race Forest Johnson, easy victor in the Miami-Havana run last fall Gordon Hoover, Jimmy Wynne and Bob Collins.

* * *

Sunshine Races Hosted by Grove

COCONUT GROVE Sailing Club will be host for the Sunshine Regatta, tri-sponsored by it, the Miami Yacht Club and Biscayne Bay Yacht Club.

Headline races will be for Mid-Winter National Rhodes Bantam championship state title tests for Senior and Junior Moths as secondary features.

Twenty-one classes are to be run off with all except the three cruising divisions to be decided by three heats.

Opening race in each class comes up Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2. Second heats are ticketed for 10 a.m. Sunday, with the final at 1 p.m.

UIM Honors Solly Hall

A MEDAL OF HONOR for outstanding service to international motorboating has been awarded to Miami's Vivyan (Solly) Hall by the Union of International Motorboating.

Presentation was made by Gar Wood, famed former "Silver Fox" of racing, during the Orange Bowl Regatta.

Hall, chairman of the American Power Boat Association's International Affairs Committee, introduced three major innovations to the UIM, world-wide powerboating body with representatives in 34 nations.

During 1958, Hall effected the UIM's adoption of the APBA program for predicted log contests for cruising motorboats; sold the UIM on planning its first world championships for inboards and outboards in Italy in 1960, and also introduced the idea of Pan American Championships.

Show Officials Plan NY Junket

OFFICERS and directors of the Miami International Boat Show will visit New York en masse, Jan. 16-18, to see the National Motorboat Show.

"This will give us an opportunity to talk with many of our exhibitors and get a look at new models and boating products they will be showing here," said Peggy Leyshon, the Miami show's executive director.

The Miami exhibit, third of the nation's "big four" boat shows, is scheduled at Dinner Key Exposition Building, Feb. 20-25.

MYC Schedules Race Today

First of the Miami Yacht Club's series of bi-monthly race programs is carded at 12:30 this afternoon, an excellent chance for MYC'ers to tune up for the Sunshine Regatta.

Race Chairman Dick Davis, starting his fifth year in the job, has scheduled 10 classes.

Soviets Top Americans In Hockey

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— Russia's hockey team, slick, self-assured and tireless, walloped the U.S. Nationals, 8-3, Saturday for the first victory on the Soviets' American tour.

Jarred by a Yank goal in the first eight seconds, the Russians caught the Americans two men short a few minutes later and scored twice within a half minute to establish a supremacy they never lost.

Uncle Sam's team tried the same strategy of hard hitting and full-ahead skating that held the Soviets to a 5-5 tie two nights ago, but Russia's precision-movement offense produced a shower of goals.

Benjamin Aleksandrov, a blond 21-year-old center with a bullet shot, scored two goals for the Russians and Dmitrii Ukolov, a defense man, also had a pair.

Jim Westby and Dick Burg of Minneapolis and Paul Johnson of St. Paul scored the U.S. goals.

At times the seasoned Soviets produced passing patterns as exquisite as lace work. Occasionally they worked the puck around the attacking zone for a full minute, maneuvering for the best shot.

It might have been closer except for a fine goal tending performance by Nicholas Puchkov, a 28-year-old Red Army corporal who was alternatingly gambling and graceful.

He received polite applause frequently from a crowd of 7,766 at the University of Minnesota's William's Arena. But while the Russians smooth team work brought many "oohs" from the crowd, it got by far its biggest thrill seconds after the opening face off when Westby's booming shot from just inside the blue line got past a surprised Puchkov.

High Schools, Small Colleges To Reject 2-Point Conversions

By Herald Wire Services

The nation's 20,000 football-playing high schools and some 400 small colleges continue to reject the two-point conversion which major colleges adopted last year.

The National Alliance Football Rules Committee, meeting in New Orleans Monday and Tuesday, will get a report that the National Federation of High School Athletic Associations and the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics favor retaining the 1-point conversion for kick, run or pass.

Sports Roundup

The National Alliance committee is composed of representatives of the National Junior College Athletic Association, as well as the high school and NAIA groups.

Sentiment also is against a proposal to increase the value of a field goal from 3 to 4 points.

Two proposals favored by the group are:

That wearing a face protector be mandatory. (It now is optional).

And, that all hard material in hip pads and rib pads be covered with soft material of a stated thickness.

BOBBY LAYNE of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals said Saturday they had no regrets about passing up the Pro Bowl game to play in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu today.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell accused Layne and Matson of breach of contract in signing for the Hula Bowl although they had been selected for the Pro Bowl in Los Angeles next Sunday.

Neither Layne nor Matson appeared too disturbed when told of Bell's announcement that he would seek disciplinary action against them.

Meanwhile, at Honolulu, the pro-bolstered Hawaii All-Stars rule favoites to win their fourth game in a row. The All-Stars, composed of hometown gridders and 11 professionals from the mainland, is coached by Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, former Los Angeles Rams star who will come out of retirement to play today.

Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State, coach of the College All-Stars, has named California's Joe Kapp to replace injured Iowa Quarterback Randy Duncan. The game starts 7 p.m. EST.

Brown Calls Pass 'Key'

Stacy Snagged It —And South Rose

MOBILE—(AP)—"Yes, there was a turning point in this one, a big turning point," Coach Paul Brown of the winning South squad said in the dressing room after Saturday's Senior Bowl football game.

"Billy Stacy catching that big one," he continued happily. "That was the turning point. That's what put us over."

Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, was referring to the Mississippi State star's catch of a pass from Baylor's Buddy Humphrey on a play that covered 52 yards. The play carried the South to the North's 19 when the Rebels were trailing, 12-7, late in the third quarter.

Humphrey had found Stacy, a quarterback converted into a halfback, all alone near the left sideline and tossed a perfect pass.

Two plays later, Georgia's Theron Sapp, voted the South team's top back, bulled over from the seven for the touchdown that put the South in front, 14-12. The final score was 21-12.

Brown said the Humphrey-to-Stacy pass was "our big play. We hadn't used that play in the first half. We had several plays that we saved for the second half and that was one of them."

Brown said that "we had some bad breaks — fumbling, for awhile. We knew we had to come out in the second half and throw it. They were pretty strong up front. Awful strong.

"It's sure great to start the new year off with a victory," he said.

Rebs Trim North, 21-12

Grosscup to Joe Morrison of Cincinnati.

Dave Kocourek of Wisconsin failed to convert after each of the Yankee touchdowns.

The vote by sports writers for the outstanding player ended in a draw between Sapp and Odyniec. Hanson Churchwell, Mississippi guard, and Frank Geremia, Notre Dame, tackle, were chosen outstanding linemen for their respective teams.

Grosscup, who went all the way on offense for Coach Joe Kuharich's North team, completed 14 of 26 pass attempts for 168 yards. Humphrey, the nation's leading passer this season, completed only four of 11 for 97 yards for Coach Paul Brown's Southerners.

Grosscup was top passer in the nation a year ago.

Don Brown of Houston was the only runner to challenge Odyniec and Sapp. He picked up 82 yards on nine carries for the South.

Marquette Secures Coach

MILWAUKEE — (UPI) — Lisle W. Blackbourn, who directed the Green Bay Packers from 1953 through 1957, Saturday was named to succeed John Druze as head football clach at Marquette University.

Blackbourn will return to the school he left to join the pro coaching ranks. He was fired at the end of the 1957 season by the Packers and served this season as football coach and athletic director of Carroll College in Waukesha, Wis.

His appointment was announced by the Rev. John G. Holbrook, S. J., Marquette athletic board chairman, in the absence of Athletic Director Lary (Moon) Mullins, who was in Europe.

Naming of Blackbourn ended a two-month search for a successor for Druze, who resigned just before Marquette's last game of the 1958 football season. Druze had a 2-26-1 record in three seasons at Marquette.

During his previous four-year tenure at Marquette, Blackbourn had a record of 18-17-4. Under Blackbourn the Packers won 17 and lost 31 in four season. At Carroll last fall his Pioneer varsity won six, lost two and placed second behind Wheaton in the College Conference of Illinois. Since he left Marquette the Warriors have won only seven of 47 games.

The new Marquette coach has tentatively scheduled a meeting with the Marquette varsity squad Monday. He will travel to Cincinnati during the middle of next week as Marquette's representative to the Football Coaches Association convention.

Sanders' 135 Leads LA Field by Stroke

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Age faded and youth moved to the front Saturday as young Doug Sanders of Miami, shot his second straight sub-par round of golf to take the lead at the midway mark of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open.

The 25-year-old Sanders, winner of the Western Open last year and the Canadian Open as an amateur in 1956, toured the 7,000-yard Rancho Course in 69 strokes — two under par. His opening round was 66. He took the lead with a 36-hole total of 135.

One shot back was unheralded John McMullin of Alameda, Calif., a 23-year-old prospect. McMullin had a 66-70—136.

Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, the 44-year-old veteran who burned the course and its par 36-35—71 with a sizzling 64 Friday saw his game go to pieces Saturday as he required 77 to get around for 141.

Still in contention was a handful of tournament-tested pros.

Included were Billy Maxwell, with 67-70—137, and tied at 139 were Art Wall Jr., with a 68 Saturday; Dow Finsterwald, the National PGA champion, with a 69, and National Open Champion Tommy Bolt, with a 70.

The 1958 winner of the Los Angeles Open, Frank Stranahan, fashioned a disappointing 74-77—151 and failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Tied at 140, five blows off the pace, were tall Paul Harney of Auburn, Mass., with a 69; Howie Johnson, Glenwoodie, Ill., 71, and Allen Geiberger of Santa Barbara, amateur star from the University of Southern California.

Rounding out players who were still under par were Lloyd Mangrum, four-time winner of the tournament; big Mike Souchak, Masters Champion Arnold Palmer, Dutch Harrison, Jim Ferree of Winston Salem, N.C., and Bulla. All were deadlocked at 141.

Sanders, a 5-foot-10, 165-pounder, said he played better Saturday despite 3-putting a couple of greens. He holed a pair of 25-foot putts for birdies, another from 20 feet out, as well as putts from shorter distances.

Hillsdale Outlasts 'Table'

ARCADIA, Calif.—(AP)—Hillsdale defeated the mighty Round Table by a head Saturday to win the $50,000-added San Carlos Handicap before a crowd of 48,000 at Santa Anita.

Eddie Schmidt was third and Seaneen fourth in the seven-furlong feature event.

Round Table was between horses most of the way, but forged to the front—briefly—in the home stretch. Then Hillsdale closed strongly, edging Travis M. Kerr's thoroughbred.

The winner, ridden by Thomas Barrow, was clocked in 1:21 4-5. He paid $9.60, 4.60 and 3.70.

Round Table was in tight quarters right after the break, but Willie Shoemaker soon found an opening and moved the all-time money-winning champion into contention.

Round Table was 2½ lengths in front of Eddie Schmidt, who made a terrific run from the half mile pole on. Eddie Schmidt moved from 10th to third and had three quarters of a length over the Irish bred Seaneen, who ran fourth most of the way.

Round table got $10,000 for second place and ran his all time winnings to $1,346,364.

TUCSON, Ariz. —(AP)— Bob Cravens of Kentucky scored on an intercepted pass and blocked two conversion attempts to give the Major College Stars a come-from-behind 14-12 victory over the Small College Stars in the first All-America Bowl Saturday.

Cravens, a 192-pound halfback, snared a pass by Quarterback Bob Webb of St. Ambrose and raced 16 yards to a touchdown in the third quarter.

The game got off to a rousing start when Halfback George Dixon of Bridgeport University scored on the opening kickoff for the underdog Small School Stars. Halfback Ed Meador from Arkansas Tech took the kickoff on the two-yard line, and gave it to Dixon on a reverse on the 18.

Webb was named the outstanding player in the game. Meador was rated the best small college back; Claude Billingsley of Northeast Oklahoma, the outstanding school lineman. Nub Breamer of Oregon State was chosen the top major college back; Bob Harrison of Oklahoma the majors' top lineman.

Jockey Steve Brooks and Calumet Trainer Jimmy Jones, second from right, are obviously enjoying this trophy presentation more than most. The occasion was the Calumet-Bardstown-Brooks victory in Tropical's first Orange Bowl Handicap. In addition to Jones and Brooks, those with a grip in the silverware are Hood Bassett, Orange Bowl Commitee president and OB Queen Nanita Green. The other lovely young ladies are Orange Bowl princesses.

Plainsmen, Kentucky Post Wins

AUBURN, Ala.—(AP)—Auburn's torried Tigers won their 19th straight college basketball victory Saturday night, beating frigid Mississippi State, 97-66.

The Plainsmen, rated ninth nationally—behind the eighth-place Maroons — cut Mississippi State's string of victories at 14.

The Maroon machine — unbeaten this season — disintegrated before Coach Joel Eaves' eyes. The losers deliberately slowed the ball in the final minutes to keep the Plainesmen from reaching 100 points.

In the first half, when the shape of battle was taking place, it was simply a matter of percentages. Auburn fired 32 times to 31 for the Maroons, but hit 53.7 per cent to 36.6 per cent.

The final percentages were even more widely separated. Auburn ended with its 53.7 mark still intact, but Mississippi State slumped to a season-low of 26.4.

★ ★ ★

LEXINGTON — Unbeaten Kentucky rallied in the closing minutes to put down a Georgia Tech threat and take a 72-62 basketball victory Saturday night as the Wildcats hit the trail after their 20th Southeastern Conference crown.

Kentucky, after a cold first half, seemingly had rallied its forces and grabbed a 10-point lead before the middle of the second round.

Tech kept fighting back and managed a 59-59 tied on a basket by Bud Bleemker with 6:40 left but this was the last basket Tech made from the field.

Billy Ray Lickert and Sid Cohen led the final Kentucky charge that gave the Wildcats, the Nation's No. 1 team, their 11th victory.

★ ★ ★

PHILADELPHIA — LaSalle College, led by the scoring and rebounding of Bob Herdelin, overcame Manhattan, 78-71, in the first game of a Palestra College basketball doubleheader.

Herdelin, tallied 24 points, giving LaSalle its fifth victory in seven games.

★ ★ ★

NEW YORK — Glen Mankowski pured 24 points through the hoop to lead St. Louis to a 78-62 basketball victory over undersized New York University in Madison Square Garden.

Although St. Louis won rather handily, it took 16 straight points in the second half to put the Violets away safely.

★ ★ ★

KNOXVILLE — Tennessee rallied in the last two minutes to defeat Vanderbilt, 65-60, in the Southeastern Conference basketball opener for both teams.

Little Jim Henry, who led Vanderbilt with 22 points, put the Commodores ahead, 55-54, with 2½ minutes to play. The Commodores boosted their margin to 58-56 before Charlie Scott tossed in a field goal to tie it up at 58 apiece.

Keny Coulter then dashed in for a layup which put the Vols ahead, 60-58, with a minute and a half to go. Tennessee stayed in the lead the rest of the way.

★ ★ ★

DALLAS — Wayne Lawrence dropped in a field goal with three seconds left to give Texas A&M a 65-63 victory over Southern Methodist in a Southwest Conference basketball opener.

★ ★ ★

DELAND — Stetson University whipped Toronto in an intersectional basketball game, 74-53.

★ ★ ★

BUFFALO, N.Y. — St. Bonaventure, off to a sluggish start, exploded midway through the last half and turned back Boston College, 82-70, to keep its record clean at five victories.

★ ★ ★

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Furman's Paladins won their third game in a row and first Southern Conference victory of the season, defeating William & Mary, 78-70.

Hialeah Bombs Beach

Bombing Bernie Butts led Hialeah High to a 80-56 basketball victory Saturday night over home-standing Miami Beach.

Butts hit for 34 points against Beach. Twenty of the points came in the second half. In Hialeah's opening game against Gables, Butts dropped in 38 for a 36 point average to date.

Inexperienced Beach was hurt most at the foul line. Hialeah converted on 30 of 43 chances, Beach on 10 of 19 opportunities.

Hialeah, winning its second game without a loss, jumped into a 15-11 first period lead and never was threatened. It was the Typhoons' third loss in five starts.

The Thorobreds made the night complete by winning the opening B game, 52-39.

Sugar's Luck Running Out?

Basilio Eyes Title Again

By MEL DERRICK
Herald Sports Writer

Former Welter and Middleweight Boxing Champion Carmen Basilio thinks he will fight Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight title again . . . and knows he will win if he does.

"Robinson," said the vacationing Basilio Saturday, "can't be lucky all the time."

Lucky?

"Lucky," said Basilio. "He's a good fighter, but he's lucky, too.

"I could have won our last fight" (March 25 when Robinson regained the championship from Basilio on a split decision) "if it hadn't been for that eye injury." (Basilio's left eye puffed shut in the fifth round of the 15-rounder.)

"The next time, I'll make my own breaks."

Basilio, working out and watching television at Miami Beach during a holiday tour, said he had "discussed another Robinson fight with no one."

"But I want to fight Sugar again. I could still make the welterweight weight limit, but Sugar is where the money is."

Basilio, who admits he isn't making like a tourist ("When you get up at 6 a.m. for road work, you only want to watch television at night") will visit the Spring Hill Farm of former International Boxing Club president Jim Norris today for some quarter horse races.

"I'm supposed to present a sack of oats to the winner of the Pony Express race," said Basilio, tongue in cheek. "To the horse, not the jockey. Jockey ate the oats, he couldn't make the weight limit."

Basilio's near-future plans include a two-day quail-hunting trip with old friend Earl Crangle in South Georgia.

"Earl has a couple of field trial bird dogs for me," said Basilio. "I haven't even seen them, just bought them on Earl's advice."

And after the hunting?

"Then," said Basilio, "I'll go looking for Robinson again."

Seven-Year-Old Just Didn't Realize That Fish Was 'Impossible' to Catch

There is more truth than fiction to the oft-told story of the young boy who catches fish on a bent pin, while the nearby angler with fancy flyrod and tapered leader goes fishless.

This tale is not a testimonial to the superiority of bent pins over English-made fish hooks, for if the lad were equipped with the grownup's costly gear he no doubt would bag even more fish. Rather, it is a tribute to the simple and effective fishing philosophy of youth: "The way to catch fish is to go after them, and fish hard."

DUNAWAY

Youngsters are not hindered by preconceived notions of how to fish and what to fish with. While the adult is studying such things as wind direction and water temperatures, the youngster is tossing in his bait and getting ready to catch one. He usually does.

Behind the leading cobia entry in the Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament is a story to illustrate this point. The fish, which weighed 40 lbs., 12 oz., was caught by a seven-year-old boy, out from under the noses of some very experienced—and stubborn—fishermen.

* * *

Action Pretty Slow--for Awhile

CAPT. HOWARD HOLT'S private boat, the Skipjack, drifted over the blue Gulfstream waters off Miami Beach while the fishermen aboard sank shrimp-tipped jibs in search of kingfish. One of the hopeful anglers was Harry Holt, son of the skipper.

Action was pretty slow, but suddenly something happened to liven up the proceedings. One of the men spotted a dark shape close against the boat and yelled: "Look at that big shark."

Everyone stretched his neck, but the fish had disappeared under the boat, so they waited and watched. In a moment, a very small cobia nosed into view.

There was a ripple of laughter and a few wisecracks about the "big shark." But the laughter faded immediately, for a hulking, broad-shouldered cobia followed behind the tiny one. The second fish was 10 times as big as the first.

Naturally the anglers felt a strong urge to tie into this giant. But they were experienced. They had seen big cobia circle a boat before. Through that experience they had learned it was "impossible" to get one of the close-in cruisers to bite.

So the veteran fishermen just stared and drolled, their baits still hanging many feet below. But seven-year-old Harry was already in action.

"I'll catch him," he squealed. He cranked wildly on the handle of his small reel.

The bait came in and Harry dropped it a few feet ahead of the big fish. The cobia swam swiftly forward and gulped the shrimp without hesitation.

* * *

Cobia Landed, Subdued with Clubs

HOOKED LIGHTLY in the lip, the cobia swam outward in a wide circle, then came back toward the boat. It's doubtful the fish knew he was hooked. But Harry knew it, and he was battling for all he was worth.

Once more the fish went wide. Harry strained against the rod and again the cobia started toward the boat. This time Ray Barnett was set with the gaff.

The cobia came close astern and Barnett swung. At the top of the gaff the fish unleashed his full power for the first time. Water sprayed as if from a depth charge and Barnett's heels lifted from the floor.

Two men grabbed Barnett, and together they heaved the cobia into the cockpit. The powerful fish thrashed around, threatening to break up the boat and perhaps a few legs as well.

A well-coordinated attack with clubs ended the cobia's reign of terror before any serious damage was done.

The Met tournament had a new cobia lead, general division, all because Harry Holt had quickly grasped two simple facts:

There was a fish in the water, and a rod in Harry's hand.

What more could any angler ask for?

Outdoor
Tips

Keep Bait Cool, Man

Live bait will keep kicking longer if you maintain a low water temperature by adding chunks of ice to the bait bucket from time to time.

* * *

Watch Line 'Coil'

Monofilament line will "set" in coils if kept on the reel spool too long without use. If the coils bother you, attach the line to a solid object, back off and stretch tight. The line will straighten out and make for easier casting.

* * *

Try Pork Rind

Pork rind deserves more use among salt water anglers. Fresh water men swear by it, and it's just as effective in the ocean. Attach a strip to plug or jig and see if strikes don't increase.

* * *

Look for Cover

Remember that any bottom fish sticks close to cover. Move around until you find areas with reef, rocks or snags.

DEAR VIC,

The Florida State Rifle Association and the members of the League of Junior Rifle Clubs of Florida were happy over your article on the need for instruction for youngsters with their first rifles.

We hear much from those who violently oppose any kind of firearms training for young people and we sometimes wonder how boys ever learn to respect firearms. Our job here, in addition to sponsoring rifle clubs and tournaments, is to encourage civic and church groups to form Junior Rifle Clubs

If you should receive any inquiries as a result of your column as to location of local rifle clubs, please direct them to us. We also will do all we can to help groups who wish to organize such clubs.

DEAR VIC,

I don't know if I should send this to you or to the Tall Story Club. But it's true.

I was fishing off the Seven-Mile Bridge at Marathon with Louis Kramer and Clifford Fitzgerald, both of Miami. Using ballyhoo, Kramer hooked a mackerel. While bringing in the fish, a barracuda of about 50 pounds hit the mackerel and was hooked.

Not being able to lift the 'cuda out of the water, I was devising a rope gaff when a 12-foot hammerhead shark came up and swallowed the barracuda, also cutting the line.

We caught 16 mackerel, six bluefish and four large jacks.

All fur trapping will close March 1.

A special turkey gobbler hunting season will be held in Northwest Florida's Eglin Field Military Reservation March 28 to Apr. 5 from one-hour before sunset until noon each day.

Tar Heels Whip Irish

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — (AP) — North Carolina's fourth-ranked Tar Heels had too much height and talent for Notre Dame's basketball team Saturday, cruising to a 69-54 victory in a televised game.

Tom Hawkins, Notre Dame's high scoring ace, was held to only six points before leaving the game with a leg injury.

Francisco Impressive At Miami

Francisco, assigned to the lower class early games in the Miami Jai Alai Fronton at the beginning of the season, has so impressed officials with his consistency that he has been promoted to seventh game action.

The youthful Basque's 15 victories have him pressing Solana for the "most games won" title. In 16 nights of play Francisco has played in 89 games and finished in the money in 30 of them.

Last year Francisco won every title at the famed Manila Fronton in the Philippines and his Miami play this year has demonstrated a vast defensive improvement.

Hurricanes 'Help Good Will,' Play Toronto Thursday

No one can say the University of Miami's athletic teams aren't doing their part to improve international relations.

In past years, the UM has played both Cuban and Mexican teams in football.

The Hurricane basketball squad will extend the school's international scope Thursday night by taking on a Canadian quintet — the University of Toronto from Ontario.

Finalists in two of three pre-1959 tournaments, the Miamians will take the Miami Beach Auditorium court in quest of their seventh victory in 11 games.

Toronto will oppose the UM sophomores with five lettermen from last season's Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate champions, including its top scorer, 6-1 guard Don Lipke.

In addition, Bruce Hale's cagers will not own their customary height advantage. Only at center where 6-7 Harry Manushaw will operate against 6-5 Rollitt Goldring will the home team have an edge in stature.

Improving with experience, the Halemen forced Miami, Ohio, into overtime before succumbing in the Hurricane Classic finals Tuesday, 87-85.

Only once have they been beaten by more than five points — that a 93-77 surrender to The Citadel in finals of Citadel's Invitational.

Two of Miami's sophomore starters — Forward Ron Godfrey and Manushaw — were plagued by ailments in their own tourney's finals, although it was difficult to tell from their fine efforts.

Despite suffering from a severe cold, Godfrey scored 26 points in the title struggle. And Manushaw, though operating with a sore back, had only one less rebound in the tourney than top retriever, Tom Sanders of NYU.

Other starters will be Dick Hickox, the 5-6 boy prodigy and steady Senior Joe Gardner at guards, and much-improved Sophomore Bruce Applegate at forward.

Miami's freshmen, unbeaten in two seasons, will attempt to Coach Gene Stage in a prekeep that streak alive for liminary match with Miami Beach High's cagers.

601-Pounder To Rassle

Haystack Calhoun, a dainty 601-pounder, will face a former star of the $64,000 Question program, Wee Willie Davis, in a one-fall, no time-limit rasslin' match at the Miami Beach Auditorium Friday.

The co-feature will pit Paul Anderson, Olympic heavyweight weightlifting champion, against Ike Eakins, who bills himself as a "scientific wrestler."

Preliminary bouts start at 8:45 p.m.

How Can Cage Coaches, Officials Be Pals? Send the Coaches Home

Basketball officials in a national poll were asked; "What can be done to improve relations between coaches and officials?" One answer was, "Send coaches home as soon as the game starts."

Results of the questionnaire sent to sports writers by the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials reveal that 76 per cent of the writers feel that mechanics (including signals) during last season had improved.

For the fourth straight year, newsmen agreed that officials were doing a poorer job in making players committing fouls raise their hand.

The most controversial foul was the charge-block play. Next three plays in order were: steps, three-second violation and basket interference.

Officials are not too demonstrative in the eyes of 84 per cent of the writers. "Show-boating" still is frowned upon by all.

One comment was: An official should retire when he loses interest or hustle. The scribes did not feel age to be a factor, however. Six out of every 10 writers said that less backcourt fouls were called last season than in the past. This is a trend in the right direction.

Most missed violation by officials is "steps." Bench conduct has not improved in the minds of 54 per cent. The only solution offered is to call more technical fouls and call them early in the game.

Considerable work is being done in order to bring about uniformity in calls by officials in various sections of the nation. However, many writers declared not much progress has been made in recent years.

And, in answer to the question, How can officials help the writers? came this answer: "Call fewer fouls so the game will be shorter and we can meet our deadline."

Hollywood Pups Chase $10,000 Rabbit Feb. 17

By JOE BROWN
Herald Greyhound Writer

One of the richest stakes programs in the 25-year history of Hollywood Kennel Club was announced Saturday by President William Syms Jr.

BROWN

Two stakes totaling $15,000 in purses have been scheduled, and dogmen will not be required to put up entry fees.

A new $10,000 stake — the Hollywood Silver Anniversary—is booked Feb. 17 at the Broward County track. The annual $5,000 Futurity will be run in March as usual.

The Hollywood Silver Anniversary Special will be at 3-8th mile. First-round elimination races will be run Feb. 10, with greyhounds finishing first, second, third and fourth in each heat qualifying for the semifinal round. Semifinals will be run Feb. 13.

Title money will be divided thusly — first, $4,500; second, $2,500; third, $1,350; fourth, $900; fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth, $250 apiece.

Jan. 25 is the deadline for Silver Anniversary entries.

★ ★ ★

NEXT BIG Flagler stake, the $2,500 added Futurity, gets under way Wednesday with 24 youngsters competing over three rounds.

The top eight will clash in the final round Jan. 14.

The Ray Randle Kennel, with four entries, is given an excellent shot at the championship. Randle doggs include brothers Jot's Jiggs and Jotaway, and Say It and Imposer. Jot's Jiggs is winter speed champ with three 31.3 victories over the Futurity distance of 5-16ths.

Red Fork also has four entries with Master Flight, Master Pilot, Master Vote and Utility M.

Tough opposition may come from Blue Grass Kennels. Johnny's Best, Blue Grass Jo and Josie Turner.

Gold Cost, winningest kennel so far at Flagler, has entered Fragrant and Hurry Cleo.

Rounding out the competing in Wednesday's three first round heats are Master Cut, Mine and Yours, Returned, Master Spot, Gertie's Memory, Mr. Tears, Rio Grande Rose, May Bug, Bettie Bobbie, Mar Omit and Pittance.

★ ★ ★

ATTENTION of Miami Beach Kennel Club fans over the next few months will focus on 18 juveniles.

Some pups likely to visit the winner's circle include Golden Fairy, Slim Keys and Dinah D., owned by George Fulton, and Silverstone, Lee's Jacket and Dale Diane, owned by Mrs. Lena Hibel.

Other owners with promising juveniles include R. H. Stevenson — Reward Seeker and Rocker Sierra; Otto Wohlauf — Pat Vinci and Elsa G.; Meridian Kennel — Polar Night and Nocky's Game; James Conlen — Irish Time and Indestructible; and Fleet Wing Kennel — American Heritage and Everybody's Gal.

O. S. Looney's best pup is Lady Leonard while Jeanne Donahue has a promising star in Fable Begone.

Cuba's Exiles Come Loaded with Cash

Batista's Fall Means More $$ Here

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

South Florida can expect a big injection of Cuban capital as a result of the overthrow of the Batista regime.

Traditionally, officials fleeing to Miami after political coups in Cuba have brought huge sums with them.

Cuban government officials and foreign currency dealers from Havana began showing up in Miami early in December with large sums of pesos to be converted into dollars.

Three individual transactions two weeks before Christmas were reported to have totaled almost a million dollars.

So heavy was the trading in pesos that the Banco Nacional de Cuba, which must go on cashing checks regardless of who is in power, placed a $2,000 limit on U.S. exchanges.

Two of the three Miami banks which have exchange agreements with the Banco Nacional were reported to have stopped accepting pesos Friday, apparently because of uncertainty over the money policies of the new Cuban government.

In New York Friday, banks and foreign currency exchanges were flooded with Cuban pesos dumped on the market by dealers acting for fleeing Cubans.

Ex-President Fulgencio Batista, once a $40-a-month Army sergeant, amassed millions in Cuba before he fled the country for the first time in 1944. A large part of his fortune is invested in South Florida.

He is reported to have taken 100 million dollars out of the country in his latest exodus.

Another former president, Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, brought more millions into Florida in 1953 when Batista returned to Cuba and chased him out.

One victim of a Cuban political upheaval, the late Sen. Jose Aleman, left Cuba with an estimated 70 million dollars, settled in Miami, and built the city a stadium. His son still has big investments here.

Where does the money come from?

Each incoming Cuban government has made horrified charges about what its predecessors did with public funds.

Batista's successors in 1944 said they had discovered "wholesale fraud" allegedly perpetrated by the strong man's government.

There was some talk of extraditing Batista from Florida in 1946 for questioning about the disappearance of a $600,000 harbor-dredging fund.

When Batista came back into power in 1953, his treasury officials accused the administrations of Prio and Ramon Grau San Martin of record-breaking larcenies.

Scotch And Little Cars Are Boons

By JAMES M. HASWELL
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

WASHINGTON — Scotch whiskey, little cars, German cameras, and U.S. foreign aid are among the reasons why Western European countries have been able to:

MAKE THEIR currencies convertible, and,

DRAW U.S. gold reserves down to a marginal point.

Thirteen years after World War II the capitalistic nations of Europe are trying to free their pounds, francs and Deutschmarks from black markets, by backing them with enough gold to allay fears.

In preparing to get into this position the governments bought $1,318,000,000 worth of gold from the U.S. in a space of less than two years. Their purchases brought the U.S. gold stock down to $20,058,000,000 at year's end—about half the world's known gold supply.

European governments bought the gold through central banks with dollars received from sales of goods in the U.S., from services given U.S. tourists abroad, from proceeds of U.S. foreign aid and U.S. military expenditures in Europe.

Among sales of goods, the mushrooming market for European cars was most spectacular. British sales of autos in the U.S. rose from $48,000,000 in 1956 to a rate of $170,000,000 in 1958. Autos became England's chief export to the U.S., replacing Scotch Whiskey.

U.S. military foreign aid goes to Western Europe at a rate of $1,200,000,000 a year, and U.S. military expenditures in Europe amount to $2,000,000,000 a year.

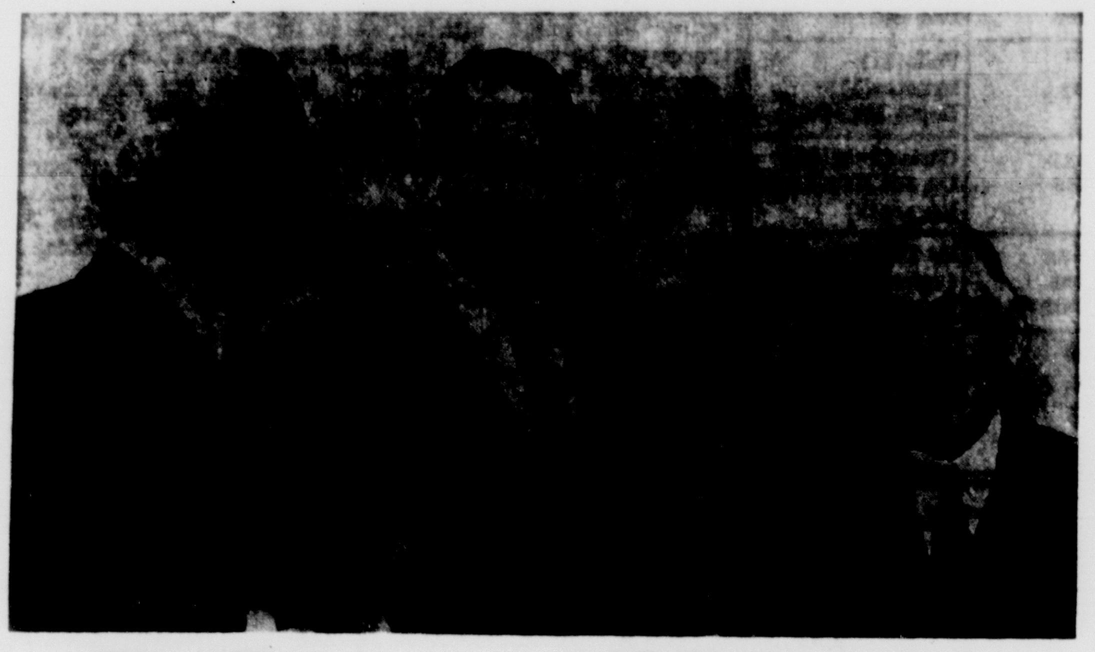
Very little of this reaches Europeans in cash. The detailed figures are secret.

A Congressional investigation in 1957 showed that only $2,100,000,000 out of $60,000,000,000 foreign aid was paid to other governments in cash. The United Kingdom received $91,000,000 and France $775,000,000.

But all agree that every U.S. dollar spent in Europe which replaces a dollar a European government would have spent, equals a gift of cash. U.S. treasury experts say they can't guess how much this might be.

European governments have plenty of the special kind of money used to buy gold from the U.S. This money is called "short-term dollar holdings of central banks." There's $8,400,000,000 outstanding.

It is U.S. Treasury practice to pay these claims in gold if asked to. There are similar claims, totalling $1,400,000,000, held by international banking institutions. The Treasury will pay gold to settle these, too.



Big Bosses

These three business giants in our midst have more than money in common. They're all involved in a multi-million-dollar shopping center about to go up at NW 27th Ave. and 79th St. S. S. Kresge, 92, left, head of a variety store chain, and Charles Kellstadt, center, president of Sears Roebuck, will have stores in the center. A. V. Davis, also 92, right, is a principal stockholder in the center, due for completion next year.

Northwest Borrowing $84 Million

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Northwest Airlines, Inc., has completed arrangements to borrow $84 million to finance its way through the jet age.

At the same time it reported it has signed contracts amounting to $67 million with Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Douglas Aircraft Co. for advance versions of the Lockheed prop-jet Electra, and the Douglas pure-jet DC-8.

Contract agreements call for Northwest to receive five DC-8's with options on four more and 10 Electras with options on two more.

Both Douglas and Lockheed have agreed to accept piston-engine aircraft now operated by northwest on a trade-in or sale basis.

Car of the Future—Atom-Powered to Last a Lifetime

By NED AITCHISON
Herald Automotive Writer

Do you ever dream of driving an atomic-powered automobile with a practically inexhaustible built-in fuel supply that could last for years—or even for the entire life of your car?

Well, you may find yourself behind the wheel of such a passenger car—some day—if present research by the American automotive industry pans out.

That's the opinion of George W. Walker of Detroit, vice president of the Ford Motor Co. in charge of styling all of its lines—Ford, Edsel, Mercury, Lincoln Continental and Thunderbird.

In an interview at the Surf club, where, with Mrs. Walker, he is spending the holidays, the famed industrial designer said:

"There are six or eight such experimental cars now running in the industry. And if atomic fission is harnessed as we expect it to be, the application of nuclear propulsion to automobiles should become a reality.

"If and when it does, the shape of our cars will be affected, and their styling will be different."

But the Ford official declined to make any predictions as to when atomic-powered cars may be put on the market.

In fact, he even declined to forecast what conventionally powered passenger automobiles of 10 years hence will look like.

Smilingly, he explained:

"I wish I could tell you what the distant future holds for automobile styling, but I can't. And I don't believe anyone else can, either. The person who claims to know exactly what the car of the future will look like is fooling either himself or his listeners.

"In the long run, the shape of cars to come will depend largely on public tastes, and changes in these tastes obviously will exert considerable influence on the automobile stylists."

However, Walker said, "an analysis of known barometers, combined with individual ideas of what people would like to see in cars of the future, permit us to outline a broad approach to the future."

George Walker
. . . new styling

These barometers, he added, includes "rapid growth of cities, the move to suburbs, the need for cars capable of moving large numbers of people independently from one area to another, projected improvements in highway facilities, and the need for cars capable of traveling at high speeds, safely, over great distances and with enough flexibility to maneuver in congested areas."

For present-day critics of American cars, Walker did have some encouraging word.

"I don't think the average U.S.-built car is going to get any longer or wider, or much lower. In some models we have about reached the practical limit of lowness, with 52 inches probably the eventual minimum in height. Lower cars would require new methods of entry through the use of sliding or lifting roof panels or some unique door action. Interiors will require new seating, which may be thin and form-fitting to provide ample knee and leg room."

One development the Ford official foresees is a multiple-passenger cruiser "as large as a bus, maybe larger," which would travel over long distances "at speeds that are unthinkable today.

"It would have sleeping facilities, TV to avoid boredom on long trips, and maybe provision to feed drivers and passengers. For that reason, our stylists have included a dining area in their thinking."

But, Walker warned, "Remember, in this case, we're not thinking of today, tomorrow or even 10 years from now. We're thinking of something that might be a common sight on our highways 30, 35 or even 40 years from now."

Leaving here today for Detroit, Walker plans to fly by PAA 707 jet clipper to London later this week to consult with officials of the British Ford plant. Mrs. Walker expects to remain here probably until May.

Eight Reasons Why Women Buy Autos

American women are an increasingly important factor in the nation's automobile market, George W. Walker, Ford Motor Co. vice president, declares.

"Forty per cent of the licensed drivers in this country are women," he points out. "Yet some 32,000,000 women over 15 years of age don't drive. If we could convince them that they can and should learn—and we hope to do so—imagine the market that might be opened up to us.

"And imagine the influence they might wield, remembering that the woman who is mobile invariably spends more money than the woman who stays home."

What makes women buy? With a chuckle, the Ford official lists "eight possible answers:"

1. Her husband says she can't have it. 2. It makes her look thin. 3. It comes from Paris. 4. Her neighbors can't afford one. 5. Nobody's got one. 6. Everybody's got one. 7. It's different. 8. She decided to buy.

"But," he grins, "I'm a little suspicious of that last reason. It seems much too simple. Yet, I suspect it's more important than all the others."

NAM Prexy Sees Inflation Danger

NEW YORK—(UPI)—Stanley C. Hope, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said he is a "restrained optimist" about the 1959 economic outlook.

The NAM chief said he expects most sections of the economy to improve at a "reasonable and encouraging" rate in the year ahead.

In a year-end statement Hope said that rapidly growing population, continuing record gross national product and personal income point to a strong showing by the economy in the months ahead.

"In spite of all these favorable factors," Hope added, "excessive government spending and the continuing wage-price spiral may heighten inflation to dangerous levels."

SIX MILLION DOLLARS IN 1958

$6,000,000 dividends on savings has been declared by FIRST FEDERAL for 1958. This is an all-time record for Florida financial institutions. In the past quarter century FIRST FEDERAL has paid on savings accounts dividends in excess of $32,000,000, likewise a state record for financial institutions. In this same period the Association has earned and set aside $18,000,000 in reserves to safeguard the future and provide its account holders the strongest possible assurance of future liberal dividends on savings.

There are about 6,200 savings and loan associations in the United States. According to latest available statements FIRST FEDERAL OF MIAMI has a larger amount in reserves than any but four of them. FIRST FEDERAL OF MIAMI ranks third among the 20 largest associations of the nation in ratio of reserves to savings. Reserve strength should be a prime objective of every financial institution.

Everyone who remembers the late 1920's and early 1930's in Miami can understand why the achievement of strength in our financial institutions is important. In those years of storm, panic, depression and severe failures, very few escaped calamity. This was Florida's darkest hour. And it was then that AMERICA'S OLDEST FEDERAL, the undersigned association, was chartered and opened for business.

The early days of the Association were not easy. The Federal Savings and Loan System was new, not yet understood by the public. Several thousand financial institutions had failed throughout the United States, many of them in Florida. Public confidence was at low ebb. Not many people had funds with which to open new savings accounts.

But perhaps it was better to face adversity in the beginning, and in the hard way learn some lessons which the management of every financial institution should know. Sooner or later economic adversity strikes most businesses and most families. The lessons learned from it should prevent more serious losses to others later on. There is no substitute for experience, no substitutes for conservatism and strength in financial institutions which safeguard the money of other people. The savings institution which does not play safe, and create strong reserves itself, is scarcely in good position to urge others to do so.

The Federal System of insured savings and loan associations was founded to improve the economic position of the American people. It is charged by law with the functions of promoting thrift and debt-free home ownership. In the relatively brief span of 25 years it has grown faster than other systems of state or Federally chartered financial institutions ever grew in a similar period. In recent years this Federal System of insured savings associations has been taking nearly 40% of the urban home financing of the United States. In this state these Federally insured savings institutions hold more private savings and finance more homes for Florida people than any other class of financial institution.

The 1958 financial statement of the Association will be ready for distribution in a few days, and is available on request. It will show resources in excess of $230,000,000; savings accounts aggregating about $200,000,000; protective reserves exceeding $18,000,000; and mortgages owned approximately $190,000,000. In recent years operating costs have been gradually declining in ratio to resources; and operating profits have been gradually increasing. These trends have increased reserves steadily and have made possible the dividend disbursements previously mentioned.

In recent years Florida has prospered and has grown rapidly in population, production and wealth. For the past 6 years Florida has been second only to California in the rate of population gain. 25% of this increase in population is in Dade County alone. The rate of increase in the personal incomes of our Florida families is one of the highest in the nation. Although Florida is one of the fastest growing states in the Union, the savings associations in this state are growing even more rapidly. About one family in every three in Florida has an account in a savings and loan association.

The holders of these savings accounts consider them to constitute the family cash reserve to provide immediate assistance in any emergency. These protective funds are necessary alike to people of modest means and to people of wealth. It is an almost universal practice among persons and business concerns of great means to keep their affairs "liquid" so that ready cash in substantial amount is always available when needed. Protective cash reserves of this kind are "saved capital." It is only through the process of earning and saving that any individual or family attains genuine social security, as well as funds with which to take advantage of opportunities as they occur.

Many financial authorities have listed the savings and loan associations as one of the greatest sources of private investment capital. These associations, for the most part, are mutual institutions owned by those who have savings accounts therein. They render essential services to savers and home owners and pay liberal dividends.

We hope you select FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF MIAMI in which to build your cash reserve. It is the oldest and one of the largest in the nation. It is the largest mutual savings institution in the South, strong in reserves and equipped to serve you well.

Coffee Laws 'Has-Beans'

HELSINKI, Finland—(UPI)—Coffee price regulations that dated back to 1939 disappeared Saturday, sending Finnish housewives to market in search of bargains.

Prices on coffee dropped between 10 and 25 per cent. Finland started coffee rationing during the winter war of 1939. Rationing ended in 1954, but price controls continued. The last control ended with the lifting of the price equalization law, which siphoned off a varying percentage of the coffee price to keep the price structure stable.

Personality Test For Motorists?

NEW YORK —(AP)— One of these days you may have to see a psychiatrist before you can get a driver's license.

A study at Columbia University's Safety Education Institute is comparing the frequency with which such characteristics as nonconformity or hostility occur among traffic violators.

The theory is that if a connection is found between certain traits and violations, possible violators can be screened ahead of time by a personality test.

The Grass Is Greener - Here In Florida!

During the next five years the growth of population, commerce and industry in the State of Florida will continue upward to new heights. The Florida Development Commission predicts a minimum of 80,000 new housing starts per annum.

Since 1940 this firm has been identified with Florida investments. For 1959 we have carefully selected five basic Florida companies that should be direct beneficiaries of the population growth and industrial progress of our State.

HERE THEY ARE:

American Bankers Life
First National Bank of Miami
Houston Corporation
Florida Power and Light
Stevens Food Markets

SUMMARY of ADVICES ON 850 STOCKS

Now is the time to put your investment house in order to protect and increase your capital in 1959. Not for many years past have there been such wide discrepancies in the performance of individual stocks. The surprising extent to which all stocks ranked in Group I (Highest) by the Value Line Survey have outperformed all stocks ranked in Group V (Lowest) during the past nine months is a matter of record. (The audited results will be submitted to you for your own appraisal.)

Your first step should be to check each of your stocks to see how they measure up for Probable Market Performance in the next 12 months (whether in Rank I [Highest], II, III, IV, or V [Lowest]), how they rate for Value, Safety, Income, and Appreciation Potentiality over a 3 to 5 year pull. The Value Line Survey provides objective and specific measures on each count. These Rankings are available exclusively in the Value Line Survey.

With the latest SUMMARY before you, available only in the Value Line Survey, you would have at your fingertips the conclusions reached in the 1,000-page Value Line Survey, enabling you to check every one of your stocks against objective and current measurements of value, to choose the strongest and safest stocks for your own list. A copy of the latest Value Line SUMMARY will be sent you at no extra charge under the Special Introductory Offer below.

A SPECIAL $5 INTRODUCTORY OFFER*

Under this special offer, you would receive at no extra cost the following valuable investment aids to guide you to safer and more profitable investing:

1. COMPLETE SUMMARY OF ADVICES on 850 stocks to enable you to check all your stocks at once.

Electronic Help Due

LOS ANGELES — (UPI) — The farmer of tomorrow may sit on his porch and direct operation of his motorized farm equipment by electronics.

Richard E. Griffin, the University of California farm adviser for Los Angeles County, said a tractor equipped with electronic devices for starting and stopping the engine as well as for performing other tractor operations has been demonstrated successfully. He said engineers foresee the day when one man can operate several tractors and other equipment at the same time by radio controls.

Wine Brings Record Price

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN, Germany — A record for wine sales in Germany was set recently at an auction in Trier. A "Wehlener Zeltinger Sonnenuhr Trockenbeerenauslese" from 1949 sold at the rate of 140 deutsche marks a bottle, the equivalent of about $33.50.

Government's Loss Is Your Gain

Some Taxes Are Lower Now That '59 Is Here

WASHINGTON — (AP) — With the new year, about 200 changes in federal excise taxes are in effect. The government figures to lose 42 million dollars a year in revenue as a result.

The average American won't notice much difference since 42 million is a fraction of the 8.5 billion dollars which Uncle Sam expects to collect this year in excise or sales taxes as they are sometimes called.

Here is a summary of some of the more important revisions:

ADMISSIONS TAXES — the first $1 charged for admission to theaters, ball parks, lectures, etc., is now tax exempt. The 10 per cent admissions tax applies only to any amount above $1. Formerly tickets costing 90 cents or less were tax-exempt but the full price of more expensive tickets was taxed.

LUGGAGE AND JEWELRY TAXES—Congress has eliminated broad definitions of items taxable at 10 per cent and substituted lists of specific articles subject to tax. This levy is assessed at the retail level.

CABARET TAX—Milk bars of the sort frequented by teenagers are now exempt. Formerly the 20 per cent tax applied to all establishments serving food or drink and providing entertainment or dancing.

DOCUMENTARY STAMP TAXES—The basis for taxing securities and other documents and stock transfers has been revised. Rates also have been changed. In the case of securities, the tax formerly was based on their par value. Henceforth it will be based on their market value.

WAGERING TAX—The 10 per cent excise on all wagers accepted formerly applied only to the person ultimately responsible for accepting a bet. Now it also applies to runners who merely act as couriers for wagerers.

CLUB DUES — Special assessments levied against members of country clubs and similar organizations to finance capital improvements have been exempted from the 20 per cent tax.

BROAD EXEMPTIONS — Privately operated swimming pools, bathing beaches, skating rinks, and other places for physical exercise are now exempt from federal admission taxes. The exemption used to apply only to government-operated facilities of this type.

Maybe he's the man!

His looks don't matter, neither does his name. What really counts, is his job. Because this man is a Merrill Lynch account executive. A man who really knows something about stocks and bonds . . . who likes to talk about them with anyone who asks . . . who has provided investment guidance for people with a wide variety of problems but a uniform confidence in his judgment and his conscientious desire to help. He's one man who never makes you feel that you're wasting his time—or that you have to buy anything, either.

Maybe he's the man you've always wanted to meet—the one to talk to about your own situation.

Maybe you'd like to ask him just a few general questions about investing . . .

Maybe you want some sound advice on how to start your own investment program and earn 4% or 5% today on your extra money, whether it's $500, $5,000, or $50,000 . . .

Maybe you want a seasoned opinion on some particular stock, current facts on a certain company . . .

Or maybe you'd like to arrange for a thorough analysis of all the stocks you already own. In any event, just ask.

Because helping you is an account executive's job. He gets paid a salary, doesn't have to sell you a thing, and there's no charge of any kind for his services except when you actually buy or sell.

If you'd like to meet him face to face, he's always here at our office. Or if you prefer, you can simply write for the help you want. Just address your letter to —

Big Payoff

$12 Billion Dividends In 1958

NEW YORK — (UPI) — American corporations paid their stockholders $12 billion in cash dividend in 1958.

This compared with $12,400,000,000—the all time record—in 1957.

In the early part of the year, when corporate profits were feeling the full impact of the recession, many companies cut or passed their dividends. Some deferred payments until the third quarter.

The great majority of corporations set their regular dividend rates at levels which they were confident could be maintained even in the face of moderately reduced earnings.

A number have been following the practice in recent years of supplementing these payments with extra dividends. But fewer extra or special dividends were declared this year as directors of many companies deemed it wiser to conserve working capital.

American Telephone & Telegraph led all companies with a cash payment for the year of $633,930,000, the highest distribution ever paid in American corporate history. The previous record payment of $592,245,000 was made by General Motors in 1955.

This year GM stockholders received $555,380,000 in dividends, unchanged from last year.

Record payments by utilities reflected the highest earnings ever reported by that industry, which led all others in dollar disbursements. Petroleum and natural gas companies, chemical, financial, food products, office equipment, retail trade, shipbuilding, tobacco and miscellaneous businesses increased payments.

Two Papers Hike Prices

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UPI) — The publishers of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times announced that street sale and home delivery prices of the newspapers will be increased effective Monday.

Street sale and newsstand prices will be raised from five to seven cents a copy. The price of The Sunday Courier-Journal will remain at 20 cents.

The home delivery rate for either daily newspaper will be increased from 30 to 35 cents per week. Subscriptions to either daily and the Sunday paper will be increased from 50 to 55 cents a week.

Idea Is Worth $5,000 to Him

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. — (AP) — Harry A. Bullifant had an idea he thought would solve the curved plate problem which has plagued shipbuilders since the early days of steel ships. He took it to the research committee of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co., for which he works. Result, a $5,000 check for Bullifant. The company believes it is not in conflict with any previous patent.

HOW WALL STREET JOURNAL READERS WILL LIVE BETTER IN 1959

By a Subscriber

Since I started reading The Wall Street Journal, my income has increased from $9,000 to $14,000 a year.

But that is only part of the story. The Journal not only tells me how to earn more money—but also tells me how to get more value for the money I spend. That is why I believe that Journal readers will live better in 1959. Greater INCOME and greater VALUE for money spent.

For example, an automotive article in The Journal helped me trade in my old car at the right time. An article on building supplies gave me ideas on remodeling my home and showed me how to save $900.

Articles on food and clothing point out the things to stock up on in order to save money. Articles on taxes guide me on what to do to keep my taxes down.

The Journal also gives me a better understanding of what is going on in the world. In conversation with other men I find that I know how to interpret business and government trends a little better than they do. They wonder where I get my "inside dope."

This story is typical. Because the reports in The Wall Street Journal come to you daily, you get quick warning of any new trend that may affect your income. You get the facts in time to protect your interests or seize a profit. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $25,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small business concerns. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you. MH 1-4

Let Barron's Help You

PICK GOOD INVESTMENTS IN 1959

Try it for 17 weeks... only $5

To help you build your capital and increase your investment income—get a trial subscription to Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly. It will give you the facts you need to make yourself a better judge of the investment values in today's markets.

No other business or investment publication is like Barron's. It is written for the man who makes up his own mind about his own money. It is the only weekly affiliated with Dow Jones, and has full use of Dow Jones' vast, specialized information in serving you.

In Barron's you are shown what, where, and why the REAL VALUES are, behind current security prices. You get clear, well-founded information each week . . . on the condition and prospects (the changing fortunes) of individual corporations—and on industrial and market trends.

A trial subscription—17 weeks for only $5—brings you:

Everything you need to know to help you handle your business and investment affairs with greater understanding and foresight . . . the investment implications of current political and economic events . . . the perspective you must have to anticipate trends and grasp profitable investment opportunities.

See for yourself how important—and profitable—Barron's can be to you in the eventful weeks ahead. Its subscription price is $15 a year, but you can try it for 17 weeks for $5. Just tear out this ad and send it today with your check for $5; or tell us to bill you. Address: Barron's, 392 Newbury Street, Boston 15, Massachusetts.

Benefit Balls Crowding The Private Parties?

By Helen Wells

Herald Society Editor

There seems to be a drastic change on Miami's social front this season. It appears that members of the social set have chosen to socialize at the big benefit balls instead of giving elaborate private parties as in the past.

At this point there is only one large private party on the social calendar, that of Eleanor and Charles Sykes, a cocktail dance at the Surf Club Jan. 30. In other years, before Miami was inundated with charity balls, the date book was full to overflowing.

This year there are 14 benefit balls scheduled. We've already had the Beaux Arts, Opera, Vizcayans, Mt. Sinai balls and Young Patronesses tea dance.

Facing us during the first part of January are three beautiful balls. There's the Symphony Club's Soiree Symphonique at the Fontainebleau Jan. 15, where Golden Note tables for 10 are $1,000; the Junior League Ball Jan. 17 at the Eden Roc at $30 per couple and the Variety Children's Hospital Ball the same night at the Diplomat at $25 per plate and $50 for patrons.

After that there will be the Orchid, St. Francis, Easter Lily, Heart Ball, Mercy Hospital and Polio balls.

It stands to reason that those who donate and go to all of the benefit balls are not going to spend more money on lavish private entertaining.

As one wag remarked, "Name a disease and there's a ball for it!" And sure enough here's an invitation from New York for the International Debutante Ball for the benefit of "kidney disease."

Not that the cultural balls and the hospital benefits aren't good causes. They definitely are. But isn't there a limit to what a community can support?

Lady Doctor On Program For Surgeons

By ELEANOR DIXON

Herald Club Editor

One of the few women who will take an active part in the International College of Surgeons' Southeastern Regional Convocation which starts today is Dr. Harriet E. Gillette.

Dr. Gillette, a cerebral palsy specialist, has twice conducted special clinics on CP in Miami at the request of Dade County Society for Crippled Children. At the time she was medical director of the Aidmore Crippled Children's Hospital in Atlanta, Ga. Now she is an instructor in surgery at the University of Florida School of Medicine, Gainesville.

Dr. Gillette is scheduled to address the ICS section on plastic surgery Tuesday afternoon on "Physiatric Management of Hand Disabilities."

The convention, which starts today and continues through Wednesday, in the Americana Hotel is expected to draw about 1,000 physicians and surgeons.

* * *

A SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR NURSES in connection with the ICS convocation will be held in the hotel Monday, sponsored by the Florida Nurses Association.

It is open to all registered nurses and no registration fee is required.

Miss Eleanor Bindrim, of St. Francis Hospital, named "Nurse of the Year" by the Florida Nurses Association, is chairman of the program. She says it has been designed to emphasize what is important to the nurse, especially the operating room nurse.

Miss Nan Kelly and Mrs. Florence Kisskolt, both of Jackson Memorial Hospital, are working with Miss Bindrim.

Nurses who attend will hear top men in the fields discuss heart surgery, coronary heart disease and surgery, aortic and arterial grafts, and hypothermia, especially the practice of giving ice baths to lower a patient's body temperature prior to surgery.

In the afternoon, the nurses will have an opportunity to ask questions of a panel moderated by Dr. Edward R. Annis, chairman of the department of surgery at Mercy Hospital.

WIFE IS A WIFE AND SHOULD BE

Pal To His Wife?

By FRANK LOWE

Women's News Service

NEW YORK—This propaganda that a wife should be her husband's pal has got to stop.

I don't know about you, but pals I can acquire by the hundreds. And due to some stuffy thinking on the part of the lawmakers, I can acquire only one wife.

And a wife she has to be.

Actually, this ill-tempered diatribe is the result of my falling for this "palship" malarky, at least temporarily. One day not so long ago while trapped in the car waiting, I whiled away the time by reading a magazine my wife had abandoned on the front seat.

* * *

THERE IT WAS, an article on how married couples can keep that mad, reckless glow hotted up all during the years, if only they will "share" their thoughts, their worries, their hopes.

Well, lately I've found that I don't glow so easy, and, while I figured it was merely due to those passing birthdays, I also was willing to admit that perhaps I had erred. Perhaps I was cutting my wife out of my life—and if passing on some of my worries to her would help things out, well, I've got lots of worries to pass around.

The very next day I put this new philosophy into practice. When I got home, my wife asked how things had been at the office, and instead of grunting, I sat her down and gave her a complete fill-in. The boss had chewed me out, the office boy was casting covetous eyes at my job, my secretary had obviously got wind that I was in the doghouse because my coffee was consistently cold.

"Outside of that," I concluded, feeling palsy as all get-out, "it was a normal day."

The reaction wasn't long in coming. That night, instead of sizzling chops, I was served some tired leftovers. When I queried this change in diet, I was told:

"Well, if things are as bad as you claim, we'd better cut down. At your age you might not be able to get a new job too easily."

If this kind of "pal" conversation is calculated to keep one glowing, you certainly can't prove it by me.

* * *

AND THINGS WENT from bad to worse. This ill-fated magazine article had also advised discussing one's future plans if one expects to maintain a happy home. And, while contemplating my future is a depressing prospect, I got down to talking about it through gritted teeth—and somewhere along the line mentioned that the years to come had to include a sailboat for daddy.

Had I mentioned the possibility of running off with Marilyn Monroe, the reaction could not have been more violent.

Within the short space of 10 minutes I learned (for the first time) that our car is literally falling to pieces, the stove, refrigerator and washing machine have been attracting admiring looks from the local junkman, my wife's fur coat is three years old, and, apparently, my 7-year-old is due to enter college any day.

So I jammed my hat down over my ears and headed for a small oasis where there is some real "pal" talk — who made the crucial error in the world series, why is Brigitte Bardot so talented . . . stuff like that.

Financiers Joined Social VIPs In Nassau for Big New Years

Lyford Key Hostess and Guests

NASSAU — 1959 was two days old before some Nassau celebrants had finished ushering it in!

Fred and Elinor Edwards switched the locale of their traditional New Year's Eve party from their home "Norfred" to the Coral Harbour Yacht Club, for a combined shindig with Harry and Leslie Cruickshank (it was also Harry's birthday). Thirty in all were transported by bus across the island to the club.

After the festivities in the wee hours, all left en masse for the Prince George Hotel where they had rented a suite (with bar natch) to watch Nassau's Junkanoo Parade!

In their party were Philly Mainliners Ruth and Jack Merriam; Joan and Stephen Briggs (Outboard Marine); Sir Peter and Lady Grant-Lawson; Monique and Roger Tyler (U. S. Consul) Dorothy McNab, well known designer who winged up from Montego Bay for the occasion and Col. Morgan Morgan and his long limbed Peggy.

At Bennett and Germaine Macgregors' (Bethlehem Steel, Canada) table we glimpsed enchanting Amy and Ernest Buckerfield (Vancouver, B. C. big shot); Condi Maiden and Mrs. M. of Melbourne, Australia; Paul and Francine Hubert (Crucible Steel) and her very youthful mother Lucy Philippson of the great shipbuilding family (built the Normandie, the Isle de France etc.); Cleveland industrialist Jim Crawford and his delightful missus; and others.

Good looking Byram Ramsing and his delightful spouse journeyed down from Palm Beach, Sally and Jim McKillips of Miami Beach in a party of six. Among the yachting fraternity we spotted the Ned Dunns whose lovely yacht "Nedell IV" is berthed at the Club.

Two Continents Were Represented

PEOPLE CAN'T GRUMBLE that THIS resort has lost its eclat!

There was a two-continent cast of characters prominent in Society with a capital S and in Finance with a capital F at Mrs. Robert "Bab" Holt's elegant cocktail soiree at her luxurious home "Bali H'ai" at Lyford Cay. The party honored Sir Cyril Salmon (one of the most brilliant judges in the U.K.) and comely Lady S.

To do a little name and title dropping we saw: Sir Bede Clifford (he's former governor of the Bahamas) and stunning Lady C; Socially impeccable New Yorkers Carman Messmore and his svelte Leonora; Lary Muriel Huggin whose recent divorce from the former Governor of Jamaica received beaucoup columar attention, with beauteous daughter Diana McKinney.

Lady Clifford

Also there were those magnetic internationals Col. Ilia Tolstoy and Prince Dimitri Djordzadze (he's the latest of Lady Sylvia Ashley's mates); Junoesque Peggy and Denis Hickman; Roy McDermott (industrial and oil nabob from Houston, Texas,) who came over from the Coral Harbour Club with Mrs. M. and his boat guests Dallas oillonaire C. B. Miller and his wife and socially prominent Kentuckians C. A. Bachaus and his divine looking missus. The McDermott party arrived in true Texas fashion with a native band which had caught their fancy!

The Christie clan was well represented by Harold who had in tow Mrs. Richard Doane (Mary Goodfellow) who tells us her new home at Governors Harbor is almost completed, and Frank and Francise Christie; Industrial whizz Ed Taylor and his Winnie (he includes the very exclusive Lyford Cay development in his vast $$$inancial empire),

Celebrities in Our Town

A TETE-A-TETE at Coconut Grove Playhouse Restaurant was TV's Superman, George Reeves, and Lenore Lemmon of New York's cafe society. Miss Lemmon, an actress and author, is working on a book while visiting here.

OTHER CELEBRITIES are Mr. and Mrs. Goodman Ace of radio-television "Easy Aces" fame. Goodman, a top television writer, and wife Jane spent the holidays here. She'll remain for the season, while he spends weekdays in New York.

JEANNE MARTIN BUSY WITH FAMILY OF 7

Ex-Orange Bowl Queen 'Not Jealous'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Womens Editor

HOLLYWOOD — If you have a sense of humor you can take anything in stride, says little blonde Jeanne Martin, who looks like a teenager but is top sergeant to a houseful of seven children and her dashing husband, Dean.

She is the former Jeanne Bieggers of Miami, 1948 Orange Bowl queen.

"I'm so busy sorting socks, picking up toys and settling teen-age love affairs that I wouldn't have time to be jealous of Dean even if I wanted to," says Jeanne. She was holding little Gina, 2, on her knee while expertly taping a baseball bat for Dino, 7.

The Martin home in Beverly Hills usually resembles a children's day camp, with mama Jeanne a sort of junior counselor, leading the gang in a game of "run-sheep-run" or water polo in the swimming pool.

When Jeanne and Dean were married in 1949, the light-hearted bride inherited a ready-made family of four children—Craig, Claudia, Gail and Deana, then ranging in age from 7 to 1. Since then the tribe has been increased by three more—Dino, Ricci and Gina, aged 7, 5 and 2.

The older children now have attained teen-age status and the accompanying problems, but Jeanne rules the roost with accomplished ease and frequent attacks of giggles.

"I can hardly keep up with birthdays," says she. "We have them all the time—always with parties, of course. I have to hold roll-call at dinner time to be sure everybody's here, and it's practically impossible to find a free phone in the house."

There's no lack of discipline in the Martin menage. There are rules for everybody, and everybody observes them.

"The teenagers take much more concentration," says Jeanne. "Both Claudia (14) and Gail (13) are real beauties, and the boys are always around here in droves.

"Gail isn't allowed to go out on dates yet, but Claudia can go out if she double-dates with another couple. Usually she double-dates with her brother, Craig, (16) and that's fine.

"Craig is going steady with a wonderful girl, and they look after Claudia. It all works out very well.

"Actually the kids usually prefer to have their dates come to the house, because everybody has so much fun here. There are so many of us that there's never a dull moment."

Jeanne Martin is a happy woman, who has worked out this philosophy of life:

"There's no problem we can't laugh off, because here there's always plenty of love and plenty of fun."

NO TIME for jealousy says Mrs. Dean Martin, the former Jeanne Bieggers of Miami, who holds daughter, Gina, 2.

Children's Art Classes Registration Is Set

Registration for second semester classes in the Children's Workshop of the University of Miami's Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery takes place Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Classes will begin the week of Feb. 1.

Open to children of gallery members from five to 15, the workshop offers general art instruction as well as specialized training in puppetry, ceramics, sculpture and painting.

Classes meet on Wednesday afternoons for the five to seven year olds. Older children have classes on Saturdays.

The gallery will also sponsor a sketch group this spring for high school students. Students will be selected on recommendations made by their high school art teachers. While no formal instruction is planned, students will receive critical appraisal of their work.

Director of the workshop is Jo (Mrs. Anatole) Kowalchuk. She is assisted by Bette Kowalchuk, Helen Spach, Sue Roberts, Barbara Mickelberry and Marion Lovett. All are members of the Dade County Art Teachers Association.

Club Calendar For Today

Today's events include:

CORAL GABLES Court 6, Order of Amaranth, installation rehearsal, Masonic Temple, 41 Valencia Ave., Coral Gables, 2 p.m.

CLUB SOCIAL Sophisticates, post New Year's dance, San Marino Hotel, 8:30 p.m.

PARIS, France — Judging by these advance mermaids of 1959, it's going to be a young summer, gay but refined. The use of silk (in ravishing colors) carefully tailored with a couture look, gives Paris beach life a new elegance. Cotton gives it youth.

A yellow called Pernod is in every collection, and a rouge-orange, and a azure like the Mediterranean sky. There is a summer violet, a flax flower blye, bud greens and a range of pinks. But the "vedette," as the French call any star performer, is black and white.

... black bathing suits with white toweling tunics that are tubular and split up the sides to the waistline ... black and white striped bathing suits under white toweling coats lined with stripes ... black and white gingham.

* * *

TIKTINER of Nice, noted for its beachwear, does an ensemble called Eden Roc—black poplin pants, white coat and a big black straw hat with the brim lined with daisies. Dubois, also of Nice, does the same combination in linen. Max Mozes of Paris accessorizes many of his white costumes with black.

White also teams with navy, and it goes alone. Tiktiner maintains that it has three whites: vibrant white, profound white and pure white.

There is a great deal of gray, in Vichy and Oxford, and in rose-flowered cottons, and a blue and white striped denim called St. Tropez.

Tiktiner likes a girlish pink gingham and makes shirts, shorts and skirts of it.

* * *

THE ONE-PIECE, covered-up bathing suit is new, somewhat obscuring the bikini. It is for honest-to-goodness swimming. For dabbling and paddling there is a specially designed ensemble.

There is a line of boxer shorts, in printed cottons, for boyish types, but the perennial three-piece ensemble, with full skirt opening up the front, is still good.

Toweling tunics, ending above the knees and hemmed with fringe, are in every collection, in every color.

The Empire mode, which was a boon to the lingerie industry, now makes a sortie to the beach, and we have a Baby Doll chemise with bloomers and a short gingham tunic belted under the bosom. Whether the Empire will survive the January haute couture collections remains to be seen.

But Does It Go?

PARIS — (WNS) — The ideal 1959 automobile for women has been sent on a tour of 70 Fench cities. Its body is white and fuchsia, its seats are white fur, the floorboards are carpeted in moss green, and there are white nylon curtains at the windows.

The front seat has room only for one lady driver, so that she can spread her gown in comfort. The back seat is set at an angle to make conversation easier with the driver. The car also includes a telephone, a dressing table and a bar.

Plants and flowers are planted just below the rear window, and there is also a cage for two lovebirds.

Two lights in the rear can be turned on at will. One says: "Excuse me, I'm a lady driver." The other: "Please stop following me."

Single Working Girls Save Money By Sharing Apartment

By MARY MILLER
Budget Consultant Mercantile National Bank of Miami Beach

Money Clinic

From the questionnaires which come in to the MONEY CLINIC, it seems that the people who find it easiest to save money are the working girls who live at home and pay only a token sum for room and board.

Several have indicated that out of moderate salaries they are able to save as much as $70 or $80 a month.

The trick, then, for the single working girl who does not live at home, is to duplicate home conditions as nearly as possible, by sharing an apartment with two or three other girls.

The biggest expenses in most budgets are for shelter and food. If you can keep those down, you have something left over for entertainment, travel and savings.

Suggested Budget

$60 a Week Salary

Take-home pay $51.30 a week, $256.50 a month.

Rent (one-quarter of $100 a month)		$ 25.00
Utilities (split four ways)		6.00
Food		40.00
Insurance—life	$7.00
Health & Hosp.	8.00	15.00
Entertainment, advancement		25.00
Misc. personal expenses— transportation, beauty parlor, cleaning & laundry, etc.		25.00
Clothing		25.00
Gifts		10.00
Vacation		15.00
Free for church, charity & savings		70.00
		$256.00

* * *

LET'S TAKE a single girl making $60 a week, of which $31.30 is take-home pay, and work out a sample budget.

Suppose she shares a hundred-dollar-a-month two-bedroom apartment with three other girls. Her share of the rent is $25, and of utilities about $6, making a total shelter cost of $31 a month.

The four of them, cooking their own food, can eat well for about $150 a month. In fact, a $40 a month food allowance per person, should be enough to cover not only breakfasts and dinners, but also lunch money.

We will include in this budget about $7 a month for life insurance. This would buy about $5,000 of ordinary life insurance taken out at age 25. The reason we recommend life insurance for even single girls is that we feel all young mothers should carry some—and the younger you take it out the lower rates you get.

Every working girl should also have hospitalizaton insurance, and if possible additional insurance for doctor bills.

However, so much of this type of insurance is paid for in whole or in part by employers, that it is difficult to set a budget figure for it. I have given a purely estimated figure of $8 a month for health and hospitalization insurance, but it might need to be much less.

* * *

THE BUDGET FIGURE of $25 a month for entertainment and advancement should cover such items as dues in professional organizations, special educational expenses, etc.

Clothing is a hard item to budget, because some girls feel that dressing well is a means of advancement, and a wise investment. Others would rather economize on clothes, and save money or spend it on a car, or on glamorous vacations.

Furthermore, there is a great difference in shopping ability among individuals; some girls have the talent of dressing smartly on very little money, others don't.

The budget figure given for gifts, $10 a month, is meant to cover Christmas gifts. The smartest way to put this money aside is in a Christmas Club Savings account. It's a painless procedure, and gives you a wonderful feeling when the gift season rolls arounds.

The accompanying budget shows a balance of $70 a month to be used for savings, after church and charitable contributions have been taken out. (The latter are determined entirely by an individual's own conscience and special circumstances, rather than by a budget adviser.)

* * *

THERE IS one thing to be pointed out about this suggested budget. It does not allow for a car. If the working girl wants a car, the remaining $70 a month is going to be spent right there.

Your car, standing still, costs about $50 a month. This doesn't include payments. It covers the insurance and depreciation on a fully-paid car. Insurance you know about—especially if you've tried to get your liability insurance policy renewed lately.

"Depreciation" is the difference between what you paid for your car, and what it will bring you when you sell it or trade it in on another.

The figure of $50 a month is an "average" one. Big, expensive cars will cost you more than little or old ones in depreciation. Running expenses—gas, oil, tires, repairs—also vary with the size and splendor of your car, but will probably run between five and ten cents a mile.

Allowing five cents a mile, and 400 miles a month, the running cost would be about $20 a month.

If you are going to try to tuck a car into this budget, and still save any money, you'll have to cut down on clothing, entertainment, vacations and gifts.

(If you want help with a family money problem, write for a MONEY CLINIC Questionnaire, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to the Miami Herald Home Money Management Service, Unit 4, P. O. Box 630, Miami.)

Turkey Scraps? Make Turnovers

Finish the holiday bird by using the last bits of meat and crisp brown skin for turnover filling.

Saute minced onion and celery in butter, add turkey scraps, chopped pimiento and grated carrots.

Put spoonful of mixture in center of turnover pastry, made from packaged mix or your own recipe.

Brush edges of pastry lightly with water, seal edges, brush tops lightly with milk and bake in 450 degree oven about 15 minutes.

Shake a Mug

To wash mugs and pitchers in intricate shapes, fill each mug half full of suds. Cap the mug with the palm of your hand and shake vigorously. Rinse with scalding water. If necessary, repeat the process, and use a dishmop.

USE BRIGHT PANS

Cakes and pies baked in bright pans will have lighter colored bottom crusts than those baked at the same temperature for the same length of time in dull pans.

SEPARATIONS TO BLAME?

Why Overseas Servicemen Are Murdering Their Wives

WEISBADEN, Germany — (WNS) — The murder trial in England of an American airman is focusing Europe's attention on the alarming rise of marital troubles among U.S. service men stationed abroad.

The airman, Sgt. Marcus Marymont, 37, of Hobbsville, N.C., is being tried by an Air Force court in Denham, England for the arsenic murder of his wife.

He denies the crime, but admits falling in love with another woman — a pretty 23-year-old English girl named Cynthia Taylor.

Statistics at the U.S Air Force's European headquarters here show that one in every four service couples split up before their marriages have passed the five-year mark.

It's Out of Sight And Out of Mind

A USAF chaplain reported: "The biggest cause is lengthy separation of husbands and wives. Today, nearly 1,500,000 servicemen are on duty overseas at 109 bases around the world. Less than 10 per cent of these men have their families with them.

"Our experience proves absence doesn't make the heart grow fonder. Just the reverse — out of sight, out of mind."

The services recognize that divorces are undermining morale and efficiency. Steps are being taken to meet the problem, mainly to provide more and better housing.

But there is a limit to what can be done, and most officers concerned regard divorce as the unpleasant but necessary price to be paid for defense.

* * *

Are Servicemen Moved Too Often?

THE ARGUMENT is over where to draw the line between efficiency and capricious movement. The complaint is that the services move married men too often.

There will always be philanderers within, as well as outside, the services, but marital counselors condemn service personnel policies for encouraging philandery.

The services counter that mere proximity is no guarantee of a successful marriage — no more in the service than outside.

Good Buymanship Can Save You Dollars

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

Is one of your New Year's resolutions to keep a tight rein on food spending for '59, but continue to feed your family well?

It can be done, says the National Association of Food Chains. Ups and downs in cost of living figures published by the U.S. Department of Labor need have little effect on your own food bill if you develop the art of buymanship, says the NAFC.

The index covers some 80 food items, the same items month-in and month-out without regard to supply and demand. A food shopper can choose from among 4,000 to 6,000 items in her supermarket.

Some of these items are good buys any day you shop.

Jeanne Voltz

Choose intelligently and you can save dimes, quarters and even dollars.

Planning is your first line of defense against high food costs.

Newspaper food advertisements are a guide to foods in best supply, quality and price, says the NAFC. It's a money saver to write down menus, using the ads as a guide, and a shopping list.

But keep the menus flexible. You may find a better buy for an item on your list as you shop.

These sample menus translate good buymanship into supper on the table.

The largest single portion of the food dollar goes for, the main dish—meat, poultry or seafood. So each menu is based on a main dish which will be low cost for the next few weeks.

Meat Balls Simmered in Onion Sauce
. . . serve with salad of crisp greens and radishes

Meat

Meat Balls in Onion Soup
Whipped Potatoes
Garden Salad Bowl
Heated Rolls, Butter
Baked Apples

Ground beef, which will serve four to six persons per pound, usually is about a third the cost of steak, which will serve two to three per pound.

Another rule of good buymanship applies to the potatoes.

Are fresh potatoes to boil and whip less expensive than packaged instant potatoes? Except in time of shortage, fresh potatoes usually are less expensive. Is it worth the time you save to pay a few cents more for the instant potatoes?

For the salad fresh Florida greens are coming to market at budget prices. You are buying in season. Another season when greens are more high priced and-or of doubtful quality, you might choose cabbage or carrots for salad.

Apples have been and will be a good buy for several weeks. But come summer, you might choose melon for dessert. Apples usually are expensive and less high quality in the summer months.

This is the way to fix the meat balls, six nutritious servings for a few cents each.

Ground Beef Is Inexpensive

Meat Balls in Onion Soup

1	pound ground beef
3/4	cup rolled oats, quick or regular
1	egg
1/2	cup milk
1	teaspoon salt
1/8	teaspoon pepper
1/2	teaspoon tarragon, if desired
1/3	cup flour
2	tablespoons fat
1	envelope dry onion soup mix
2 1/4	cups water
1/2	cup dry wine, if desired
	Parmesan cheese, if desired

Combine beef, rolled oats, egg, milk, salt, pepper and tarragon. Blend thoroughly. Shape into 18 medium-sized balls and roll lightly in flour, saving extra flour. Melt fat in fry pan. Brown meat balls over moderate heat.

Dissolve onion soup mix in 2 cups water and add to meat balls. Cover and cook over low heat until done, 20 to 25 minutes. Mix remaining flour and water to a smooth paste and stir into onion soup. Cook until smooth and thickened. If desired, stir in wine 5 minutes before serving. Just before serving sprinkle with cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Fish Gumbo Is Robust Eating
. . . ladle from a tureen into soup bowls

Fish

Southern Fish Gumbo
Crackers, Butter
Raw Vegetable Relishes
Warm Gingerbread with Peaches

Fish prices vary widely, and often a less expensive fish can be substituted for an expensive one.

Fresh or frozen fish may be used in a gumbo or chowder. Many fish make good gumbo — grouper, snapper, redfish, cod, haddock or ocean perch among them. Which is your best buy?

For dessert, you may choose between canned and frozen peaches. Figure the cost per serving according to price per package or can.

This gumbo is a hearty dish and easy to make.

Hearty Gumbo Easy to Make

Southern Fish Gumbo

1	pound fish fillets
1/3	cup butter or margarine
2	large onions, chopped
2	green peppers, chopped
2	1-pound cans tomatoes and okra
2	teaspoons salt
1/4	teaspoon pepper
1	bay leaf
1	cup cooked rice

If fish is frozen let thaw on bottom shelf of refrigerator or at room temperature. Meanwhile melt butter in saucepan. Add onions and peppers and cook until tender. Stir in canned tomatoes and okra, salt, pepper and bay leaf. Cook over low heat at least 15 minutes. (Longer cooking does not hurt gumbo so long as fish has not been added.) Cut fish fillets into cubes. About 10 minutes before serving time add fish and rice to gumbo. Cook about 8 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

Chicken and Rice with New Flavor -- African Style
. . . chicken has tomato, onion and green pepper sauce

Chicken

Chicken and Rice, African Style
Green Pea Salad On Escarole
Cornsticks, Butter
Butterscotch Pudding

Broiler-fryer chickens will continue a good buy through most of the year. But only an imaginative cook can take advantage of a week-in, week-out good buy without boring her family.

But a new recipe can make a budget chicken exciting.

Know the cost per serving to shop more wisely for peas. One pound of fresh peas provides two servings, a one-pound can, four servings, and a package of frozen peas, three servings. Which is least expensive in your market this week?

Cornsticks you mix usually are less expensive than packaged mixes or ready-baked breads. Is the extra time and effort worth the saving in pennies?

There is a choice of milk for the pudding.

Canned evaporated milk mixed with an equal amount of water has the same food value as fresh whole milk. Nonfat dry milk, mixed according to package directions, gives the same amount of protein and calcium.

Will you choose the less expensive nonfat dry milk or is the flavor of fresh milk worth the price?

The chicken recipe is an adaptation of an African dish. The chicken is simmered in tomato sauce with onions, green pepper and hot pepper sauce.

A New Recipe To Vary Menu

Chicken and Rice, African Style

1	3 pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
1/4	cup salad oil
2	medium onions, coarsely chopped
1	green pepper, finely chopped
1	cup water
1	8-ounce can tomato sauce
1/2	teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1	teaspoon salt
3	cups hot cooked rice

Brown chicken on all sides in oil in deep skillet. Add onion, pepper, water, tomato sauce, hot pepper sauce and salt. Cover and simmer 1 hour or until chicken is tender. Add more water if needed. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

GUIN HALL

And here's one for the authorities on teenagers.

The eight panelists from South Dade and North Miami High Schools unanimously agree that there is ONE major teen-age problem.

That's time.

"How do you budget your time?" asked a pretty South Dade girl with a hint of desperation in her voice.

"You just make a choice of what you want to do," answered a North Miami boy.

But it's not that simple, retorted one of his feminine classmates. "If someone asks me to do something I always say yes even if I don't have enough time.

"I usually have 40 hours of things to do in 24 hours. My mother has even begun asking for appointments to see me."

"I have something definitely planned only for Monday nights, but I get caught in the web," commented a North Miami boy. "There's so much to do in a city this size."

* * *

SOUTH DADE teenagers said their problems are mostly of their own making because most of their school activities are limited to school hours.

But the North Miami girls declared that they spend every spare hour working with their school service clubs.

"And you have to make your grades," one pointed out. "Extra - curricular activities are secondary. In order to participate in activities, you have to have a good scholastic average."

"How do you make your grades and keep on with your activities?" they were asked. Said both: "You have to study into the wee hours of the morning."

"Since this Russia thing, they're getting much more strict," noted a North Miami boy. "Last year they said that if you studied one-and-a-half hours to two hours a night you'd have the weekends free. Now you can't have the weekends free from study."

* * *

THE PANELISTS agreed that studying now has to have priority in budgeting time.

"But I don't get home from school until 4. By the time I relax and tell mother about the day it's time to help her with supper," said a South Dade girl.

"I've found that when I have too many things to do, I tend to do the least important first," said a North Miami boy. "I put the most important things off to the last minute so I end up doing my term papers, for instance, at the last minute."

A South Dade boy said that even having time enough for study is no solution to his time problem.

"Since I have a phone in my room, I get so many calls or I think of someone to call when I'm supposed to be studying. Or I hear a song I like on the radio and sit and listen to it.

"It might take 15 minutes to do an algebra problem when I work it step by step between interruptions."

* * *

ONE of his girl schoolmates said she had her solution to that: "When I study at home, I make the supreme sacrifice. I turn off my radio and ask mother to take messages when the phone rings."

"Curiosity would kill me," gasped another girl. "If the phone rang I'd be afraid it might be a boy calling for a date and he wouldn't call back."

"Well, I do make exceptions," the first girl admitted.

The one brave soul who seemed to have the fortitude to budget his time is a South Dade boy.

"Since I'm in the accelerated course, I just have to budget my time to get my studying done.

"I try to get off as much as I can during the week and put off social things and activities to the weekend."

Each Sunday The Herald presents the Teen Panel, ideas on problems and situations of interest to the teenagers. The panel is composed of four leaders from each of the two schools represented.

Today's teen panelists are:

Wives of the 1,000 delegates expected to attend the International College of Surgeons convention beginning today have a social program planned for them by the Woman's Auxiliary.

Mrs. Schofman

Mrs. Manuel A. Schofman, 636 NE 101st St., Miami Shores, is in charge of the women's events. These include a hospitality room in the Americana Hotel (convention headquarters) Monday through Wednesday, and a fasion tea at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Burdine's Lincoln Rd. store.

Wednesday the women will visit Vizcaya, the Dade County Art Museum; take sight seeing boat rides, and play golf. Working with Mrs. Schofman are Mrs. H. Carleton Howard, co-chairman, Mrs. Fred A. Gunion and Mrs. Wayne Martin.

If You're Planning Wedding

Monday noon is the deadline for engagement and wedding stories to be used in the Sunday paper. Information must be in The Herald women's department by MONDAY NOON.

Engagement announcements are printed in SUNDAY papers only. Stories of weddings that take place on Saturday are printed in the Sunday paper.

For weddings that take place during the week, the stories will be printed the day after the wedding, whenever possible. Deadline for these stories is noon of the day preceding the wedding.

We publish only those weddings for which we receive information and picture before the wedding.

We ask prospective brides to decide whether they wish their engagement or wedding picture published. We print only one picture — whichever you prefer — but will use both engagement and wedding stories.

Home Chorus Will Sing At Party

A group of residents of the Jewish Home for the Aged will sing at a noon Thursday life membership and sponsor party of the Greater Miami Women's Auxiliary of the home in the Algiers Hotel.

This chorus of oldsters will be led by Mrs. Sally Mann, a volunteer from the Greater Miami Section, National Council of Jewish Women, who coaches the group.

Life members (who give $100 and sponsors (who give $25) will be guests of honor. Mrs. David Phillips is in charge of life members; Mrs. Morris Boroskin and Mrs. Tobias Sussman are co-chairmen of sponsors.

'New York Is So Alive, So Human; I Just Arrived and I Love It'

By MARY GOODFELLOW
Herald Columnist

NEW YORK — Wearing space shoes, a short thick coat and a soft gray felt pulled over eyes that were blue as the Lake of Como, Milan architect Gio Ponti seemed to bounce through the glass doors of Alitalia's new office. This is his latest achievement, and 66-year-old Ponti whose versatility embraces painting, sculpture, engineering, industrical design, author and even publisher ("Domus" architectural magazine) is truly the complete artist. He follows Italy's centuries old tradition like a Cellini or a Michelangelo.

The heritage also applies to his collaborating pupils Melotti, Riu and Fuime, who given full rein by Maestro Ponti have brought art as abstract as the Museum of Modern Art (around the corner) to this "island" office in the heart of our bustling metropolis.

Fausto Melotti's ceramic tiles in the blue and white herringbone floor and the undulating walls have the light airiness of outer space. The beauty of this artist's fragile statuettes and the oh-so-tall vases with sunflower faces make your catch your breath.

Romano Riu's ceramic plaques are pure Arabian Nights whimsy, depicting "magic carpets" and birds flying on planes — "the most likely air passengers," says Ponti, and the strong Sicilian temperament shows in Salvatore Fuime's majolica torso-shaped vases used for greens.

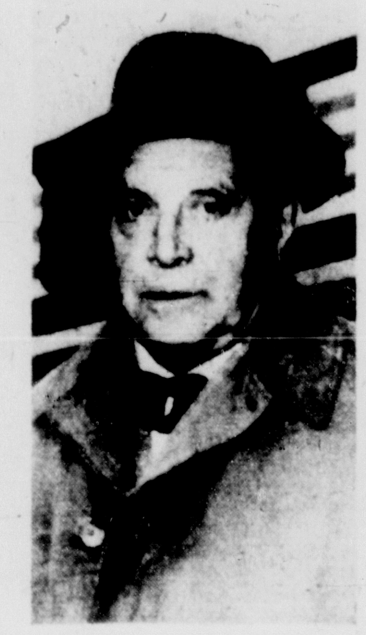
"When people praise this place," said Ponti, "I'm filled with emotion for my country." He covered up his embarrassment by showing us the sturdiness of a delicate white ash chair weighing only two and a half pounds.

"Everyone's so nice to me, and I don't deserve it," said this simple man whose architectural works are in evidence in Milan, Rome, Sao Paulo, Caracas, Buenos Aires, Bagdad and Stockholm.

With a wave of his arm that spanned the universe, he went on, "New York is so alive and human; you have the contrasts of ultra modern sky-scrapers, the geometric design of tall buildings against the low brown stones, and the first shock of skaters below the imposing Rockefeller structure I've just got over — now I love it!"

We asked this great architect what he thought of Frank Lloyd Wright's new Guggenheim Museum on Fifth Ave.

Ponti hedged slightly, then with a shrug replied, "Only drove past it, and after all any genius can permit himself one mistake."



'Like a Cellini'

ONE of the most interesting teams we have recently met in the world of modern design are Rhoda and Herbert Bright. They decided that Mr. and Mrs. America could have prettier and more practical floor coverings.

So, they borrowed designs from the marble floors of the Greeks and Romans, inlay parquet from Britain's early churches, and translated these patterns into a modern medium — vinyl tile.

The young Brights, who have a boy of 12, walk to their Madison Avenue office.

Rhoda, a shapely blue-eyed blonde, says her only problem with this constant companionship is that she agrees to stay on her side of the bedroom in the morning.

A former fashion designer, Mrs. Bright drafts all the designs. She often combines cork with plastic tile, and sometimes her patterns repeat the theme of the wallpaper or printed draperies.

Herbert who got his first big job — and far from last — from decorator Melanie Kahane, has taken great pains to develop the proper cleaning process for vinyl which he calls "Relax with Wax."

* * *

ANOTHER COMPATIBLE TEAM we know are Dr. Eugene and Flora Morrell who recently invited us for drinks at their antique art gallery in Greenwich Village.

Bored with the dental drill and after collecting for years abroad, Morrell fixed up an old gutted five-room apartment to show and sell his treasures. To keep his hand in, he devotes some time to oral surgery in a children's clinic.

New Wonder Drug Cosmetic Restores Young Look to Aging Skin

Medical Tests Show Helena Rubinstein's Ultra Feminine Face Cream Reverses Two Aging Processes of Skin and Restores Young Skin Tone

Now it is possible for you to restore the activity of specific skin cells that are aging. Yes, actually to reduce wrinkles due to dryness, to restore young skin tone, to awaken the 'youth supply' cells put to sleep by time! This is the kind of beauty news that comes along once in a lifetime!

The discovery that has made it possible is Helena Rubinstein's Ultra Feminine Face Cream with estrogen and progesterone, both vital female hormones. This cream—actually a wonder drug cosmetic—has been medically tested by doctors and research scientists, by hospitals, clinics and universities. The results are thrilling!

Jewel-like pure crystals of Estrogen and Progesterone—the two vital female hormones in Ultra Feminine Face Cream.

Skin Acts Young

After Ultra Feminine treatment, oil glands begin to produce at a younger rate again! With a plentiful supply of natural oil the skin becomes soft, supple, protected.

Skin tissue cells are able to hold maximum moisture again—that all-important process that makes the young skin look young. Aging lines smooth out because the skin surface now rests on a firm, full pillow of moisture-plumped cells!

Works Like a Prescription

And the whole process, miraculous to behold, is completely natural because estrogen and progesterone are the female hormones which power these cells in youth. Ultra Feminine is actually a wonder drug preparation which works within the skin to replenish these physiological substances which wane with time. It works like a doctor's prescription yet has been proven so safe that you need no prescription to buy it!

Start using Ultra Feminine now. In 30 days' time you will see the difference.

Helena Rubinstein, creator of Ultra Feminine, the first medically tested face cream that reverses two of the aging processes of the skin.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

Because Helena Rubinstein believes that Ultra Feminine is her greatest cosmetic achievement, she makes this introductory offer so that you may discover for yourself that you can look younger. One jar will convince you!

'I Seem as Wide as I Am Tall,' Sighs This Mom

By ELEANOR HART
Herald Glamor Clinic Editor

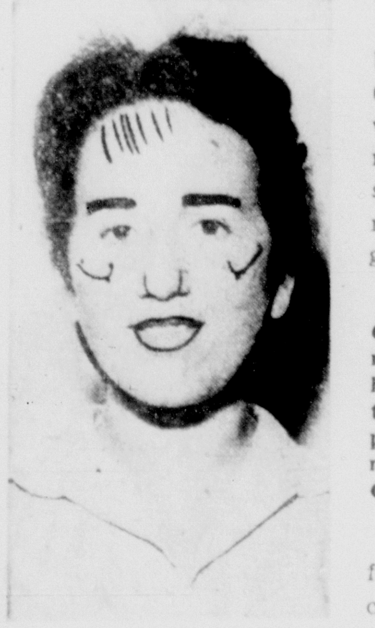
Glamor Clinic

Pounds and pounds of tears! That's how Mrs. Wish-ful, a quiet intense mother of three children felt about her "mammoth" weight problem.

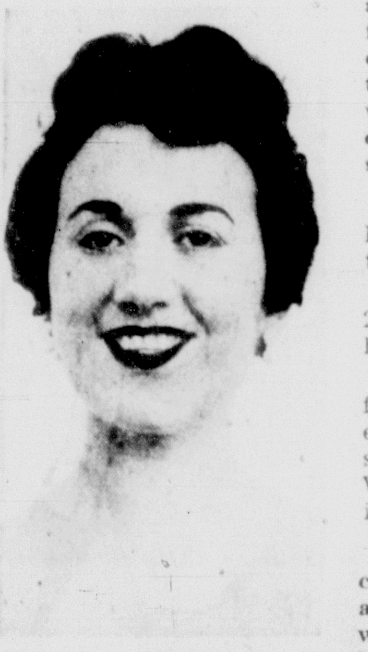
Reading her first letter to the Glamor Clinic, we were convinced that we had just heard from the original circus fat lady. In fact, the picture she painted was so gruesome that we even hesitated to reply and ask, timidly, for a snapshot of this amazon character.

But we did, and what to our wondering eyes did appear but a snapshot of a pleasant looking little woman, surrounded by children.. "I don't have pictures taken alone," she wrote, "only of the family. This was taken at my daughter's birthday party.

"My measurements and weight may not seem like the end of the world to a lot of people," she continued, "but they do to me on my frame. I sometimes seem as wide as I am tall."



BEFORE GLAMOR. Dark markings show improvement needed in make-up and hairstyling. Cheek marks denote rouge placement.



THE FINISHED product. Flattering hairstyle, improved make-up make a new and glamorous woman of this young mother.

Thus, wistful Mrs. Wish-ful came to the Glamor Clinic.

A devoted mother to her brood—two girls, ages 9 and 6, and a boy, 2,—and devoted wife to her handsome policeman husband, improving herself so that she knew she merited their approving glances was her dearest wish.

She started her Glamor Clinic training at a local modeling school with high hopes and a barrel of determination. "My goal is 118 pounds (her weight when she married 10 years ago) by Christmas," she said.

The first day of her diet she felt like an ant trying to climb a mountain. The second day the hill didn't seem quite so high . . . she even forgot to eat the diet's hardboiled eggs at lunchtime.

"Imagine me forgetting to eat anything," she laughed.

But there were many days after that when she felt sorry for herself and close to crying . . . days when her tortured thoughts kept reverting back to the refrigerator stocked with food that she couldn't touch.

"I pray as alcoholics do, to live this day and not go off the diet," she said.

And what happened to the 26 pounds she had pledged herself to lose?

Ah, she was doing beautifully. She had lost 10 pounds, exchanged a size 16 for a size 12 and then . . . Mrs. Wish-ful learned she was going to have a baby in May.

"But this time," she declares, "I will not overeat and gain weight as I have with my other children" (she has weighed as much as 182 during pregnancy). "Now I know what to do . . . and I will keep my weight down."

Meanwhile, in the articles to follow we'll tell you how Mrs. Wish-ful lost the 10 pounds that seemed like a hundred to her.

NEXT: Bend Down, Sister.

The Glamor Clinic has just printed a new edition of the Mayo Clinic Diet, which Mrs. Wish-ful followed. Leaflet includes a brand new set of exercises. For your copy, send a stamped, addressed envelope to Glamor Clinic, Miami Herald. Allow a week to 10 days for delivery.

'I WAS ASHAMED when the Herald photographer took my picture,' 28-year-old Mrs. Wish-ful says. This young mother of three children weighed 144 pounds, but to her it seemed like 244! She is wearing a size 16.

Dear Glamor Clinic:

I am writing in hope that my most precious wish will be fulfilled . . . that I will be given the wonderful help I have seen others get from the Glamor Clinic.

I am more than "overweight" . . . I am fat, ugly and miserable. My weight has made me mean and hateful to my family. I have lost friends. My children tell me how nice their friends' mothers look. This hurts. I know I am a failure as a mother and as a wife.

At one time my obesity made me so miserable, I tried to commit suicide. I don't want to die, believe me, but I also can't live so hopelessly encased in fat. I want so much to have a little pride in myself, to see pride of me in my husband's and children's eyes.

I want to work hard to lose weight, but I can't do it alone. It would be such wonderful news if I were chosen for the Glamor Clinic.

GERMAN COUTURIER SAYS

Russian Women Are Tubby, Temperamental

EAST BERLIN — (WNS) — One of the most incongruous sights you stumble on in this dreary, bomb-torn Communist sector of Berlin is an elegant dress designers's salon.

Bert Muller is the only couturier allowed to operate in the othewise state-owned community — possibly because he whips up fancy outfits for the rich wives of government officials and Russian army officers.

Muller is too cautious to say directly, but he indicates he was one of many East Berliners who 10 years ago thought the division of the city was temporary.

Why give up his salon, he reasoned, or his two-story dress factory with 40 employes, or his chi-chi apartment that looks as if it could be in Beverly Hills or on Park Avenue?

So Muller stayed in his East Berlin shop after the war, and became the darling of the wives of local big-wigs.

The tall, slim designer is disarmingly frank about what he thinks of his customers. The Russian women? Temperamental and chubby, he says.

The walls of his shop are lined with autographed photos of Moscow ballet dancers who have asked him to give them "the latest Paris style."

He has one firm rule: bring your own fabric. One reason is so the authorities won't accuse him of manufacturing a product.

Besides, he sniffs, there isn't a fabric in East Berlin worth using. All you can find are the endless bolts of silks imported from Red China.

Most of his designs stress, like the French models, the Empire and chemise lines. This raises problems because the average German hausfrau tends to be plumper than her Italian and French sisters.

"I modify my designs for heavy women," the couturier said tactfully.

Careful How You Slam That Door on Salesmen

By AMY VANDERBILT,
Herald Columnist

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT:

One afternoon recently when I had guests, a salesman came to my door. I told him courteously I was not interested in his products, but he persisted.

When I finally told him he would have to excuse me since I had company, he replied, 'Fine, they can see the demonstration, too!' I firmly told him that I never bought from door-to-door salesmen and wouldn't waste any more of his time or mine.

One of my friends took me to task, saying I had been rude. She felt I should have listened to his sales talk or asked him to return later.

Frankly, I do not want to be bothered by salesmen in my home. I have even considered a 'No Salesmen' card on the door because there are so many salesmen in this locality.—MRS. W. L., Piqua, O.

This salesman was quite wrong, of course. It is courteous to be polite in your refusals and to be firm if such politeness gets you nowhere.

Many communities now license such salesmen, forcing them to show proper credentials if asked to do so.

Always remember that the salesman who come to your door is choosing a difficult way to earn his living, although it may really be one of high financial reward. Cultivate a fashion of saying no, when you must, that is firm but friendly and does not destroy his confidence on approaching the next potential customer.

Serigraphs Are Expressive

By DORIS RENO
Herald Music and Art Editor

Art Reviews

The serigraph, having fairly recently moved over from a strictly commercial technique into the realm of the fine arts, keeps turning up in the art galleries as the newest addition to the long line of graphic techniques utilized by serious artists today.

The most recent show in this area is by the internationally known graphic artist Dean Meeker, whose pieces are now on display in the lobby of the Meridian branch of Washington Federal on Miami Beach.

Meeker, whose graphic work has been shown in a couple of dozen one-mans in about 20 states—as well as in a couple of hundred group shows—is showing about 18 large serigraphs here, plus an etching or two.

He is a consummate technician with a flair for big forms, rather simple lines, in most cases, and a fairly subtle color blend. He seldom uses more than two colors.

The artist's liking for a large central figure as focus of interest tends sometimes to thrust his pieces rather more into the decorative category than the high level of technical know-how would seem to indicate. Even as decorative prints, however, these serigraphs have subtlety and expressiveness.

Among the finest figure pieces are "Boar", "Joseph's Coat", "Surgeon", and "Scream".

Among the more intricate prints is one called "Prelude", a study of horses caparisoned as in the Middle Ages. This is very striking, as is the study called "Swamp Weed", all in shades of gold.

There are also a few abstracted pieces, such as "Agaric Arrangement" and "Arrangement in Red and Brown."

At Mirell Gallery

THERE ARE one or two serigraphs in the showing of paintings and prints, mostly prints, by William Farrington of Fort Lauderdale at the Mirell Gallery in Coconut Grove.

Farrington is sharing the gallery this viewing-period with an artist who is a newcomer to the area, May Lesser. Miss Lesser, who specializes in drawings, is showing principally sketches and watercolors.

Farrington attempts to use empty space as an effective feature in his work, particularly in the pieces in water-color or ink-wash, and often succeeds admirably. Examples of this are "Lost Child" and "Musicians."

His landscapes in ink-wash are unusually effective, especially the two studies of "Ischia."

Anong the monoprints "Child's Game" is striking, and most charming etching is a tiny one called "The Secret Place."

The paintings are mostly line abstractions, and failed to interest us.

Miss Lesser has on view a number of her quick sketches of people seen in beauty parlors, cafes, or on the street, in addition to a number of finished watercolor-drawings in which color is delicately and charmingly used.

Most of her pieces were done during the six months Mrs. Lesser has lived in this area. They are simple statements of fact and everyday life, skilfully executed.

Among the most interesting of the drawings are those in the Beauty Parlor Series. The artist also has on view one or two large watercolor still lifes.

Clark Giving 23rd Annual Arts Series

Edward Clarke will resume his reviews on books and music for the 23rd year in Miami Woman's Club auditorium this week. These reviews are given under the auspices of the extension division of University of Miami at 10:45 a.m. Thursdays.

Clark

This year the series will consist of 15 reviews, each accompanied by a short musical program.

The first soloist this season will be student violinist Ann Turner, a member of the UM Symphony, who will play Handel's Sonata No. 3 in F major with Pamela Harris at the piano.

The first book reviewed will be Anya Seton's "The Winthrop Woman."

Clarke will continue through January the series of reviews now being delivered at Musicians Club, Coral Gables, on Tuesday mornings. He will review the same book for this group at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday.

AMONG THREE NEW ART SHOWS

Sidoroff Memorial Opening

Three new art exhibitions will get under way in the area this week. All will be open to the public Monday.

Sidoroff

At the Village Corner Gallery in Coral Gables there will be a memorial exhibition to the late Bernie Sidoroff, for seven years a resident of the area before he died here on Nov. 9.

A two-man show of batiks by Janie and Jack Wise, American artists now living in Mexico, will be on view at Studio Craft Shop, Coconut Grove, through Jan. 30.

And at El Centro, in the McAllister hotel, there will be a one-man of paintings by the Iranian artist, Iran Darroudi. This painter recently concluded a one-man at Miami Beach Art Center.

A committee of the Coral Gables Art Club, of which Bernie Sidoroff was a prominent member, is arranging the memorial show for the Village Corner, in cooperation with Mrs. Sidoroff. The show will be a retrospective, compassing both recent and past work. It will continue through Jan. 31.

Sidoroff, a graduate of the Parsons School in New York City, came to the Miami area from Wilmington, Del., where he was president and owner of the Display Art Studio. Among his accounts was the DuPont Industries, for which he was designer and organizer of industrial exhibitions.

In Miami he showed at Lowe Gallery and the Mirell Gallery, as well as at the Village Corner and other art centers. He showed sculpture as well as paintings. An interview with Sidoroff is scheduled to appear in the National Art Magazine this month.

About 30 paintings will be included in the present exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise, whose batiks will be at the Studio Craft Shop, have been connected with art affairs in the Southeast for some years.

Wise, an Iowan by birth, has taught at Florida State University and had a one-man in the gallery there. He was included in the University of Florida exhibition of "Fifteen Young Southeast Painters," and in Ringling Museum's exhibition of "Fifty Florida Painters" in Sarasota in 1955.

Janie Wise studied at Florida State University, where she took her MA degree. She has illustrated books for Lippincott, Winston, and other publishers.

Miss Darroudi's show at El Centro will compass the viewing period from Monday through Jan. 30.

The Iranian-born painter has also had recognition as a pianist, the writer of two novels, and a sculptor. Several of her canvasses won honors in an international contest at Deauville, France.

Floridian, Hit of N.Y., Now in Sicily

A 29-year-old Palm Beach painter who recently sold over 80 paintings like hot cakes in his first New York show has gone back to Taormina, Sicily, to paint some more.

Keith Ingermann, who graduated from West Palm Beach High School, was "discovered" at his first one-man at the Worth Avenue Gallery in Palm Beach about four years ago. At that time Victor Hammer, of the Hammer Galleries in New York, liked his work and signed him for a show.

It was during this show, recently concluded, that the four score paintings, fetching in $20,000 to the gallery, were sold.

Karl Ingermann, the painter's father, of 404 - 35th St., West Palm Beach, said last week that his son intended to come home this winter, but felt he could paint a new batch of works more congenially in Taormina. He went there several years ago for a three-day stay, and liked it so well he stayed on until he brought his paintings to New York just recently.

Keith, born in Indianapolis, has lived in West Palm Beach since he was a year old.

Hammer, who had never sold paintings so fast, reported in an Associated Press story that 69 were sold during the first two days of the exhibition. One family bought eight pictures, another six.

In the closing days, with all pictures gone, would-be purchasers tried to buy from the people who got there first. Most of the disappointed ones gave the young painter an order, a pocketful of which he took with him to Europe.

The paintings brought in from $100 to $600 apiece. They are half-primitive, half-modern in style, simple, and easy to grasp.

After graduating from high school in South Florida, young Ingermann went to study at the Pratt School in New York. He joined the Air Force and served during the Korean war, being stationed in Japan and Saipan.

Keith's father says he has been painting and drawing since he was "knee high." He remembers that Keith also sold all the pictures in his Worth Avenue show.

Six in Theater Group Art Show

Currently on exhibition at the Roosevelt Theater in Miami Beach is a group showing of work by Greta Carmen, Peter d'Amico, Earl Bankes, Sebastian Trovato, Rosalie Hazen and Gigi Aramesco.

This new series of theater exhibitions is being arranged by Leo Scherker of the Village Corner Gallery. The current show will remain up through Jan. 15.

Art Preview Next Sunday

An exhibition of oil paintings by Tom Fresh and Peter Delfino will have its preview at the Eve Tucker Galleries, Miami Beach, next Sunday, Jan. 11.

Tom Fresh, a 22-year-old painter, recently won a coveted mural commission from the state of Alabama. He majored in art at University of Alabama and later studied at Art Students League, New York City. He will leave the United States soon for a year's study in Europe.

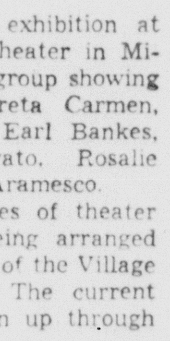
Peter Delfino is the senior staff artist for Burdine's here. He came to the area from Brooklyn, and has studied at National Academy of Design and Pratt Institute in New York.

This is the first time either artist has had work on display here.

TO REHEARSE SYMPHONY

Sevitzky Makes Return This Week

Fabien Sevitzky, who has consistently delighted Miamians with his guest-conducting of University of Miami Symphony Orchestra in a pair of concerts in 1957-58 and two pairs so far this season—will return to Miami this week to complete his commitments for 1958-59.



Sevitzky

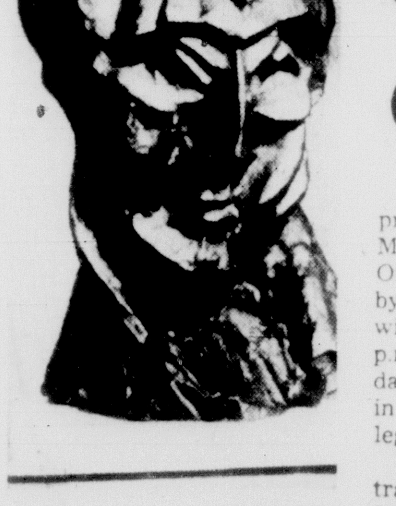
These consist of two more pairs of concerts in which he will conduct the UM ensemble on Jan. 18-19 and Feb. 8-9.

Sevitzky left Miami immediately after his last pair of concerts on Nov. 16-17 to fulfill contracts for a series of European concerts, broadcasts and recordings.

He has done most of his conducting in Europe since leaving the directorship of the Indianapolis Symphony in 1953. He is widely respected in European countries, particularly Italy and Yugoslavia, for his perfectionistic music-making and his artistic control of orchestral personnel.

Sevitzky will have as soloist for his third pair of concerts the fine violinist Nathan Milstein, who will perform with him the Brahms Violin Concerto.

For the fourth and last pair he will have as soloist the veteran pianist-composer-conductor Ernst von Dohnanyi, who will perform his own Second Concerto with the UM orchestra under Sevitzky's baton.



A PICASSO BRONZE, "Head of a Woman," is one of the important sculptures loaned by West Palm Beach's Norton Gallery for exhibit of "Norton Treasures" opening the new Playhouse Gallery in Coconut Grove next week. The formal opening scheduled for Monday night, Jan. 12, will also present a large showing of paintings from the Norton collection.

IN SUNDAY CONCERT

Orchestra, Barry Girls to Team Up

The second concert to be presented this season by the Miami Symphonic Society Orchestra, which is conducted by Billie O'Day, will be at 8:15 p.m. next Sunday, Jan. 11, in Barry College auditorium.

O'Day

The orchestra will combine forces with Barry's Tara Singers in a joint concert. The singers are trained by Sister Maura.

The vocal ensemble will present the Sanctus from Gounod's St. Cecilia Mass, and the Largo from Handel's Xerxes, as well as several lighter numbers.

Miss O'Day will conduct the orchestra in Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C major, the overture to Rossini's Barber of Seville, Strauss's Emperor Waltz, and the Vivaldi Concerto in A minor for violin, string orchestra and organ.

Lacy Coe, founder and concertmaster of the ensemble, will play the violin solo in the Vivaldi work, and Bruce Davis will be at the organ.

Now in its [illegible]th year as an orchestral group, the ensemble, known as "the hobby orchestra," is comprised of business and professional men and women who are mostly non-professional musicians.

Miss O'Day, who took over the baton seven years ago, last year conducted the orchestra in five public concerts.

The concert is an extra event on the Barry College Culture Series and is open to the public.

Canadians Offer New Ballet Treat

The National Ballet of Canada, which is rapidly rising into the position of "foremost ballet company of this hemisphere," opened on Friday its current United States tour which will lead it to Miami for a two-night stand Jan. 16-17 in Dade County auditorium. The company — the only one in the Americas preparing all the great full-length ballets of the classical repertoire — plans to dance two of its most recently mounted productions here, the two-act "Giselle" and the three-act "Coppelia."

Canadian Troupe's Prima Ballerinas
. . . Lois Smith, left, and Celia Franca

Both are described as fresh, vivid, thoroughly artistic productions in the great tradition of ballet and if they follow the pattern set by the National Ballet's four-act "Swan Lake" season-before-last, these adjectives will wind up as completely inadequate, for "Swan Lake" chalked up one of the top dance experiences ever made available to Miamians.

The company's two major ballerinas will handle the principal roles in the productions—Lois Smith electing to dance Swanhilda in "Coppelia" and Celia Franca the role of "Giselle".

Miss Franca, founder-director of the company as well as one of its leading dancers, had the role of Swanhilda in the shortened version of "Coppelia" which was danced here on the company's debut visit.

Miss Smith's husband and partner, David Adams, will partner them both this season as the Albrecht in "Giselle" and the Franz in "Coppelia."

The programs are arranged so that "Giselle" appears on the first one on Friday evening, Jan. 16, where it will be paired with the National Ballet's version of the ballet "Offenbach in the Underworld." "Coppelia" occupies the entire Jan. 17 performance.

In "Offenbach" one of the company's fast-rising ballerinas, Lillian Jarvis, will have the role of the Debutante, in which she will be partnered by Earl Kaul as the Officer.

The company will arrive in Miami on Jan. 16 from Tallahassee, where a performance is scheduled for the evening of Jan. 15. Other stops in Florida include one in Pensacola on Jan. 13, Jacksonville on Jan. 18, and Daytona Beach on Jan. 19.

Though the company is still only a few years old, it already has 40 ballets in its repertoire, including four of the six or seven full-length works of the classical period. Besides the "Coppelia", "Giselle" and "Swan Lake", it has mastered the four-act "Nutcracker," and is rehearsing "Sleeping Beauty".

The National Ballet has commissioned, and now dances, 16 original works by Canadian choreographers — including several by Adams, and another member of the company, Grant Straate.

The company, which last year had its dancers under contract for a 10-month season, tours from Nov. 1 to the end of June each season. This year's tours, in addition to the Canadian and United States treks, includes a spring visit of three weeks to Mexico.

On Dec. 23 it appeared in a 90-minute television appearance originating in Montreal. The United States tours begin in Baltimore.

The arts are burgeoning in Canada, it has been pointed out, and the National Ballet is participating in the artistic upsurge that is a result of the foundation of the Canadian Council of Arts, now boasting an endowment of $100,000,000.

The company received a grant of $125,000 last year, with part of which it is establishing its ballet school on sound and solid foundations.

AT AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

Ballet Joins Beach Civic for Concert

The fourth concert in Miami Beach Civic Orchestra's season series of eight will combine music and ballet at 8:15 p.m. tonight in Miami Beach auditorium.

Barnett Breeskin will conduct a musical-balletic program that will combine orchestral performances of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and the Kindler arrangement of a Frescobaldi Toccata with two ballets and a group of Spanish dances.

The ballets will be two of the three presented recently on Miami Ballet's fall program in Dade County auditorium. They are "Pantomime for Lovers," set to Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," and the "Fete Italienne" set to Rossini music.

Principal dancers in these will be Adriana Keathley, Robert Pike, John Derrick and Kenneth Creel.

The "Fete Italienne" will be performed by all 29 members of the young ballet company, organized eight years ago.

The group of Spanish dances, another repeat from the recent Miami Ballet production, will be presented by Olga Suarez, Maria Teresa Alvarez, Rosario Romero, Diana Joyce and Leona Malerba. Adrina Otero is director of this group, and Juan Francisco is the guitarist.

The concert is co-sponsored by the city of Miami Beach and the music performance trust funds of the recording industries, and is available to the public without charge.

The Civic Orchestra is composed of 70 players.

Pino Sarro, Papa to Give Recital Today

Pino Sarro, soprano, and Joseph Papa, tenor, will be presented in a joint recital at 4 p.m. today in Musicians Club, Coral Gables. They will be assisted by Lina Maddaford at the piano.

The program will include arias by Puccini, Verdi, Leoncavallo, Mascagni and Flotow, and works in lighter vein by Freire, Sadero, Romberg and d'Hardelot.

Miss Sarro, educated in Europe and this country, has sung with the San Carlo and Mexico City opera companies. Papa, a graduate of Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, completed his studies in Rome. He has appeared with the Baltimore and Boston opera companies.

The public is welcome.

Child Classes To Register On Saturday

Registration for second semester classes in the Children's Workshop of Lowe Gallery is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. to noon Saturday. Classes will begin the week of Feb. 1.

Open to children of gallery members from 5 to 15, the workshop offers general art instruction as well as specialized training in puppetry, ceramics, sculpture and painting.

Classes for children 5 to 7 are on Wednesday afternoons, for older children on Saturdays.

The gallery will also sponsor a sketch group this spring for high school students. Students will be selected on recommendations of their high school art teachers.

Director of the Workshop is Jō Kowalchuk. She is assisted by Bette Kowalchuk, Helen Spach, Sue Roberts, Barbara Mickelberry and Marion Lovett, all members of Dade County Art Teachers Association.

Palm Beach Show

Antonio Breton, Cuban painter now living in Miami, has a show of abstract mosaics, oils and tempera paintings at the Hendrika Hobbelink Kaastra Gallery in Palm Beach through Jan. 17.

We'll Look Like Women Again

By MARY PRIME
United Press International

NEW YORK — Fashions in '59 will make women look like women—and men look at us.

We'll have bosoms and waistlines and general shapeliness. Husbands should be relieved to know that one manufacturer called spring lines "safe and sane." Another tagged the trend as "back to reality."

Not a chemise or trapeze in sight. Comedians can't squeeze any more gag lines out of the sack, nor can cartoonists lampoon the "bow behind."

Instead, we'll see subtle empire silhouettes — so modified that waistlines often are normal in front, but retain the high-rising effect with a slightly-dropped waistline in back.

There will be plenty of natural waistlines and contoured midriffs. Even the shirtwaist dress is back in favor.

Experts agree that spring clothes keep a new flavor but are so refined that they are wearable and becoming.

* * *

HERE'S a closer look at the forecast for fashion and beauty in this new year:

HEMLINES—Slightly longer, about two inches below the knee.

HATS—Brims of all types. Sailors, the shallow-crowned skimmer, and bretons will abound. Toques are step-like or smoothly slanted. Cloches have tall crowns. Some crowns mound up in beehive shapes and peaks.

FABRICS include organdy and both textured and smooth straws. Look for an oriental influence, and clear, bright colors.

TOP SHADES are blue, acid green, paprika, yellow and gold, bone white and coral, plus combinations of yellow and orange, black and white.

SHOES — The pointed toe and needle-thin heel will be around, but more modified toes and the square shape also will show up. Colors range from pale pastels to geranium and shock pinks.

HOSIERY—Another big season for color. Gloves, hat and bag will be matched to the costume, with the shoes and stockings providing accent.

JEWELRY—The ornate look promises to be big. Necklaces and earrings are most important. Necklaces range from dog-collar chokers to massed bibs. Earrings are large. Reds, pinks and corals are top shades, plus clear crystals.

SAUCE FOR PORK

Stir some Port wine into current jelly and add wine vinegar to taste. Heat gently; then spoon the thin, sweet-tart sauce over roast pork.

This Ranch Foreman Wields Lipstick

Text and Photos

By Mike Morgan

DUNEDIN—The owners of Boot Ranch, which lies a few miles south of Dunedin, tell you they have one of the best ranch foremen who ever saddled a quarter-horse.

That I don't know about.

But I bet they have the only foreman who uses lipstick, worries about a hairdo, and looks a darn sight better in jeans than most cowhands.

Ramrod of the Boot Ranch is Lois Oxnam, a 95-pound wisp of a girl (but it's solid muscle wisp!) who stands 5 ft. 3 inches, and is certainly the prettiest foreman a cow was ever chased by.

Mike Morgan

Lois is 30 years old but looks much younger.

She's worked for Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Boyd, who own the ranch, for five years. But she's been punching cows, mending fences, and doing all manner of ranch work ever since she was a kid around Sarasota.

When other girls were interested in dates, Lois was concerned with cows and horses.

At 17, an age when most young girls would thrill to getting a formal dress, Lois was enthralled when: "I got a cow for a Christmas present and could start a little herd of my own."

* * *

And When She Marries?

RIGHT HERE, PODNER, let me say don't get the idea Lois devotes all her time to those cows.

She's got a boy friend.

"He's a cowman, too," says Lois. (What else?)
And how does he like what she does?

"He sort of likes it because if we ever decide to get married we'll work together . . ."

Her boss, Mr. Boyd, a husky, tanned, soft-spoken fellow, chewed a cigar and leaned on a fence while he told about the first time he saw Lois.

"She came drivin' in on a beat-up old truck, it was hers, and said she wanted a job.

"I told her I needed help but I wasn't looking for any women . . . needed someone to work stock and help around the place.

"She said, 'Just give me a chance for a couple of days.' I couldn't turn anyone down who asked for a chance. Turned out to be one of the best workers you ever saw. Now she runs the place . . ."

"Once we had to build fences through swamp and she shamed one of the men into working because she did it."

* * *

LOIS WAS BORN on the outskirts of Sarasota. Her Pop had a machine shop. Ever since she could recall Lois had a overwhelming fondness for horses and the outdoors.

She learned to ride as a child; when she was 11 she had her own pony.

Her dad took her cow hunting on a neighbor's place when she was 12 — and with that taste of ranch life Lois had little interest for anything else.

Every opportunity found her at some nearby ranch learning more about horses and cattle, helping out.

By the time she was 16 Lois had become a pretty competent ranch hand. Weekends she helped on a small ranch. Then she was forced to leave school because of asthma.

Whenever she felt well enough the girl worked part time for small ranchers who didn't need steady help.

And when she was 17 one of these ranchers gave her a cow for a present. It delighted her.

"Next I went to work in a feed store. Worked for almost a year but the asthma got so bad again I had to quit."

97-Pound Lois Oxnam and 2,500 Pound Brahma Bull
. . . she can bulldog an obstreperous animal if the occasion warrants

But she had saved most of her wages. And with the savings indulged herself—but in a fashion one would not expect of the average 17-year-old girl.

"I bought a registered Brahma heifer and was able to start a little herd of my own."

* * *

"WHY this lifelong affection for cattle and farms?" I asked.

She shrugged a shoulder. Her eyes carried a secret smile as she replied: "Maybe it's because I'm so little and can make those big cows do what I want.

"Especially working with a good cow horse. I just like being outside more than anything else — and doing this kind of work."

Incidentally, this sliver of a female cowpoke can rope, bulldog, ride with the best of them. A couple of years ago she won the All Florida Cowgirl Championship.

In Sarasota she continued working various ranches, and raising her own cows.

"Lot of people had little bunches of cows and I had my horse. They would call me to doctor a cow, or help move a herd from one pasture to another, or anything else that needed doing . . ."

A kind of free-lance cowhand.

* * *

A little more than five-years ago she came to Clearwater to stay with an aunt.

"I figured I'd have to do something to help earn groceries. So I got a list of four names—men who needed hands.

"I called two of them and when they heard it was a girl asking for a job they decided they didn't need help."

Lois had been unsaddling her horse while talking to me. She patted him on the nose, then took out a knife and started cleaning a hoof as she continued:

"I made up my mind I wasn't going to call, I was going to see the next two men. I owned an old truck and came to see Mr. Boyd.

"The truck looked 'horsy' and I was dressed in levis and my Stetson—ready to go to work. I told him what I had been doing.

"He finally said he would give me a chance the next day — but he didn't seem what you could call real impressed or happy.

"I came out the next morning and he was surprised the way I handled the cows—and the horse. And I helped with the branding."

She quit working on the horse, stabled him, and we walked over to a tractor where she started fiddling around with its innards.

"Before that month was up Mr. Boyd asked me to stay on and work steady.

"After I learned how he wanted things done he more or less appointed me foreman.

"I learned how to put up fence the way he wants it done. Handle a tractor like he wants and use all the ranch equipment. I mow, plant, disc, and harrow.

"Even run the hay baler if I have to."

* * *

They Can Quit

AND DO THE OTHER HANDS MIND working under a female foreman?

"Most take it good. If they don't they can always quit."

Heck! A guy would have to be out of his mind to quit. Where else can you find such a cute foreman?

Lois lives on the ranch in a neat, modern cottage. Yep. She's a whale of a good cook too.

She spends a lot of time in the evening watching TV. And what are her favorite programs?

A sudden grin lit her face.

"That's simple, I like Westerns."

OPENING JAN. 16

Everything's In the Pink At Hialeah

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

EGADS! You won't know the old place. Hialeah race track has gone high style for its opening on Jan. 16th. Gone are the black iron fences, they now are painted a glistening white and surround Flamingo pink terrazzo instead of the drab gray concrete.

PERSON TO PERSON

Another touch is the Flamingo fountain out by the paddock. No longer is it just any gurgling fountain. It now has a cascade and new life-sized bronze Flamingos adorn it.

In the misty early mornings you can see one of the best informed horsewomen in the country, Liz Whitney Lunn, training her unraced gray two year old, Mosby, at the track. Mosby was picked as the best Virginia yearling by Queen Elizabeth of England when she visited this country.

Mrs. Lunn's stables are at Llangollen Farm in Upperville, Va. In Miami she will live aboard her yacht docked at Pier nine, after a heating system is installed.

Caught a glimpse of her at the Surf Club the other evening. Her former husband, "Jock" Whitney is U.S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Another early riser is Mary Fisher who likes to watch her horses work out in the mornings. Her dad, Charles T. Fisher (Fisher bodies) also has a string of racers at Hialeah.

For the first time in three years Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt has brought his thoroughbreds to Hialeah. He and his third wife, the former Jean Harvey, are here in ample time for the Hialeah meet.

Other top turf names who are racing at Hialeah include Lucile Markey owner of Calumet Stables, and Adm. Gene Markey, P. A. B. Widener who is wintering in Palm Beach and C. T. Chenery, a Wall Street mogul, and Mrs. Chenery who have horses at "The Track Beautiful."

Happy Holiday Reunion

FOR THE FIRST TIME in a number of years, the Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Iverson had a family holiday at their home on SW 67th Ave. With them were daughter, Dr. Lalla Iverson of Washington who is associated with the Institute of Pathology for the Armed Forces; the Rev. William T. Iverson, pastor of the Reformed Church in Newark, N.J., his wife Ann and their two youngsters, Daniel III and William Jr.

The Rev. H. E. Iverson, his wife and their children H. E. Jr., John, Marilu and Elizabeth Ann, plus Mr. and Mrs. Julian Quarles and their three, Mary Nelson, Julian Jr., and William, also Genet Iverson Gammon of Madison, rounded out this happy reunion.

* * *

Bright Red Weskit

FANCIEST HOLIDAY VEST seen at Yuletide parties was that of David Schwartzburg who was escorting his pretty wife, the former Diane Dodge, hither and thither.

This weskit was bright red and appliqued with all sorts of gay white Christmas symbols. "My aunt made it," David volunteered.

One of the most beautiful evening dresses spied was Suzie (Mrs. Jim) Oakes' red and gold sheath fashioned from a sari. With it she wore long red gloves and a matching stole.

Maybelle (Mrs. John) Haynsworth's short royal blue sheath which had a blinding sparkle with its blue beads, featured the dernier cri in fashion — a royal blue feather (ostrich) boa which fell to the hemline.

More ostrich was caught up here and there on the bouffant pale blue satin skirt of Evie (Mrs. Robert W.) Johnson's elegant ball gown. Feathers are in, deah, but definitely.

Housewarming — Anniversary

A CLEVER ACROSTIC RHYME on their holiday greeting card invited friends to a housewarming and first wedding anniversary celebration at the North Miami home of Marge and Joe Wessel today.

Marge's parents, the Joseph H. Parkers and Joe's mother, Mrs. Louis Wessel will be among the 100 guests. Marge has been appointed dean of girls at the Henry H. Filer Junior High in Hialeah and goes back to school tomorrow.

Prisoners in Silent World Need Wives' Understanding

By ROBERTA APPLEGATE
Herald Staff Writer

A Miami psychologist today aired her views on what she believes is an important health problem of special interest to women.

It is the problem of the aphasic, the person—usually a man — who has had a stroke or other brain injury and lost the power of speech.

Dr. Estelle Moskowitz, who is a speech specialist as well as a psychologist, says this problem is a growing one because new drugs now save the lives of many stroke victims. They live longer — but they live with aphasia.

The problem is even greater in Florida because of the large number of older people who move here.

Though it affects more men, aphasia is a problem for women, too. They have to take over family reins, the burden of care falls on the wife during the convalescent period. And a wife's attitude plays a very important part in a man's recovery.

"Practically all the people I've treated have been men, and they were brought in by their wives," Dr. Moskowitz reports.

* * *

THERE IS HOPE for aphasics — if they have the help of a speech specialist with training in psychology, who works with a neurologist — and if they have cooperation at home.

"One mustn't throw up his hands and say nothing can be done," Dr. Moskowitz says earnestly. And she told about a man who worked patiently for three years before he learned to talk again.

How NOT to treat a victim of aphasia is almost as important as how to treat him. Number one rule:

"They should NOT be treated like children. They are adults with adults' emotions, experiences, background, maturity."

Instead, an aphasic should be treated like any other handicapped person. She explained:

"If a person has had paralysis of a leg and has to learn to walk again, you don't teach him to walk as if he were a child."

In many cases, only his language abilities are affected, not mental capacity. He is still an adult — with an adult's experiences, attitudes and interests.

"When an aphasic is treated like a child it can precipitate real rages. Even in the gravest cases, the patient is fully aware of his emotions."

If not handled properly, aphasics frequently are so distressed by their condition that they feel suicidal — or so they have told Dr. Moskowitz after they've learned to speak again.

"No one who hasn't been through it can know what it must be like to be a prisoner in his own body, unable to communicate the most basic and simplest wants."

* * *

SHE HAS MORE WORDS of caution for wives of aphasics:

Don't be impatient. Don't think of your aphasic husband as a stereotype "because no two patients are alike," and don't try to do retraining on your own.

"Well-meaning but untrained people can do untold damage — and produce rage and frustration. Good intentions can be not only useless, but dangerous."

Dr. Moskowitz explained that the untrained person can't tell whether a man's inability to say a word is due to paralysis of the tongue or muscles of the voice box, or inability to remember.

"Even if he knew the difference, he wouldn't know what to do about it," she explained.

"You have to find out the areas of weakness, discover what form the brain damage has taken, whether a person can understand and not talk, or whether he has difficulty understanding. Aphasia is often present with clear thinking and intact hearing."

Psychological understanding of the patient is important, too.

The speech specialist — and anyone else working with a stroke victim — should always remember that "we're two adults working on a program. Any other approach destroys the patient's self confidence, impedes his progress."

* * *

THERE ARE PLENTY of things a wife and family can do to help.

Number one is to remember that "the most important factor in recovery is not the severity of a stroke, but the patient's feeling of being loved and wanted, and having a home to return to.

"The family must have and show a hopeful attitude. It must have patience and forbearance, because recovery is a long, drawnout, difficult thing.

The family also should bolster the patient's self-esteem, make him feel he's still the head of the house. (Difficult, but important for the patient's mental attitude and eventual recovery.)"

Family and friends must make every effort to be with him and talk to him, even if he can't reply. "After all, he is still a member of the human race."

Wives also should make every effort to see that retraining begins as soon as possible.

"Even if speech does return spontaneously in the first few months, as it does sometimes, it's a great psychological lift for the patient to be doing something constructive as soon after the accident as possible. It also prevents development of unsatisfactory patterns," Dr. Moskowitz said.

What Is Aphasia?

Aphasia is a complicated neurological disorder, and is a symptom, not a disease.

Dr. Estelle Moskowitz gives this definition:

It is a defect in the power to communicate expressively through speech, writing or other symbols, or difficulty in the ability to comprehend spoken or written language due to injury or disease of the brain.

Any brain injury may result in aphasia, but it is usually caused by a cardio-vascular accident, commonly called a stroke.

Skull fractures, gunshot wounds, even sunstroke can result in aphasia.

For those who cannot afford private care, the Society for Crippled Children and Adults does some work with aphasics who are referred by private physicians. Fees are on a sliding scale, based on ability to pay.

The University of Miami speech clinic also works with aphasics, and veterans can get care at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

'Dad Won't Even Meet Boy I Like'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

My parents are divorced, and my brother and I live with our father. He is wonderful to us and gives us everything we want.

I am 15 and have just started dating. I have met a very nice boy who is 19, and my father doesn't think I should go out with him. In fact, he flatly refuses to let me go.

I know there is four years' difference in our ages, but he is nice, has even offered to take my little brother with us. I think dad could give him a chance and meet him. But he has already made up his mind.

I am not trying to be unreasonable, but I don't see why it would hurt to have a few dates with him. I have tried to get interested in boys my own age, but I haven't.

Father suggested I write you. I don't want you to get the impression that I am just another silly teenager. I am dead serious. I want a good reason why I should not go out with this boy other than age.

I feel I am a little more mature than the ordinary girl my age. I take care of my 9-year-old brother, and keep house for my brother and father.

If you think I'm wrong, I want to be told. But give me a good reason.

AGE PROBLEM

You sound more mature than the average 15-year old. Age is a difficult criterion, but certainly the teenager who takes care of a home and a young brother has responsibilities far greater than those of a carefree girl the same age.

I believe it is a parent's responsibility to be as courteous to his children's friends as he expects them to be to his.

Father should meet the boy and give him a chance to prove or disprove his acceptance as a friend before he passes judgment.

What's Fair Pay For a Good Maid?

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

After four years, how much should a maid be earning without having to ask for it?

This one is the best we've had since I was a little boy and she's stayed the longest. She does more work than the four women in our family put together!

Without her mom would be lost. The entire family feels the same as I, but they won't speak out for the best maid we've had since we left California. We paid that one $9 a day and she stayed on the phone most of the time.

One of my sisters said we should give the maid at least $5 a year for every year she's been with us for Christmas. I know other families who don't have the income we have and their maids are better paid.

What are your ideas of what to pay her when she works on dinner parties and does extra things? Should she get $5 for each year at Christmas? How much should she be making after four years of wonderful service? Should a maid have to ask for a raise every year?

We can afford it. The family is in favor, 4 against 1.

Also, what about vacations with pay? Tell me everything in your column, as mom wouldn't have unmasked at the New Year's Ball if I signed my name.

ROB ROY

The wage scale for day workers averages six to seven dollars a day, plus carfare and lunch in the Greater Miami area, according to a Florida State Employment Service spokesman.

But the going rate for a loyal and useful worker is as personal as your toothbrush. Ditto vacations with pay, Christmas bonuses and raises.

If your gal is good, let her know you think so, not with high sounding phrases, but a resounding increase in the long-green department.

I hope this makes the vote 5-to-0, and unanimous.

* * *

Marry? OK; But Don't Go Steady

I am a girl 16 and I like boys, as girls my age do.

My problem is my father. The other night my boy friend asked him if we could get married. Father said yes, but wants me to get married right away.

The boy and I want to wait for at least six months. Daddy said we can't get engaged or go steady meanwhile.

What can we do? I can, in a way, understand my father's point, but yet he should understand me, don't you think?

BOBBYE

I am not sure that I understand fathers' point. Is it because he is not sure of your control power in the emotional department?

At any rate, whatever your decision regarding marriage, now or six months from now, be sure to include pre-marital counseling in your plans. This is not a lengthy procedure—one or two sessions are generally all that's needed. And the help you and your fiance receive will prove invaluable.

Eleanor Hart.

Johnny Gets Guidance At Centers

By MARY ENGLISH
Written for The Herald

Your South Florida Child

In a recent column I wrote of the fine playground facilities in South Florida, but emphasized the need for closer supervision of these playgrounds by paid, qualified personnel.

Since then I received a bulletin from the Greater Miami Jewish Community Center describing its work which is organized to serve the Greater Miami area.

The service is referred to as "social group work." The Center, divided into several branches, has clubs, athletics, dramatics, arts and crafts, etc.

There is a battery of trained social workers supervising all its operations, who use the child's play experience as a method of fulfilling his needs to belong, to achieve, and to learn to give and take.

Each activity has a trained leader, who is assigned after a screening and interview process. Each leader turns in regular reports on his group's activities and meets in regular conference with a professional supervisor.

They discuss what to do about a child who has become unusually aggressive, how to draw out the child who seems to stay away from the center of things, how to handle friction that has developed between two cliques and other problems.

* * *

THE ENTIRE OUTLOOK of this agency is "family-centered." Let's see how this family approach works in a given branch.

A typical young family enrolls their first child, Janie, age three, in the Early Childhood Development Program, which is the Center's special name for its nursery schools.

From the very beginning, contact with the parent is maintained through individual conferences with teachers and group parent meetings.

Mom and dad discover that their affiliation brings them more personal privileges in their own right — a couples club, ballroom dancing class, discussion groups, and more.

They can also contribute to the working of the agency by joining one of the branch planning committees.

The after-school program offers a variety of clubs and and classes for children up to the sixth grade.

Both summer and winter day camp programs during the school vacation periods. There is a body of over fifty friendship clubs on the teenage level with over one thousand members.

This agency is non-sectarian in its membership policy and welcomes people from all faiths.

* * *

PARTICIPATION in children's theater workshops is another good outlet for the child's energies.

Over and above merely keeping the child entertained and busy, it is good training in poise, as well as discipline in getting along in group situations.

South Florida provides many opportunities for dramatic training for the youngsters, both in private drama schools and in drama workshops of youth programs.

Too-rigid training of this type is not generally recommended for the pre-schooler.

But it is particularly recommended for the child between seven and twelve—the awkward age.

Dramatic training, just as dancing lessons, helps the child develop poise and grace.

Mrs. English invites your questions. If you have a problem concerning your child, which can be discussed in this column, write her at The Miami Herald, Miami, Fla.

He Won't Eat? Don't Fret; Probably He's Not Hungry

CHICAGO—(WNS)—Many children between the ages of 18 months and 7 years are poor eaters. And they are smarter than their parents.

They know they do not need as much food as they did when they were infants or as they will later on.

This point of view was explained at a recent meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics. The report said that parents seldom identify this poor eating period as a stage through which most children pass.

Mother simply gets furious at the balky youngster, with the result that not only does Johnny's food do him less good than it should, but he may actually develop complexes that will affect him throughout life, the doctors warn.

The physicians point out that during the first year of life, a child usually has a voracious appetite because he is growing faster than at any other period in human existence, gaining on an average about 15 pounds and growing 9 to 10 inches.

But beginning at about 18 months, and for about five years after that, the child experiences a great decline in his growth and his appetite slows down accordingly, until the rigorous life of the adolescent and teenager brings the phenomenal appetites of that age stratum.

Actually the child of 2-7 years may need only two meals a day and ought to be allowed to get good and hungry for them, the doctors found.

Plum Loco Band Will Entertain

Those mad musicians, the Plum Loco Orchestra of the Coco Plum Woman's Club, will entertain at an 8 p.m. Wednesday meeting of Shenandoah Garden Club.

Meeting in Simpson Garden Center, 55 SW 17th Rd., is a social one to honor husbands and friends. Members of the Plum Loco band wear Gay Nineties costumes and play kitchen instruments.

Judge Norman Hendry will be the speaker.

Blonde American Is Tokyo TV Star

TOKYO — (WNS) — A beautiful blonde American mother is going great guns on Japanese television.

Mrs. Linda Beech, wife of Miami Herald-Chicago Daily News Correspondent, Keyes Beech, plays the part of a correspondent's wife on "Blue Eyes' Tokyo Diary", a situation comedy which has one of the best public audience ratings of any dramatic TV program in Japan.

The dialogue is in Japanese, which presents no problem to Mrs. Beech, who was born in Hawaii and has spoken fluent Japanese since childhood.

Educated in Honolulu at Punahou, she majored in aviation at Stevens College, and later in Oriental philosophy at the Universities of California and Hawaii.

"I never got my master's degree," she says, "but I got a husband."

In the past 34 weeks, Mrs. Beech has successfully managed to combine her three careers — mother, television star and homemaker — into one harmonious whole. Moreover she is a newspaper correspondent herself, and teaches English twice a week to Japanese university students in her "spare moments."

"There's no doubt that my life keeps me busy," the 28-year-old mother admits, "but I love it."

Seeing their mother on the TV screen has brought mixed reactions from the Beeches' two boys, Keyes Jr. (Kimo) 5, and Barnaby (Paki), 3.

"The children still haven't figured out why I can't see them through the screen. After the first show Kimo asked me whether I had noticed how nicely he had combed his hair for the occasion."

Despite Heart Ailment

Sen. Johnson Will Be Boss Of Upper House

He may have a bad heart, but there's nothing wrong with his brain and tact, so Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is sure to get things done at this session of Congress. He'll keep the Democratic senators happy — including the new ones — and that way he'll get through the Senate what he thinks should get through. Johnson, who is the Democratic leader is known as the can-do man.

Lyndon Johnson
. . . he has a way

WASHINGTON —(AP)— That can-do man, Sen. Lyndon Baines Johnson of Texas, is about to move to the middle of the stage in the new Congress to play a familiar role with some new twists.

The lean and lanky Texan will double in brass as one of the stars and director of a Democratic production which the party hopes will lead to a White House showing in 1960.

Along with the many duties that are likely to keep him — a 1955 heart attack victim — on a 12-hour daily schedule, Johnson is booked for a juggling act about as difficult as any he has attempted in his 10 years in the Senate and his six years as Democratic leader of that body.

The difficulty lies in the fact that Johnson has on his hands an abundance of Democrats with an abundance of differences in viewpoint. Where once the Republicans were almost equal in Senate strength, they outnumbered 64-34, counting Alaska's two Democrats.

The party leader is also going to have to cope with an enlarged cast of colleagues who have been touched by the magic spell of what 1960 may hold for them and can be expected to develop starring role temperament at times.

Johnson is a fretting, fidgety, nervous individual who finds it difficult to sit or stand still. His dark head, threaded now with a little gray at 50, bobs about the Senate continually as his long-legged stride carries him, almost leaping at times, to the side of a colleague threatening to defect from the Johnson line.

Johnson is a confirmed middle-of-the-roader himself. Nobody is likely to budge him very far either to the left or the right.

But Johnson, a man with no shortage of pride and vanity himself, operates with a peculiar sensitiveness to the needs of other men — liberals and conservatives — on that score.

By his devices the Senate's fledgling liberal Democrats will find themselves with at least one committee assignment they regard as juicy. They will have their hour in the limelight in the Senate debate, all arranged by a leader who understands that any politician needs a heady draft of such wine now and then.

In the past, some Democrats in their first year have plucked off junkets to interesting places abroad on Senate business that just had to be looked into in Paris, Rome and other world capitals.

If the practice continues, the fact that the recipients may be a little grateful to Johnson would not be regarded as extraordinary.

The Democratic leader doesn't need to keep any mental accounting of these actions when he tries to persuade any party member to go along with him on an important Senate vote. He usually gets what he wants.

Johnson has shown repeatedly in this way that he is a can-do man. He wants the Democratic Congress to be a can-do Congress, as he has said often. The way to achieve that goal, in his book, lies in one of his favorite admonitions to colleagues: "Let us reason together."

If this sounds corny, it nevertheless is the way he can be expected to approach the problems of the 86th Congress.

Johnson has laid down a 14-point program that has a little bit of everything in it and apparently will come closer to enactment than the more far reaching proposals of the Democratic Advisory Council and other political organizations.

Recently he has added an investigation of inflation to a list which includes a program to explore outer space, development of peaceful uses of the atom, a review of U.S. foreign policy and the creation of a new policy of dealing with Latin American nations.

Conspicuously missing from Johnson's recommendations is civil rights legislation or a change in the Senate's so-called filibuster rule. The rule will be under attack as soon as Congress convenes.

There the Johnson "reasoning" will come into play. The betting is that the Texan will come up with a compromise which will be adopted without the weeks-long debate which otherwise might develop.

There are other gaps in the Johnson program, compared with the Democratic Advisory Council's proposals. The advisory council includes such members as former President Truman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

But the council, which lists Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as members, doesn't have many votes in the Senate.

The council has advocated, among other things, federal aid to school construction, Social Security increases, new civil rights legislation, action to reopen closed southern schools, and repeal of the right-to-work provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Johnson may go along with some of these proposals. If he is not persuaded that he ought to support them, however, few of them are likely to be enacted.

Johnson's creed is one that centers around "responsibility." He argues that what the party does to take care of the needs of the people will be a great deal more influential at the 1960 polling places than what it says about the opposition.

If Johnson's general views prevail — and it seems likely they will—this year's Congress may not write the sort of mammoth spending record Eisenhower professes to fear. It may, in fact, turn up next summer with a record that could be only a little to the left of center.

Wisconsin Boy Grows Own Coffee

STURGEON BAY, Wis. —(AP)— The most exotic tree in Door County is a full-size coffee tree grown by Lonnie Kopitzke, Ellison Bay high school youth.

The tree bore its first crop last spring and recently produced its second crop, several hundred beans.

Lonnie's father, editor of the weekly Door Reminder, plans to serve his son's own brand of coffee to the local Lions Club.

The tree was started nine years ago when Lonnie planted six seeds sent him by the president of a coffee company in reply to the boy's letter asking for information about raising the South American tree.

Giant Boasted Biggest Shoe

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. —(AP)— Probably the biggest shoe that ever strode around these parts belonged to Col. Ruth Goshen, the "Middlebush Giant."

Col. Goshen was a side-show attraction at the turn of the century and retired to Franklin Township nearby. The shoe is size 18. The "giant" more than eight feet tall, weighed 400 pounds, and a New Jersey historian says he was buried in the largest grave ever dug in the state.

KIDNEY TROUBLE • ARTHRITIS

A PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT OF AN IMPORTANT EVENT

For many years the problem of providing adequate health care to our middle aged and elder citizens and to that large segment of our population with physical impairments and serious medical histories, has challenged the ingenuity of our insurance industry. During the past ten years, GABOR & CO., INC. has been privileged to be in the forefront of this great experimental work. While others in the insurance profession discussed this problem, GABOR & CO., INC. actually arranged the insuring of thousands of persons of all ages or with such medical impairments as diabetes, history of heart disease, history of cancer, etc. Under a unique plan, insurance was provided for the great majority of all applicants, without exclusion "waivers" or elimination from coverage of previous conditions. From time to time, many improvements were added as experience was gained. This important work and the encouraging results to date enable us to announce the furtherance of this experiment by an additional enrollment of up to 10,000 applicants for the year of 1959. We would most strongly urge that you apply for this special hospital-surgical-medical plan without delay. This new insurance is underwritten by the Wilson National Life Insurance Company, an old line legal reserve life insurance company which has reliably served Floridians for more than a quarter of a century.

COVERAGE FOR EVERYONE

Even For Most People With Existing Impairments!

Here's how the policy covers pre-existing conditions:

FIRST 6 MONTHS POLICY IN FORCE — NO COVERAGE
NEXT 6 MONTHS POLICY IN FORCE — ONE-HALF BENEFITS
AFTER 12 MONTHS POLICY IN FORCE — FULL BENEFITS

(Complete details of benefits, provisions and the remarkably few limitations of the policy are supplied upon request.)

AND, MOST IMPORTANT, THE POLICY IS YOURS — GUARANTEED RENEWABLE FOR LIFE! ONCE ISSUED, NO RESTRICTIVE CONDITIONS MAY BE ADDED LATER, NOR MAY THE POLICY BE CANCELLED BY THE COMPANY EXCEPT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF THE REQUIRED PREMIUM WHEN DUE.

Check These Liberal Features

- Benefits for pre-existing conditions paid same as other conditions after initial waiting periods.
- Guaranteed renewable for life.
- No termination because of age.
- Incontestable after two years.
- Grace period in every policy.
- No reduction of benefits during life of policy.
- No age limit for applicants who now enroll.
- No prorating for change of occupation or other personal insurance.
- No riders or amendments added after policy is issued.
- Does not restrict you to one special group of hospitals or physicians. Freedom of choice of hospital and medical or osteopathic physician guaranteed.
- World-wide protection. No geographical limitations. No air travel restrictions.

★ No Automatic Reduction Because of Age
★ No Automatic Termination Age
★ Guaranteed Lifetime Protection
★ Two-Year Incontestable Clause

YOU MAY APPLY IN PERSON, OR MAY OBTAIN FURTHER INFORMATION BY TELEPHONE OR BY MAILING THE COUPON BELOW. NO OBLIGATION. DON'T DELAY. REMEMBER, ENROLLMENT IS LIMITED!

YOU MAY APPLY FOR THIS INSURANCE EVEN IF YOU HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY REJECTED BY OTHER COMPANIES!

New Faces Are Bright With Color

Special to The Herald

CHICAGO—Cosmetics should be applied sparingly, as every woman knows. Whether furniture designers know this is something you'll have to decide for yourself.

Designers have turned to the cosmetic kit to brighten the "faces" of the new furniture which store buyers will see here this week at the annual winter market.

Sometimes only color has been applied. Sometimes contrasting materials supply the cosmetic touch. Even surfaces of the most modern designs are enlivened by intricately-grained wood inlays.

Colored lacquer is used in combination with natural wood finishes, and for accent pieces. There are Venetian styled coffee tables with antique blue and silver bases and walnut tops; Windsor and captains chairs in red or white to contrast with a cherry group; a classic upholstered chair with frame in robin's egg blue; a crimson color rattan mandarin chair; bottle green dining chairs with provincial walnut case pieces.

Bronze green or red with gold trim is used subtly in an extensive and varied classic collection. Colored and patterned laminated plastic is combined with fine woods and sculptured aluminum in a dramatic modern group.

Here's how contrasting materials are brightening the countenances of "Plain Jane" wood surfaces:

A gold sunburst silk screened on white cabinet doors; quatrefoil designs pierced through the wood; a blow-up of a black and white Piranesi print laminated to the front of a vanity chest.

Wallpaper patterns applied in the old world manner to furniture interiors is another means of decoration. A tall arched bookcase of classic design is papered in antique green, and a documentary print is silk screened on the interiors of some provincial china cabinets. Table tops are ornamental in various

FHA Co-op Jells

By FREDERIC SHERMAN
Herald Real Estate Editor

BIG NEWS in the listings of the Miami Builders Exchange is that a state hotel permit has been issued for Breakwater Towers, the 185-unit Fort Lauderdale apartment house to be built under the FHA's Title 213 program. That's the program used for financing of single-family homes in Carol City and Cutler Ridge here in Dade County, but this is supposed to be the first time in Florida a cooperative apartment house will be built with a 95 per cent FHA loan for 40 years at 4½ per cent.

SHERMAN

Charles F. McKirahan designed the 16-story structure that is scheduled to be underway this month at the corner of S. Ocean Dr. and Lago Mar Dr. in the Harbor Beach section of Fort Lauderdale.

The sponsors, headed by Gilber P. Edwards of the Investment Corporation of Florida, will do their own building.

* * *

They've Met Sales Quota

IT WAS BACK in October that Breakwater Towers Corp., a subsidiary, announced it had received from the FHA a mortgage commitment of $3,172,300. That was the signal for Robert W. Jahn of Sun Realty in Fort Lauderdale to go to work on sales because 90 per cent of the apartments have to be sold before the commitment is effective.

As it stands today, more than 125 of the buyers have been approved for credit by the FHA and a closing on the mortgage is scheduled Jan. 15. Completition of the building will take nine months.

There will be 30 studio apartments with down payment as low as $655 and charges of $90 a month. There will be 94 one-bedroom apartments, 46 two-bedroom apartments and 15 units with three bedrooms. Top down payment is $2,797 with monthly charge of $252.

A building permit has been issued by the city of Fort Lauderdale in the amount of $2,800,000, largest for 1958 so it appears nobody will ever have to wonder what happened to the Breakwater Towers.

The successful sales story has prompted the developers to take options on land for at least two more such FHA projects.

Vacancy Signs Sure to Show

AND SPEAKING of apartments, we will be seeing a lot of "Vacancy" signs showing up in downtown Miami, especially through the close-in southwest section between Flagler Street and SW 8th St. St.

The apartment houses in that area have been home for thousands of Cuban families that fled from Batista. With the dictator toppled, these people will be going home. Miami hasn't been unfriendly, but it's been tough financial sledding for most of the refugees.

* * *

Some Changes Are Ahead

THERE WILL be quite a few economic changes for Miami. Hotels and restaurants came to depend on Batista to provide a constant supply of labor. At least a dozen Cuban restaurants opened in the last year in downtown Miami. Scores of small shops and grocery stores deal almost exclusively with the Cubans.

And, of course, our gun dealers will have to go back to catering to the needs of deer hunters and rifle teams. The flow of rebel arms through Miami will stop and the U.S. Customs men will have a much easier job.

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE to live in "cozy Colonial comfort" is this collection of living-dining room pieces in solid maple with brass hardware. Von Canon is displaying it in Chicago's American Furniture Mart during the winter market for store buyers. Collection includes many multi-purpose units.

Color Brightens the Faces Of New Home Furnishings

ways, one of the most unusual being Chinese fretwork of ceramic tile set in maple and rattan. Simple and elegant decoration is achieved on some modern tables by parallel strips of rosewood and teack inlaid in walnut. Brushed aluminum inlay matches the aluminum base of another walnut table.

* * *

Multiple-Purpose Furniture

WOODS, FINISHES and hardware are varied. Mahogany is having a revival but walnut and cherry are as popular; other woods include elm burl, rosewood, acacia, pecan, pine, oak and maple. Finishes are lighter but retain warmth. Metals include anodized and cast aluminum, brass and pewter. More furniture than ever is multiple purpose; even an Early American group is modular.

Upholstered furniture is often framed in exposed wood, or combinations of cane or brass with wood. Upholstery fabrics trend toward the elegant in infinite variety of pattern, color and texture.

Carpets made of newly developed nylon filament yarns are news. These yarns create new texture and color, eliminate shedding and fuzzing, tests prove. New textures and patterns in casual and formal styles made of all-wool, many different man-made fibers, or cotton, are shown as well as fresh colorings and new designs in all types of smooth surface floor covering.

* * *

Early American Themes

IN DRAPERY FABRICS, too, there's news in man-made fibers. Pilot sample fabrics of the much heralded new Fiberglas yarns will be on display along with new prints on Fiberglas by a noted modern designer. New designs in correlated fabrics and wallpapers, striking new woven effects and almost unlimited choice of roller prints are displayed.

There is a current revival of traditional motifs, particularly Early American and Victorian. Blues, purple blues, blues with green, lavender, yellow greens and reds are fashionable. Cotton and linen are among the most popular fabrics.

Lamps and decorative accessories play up the American theme in Early American adaptations and present-day modern designs. There are the John and Pricilla Alden wall plaques and the clock topped with an American eagle.

The lights on a modern lamp pole are reproductions of Early American oil lamps, or, in a Gay '90s version, duplicates of the old gas lights. There are new Williamsburg reproductions in fireplace accessories.

In both modern and traditional styles brass, leather, china, wood, decorated metals, glass and other materials are employed in new and elegant designs.

* * *

Rise and Fall of Cabinets

SPACE-SAVING, big-capacity refrigerators, ranges, washer-dryers and dishwashers are important new appliances. One of the country's major manufacturers is showing experimental models of a refrigerator and kitchen storage cabinets both of which move up and down at the touch of a button. Any shelf can be stopped at the most convenient level. Free-standing, the units can be used in front of a window or as room dividers. A completely new method of electronic cooking will be introduced by another manufacturer.

The array of new appliances includes such items as the revolutionary combination cannister-upright vacuum cleaner and a cooker-server pan that triples as a casserole, dutch oven or griddle. This cooker-server operates on the thermostatically controlled surface unit of one of the new electric ranges.

IF LIVING IN the elegant manner appeals to you, then you'll find 18th century French furniture more to your taste. Hibriten Chair makes these pieces in mahogany with woven cane accents. Fluted legs are a French "trademark". So is the plush damask fabric covering the sofa and its bolsters.

CLASSIC VENETIAN motifs are being revived in home furnishings at the winter market. This gilded headboard with rose and ribbon design by Syrocowood is an example. There are eight different designs available in simulated wood. Headboards are wall-attached instead of fastened to the bed.

A Junior High For Carol City

Carol City will have its own junior high school by next fall. Clutter Construction Corp. will build the school at 3737 NW 188th St. at a cost of $1,025,000, according to Miami Builders Exchange.

Watson and Deutschman are the architects.

Bids Tabulated On Nuclear Job

Three construction firms submitted bids on the nuclear service building planned at Florida State University in Tallahassee. Allen M. Campbell Co. of Jacksonville is low bidder with $508,972, according to Miami Builders Exchange.

This Permit's For 32 Units

Permit has been issued to build a 32-unit apartment house at 60 NW 79th St. William M. Friedman designed the two-story structure which will cost $115,000 to erect.

Harry Glass Co., Inc. is the owner. No contractor was named in the report issued by Miami Builders Exchange.

Line 'em Up On the Wall

When hanging groups of pictures together, avoid jagged lines by making sure the bottoms or tops of the frames are the same distance from the floor. It is best to hang pictures with hooks that can't be seen, because visible hooks or wires detract from the effect.

'Tack Rag' Protects Fresh Paint

So-called "tack" rags are used in factories where dust particles are likely to mar freshly-painted surfaces. They are especially desirable after a sanding operation. Ordinary rags will not do. The best tack rag is cheesecloth which has been impregnated with a sticky substance.

Like Running A Restaurant

A stainless steel electric food warmer has two drawers for keeping food fresh and appetizing up to six hours after preparation. Separate controls keep food moist or crisp as desired. This built-in appliance is popular with hostesses who wish to prepare all the food for a dinner party in advance.

Hard Thing to Find

Petrified trees (where geologic action changes the wood to agate) are still found in northeast Arizona. Indians once used the unusually hard rock to make arrowheads.

House Doctor

By HERMAN BAUM

(Readers with questions on the maintenance and repair of the home may receive answers by addressing The House Doctor, care of The Miami Herald. Please limit letters to one question and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.)

DEAR MR. BAUM:

Your recent article about carelessness in residential construction was putting it very mild. Why doesn't the community incorporate more rigid restrictions in the building code to insure against foundation and plaster cracks? I have never bought a home because I am not satisfied with the kind of construction that I would get. C. M. W.

ANSWER — The first residents of America scratched caves into hillsides or erected wigwams to shelter them from the elements. I doubt that rigid building restrictions had anything to do with their selection of these types of housing but if your proposal was put into effect I am certain that the residents of America would once more be scratching caves into hillsides and chasing bison for wigwam covering.

Building codes are designed for minimum basic requirements of good construction. If you want a home built more substantially, an architect can incorporate such requirements into plans and then furnish an inspection service to insure that the builder complies with the requirements. It all boils down to one elementary principle: Whether you are buying anything from alligators to zweiback, you get just what you pay for.

* * *

Paint Story Has A-peel

DEAR MR. BAUM:

We have a problem with paint peeling on the exterior of our house. I believe it is the fact that they do not make good paint any more that is causing this trouble. J. E. S.

ANSWER — The only people who have a right to complain about the quality of paint today are those who hunt for the bargain priced products. Paint made by any one of the many reliable manufacturers is now better than it ever has been. Paint peels from a house simply because moisture is getting beneath it. In most cases, this moisture is in the form of water vapor that penetrates the walls from inside the house.

* * *

How Stubborn Can You Get?

DEAR MR. BAUM:

I have a limed oak table with a gray plastic top. I want to change the color to brown. How do I go about changing the top? Mrs. J. G.

ANSWER — The glue used for attaching plastic table tops to wood is so strong that you cannot remove the plastic without tearing the wood into splinters. The only method for installing new plastic is to use an electric belt sander and cut the glossy surface from the plastic. You then can cement a new piece of brown plastic on top of the old, using the special contact cement made for the purpose.

* * *

No Vitamins In This Diet

DEAR MR. BAUM:

I want to decorate the furniture in the room used by my small son. The job is necessary because he has eaten large quantities of paint from his crib. I understand that only special paint should be used. Please tell me about this. Mrs. D. P.

ANSWER — Most paints contain oxides such as those of lead, zinc or cadmium. These are poisonous and positively must not be used on children's furniture; especially hungry children. Paint manufacturers are aware of this problem so they make special paints that are harmless. If a paint store does not have it in stock, it can be ordered for you. We have a booklet that describes the best methods for refinishing children's furniture and toys. You may have a copy by sending 10 cents in coin (no stamps) to The House Doctor, care of The Miami Herald. Please print or type your name and address.

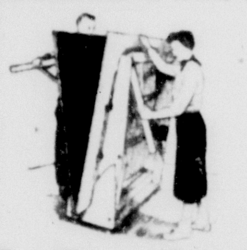
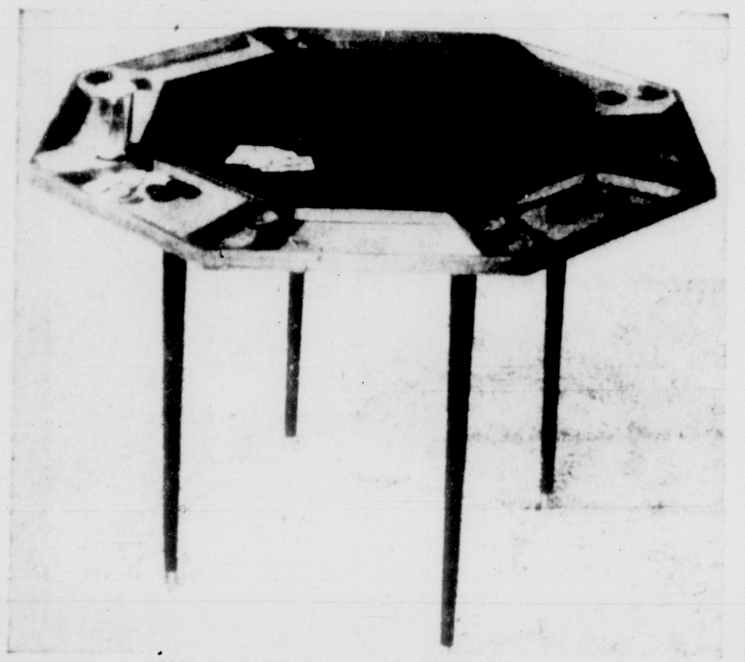
943 THIS IMPROVED TENNIS TABLE FOLDS INTO A COMPACT ROLL-AWAY UNIT



★ It is hard to believe that this rigid tennis table can be set up or folded to roll out of the way in only five seconds, with less effort than is required for a card table. Each pair of legs opens as the table opens, folds down with the touch of the hand as it is closed. Partial counter-balancing incorporated in this new design provides easy operation. Craft Pattern 943 gives cutting layout, full-size patterns, and assembly details. The plywood top is the standard size. Base parts are cut from ½"x4'x8' plywood.

For Home Games



1236 A POKER TABLE WITH COMMERCIAL LEGS

★ The top of this attractive poker table has a framework of pine strips covered with plywood. The legs are a commercial type, wood or metal, with metal attachment plates which simplify the mounting. The playing surface is of a red plastic. It is easy to turn out a beautiful job with the full-size and scale drawings of Craft Pattern 1236 to work from, and the table will serve for various family games.

★ Send 35 cents each for the Craft Patterns No. 943 and No. 1236. Send $1.50 each for Home Cabinets Packet (22 patterns), Bird House Packet (17 patterns), Junior Jig-saw Packet (19 patterns), Senior Jig-saw Packet (21 patterns); 25 cents for illustrated catalog of more than 850 Craft Patterns available. Rains Hopeful Of Expanded FHA Program

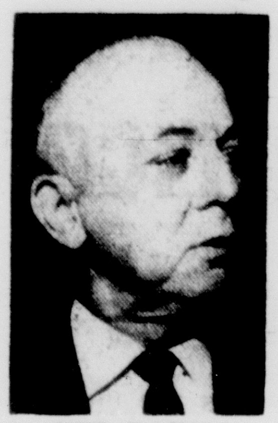
EDITOR'S NOTE: What is ahead for housing legislation in the 86th Congress which convenes Wednesday? In the following dispatch, especially written for United Press International, Rep. Albert Rains of Alabama, chairman of the House Housing Subcommittee, critically examines two of the government's housing programs and says what he thinks Congress should and will do to improve them. Next week, a top Administration official—Housing Agency Administrator Albert M. Cole—will give his views on the subject.

By REP. ALBERT RAINS

A "NEW LOOK" for home loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) may well emerge in this year's housing legislation.



REP. RAINS

For one thing I hope Congress will lower required down payments on FHA loans in the lower and middle price ranges.

The need to enable families to buy homes with smaller down payments is more important than ever in the current tight credit situation which find GI loans at a particular disadvantage because of their maximum 4¾ per cent interest rate.

With GI financing a veteran may buy with no down payment. More than 1,200,000 homes have been purchased under the GI program with no cash outlay. I think it especially noteworthy that the default rate on these loans has been extremely low, with foreclosures occurring in only about 1 out of 100 cases. This rate compares quite favorably with the default experience on loans where down payments were made.

Lenders are apparently increasingly reluctant to make GI loans at 4¾ per cent interest and there will be great resistance in Congress to authorizing an increase. I think it much more likely that we will see legislation which will provide funds for GI loans through the Federal National Mortgage Association.

* * *

I THINK we can also expect Congress to increase the maximum loan term on FHA loans from 30 to 35 years. This will increase the possibilities of home ownership by reducing monthly housing costs.

Another desirable step which I think we can count on Congress to take is a reduction in the FHA insurance premium which is currently ½ of 1 per cent per year.

FHA now has reserves more than ample to weather a real estate crisis even as serious as the great depression, and I think we can safely reduce the premium to at least ¼ of 1 per cent. This, too, will help reduce the monthly housing costs of the home buying family.

We will also probably see an increase in the maximum FHA loan on single family homes from the present $20,000 ceiling to $25,000. While the great bulk of FHA loans will continue to be written at a figure well below $25,000, the new ceiling would recognize higher construction costs in some areas and also the special needs of larger families.

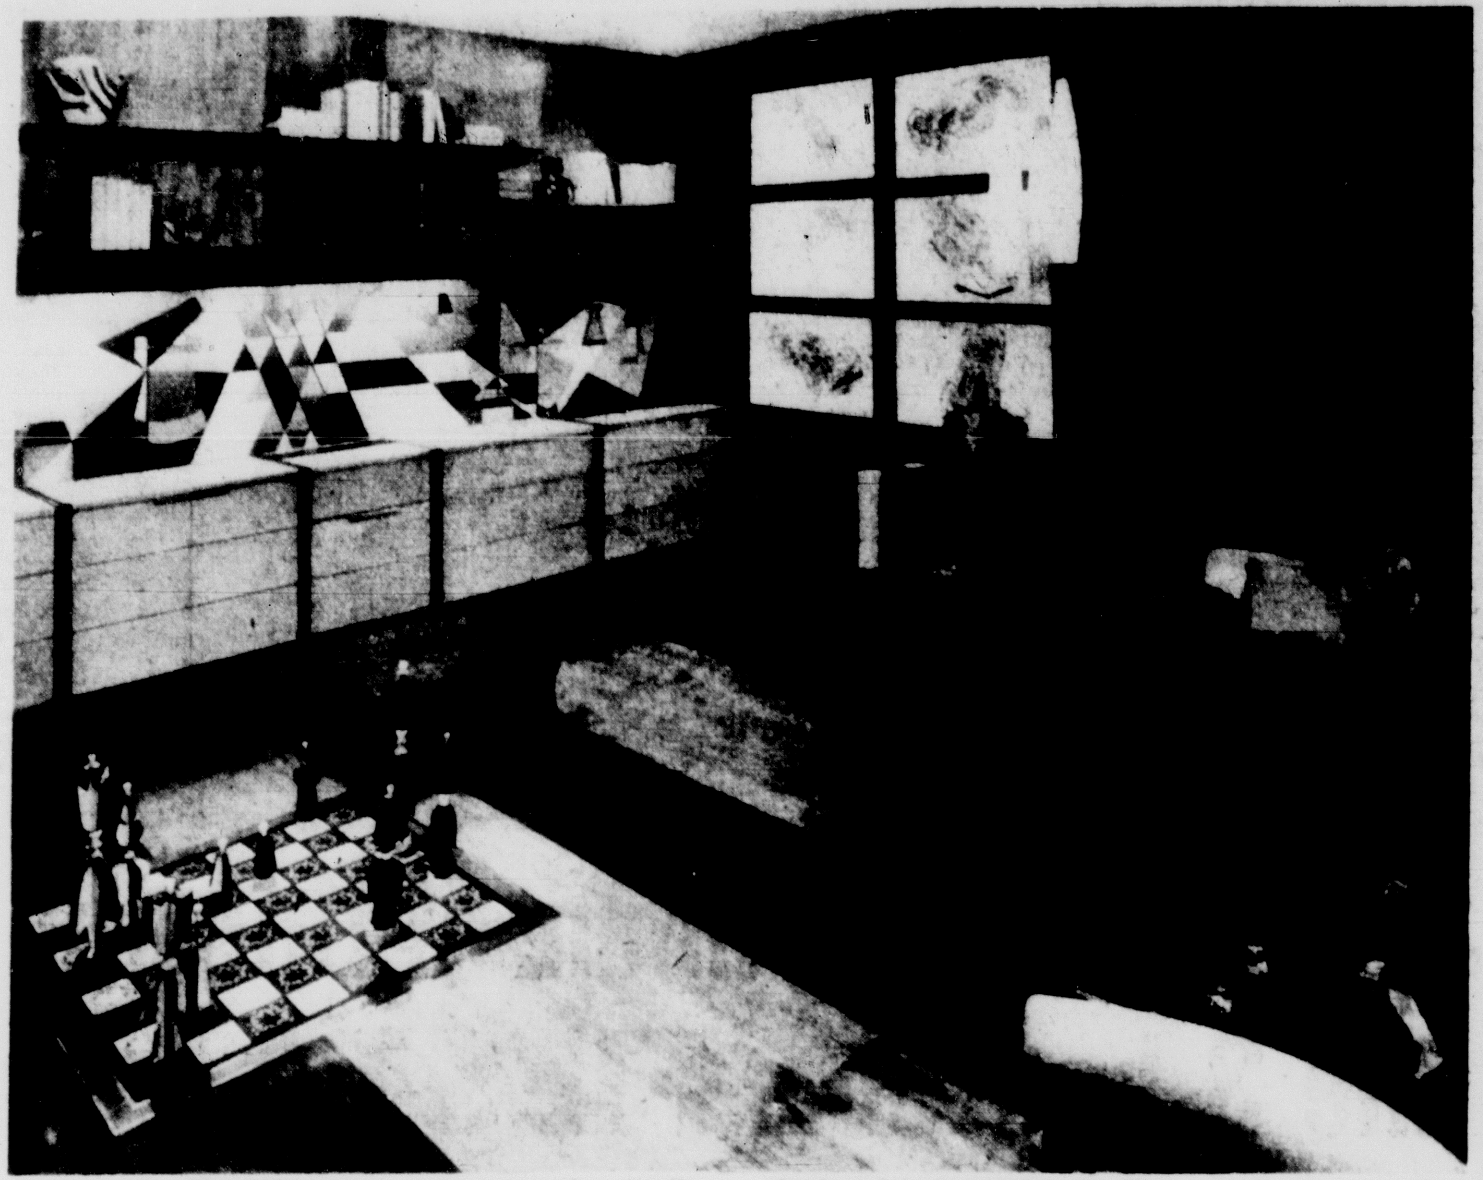
* * *

STILL ANOTHER desirable change would make "trade in" financing easier under the FHA program and would eliminate duplication of closing costs. This should help families who want to sell their present home and purchase another one.

Set up in the 1930s, the FHA loan program has worked wonders in improving housing standards and in helping millions of families become home owners. Present estimates are that more than 60 per cent of American families own their own homes as against 44 per cent in 1940.

I am confident that the new Congress will make whatever improvements are necessary to enable the FHA program to fulfill its vital function in meeting our housing needs and in maintaining the health of our building industry and our overall economy.

This Will Floor You



THE MOVE TO MAKE for a more interesting family room is to insert a chessboard of ceramic tile in the floor. The board can be any size you like but a large one like this requires men of comparable proportions. You may have to carve these yourself. Floor in which the board is inserted looks like wood but it isn't. It's made of wood-grained vinyl in maple and walnut. Vinyl-wood also covers the wall behind the storage cabinets. Mural in multi-colored vinyl and metal was inspired by the chessboard. Make your own of vinyl scraps.

FLUORESCENT light unit, less than one inch deep is designed for limited-space applications, such as kitchen counters, mirrors and sinks. It can be installed completely out of the line of vision and is capable of illuminating dark work areas with 40 foot-candles of light. Operation may be by push-type switch or starter.

★ ★ ★

PRINTING MACHINE to mark cylindrical or uneven surfaces is operated simply and by hand. It enables one to mark 300 to 800 pieces an hour, the speed depending on the size and shape of the object to be imprinted. Even tiny imprints are sharp and long-lasting.

★ ★ ★

MARBLE COLLECTOR for the youngsters is of transparent acetate and has a long tube with pistol grip handle at one end. A rubber tip at the other end is slotted to allow marbles to enter the tube when it is pressed down over them. Up to 30 marbles may be stored within the tube. Empty, the collector resembles a long-barreled pistol or a short-barreled rifle.

★ ★ ★

FIRST AID KITS designed for heavy-duty use feature unit-wrapped items. Available in sizes of 10, 16, 24 and 36 units, each kit has a facsimile index on the inside of the lid that shows exact locations of all items and serves as an inventory control. Cases are made of 20-gauge steel.

★ ★ ★

PAINT BLENDER measures out units of color as small as 1-16th ounce from 10 basic colorants. Colorants may be added to a package of basic white or to already prepared paint colors. The machine, which also produces colors in nearly all types of paint, enables the dealer to prepare custom colors within a short period of time.

★ ★ ★

HOSE CLAMP for attaching hose to auto radiator and motor block can be applied with ordinary pliers. It consists of a single steel-spring wire shaped into a circle. Each end of the wire doubles back to the circle and overlaps to form a slot into which the circle may expand or contract. Circle is thus locked into place, preventing lateral spreading.

★ ★ ★

MULTI-PURPOSE ruler has face with 12 one-inch divisions, each calibrated into 16ths. Each one-inch division is a separate hinged unit whose underside is further calibrated with decimal equivalents. Below the hinged units the base of the white plastic ruler contains additional fractional, decimal and percentage information.

Greenland is a major source of cryolite, a mineral used in the manufacture of aluminum.

Designers Continue to Raise Cane

CHICAGO—Cane for chair backs was a "turn of the Century" furniture styling detail.

This year it came to the fore as a design element in 1958's furniture in ways that make it both decorative and practical.

One group of furniture designed along the Oriental lines uses cane for door panels of cupboards and over drawers in bedroom chests. The cane covers finely veneered wood on one side.

If you want to stop feeling Oriental you can reverse the panels and put handsomely-grained wood on the outside.

Investment Opportunity In Dade County

$55 PER ACRE

Every investor should own some of this property with a bright future soundly based on the growth of Greater Miami. Located north of the Tamiami Trail (U.S. 41). Excellent average elevation 8 ft. Less than 20% of Dade County enjoys such high elevation. Miami Beach has an elevation of 5 ft.

Bankers, Hotel owners, Attorneys and Businessmen are among those who have purchased some of this property through us. These men recognize a wise investment. Land of this elevation in Dade County at such a low price presents an outstanding opportunity for enhancement.

$550. All cash for 10 acres, 29% down for larger parcels. We can't sell this land for a few dollars down and a dollar a week — if we did, we'd have to raise the price greatly. We'll pass the savings on to you.

No roads or utilities as yet. The wise investor purchases undeveloped land at a low price, and profits manyfold later. Only a limited quantity is available at this price, and this offering is subject to prior sale.

Title insurance and oil and mineral rights, of course.

GROOMING conference for board presidents is scheduled Friday in Orlando by the Florida Association of Realtors. It's part of a two-day program which will be climaxed Saturday by the installation of William G. Haynie of Orlando as state president.

Haynie served four terms as treasurer of the Florida Association. He has worked in Orlando real estate since his discharge from the Navy after World War II.

Also on the weekend agenda are a sales clinic, a learn-and-earn roundtable sponsored by women Realtors, a secretaries council workshop on board administration and another workshop on multiple listings.

At the installation banquet, William M. Thomson Jr., immediate past president of the Miami Board of Realtors, will be installed as District 4 vice president. Ted Slack, Arthur Boazman, Mary Carr and O. J. Powell will receive certificates of appreciation for committee work.

Guest speaker will be R. B. Roberts, vice president of the Florida Power and Light Co.

* * *

TWO DAY CLINIC sponsored by the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers opens Friday at the Americana Hotel in Bal Harbour. It's a regional clinic for brokers and salesman who work in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Cuba, Nassau and Puerto Rico.

Speakers, however, are from other areas: George E. Mayer of Cincinnati, who'll discuss new dimensions in sales; John A. Moore of Kansas City, whose topic is commercial property opportunities; Gordon Williamson of Detroit, John C. Tysen of New York and J. H. Adkinson of Pensacola.

L. Allen Morris and Jack Justice are the local Realtors in charge of arrangements.

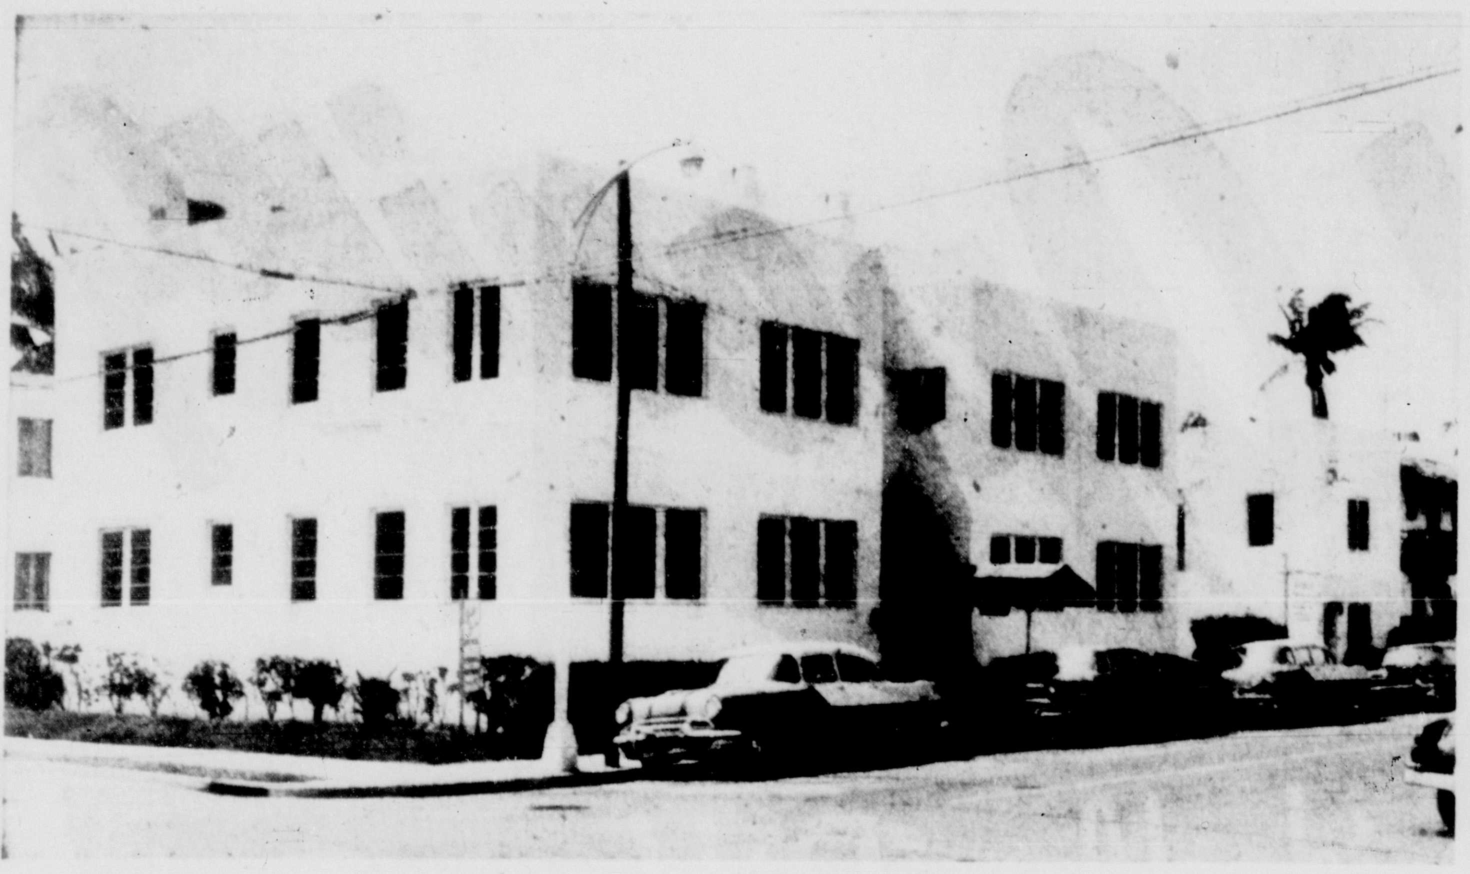
MAGOLD INC.



BELLE BEACH apartment hotel at 1941 Liberty Ave., Miami Beach, was sold for a reported $77,000 by Carl and Beatrice Cotler to Oscar and Thelma Shapiro. There are 19 units. Sale was made by Edward A. Osher.

Higher Real Estate Values Forecast

BOSTON — (UPI) — Real estate values will edge higher in 1959, United Business Service forecasts.

While local conditions may vary, the report said, average property prices will rise on improving overall business, increasing land values, and a further 3 to 4 per cent increase in construction costs next year.

At the same time the service predicted the improving economic climate and new housing legislation early next year will sustain both homebuilding and sales. "There is little evidence of any excessive inventory of unsold housing," the study added.

Present market values of "more desirable" used houses are likely to continue to be supported by the high cost of new construction, the service said.

Mortgage interest rates also will edge higher in some areas, although the trend should be slowed by new housing legislation making more federal funds available.

Hialeah Joins In the Swim

Low bidder among the five submitting figures on the job of building Hialeah's municipal swimming pool and bath house is Joseph M. Moretti with $268,862, Miami Builders Exchange reports.

Connell, Pierce, Garland and Friedman are architects-engineers on the project. Site is West 49th Street and Palm Avenue.

This Glass Block Divider Can Be Bolted Together
. . . no more mortar work if you use the block indoors

Now You Can Use Bolts In Stacking Glass Block

CHICAGO —(P)— The manufacturers of glass blocks had a difficult time getting the public to accept their products for do-it-yourself projects because of the necessity of using mortar in the joints. There was a general recognition that proper mortaring required a certain amount of skill to avoid a home-made look.

Part of this reluctance was overcome with the development of new methods of constructing glass block panels without the use of mortar, especially the system of wooden strips and wedges.

Now comes a still newer method, calling for the glass blocks to be bolted together and said to be less expensive and easier to handle.

It must be emphasized that this set-up — as with all other mortarless systems — should be used indoors only. For an outside, weather-proof wall, the glass blocks still must be mortared together.

Bolted glass block is especially suitable for room dividers. To make one, you must, of course, first determine the size you want it to be. But it should be an approximate size, subject to a slight change in plans so that you can use an exact number of glass blocks of either the 8-inch or 12-inch size. After that comes the construction of a wooden frame in which the blocks will be installed.

One-by-6 inch stock is preferable, with quarter-round molding nailed into position 7-8" from the edge of one side of the frame. The rest of the molding is nailed on after the glass blocks are put in place.

From there on it's just a case of building rows of blocks, placing the specially-made bolt assembly into the corners of the joints. This assembly consists of small aluminum rods and threaded plastic rosettes. All that can be seen are the decorative rosettes.

Ceramic-face glass block provides a choice of decor suited to the individual taste both in color and design. Combined with clear glass block, or other ceramic-face glass block, they give color styling wherever used. Four colors—green, blue, coral and yellow—are available. Incidentally, when these blocks are used for an exterior wall, mortared together, their insulation value is said to be equal to that of an 8-inch masonry wall.

Store Contract Awarded Kovens

Tony Sherman is the architect for the two store buildings to be built by Cal Kovens Construction Corp. at 12770-80 Biscayne Blvd., North Miami. Cost is figured at $113,500.

Ruedd, Inc., owns the property.

It's Special

Asbestos cement products require specially prepared paints. They must be alkali-resistant. Included are solvent-thinned resin-coatings and emulsion or latex coatings. Oil-vehicle masonry paint is also satisfactory.

House Rules to Follow For a Happy New Year

NEW YORK —(AP)— This may be the year you'll stick to those New Year's resolutions. Who knows? Why not make a list, and then see what gives in the department of will power.

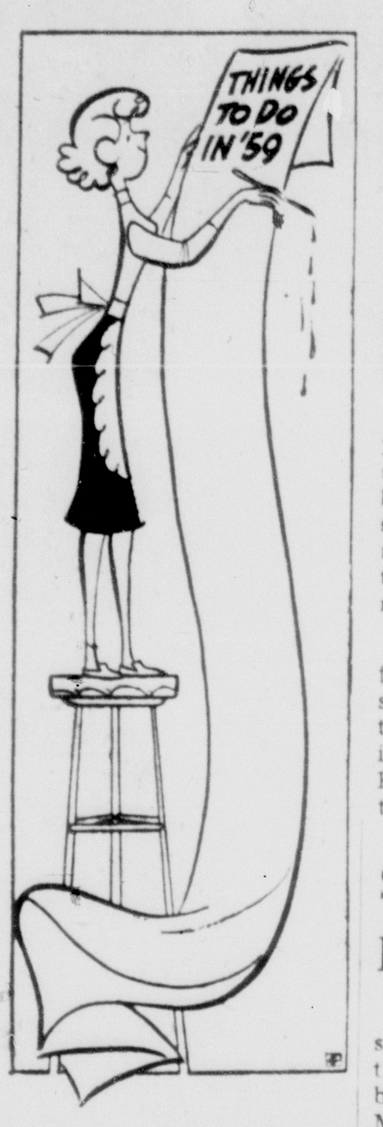
Let's give the house a spin in the resolutions round - up for 1959. Perhaps you'll come out ahead:

If you're the neighborhood sheep make it your business to think for yourself in 1959. You don't really want oyster white walls now that all your friends have them, do you, and perhaps you can talk yourself out of that zebra striped hearth rug like the one your neighbor has just acquired.

Straining your eyes because you don't have enough outlets in your living room? Make it your goal to have a few more added, and give up fire-dangerous extension cords, if that's what you use.

Store or sell all extraneous dust catchers unless they add to the decor. Some clutter may be enchanting, but often clutter is just too much of too many good things.

If you've been complaining that the man of the house is spreading out, what with fishing gear, skis, hunting equipment spilling over in corners of closets and shelves, give the man a break. Size up closets in the house and see if one can't be set aside just for his gear, and maybe include sports equipment belonging to small fry.



When other closets are relieved of this burden, you may be surprised at the neat appearance of your crannies.

Make better use of area space. Do you need that coffee table? Is that magazine rack necessary. Give yourself more floor space, and your room will look larger.

Resist the temptation to put another patterned piece in the room, if you already have one or more in upholstery fabric, slip cover or draperies.

If your home lacks charm in spite of all your efforts ask yourself: Is it too bare to have personality? Could it be improved by a cheerful color — yellow, red or another vibrant shade.

Have animals taken over your home? Are chairs and sofas full of dog and cat hair? Keep cloths over chair seats if animals have full reign in the home, removing the covers when guests arrive.

If baby marks walls and furniture, keep the area sponged and clean. It is easy to get in the habit of accepting these scars as inevitable. Keep tabs on small fry infractions of home rules.

Sunday School Bids Studied

Avant Construction Co. submitted the low bid among the nine submitting figures on building costs for Riverside Methodist Church's new educational building at 121 NW 10th Ave. Bid was $145,200.

Architect is Robert Fitch Smith. H. J. Ross Associates are handling the structural engineering. Frese and Smith are in charge of mechanical, electrical and air conditioning engineering.

The Location's 'Phoney'

A major study of telephone locations by the Bell System, shows that the bedroom is far and away the most popular location for a second phone in the home.

In homes with more than one telephone, 71 per cent have phones in bedrooms. The statistics show that other locations favored are the kitchen, den and workshop.

The study explains the reasons behind the popularity of the bedroom extension. The feeling of security and peace of mind that a bedside phone provides is a compelling motive.

Other factors include step-saving, privacy, general convenience, and the big assist the bedroom phone offers in the event of illness.

Round Trip

Brussels, Belgium, has four-lane freeways which encircle the city.

Church Cliches Rapped

CHICAGO —(AP)— A nationally known churchman says an overwhelming number of new church buildings are banal, sterile, repetitive and examples of what he called the hopeless architectural cliche.

Worse than that, Dr. Truman B. Douglass of New York told the National Council of Churches' general board, they are irrelevant in our contemporary culture.

"They proclaim a faith that used to live for someone else in another age. They employ forms and materials in ways that are openly dishonest."

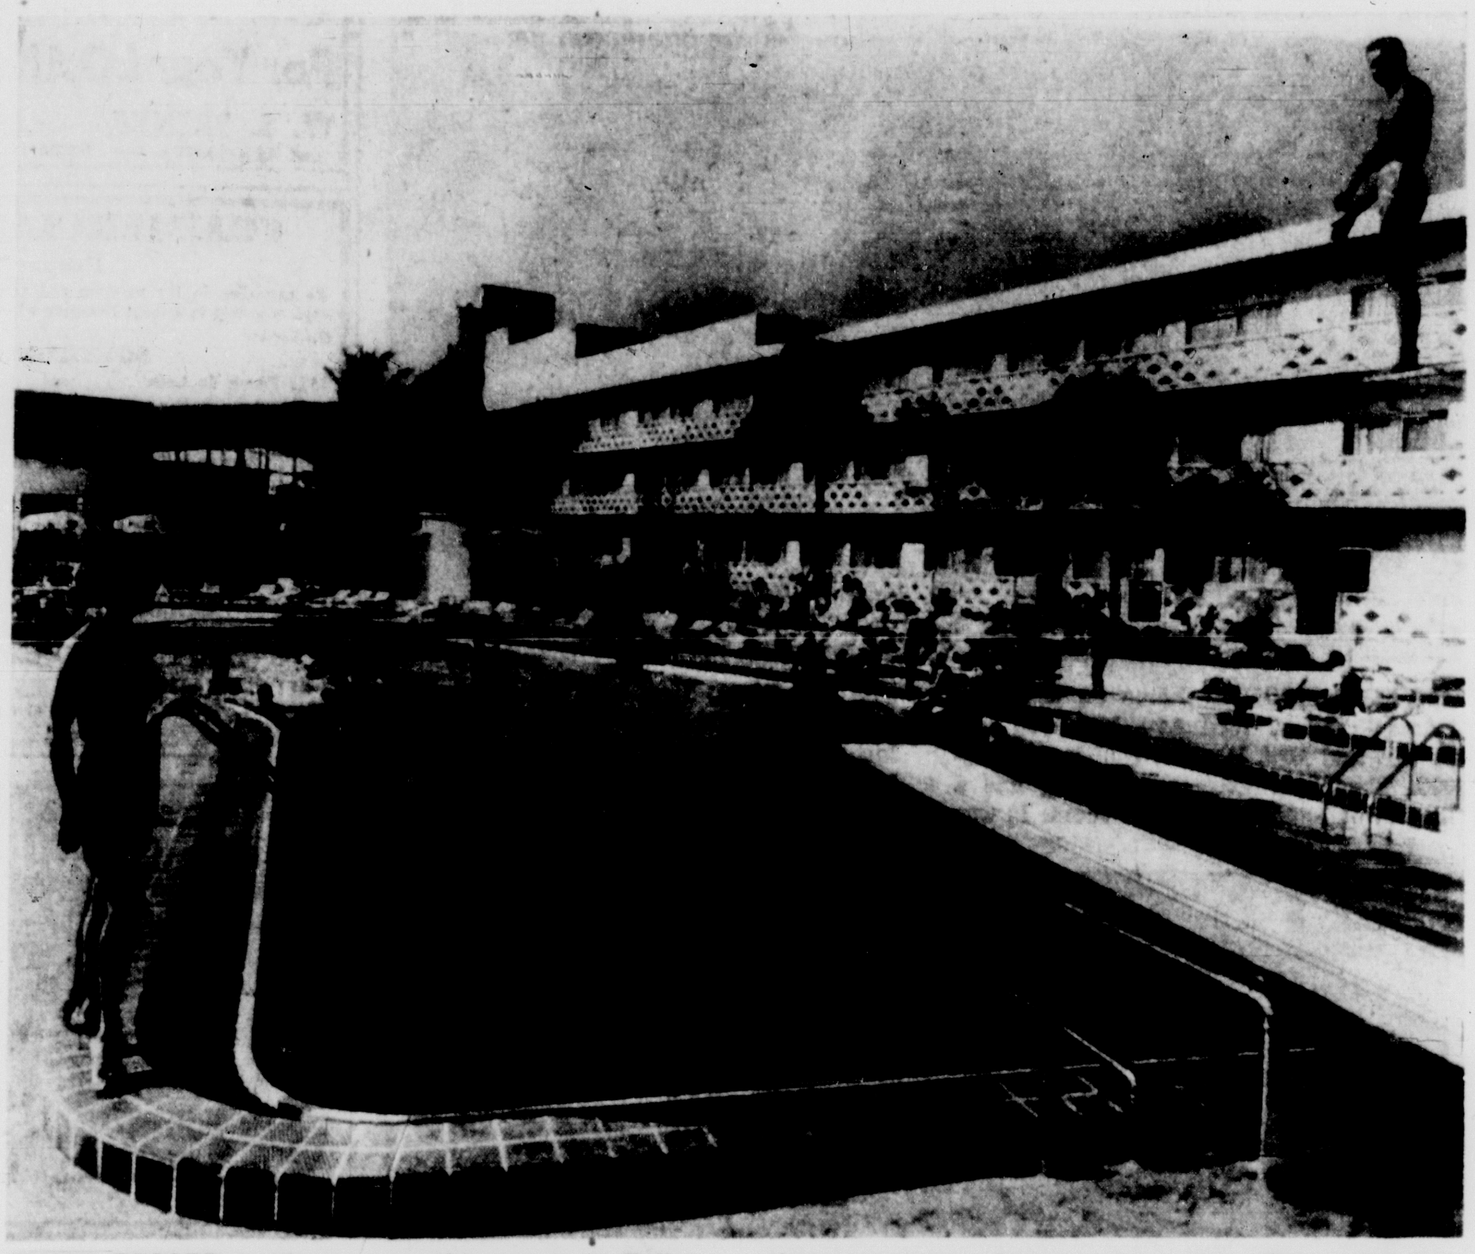
Dr. Douglass is executive vice president of the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational Churches.

To the serious worker in the arts, Dr. Douglass continued, the church today seems invariably to place itself on the side "of the Philistines and the vulgarians.

"It is responsible for the horrors of the Roman Catholic chromos showing the bleeding heart of Jesus in anatomical detail, and for the equally appalling offense committed by Protestant Sunday schools when they give defenseless children representations of Jesus, the semite, depicting Him as a bleached blond with a home permanent."

Caulking Trick

To speed up brickwork repairs on the chimney or other parts of your house, try this trick: get hold of a used cartridge-type calking gun and fill it with well-mixed smooth mortar. You can now squeeze mortar neatly into the cracks between bricks.



THIRD RESORT facility to open this season in Hollywood Beach is the 200-unit Aristocrat Motel, built by Richard J. Flink at a cost of $5,000,000. Melvin Grossman designed the Aristocrat, which was constructed so that every room has an ocean view. The motel also houses a dining room, coffee shop, cocktail lounge, card room and specialty shops. There's an outdoor dining terrace and patio bar.

Save Scraps For Kindling

Many home handymen keep their workshop neat and accumulate a supply of fireplace kindling wood at the same time by collecting leftover peices of wood in a can at the end of the workbench.

The scraps can be brushed into the can quickly and easily after each operation.

If Family's Not Thrifty

A large commercial model of garbage disposer has been redesigned for home use. Although it is extra quiet, it will take care of any possible amount of garbage, even when very large groups are entertained. Up to 400 pounds an hour, actually.

Don't Forget That Undercoat

On new woodwork that is to be given an opaque coating, an enamel undercoater is required. For a finishing coat use semi-gloss or flat enamel. Latex paints, too, are suitable for woodwork. All these coatings can be used to refinish woods that have previously been painted, varnished or shellacked.

Alterations Due

Lindsey Hopkins Vocational Education Center, 1410 NE 2nd Ave., is due for structural renovations soon. Giller and Fryd Construction Corp. was awarded the contract last week. Cost is figured at $254,503.

Here's a Way To Crispness

Some foods such as salt and crackers should ideally be stored in less moist air than is found in the average home. To keep crackers crisp and salt uncaked, build a cabinet on the wall above your refrigerator. Warm air rises continually from the back of the refrigerator. If you cut a slot or hole in the bottom of the cabinet, warm air will flow into it and keep the contents dry.

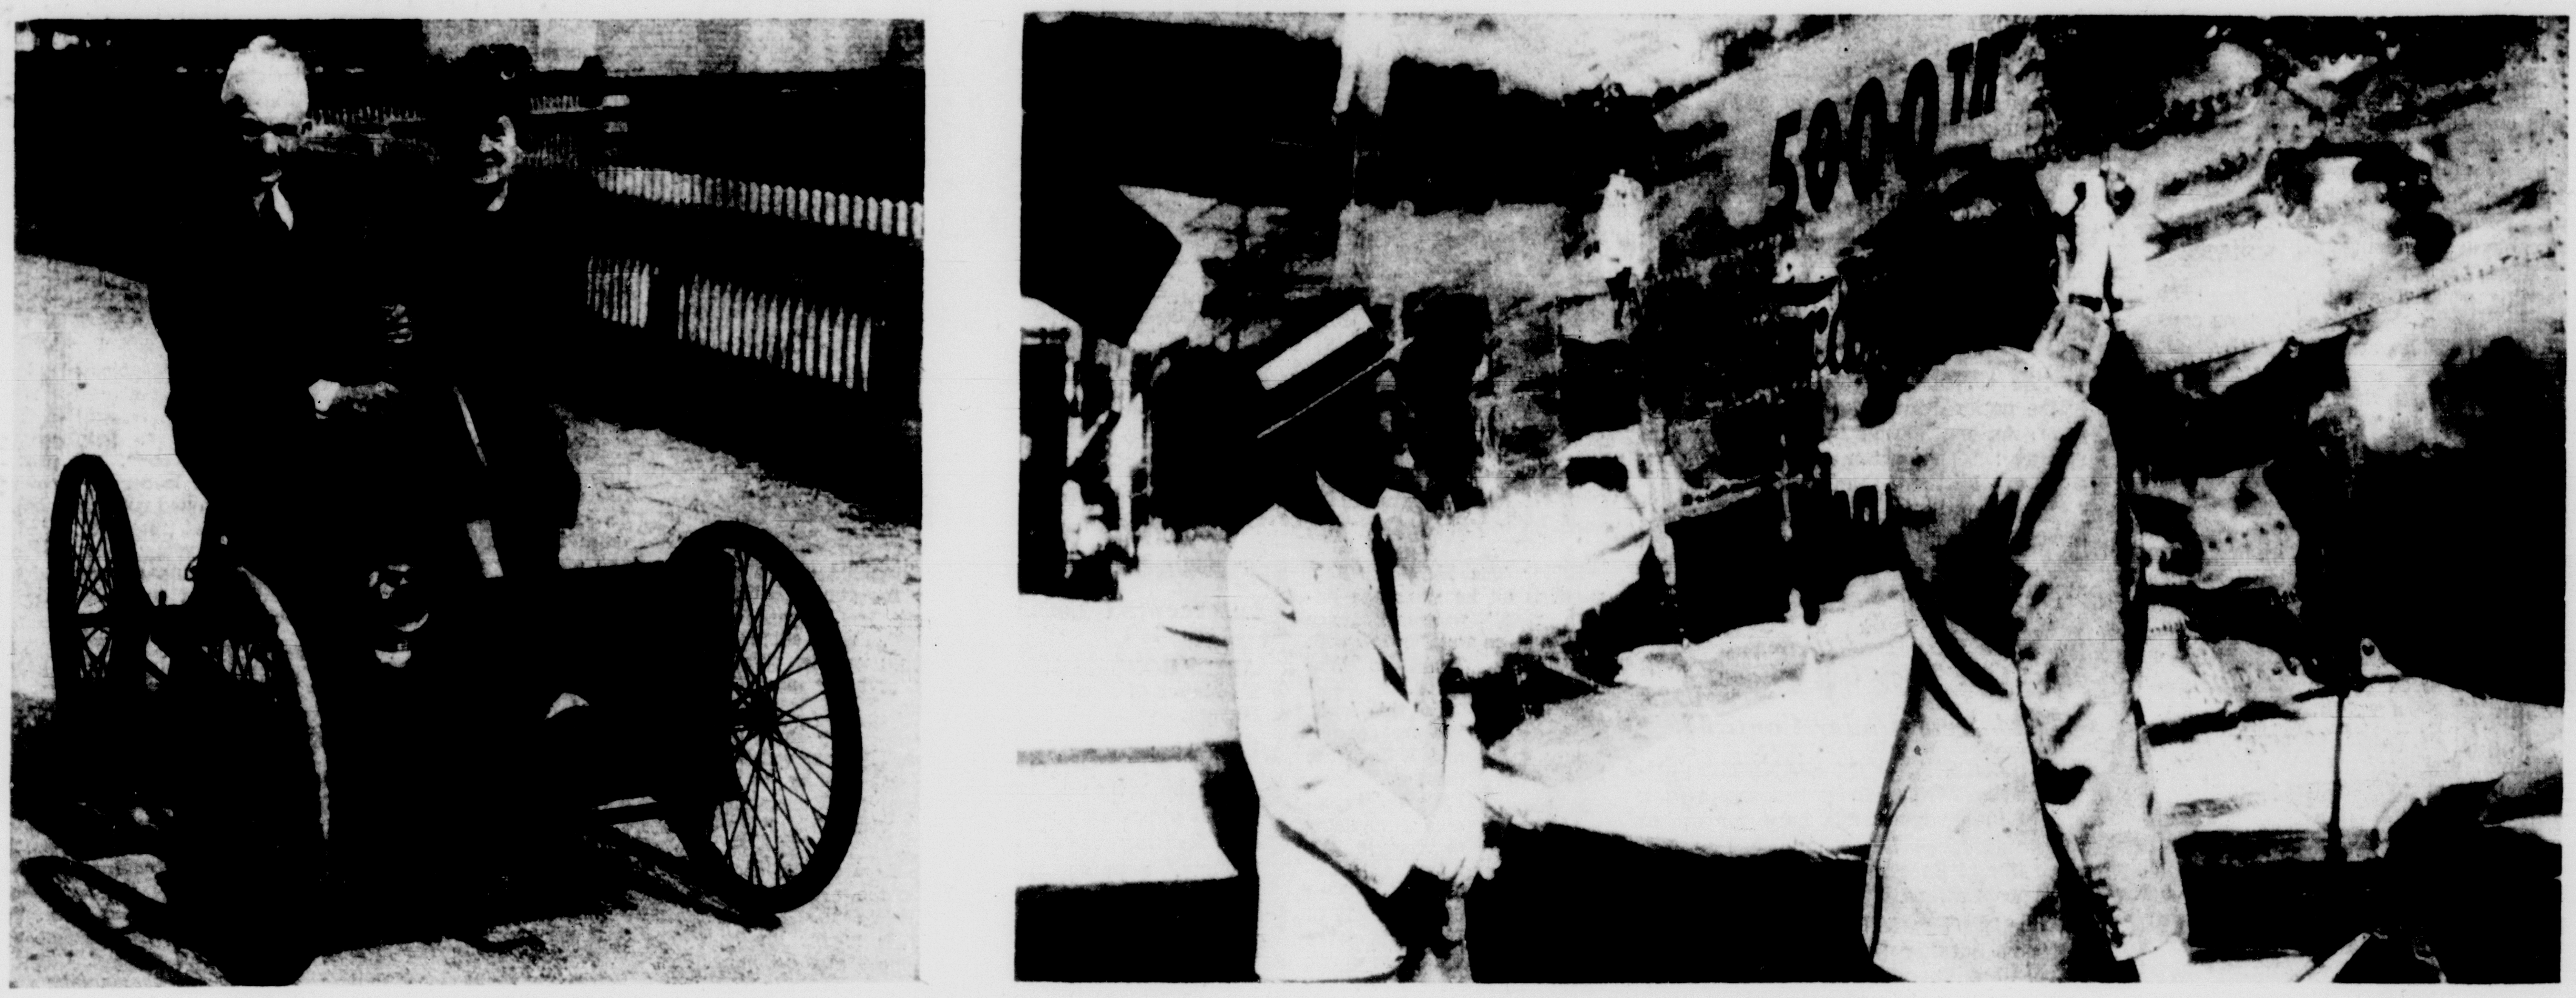
MAINSTREAM of AMERICA

Henry Ford: The Great Revolution



FROM THE FIRST MOTOR CAR, BUILT IN 1896, FORD WENT ALL THE WAY TO THE LIBERATOR BOMBER, PRODUCED FOR WORLD WAR TWO

. . . Mrs. Ford joins him for ride in first automobile

. Henry II adds his signature to that of father on 5000th bomber finished

What Made The Giants Tick?

This is the third of several installments from the book 'The Age of the Moguls', written by Stewart Holbrook. Taken from the pages of American history, it is published by Doubleday.

By STEWART HOLBROOK

TWO UNRELATED events of 1909 marked the twilight of one era for Americans and the dawn of another. In the same year that saw the passing of Harriman, the great railroader, Henry Ford launched his Model T automobile.

Ford's announcement contained as little grace as the thing he was talking about. "I will build a motorcar for the great multitude," he said pompously. He went on to remark that the Model T was to be so low in price it would be within the means of everyone; and wound up with a reference to Deity and a resounding cliche.

Everyone and his family, concluded Ford, could, with his new car, "enjoy the blessing of hours of pleasure in God's great open spaces."

The professional advertising men may have gagged, as well they might, but in the next nineteen years Ford made and sold fifteen million copies of his Model T and stamped his name indelibly on an era.

* * *

FORD HAD nothing to do with inventing the internal combustion engine, or even with the assembly-line method of manufacture, which was already old when Ford was born. What he did was to take both the invention and the method and tinker them into near perfection.

He did more than that. His theory in regard to wages, which we shall come to presently, created, or rather forced, a new philosophy that Ford's contemporary manufacturers found hard to accept.

The great tinker or the "divine mechanic," as he has been called, was born on a farm in 1863. He did not want to be a farmer, though his gaunt face and angular frame were considered characteristically rustic and he did not like big cities or big-city people.

As soon as he was able he left his father's acres, where his only interest had been farm machinery and cheap watches, and went to Detroit to work in a powerhouse. His spare time was spent wholly in tinkering, mostly with a gasoline engine of his own contrivance.

Other Americans were tinkering with similar engines which they were attaching to buggies. Still other Americans were applying electric power to buggies. And the traditionalists were using steam power for the same purpose.

* * *

IN THE summer of 1893, Charles Duryea braved ridicule by running his little gasoline machine up and down the streets of Chicopee Falls, Massachusetts. A year later, a horseless carriage built by Elwood Haynes and the Apperson brothers, Elmer and Edgar, made the Fourth of July memorable at Kokomo, Indiana.

Meanwhile Henry Ford had put together a machine that would run pretty good. Only lack of money prevented him from taking it to Chicago in 1895, where an endurance run for horseless carriages had been sponsored. In that year there were approximately three hundred motor vehicles in the United States, mostly homemade affairs. (England had more than twice as many.)

Possibly the first motorcar made specially for sale in the United States was a job by Alexander Winton, marketed in 1898. After that, things began to happen rapidly. The fast-money boys were quick to sense a new opportunity for stock issues.

During the first four months of 1899, at least eighty concerns were formed, allegedly to make one or another type of motorcar. Their stock issues totaled $338,000,000, and though few of the companies made many cars, and some made no cars at all, the amount of stock offered for sale indicated that Americans, who had been bilked with canal stocks, bilked again with railroad stocks, were positively gluttons.

* * *

THEN, on Christmas Day, 1900, occurred an omen of the great new age in the making, when in New York City, a "young woman was knocked down and fatally injured while crossing Broadway by an automobile vehicle." The Ford era had arrived, even though the Ford Motor Company was three years in the future.

Henry Ford tinkered on. Finally he put together a car that would run like the very wind and drove it himself in a number of the early races. In 1903, with twelve partners who put up a total of $28,000, the Ford Motor Company was organized in Detroit.

Parts for the cars were to be made under contract by several different companies. Space for an assembly plant was rented for seventy-five dollars a month. Ten men were hired at $1.50 a day. Ford thought that the outfit, of which he was manager and tinker general, could make ten cars daily.

There was plenty of competition. Buick had just been incorporated. Apperson, Franklin, Pierce-Arrow, and Stearns had been in business for two years or more. Cadillac, Overland, and Packard had been making cars for more than a year. The older firms, all dating from the 1890's, included Haynes, Locomobile, Oldsmobile, and Studebaker. There was also a host of others, possibly as many as five hundred, which came and went, most of them leaving stock certificates to go into attic trunks along with yellowing certificates of shares in canals that were never dug and railroads that were never built.

* * *

THE NEW Ford Motor Company progressed steadily through the usual lean periods and hard times customary with most business enterprises. In five years it increased output about fivefold. During this time Ford had tried eight different models, which varied from two to six cylinders. Both chain drive and shaft drive were used. One model had the engine behind the driver's seat. The output had grown to one hundred cars a day. Ford himself was still the boss mechanic, seldom far from the bench and the drafting board.

Five of Henry Ford's original partners were afflicted with shortsightedness. They wanted to get out. Ford was glad to buy their stock, which gave him majority control of the company. Now he could go ahead with an idea that had been brewing in his mind, namely, to make one thousand cars a day. A car that would sell for no more than the price of a horse and a buggy.

Ford's remaining associates were solidly against 1,000 cars a day. They were "inexpressibly shocked" and even contemplated court action to stop the madness. But Ford went ahead to design, then to announce, Model T, the one and only model that was to occupy him for the next two decades.

In 1909 Ford's idea was revolutionary. In that era motorcars were generally considered to be the ostentatious toys of the wealthy. Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, saw the deepest social aspects in the automobile, and said publicly that the motorcar presented "a picture of the arrogance of wealth, with all its independence and carelessness." He felt that more than anything else it had "spread socialistic feelings" among Americans.

* * *

HENRY FORD'S Model T stopped any such socialistic feelings in their tracks. Within a few years the lowest proletarians were seeing America, or at least getting around, in Ford cars; and one-gallus sharecroppers had something besides procreation to amuse them.

Yet, the motor era which Ford did so much to usher in also brought a new caste system that was founded on neither birth nor wealth nor brains, but simply the make of car a man owned. Vestiges of it are still to be seen half a century later.

Ford got Model T into production not a moment too soon. A promotor named William Durant was putting together what he hoped would be an automobile trust similar to United States Steel and Standard Oil. He called it General Motors. Into it went Buick, Cadillac, Oldsmobile, and lesser concerns. (Durant also wanted the Maxwell Company and Ford, but failed to get them.)

Durant tried to get capital from J. P. Morgan & Company, boasting to the bankers that half a million cars could be made and sold every year. The House of Morgan dismissed Durant as visionary and otherwise unstable.

* * *

PROMOTER DURANT at last got from the banking houses of Lee Higginson and J. & W. Seligman a five-year loan of fifteen million dollars. These bankers considered motor making so risky that General Motors had to pay them two and a half million in cash and some four million in securities.

The loan not only came high, but the bankers also insisted on a first mortgage and forced Durant to surrender leadership of the company to the bankers' representative. The high-priced loan was used for plant expansion and to buy materials.

Henry Ford's Model T was meanwhile becoming the sensational gadget of the United States. Selling for a little under a thousand dollars in 1909, its price dropped spasmodically over the years to as low as $295. "Watch the Fords Go By" was more than a slogan.

Almost every other car on the dusty highways was a Model T. It was the only automobile that

A Look At The New Year— What Will It Bring For Us?

Views On The News:

WHAT ABOUT the new year?

What may we expect to see happen in business, industry, government, politics and world affairs?

It is always risky to make predictions in print, but a few personal observations on 1959 may be in order.

KNIGHT

It is not generally recognized that comparisons with the past—particularly in the field of economics — can be dangerously misleading.

For our economy has changed so radically that the "sound concepts" of the 1920's, for instance, may no longer be applicable in appraising business trends.

The upward grading of personal incomes, the willingness to assume consumer debt and the availability of credit all combine to make most Americans spend more freely than their grandparents would have thought prudent.

And yet, enforced and voluntary savings plans, high interest rates being paid on deposits, the flow of money from private pension funds, and the investments which are possible with higher personal incomes are causing individual savings to rise at the same time.

Figures prepared for Time magazine show that in June of 1958, there were 6,638,500 retired people drawing benefits of $436,244,000 a month.

A total of 11,905,000 people, including children, mothers, parents and other dependents had $659,000,000 coming in benefits each month.

I am not attempting here to argue the wisdom of the welfare state, but simply to point out the vast sums of money being paid in various forms of federal benefits which flow into the general economy.

★ ★ ★

Business Should Be Good For Those Who Are Alert

BUSINESS ACTIVITY: For the reasons given above and because of a continuing high level of federal spending, business in 1959 should be better than in 1958 but it will fall considerably short of a boom.

The greatest surge will come in food products as ingenious packaging and skillful merchandising attract consumers to new brands and popularize items which heretofore have had only a limited market.

With a constantly rising standard of living, the demand for automobiles, radios, TV sets and appliances will grow as disposable income permits.

As Marion Harper of McCann-Erickson expresses it: "The public is geared now to discretionary spending. Today they anticipate things that belonged only to princes some years ago."

Whereas the family car used to be the universal status symbol, Harper says that now "the success symbols are stacked several deep."

The growth of air travel, vacations on credit and luxury items in general are attributed by Harper to a "reward" psychology — the feeling by people that they work to get more material and recreational rewards from life.

So it would seem that business will be good in 1959 for those who are both alert to the nation's changing trends and know how to sell.

★ ★ ★

The Trend In Industry Is Ever Toward Bigness

GROWTH OF INDUSTRY: The forecasts indicate that new construction records may be in the making.

However, most of these expenditures will be made by existing segments of large industry rather than coming from newly founded industrial concerns.

According to Dr. Gabriel Hauge, once President Eisenhower's economic adviser and now with the Manufacturers Trust Company of New York, a shrinking percentage of our people is engaged in manufacturing, and meanwhile is able to produce more goods.

Dr. Hauge sees the shift from manufacturing to services as comparable to the shift in the American economy in the 19th century from agriculture to manufacturing.

No one foresees the establishment in the future of a new General Motors. The trend is toward the growth of well managed corporations already on the scene; not to the launching of new industrial giants.

The big get bigger through better management, superior technology and absorption of their smaller competitors.

This may not be a wholesome trend, but it is here.

★ ★ ★

A Confident Public Has Put Its Faith In Stocks

THE STOCK MARKET: Although it is generally conceded that most common stocks are selling too high, here again we are seeing why the old economic yardsticks no longer measure three feet.

The stock market, unlike the old days, is now a popular trading post with more than 100 million people having some stake, either directly or indirectly in its securities.

Pension funds, university portfolios, insurance companies, and direct investments by millions of people of average means account for a much shorter floating supply of stocks available for trading.

The purchase of stocks is not without risk, but the popularly held view continues to be that equities are the best hedge against inflation.

The demand for stocks — the Bell System pension fund bought $250 million in common stocks — is so insistent from investors, endowment funds and trusts that the stock market gets strong support and continues to move higher.

Selling is limited because of the capital gains tax.

Many professional traders have been proved "wrong" on the stock market by following the "sound" rules of another era.

The people evidently have confidence in the nation's future growth and development. As one Merrill Lynch partner said recently: "Our customers seem to know a helluva lot more than we do."

The stock market may see its normal corrective reactions from time to time in 1959, but don't bet that it won't be higher at year's end.

★ ★ ★

But Can They Get Those 'Wild Men' Under Control?

POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT: Although the White House has indicated a $77 billion budget, it is hard for me to believe this can be accomplished with a more liberal Congress clamoring for larger appropriations.

I believe Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn will act responsibly, but will they have the newly elected "wild men" under control?

The administration is banking upon much larger tax revenues from prospering business and industry to balance the budget.

President Eisenhower, now beginning his last two years in office, will function much as he has in 1958, and I anticipate no marked change in the pattern of his pursuits.

Look for greater use of his veto power on "spending" legislation.

The year will see well-organized efforts in the East to deflate Vice President Nixon and build up Nelson Rockefeller for the Republican nomination.

There will be some surprises when Rockefeller's backers become known.

Congress will not pass any "tough" labor laws in the next session unless we have an avalanche of strikes and irresponsible work stoppages.

A steel strike in July is more likely than not.

The Republican outlook for 1960 is poor.

★ ★ ★

Our Foreign Policy Due For Greater Criticism

THE COLD WAR: More of the same . . . lots of tough talk on both sides and a possible showdown over West Berlin.

If we stand firm, and make our position on Berlin so clear to the Russians that they will not construe it as another bluff, Khrushchev will not risk war.

I predict that Congress will be far more critical of foreign policy than at any other period of the Eisenhower administration.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will resign before the year is out and be succeeded by Henry Cabot Lodge, our permanent representative to the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

Apparently, Now, There's To Be No Turning Back

SOCIALISM OR STABILITY: One of our leading economists says the changes in our social and fiscal structure which I have mentioned constitute "an institutionalizing of the economy" which must not be confused with Socialism. He adds: "It is a new kind of stability."

I am not quite sure that I know what he means but European economists are alarmed over the decline in world confidence in the U.S. dollar.

The dollar currently has a lower rating in the international currency markets than West Germany's deutsche mark and the Swiss franc.

A columnist in London's Financial Times says we failed to halt a rise in the cost of living during the recession and that U.S. products are being priced out of world markets.

U.S. exports are now running 16 per cent below the 1957 levels.

As between "socialism" and "stability," you can take your choice.

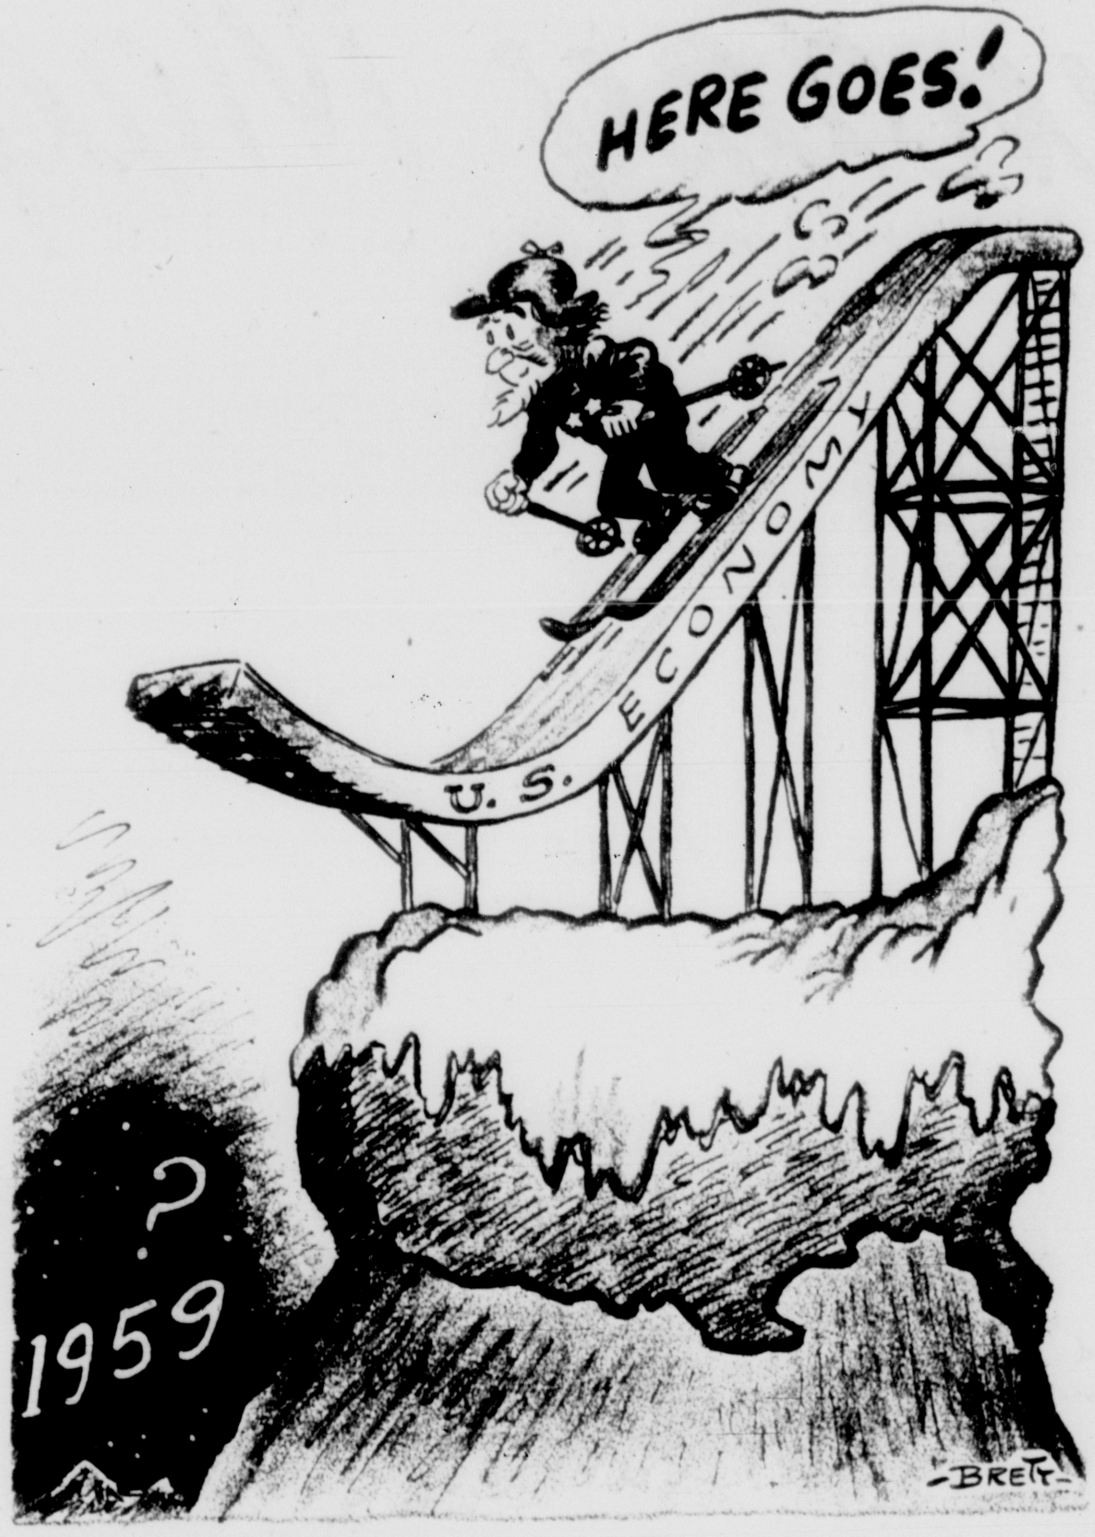
Whichever it is, the people seem to like it and there is no turning back.

The collapse may come but we won't have to worry about it in 1959, or even for some years thereafter.

Best wishes!

JOHN S. KNIGHT

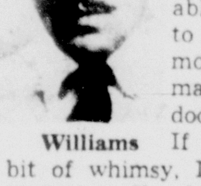
Will He Land Safely?



Voice Of The People

Please, No Doom a la Mode

Editor The Herald: "Ten years is all he gives the human race," writes Beatrice Washburn in an interview with Tennessee Williams.



Williams

So this is it. We are doomed and 1970 is the deadline. Gosh, I'm an agreeable guy, ready to forgive the most glib remarks — but doom by 1970! If this is not a bit of whimsy, I must speak against it. You know Mr. Williams has fame-and-fortune and a lot of people may accept what he says.

Are we supposed to get a big charge out of this? Is it prophecy a la Nostradamus? Self-sniping like Philip Wylie? Maybe it is theater that's real good in print? Or do we really hurry up, delouse ourselves and prepare for certain doom?

Come, come, Mr. Williams, you are not alone in your sadness. Fact is, there is hope for mankind and a good future for you and those who inherit you. Plenty of levelheaded, thick-skinned folks around; people with awareness, probably more than you think.

Look, they applaud your plays. They are self-critical or at least willing to look at themselves. Everywhere they are a vital force for a better world.

So keep up the good work. Prick the apathetic. Awaken the near-dead. Use your great gifts to mirror life as it is, to report and comment. But please, no doom a la mode.

Of course we're in a hell of a mess. Bravo for telling us. But when you say, "Doom by '70," — we won't take it, by gum. It's just vodka off a duck's back!

That Bomber From Cuba Probably Was Identified

Editor The Herald: To ease Harold R. Ringstrom's concern regarding the Cuban Airforce B-26 bomber landing in Miami, I would like to relate the following incident:

A friend of mine was returning to New York from South America on a commercial airliner, when he suddenly noticed the passengers waving. Looking through the window he saw, to his amazement, two U.S. Airforce jet interceptors flying along side the airliner.

On inquiring, he was told that the plane had drifted two or three miles off its course and had been picked up on the Idlewild Radar Screen.

I venture to say that the Cuban B-26 had been identified prior to entering the United States.

Make Roads Safer By Using Colors

Editor The Herald: I think J. Carl Turner's idea about the different colors in center line is the most sensible safety measure I ever heard of. It could do away with a lot of road signs and simplify driving.

Red also could mean dangerous curves and so on.

Let us all push something like this nationally, then watch your "Live to Jan. 1" score come down.

The Angels Said—

Editor The Herald: Even at Christmas time, we have to read about Tennessee Williams' "Doom."

All through the ages, such individuals have appeared and soon to fade into oblivion but as the poet has said, "The great world swings forever down the ringing grooves of change," — for the better with men and women who make humanity's path better and brighter in religion, education, industry, science, finance and medicine.

A good example, your current articles on Vanderbilt and Rockefeller. Countless of thousands of others see the star that has been in part the story of the world interwoven with the lives of good men and events. "And the Angels said unto them, 'Fear not.'"

Here's Cause, Senator:

Inflation, In One Easy Lesson

Editor The Herald: Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the majority leader, has stated that he wishes an investigation to discover the causes of inflation.

"This is a disheartening statement," says Henry Hazlitt of Newsweek, in certainly one of the understatements of 1958.

If the leader of the U.S. Senate professes not to know the basic reasons for the declining value of your buck, he should put on his chaps and ride back to Texas.

Here is a simple sample of what causes inflation:

I own a bolt factory.

The employes strike and force a much higher wage.

They still make the same number of bolts.

The steel workers strike and get a higher wage.

But they produce no more steel than before.

Now wages are up and costs are up without any increase in productivity.

So those bolts you bought from me last month at $1 are now costing you $2. Your buck is now worth just half what it was a month ago in my shop.

In other words the value of my bolts is now inflated 100 per cent. So when costs are forced up without a like increase in productivity . . . you have inflation.

Whereas the above is true, it is of course by no means the complete story. But for people with a bird-brain like mine it will have to do.

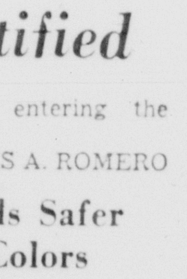
Confident Living

Religion, Psychiatry Partners

By Norman Vincent Peale

A LITTLE BOY of nine was brought to our religio-psychiatric clinic in New York by his mother. His family physician had given him all the tests he could, but the child continued to complain of persistent stomach ache. He was a tense little boy.



Peale

Our clinic studied the child and sent a social psychiatrist into the home. The father, he found, was a restless businessman who came home every night with worry on his face and a briefcase under his arm. At dinner he talked only of business problems. After dinner he disappeared into his study and worked all evening.

The mother was a joiner, a member of every possible committee. The phone started ringing for her at 8 o'clock every morning and never seemed to stop.

★ ★ ★

WE WENT to work on the father and convinced him that his attitudes and actions were a cause of his son's trouble. We helped him find peace of mind so that he was eventually able to better organize his work so as to get it done during office hours.

Then we persuaded the mother to reduce her organizational activities and to confine her telephoning to the period when her boy was in school. And we helped the child to find friends and playmates.

★ ★ ★

ONE OF OUR clinic ministers asked the man and woman if they ever had prayer in their home. They said they had not. He then suggested that they should offer prayer regularly and the husband said to the wife, "Okay, you pray at the dinner table."

"Oh, no," she said, "you're the head of the house."

It was the first time his wife had ever made that admission and it pleased him so much that he undertook the obligation. He learned to pray and to create a prayerful atmosphere in that home. A new sensation of peace, a slower tempo and a greater feeling of love flowered among the members of that little family.

It was not long before the boy's stomach ache and his tension vanished.

★ ★ ★

IN THE APOCRYPHA you will find written, "Of the Most High cometh healing." And there is no greater need in America today than for the healing of God in the emotions, the minds and the souls of men. It is fortunate that the willing collaboration of our religious leaders with our doctors, psychiatrists and social workers can result in principles and techniques which lead to normal, healthy lives of emotional control and mental peace.

Today And Tomorrow

Just To Stand Firm Is Only Half Enough

By WALTER LIPPMANN

TAKING STOCK at the year end, there are those who think that our position in the cold war has improved and all will be well if we stand firm and persevere. They think that time is on our side.

On the other hand, there are those who think that the balance of military power is turning against us, and also that in the under-developed regions of Africa, Asia, and South America, the tide is running against us.

Lippmann

They do not think that it is enough to stand firm. It is necessary also to take bold and costly measures to turn the tide. They think that time is not on our side unless we make a prodigious effort in armaments, in the development of our own economy to support them, and in a demonstration that there is a way, other than the Communist way, by which the under-developed nations can overcome their weakness and master their poverty.

I should like to define the central reason why the West is losing and the Communists are winning the contest in the under-developed countries.

The central reason is that the advanced and industrialized Western countries of North America and Western Europe and Australasia are growing richer while the under-developed countries, outside the Communist orbit, remain in dire poverty and are moving very slowly.

It is in this factual situation that Communism is expanding. For the Soviet Union has succeeded in demonstrating that there is a way, though harsh and cruel, by which a country can be raised by its own boot-straps.

★ ★ ★

A FEW FIGURES will make concrete the nature of our problem. There are, roughly speaking, about 400 million people in Western Europe, North America, and Australasia, and they have, measured in 1949 prices, an average income per capita of not quite $900 a year. This, let us remember, is an average.

In the under-developed countries, excluding Red China, there are about 1,000 million people and they have an average per capita income of about $60 a year.

★ ★ ★

BUT THIS is only the beginning of the story. It is obvious that this enormous gap can be narrowed only if the backward countries are able to use modern technology in agriculture, mining, and industry. But to use the modern technology there are needed technically trained men and capital.

The technicians can be trained and they can be borrowed. But where is the capital to come from?

At a rough estimate, the heavy basic industries, such as steel, require a capital investment per man of about $20,000 more or less. For the lighter industries something in the neighborhood of $6,000 capital per man is needed.

Now in the West, we are able to save and invest productively about 10 per cent of our income per capita per year. That comes to an average of about $90 invested per person in new plant and machinery.

But that $90, which the West is able to save and to invest, is more than the whole income of the average person in the under-developed countries. That is why they remain poor and are unable to do much about their poverty.

★ ★ ★

THIS IS the point at which the Communist challenge really becomes so formidable. For Communism, as practiced in the Soviet Union, has proved that if the leaders are powerful enough and ruthless enough, the capital required for the new technology can be extracted from the work and the sacrifices of the people themselves.

★ ★ ★

LET US be warned that while it is imperative and essential to maintain the balance of military power, Communist expansion in the under-developed countries cannot be contained by military means.

If anyone doubts this, let him look at Iraq, which on the map is protected from the Soviet Union by the containing wall of Turkey and Iran. Yet it is obvious that Iraq cannot be protected against Communism merely by standing firm in Turkey and Iran.

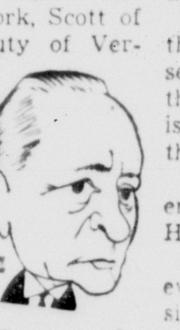
Senate Leadership Fight

Ike's Stoutest Props Get No Aid From Ike

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON—The White House is standing with arms folded and is apparently viewing with tranquility the expected defeat of the Eisenhower Republicans in their touch-and-go battle to win the leadership of the party in the Senate.

The Eisenhower Republican liberals, whose candidates like Keating of New York, Scott of Pennsylvania, Prouty of Vermont, did best for the party in the last election, are making a gallant but thus far losing effort to make John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, an early and ardent supporter of the President, Senate leader to replace Sen. William Knowland.



Drummond

They are seeking to avert the selection of Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, who has long been identified with the Republican right wing whose ranks were severely thinned in November.

★ ★ ★

THERE IS only a wan prospect of their doing so. They know what they want. They have the vim and the vinegar. They are convinced that unless the Republican Party can embrace the leadership and the image of what the progressives stand for, the chance of winning in 1960 is bleak, bordering on the invisible.

But they haven't quite got the votes and privately they see little chance of getting them unless the White House is willing to show that it wants them to win.

That could make a difference. Shouldn't the White House at least try?

This difference is not, however, in sight. Quite the opposite.

★ ★ ★

WHY IS Dirksen the White House choice? Here would be the reasons of the White House majority:

1. The President ought not to support actively either side because of his deep respect for the "separation of powers" and because this is a Senate decision.

2. Dirksen would personally make a more skillful and articulate leader of the party in the Senate than Cooper.

3. While in the past Sen. Dirksen has voted against the President on numerous major issues, he has in the last two years, whatever his personal convictions, supported the administration as much as anyone in the Senate.

4. On the one issue which Eisenhower has been focusing since the election — the issue of keeping spending down — the White House believes it can rely better on the Dirksen-Bridges wing of the party than on any other group.

★ ★ ★

THESE ARE honest reasons. However, since this column has written sympathetically of the effort to strengthen the progressive image of the Republican Party, I would not be candid if I did not add my personal convictions:

That President Eisenhower is in this instance profoundly misapplying the doctrine of "separation of powers" since the selection of a Senate Leader is not a decision of the Senate but a decision of the party of which Mr. Eisenhower is the head.

That in this contest for leadership the stake here is not one issue but the kind of Republican Party which the Republicans will have to present to the nation to have any fair prospect of winning in the near future.

It doesn't seem to me that it is the Eisenhower Republicans who are deserting Mr. Eisenhower.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

[redacted]

BELL

MRS. Gladys Nolan, Louisville, Kentucky, and John Patrick Kelly, man-about-the-nation, were married Thursday in the palatial apartment of Morrie and Mrs. Moss, Belle Isle.

When the good padre pronounced the magic words that made them man and wife, Leo Fruitkoff whispered to me: "They went to the post at 1:42." Y'see, Leo was slightly apprehensive about the start, because he had to get photos, then dash out to catch the feature at Tropical. Leo, in case you've not guessed yet, is a hoss track trophy presentation photographer.

'Twas a horsey wedding! the thoroughbred brand; not the five-gaited stuff. Everybody there except Harry Stevens, myself and the minister have a few fillies and a couple'a others which'll win one sweet day (please, gods of chance). Morrie Moss, the host, who was a horse-owning partner of Mrs. Kelly's former husband before he died, confided that "I've 15 head, mostley goats. I'm getting rid of them."

I thought 'twas a beautiful wedding. The bride is far beyond anything Kelly deserves. But was he handsome! And as the ceremony rolled on, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Pat Cunningham and Mrs. Harry Stevens wept copiously. Why I dunno, unless, subconsciously, look at the handsome groom they thought of their own husbands to whom they're stuck until death do them part.

Old Combine

KELLY and Red Cunningham and I are fairly well acquainted. When I was a bachelor at 145 SW 13th St. Cunningham moved in "for a couple'a weeks." The following year be brought Kelly, a former Chicago university football pal, in with us. This unholy alliance lasted until I had to marry Nora Doran to regain monarchy over my own domicile.

Long as I've known Kelly he has been fooling around horses. Being shrewd, he never owned any. He just knew them. Cunningham and I would trudge off to work every morning. Kelly? Neither did he weave (except on festive occasion) nor did he spin. We gave him the guest bedroom with patio to match. He put in his own 'phone and kept his book of numbers well hidden.

Kelly also had a tendency to get home fairly early; somewhere between 3 and 5 a.m. Being a kindly soul, not wishing to disturb the working class, he mapped out a dogleg course from the door to his bedroom: nine steps straight toward the fireplace, then a three-step squads left.

One bitterly cold Sunday we built a huge fire, not knowing the builders of the old shack had run two wood beams under the stones of the fireplace. The heated stone set the wood on fire. We returned at 11 p.m. to see the place in flames. Firemen chopped the fireplace to bits, taking some of the floor too.

★ ★ ★

Good Times

ABOUT 3 a.m. we heard the explosive "klimp—klum-klump of well filled shoes: Kelly coming home on tiptoe. Then came the crash. Kelly's ninth step carried him into the hole in the floor. Down he went, taking our barricade with him.

Cunningham and I finally got him out of the hole, Kelly vowing in true race course language to sue me because I hadn't installed a red lantern in front of the hole.

I reckon no house in town was host to more good times than that old 145. Thar was started the first free-loader turf writers party. All the writers, the Stevens catering clan, Morty and Mrs. Mahoney and their mutuel-department sons, Swifty Morgan and Doc Kearns and Tom Thorpe and dozens more wonderful yarn spinners. Henry Reno of the Herald police run got us our likker during prohibition. Food was plentiful. People were happy. And the annual Christmas party still goes. Many an old familiar face was in evidence last Sunday at our new home, a party co-sponsored by the BB (Bell-Bruns) combine.

Kelly and Cunningham were my mostest helpers in the old days. True, they brought in some strange characters at times. They even brought food for the rats that used to play on the fireplace ledge late at night.

Good luck to you, Mrs. Kelly.

Larson To Make Push For Public Hearings

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Herald Capitol Bureau

TALLAHASSEE—An automatic public hearing on all petitions for auto and fire insurance rates increases will be one of the major proposals for revision of state insurance laws in the 1959 legislative session.

The measure to be recommended by State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson would work this way:

BOYLES

The insurance department would have 15 days in which to study the application before calling a public hearing. But the commissioner would make no decision in the case until after such a hearing.

Under present laws the company or rating bureau may request a hearing if its petition is denied. But no provision is made for a public airing until the insurance department denies or approves the application. And if the department lets 30 days go by without acting the requested rates become effective.

★ ★ ★

THE cart-before-the-horse law has been the target of a Dade County grand jury studying rising auto insurance rates and the citizens advisory committee on traffic safety.

The proposed new law would give private citizens, public safety officials and others an opportunity to give evidence to the insurance commissioner before he seeks to determine whether data furnished by the companies justifies a rate revision.

Larson asserts the move to write a mandatory public hearing into the law was one of the first steps considered in his extensive legislative program. The commissioner says he has long believed the procedure was backward and ought to be changed.

The public is often criticized for failing to turn out at state, county and municipal sessions to show an interest in government. But given proper notice the people frequently take advantage of their right to be heard. Whether they use it or not the opportunity should always be extended.

★ ★ ★

IF the next legislature really gets down to business with the problem of traffic safety it ought to be extremely gratifying to former Sen. Merrill Barber of Vero Beach.

Barber, who did not seek reelection last year, served as chairman of the legislative council's safety committee which grappled vigorously with the state's highway hazards.

Much of that committee's work two years ago should be helpful to those who will take up the fight in the upcoming session.

The committee was responsible for the 1957 legislature setting a maximum speed limit of 65 miles an hour in daylight and 55 per hour at night on Florida highways.

★ ★ ★

SEN. Tom Adams of Orange Park apparently will now have clear sailing to win legislative approval of his proposal to streamline the State Department of Agriculture.

Nearly every major farm group in the state has endorsed the package and the provision drawing the chief objection from Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo has been removed.

Mayo opposed the idea of having a 17-man council which could sanction or veto his actions.

This has been reduced to a 13-member advisory council without authority to overrule the commissioner.

The rest of Adams' plan appears sound. But Mayo seems to be right. The commissioner like other cabinet members has to be held responsible as the executive of his individual department.

★ ★ ★

INCIDENTALLY, Mayo reports the total value of agricultural production hit a new high of $717 million last year. This shows a surprising strength in the state's farm economy in spite of the three months of historic cold weather and heavy rains throughout much of the production season.

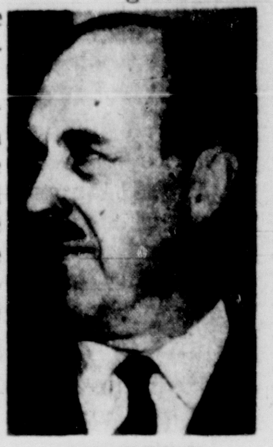
We Miss The Boat

By DREW PEARSON



PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Traveling from tropical Mexico to arctic Alaska as this writer did last month, you get a feeling of the vastness of America. You also get some realization of the fact that great areas of the American continent are completely undeveloped and neglected.

While we have been building up African competition against Latin-American coffee and cocoa, Khrushchev's shrewd policy of expanding Soviet trade has begun to penetrate the Americas. He loaned $100,000,000 to Argentina long before we woke up and hustled a bank credit to Argentina last week. He has sent trade missions all over Latin America offering long-term credits and cheap prices.

This is going to be the biggest economic challenge facing the United States in 1959.

Alaska, now the 49th state, will be the beginning of the 1959 economic challenge. It's estimated there is still as much gold in Alaskan hills as was ever taken out. The timber resources of the new state are fabulous. Tremendous copper deposits have already been mined and much more is available.

Drew Pearson is subbing today for John McDermott who is on a tour of European countries.

★ ★ ★

WHAT Alaska needs, however, are roads and population. No highway now connects Alaska immediately with the United States. The much publicized Alcan highway runs through Canada, and has a gravel roadbed between the Alaskan-Canadian border and the United States.

One-third of Alaska's present 200,000 population is military personnel with their families. The best way to defend Alaska is to get it populated.

The pushers for statehood have been claiming statehood would bring population and development. If they are right, a great future should be ahead for the 49th state beginning this year.

Closed Door Story

HERE is what happened inside the closed-door meeting of Senate GOP insurgents when they got together to nominate their leader last week.

George Aiken, tousle-headed, tough senator from Vermont, was the first to speak and explained why he couldn't take the nomination.

"New England now holds two important posts in the GOP leadership," Aiken explained. "Senator Bridges of New Hampshire is chairman of our policy committee, and Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts is chairman of the Republican conference. In view of this, it wouldn't look right for a Vermonter to be seeking the floor leadership. So it would be much better for this important post to go to another section of the country.

"In addition, I plan to make a knockdown, drag-out fight against administration efforts to curtail the rural electrification program in the next Congress, and I want to remain in an independent position to wage this fight. I couldn't carry on that fight effectively if I had to be leaning over backward to cooperate with the White House as floor leader."

All eight of the liberal senators took turns in presenting their views on who should lead them. Then Aiken summed up their views:

"There are three names before us: Frank Carlson of Kansas, Tom Kuchel of California, and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky," he said. "Frank Carlson, who has been having some trouble with a disc in his back, phoned me this morning and said he preferred not to be a candidate but would go along with what the majority of us wanted."

★ ★ ★

Backing For Cooper

THE strongest statement for John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky was made by Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, onetime New York investment banker.

"John Cooper won by a 70,000 majority in a Democratic state in the last election," said Bush. "His supporters included a large Democratic following. We must realize that we can't kick Independents or Democrats in the face if we want to win future elections. We learned that in the last election, but we also saw that Liberals like John Cooper in our own party can be returned to office by substantial majorities."

After listening to the eulogies for Cooper, Sen. Tom Kuchel of California decided to step aside. However Kuchel agreed, under pressure from his colleagues, to run for the secondary post of whip.

Merry-Go-Round

CORRECTION: In covering the Alaskan election campaign I reported that Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton had traveled by special train on the government-owned Alaskan railway from Anchorage to Fairbanks and later had two special cars for the use of his office staff. While Seaton did travel on the special train, I now find that it was making the trip anyway and that he rode at the special urging of the manager. He did not use the special cars. In fairness to Mr. Seaton I am happy to make these facts clear . . .

The three men who deserve chief credit for bolstering the defense of Alaska are Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Gen. Nathan Twining, now chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. Frank Armstrong, now commander in Alaska.

When Symington was secretary of the Air Force he went to Alaska, saw the deplorable condition of military housing and waged a campaign to improve it. He also invited Bob Hope to spend Christmas up there, which began the famous Bob Hope pilgrimages to military outposts . . .

General Armstrong, who was in Alaska during the Symington era, is operating a carefully coordinated, highly efficient command of the Army, Navy, and Air Force . . . Twelve airlines operate in Alaska, plus an unknown number of bush pilots. Because roads are almost non-existent, bush pilots in Alaska are like taxi drivers in New York . . .

Congressional committees five times have investigated the "tunnels" of Ladd Air Force base at Fairbanks. They are highly practical tunnels connecting officers' quarters and parts of the Ladd base. In heavy snows, military personnel can travel underground. Also water and sewage, which otherwise would freeze, are protected in these tunnels. Congress, however, likes to investigate.

Ford Gave Birth To A Revolution

went into folklore. Cartoonists, gagsters, vaudeville comedians, and the anonymous fraternity that invents off-color stories went to work on the Ford car with enthusiasm.

It was the Tin Lizzie, and more things happened to Tin Lizzie than ever happened to the farmer's daughter of legend. The Ford Motor Company had a conventional advertising appropriation, though it was not needed. No American gadget ever received so much free advertising as Model T.

★ ★ ★

IN 1914 approximately two hundred and fifty thousand Model T cars were made and sold. They accounted for forty-five per cent of all automobiles made in the United States that year.

Then, also in 1914, Henry Ford rocked all American industry with an announcement. He told the press that the Ford Motor Company had just instituted a wage scale based on a minimum of five dollars a day. What was more, the Ford day henceforth was eight, not nine, hours long.

The effect of this announcement cannot well be described to later generations. They will have an idea of its impact, however, if they know it created a sensation greater than the outbreak of World War I, and an intense interest, greater even than that attending the World Series.

The Ford wage of five dollars for eight hours for common labor was twice as much as the highest common labor wage in the United States. Millions of men were glad to work nine hours for two dollars.

Garet Garrett, then an editor on the New York Times, recalls that "four kinds of ruin" were immediately prophesied. Detroit would be ruined by an exodus of employers; those who stayed and tried to meet Ford's fantastic wage would be ruined; the Ford Company itself would shortly be bankrupt; and Ford's employees would be demoralized by the sudden affluence.

★ ★ ★

Huge Migration Starts

NONE OF these things came to pass, though Ford's announcement, unqualified by any warning, gave Detroit and thousands of witless working-stiffs a bad winter. It set off a tidal migration that brought men from Bowery slums, from Oregon logging camps, from New England farms, from Texas ranches. Textile Manchester and Lowell felt the surge. So did the packing plants of Chicago.

The Ford plant was then at Highland Park. Within forty-eight hours after Ford's announcement, 10,000 men milled around the plant gates, only to learn that all the five-dollar jobs had been filled before they got there. Police were called, and the great mob was scattered by the fire hoses of Utopia.

But there was no mistake about the wage. Inside the plant, while cops defended the gates, 15,000 men were at work assembling Model T Fords, and the least of them got five dollars.

"Industry must manage to keep wages high and prices low," Henry Ford told the press. "Otherwise it will limit the number of its customers. One's own employees should be one's own best customers."

There it was in capsule form, the new theory, namely, that the wage earner is more important as a consumer than as a producer. Yet, he had better be up and doing; he had to produce. He had to produce a great deal more than ever before. Ford's assembly line saw to that.

★ ★ ★

TO MAKE more Model T cars Ford built the immense River Rouge plant. It is probable that he had then no idea whatever of making anything else, ever, than the Model T. The car was changed slightly over the years, but it remained pretty much the stark, black, ugly, efficient, and comfortless thing it had been since its birth.

Meanwhile the Dodge brothers, who had gotten rich making Ford's engines until he started making them at River Rouge, had set up as makers of automobiles. They brought out an efficient small car and in their advertising suggested that many people might like to own a real automobile by paying only a little more than a Model T cost.

General Motors, which had survived its inauspicious beginnings, was also cutting into Ford sales with its low-priced Chevrolet, a car designed by William Knudsen, who had been Ford's production manager. The Chevrolet was a handsome thing compared to Model T. Ford dealers the country over began to complain: Why couldn't Ford give them something to sell that looked like a car and not like a Model T?

Henry Ford blamed his salesmen. Then he blamed the American people; they were running after false gods, which was to say, beauty. He cut Model T's price to $295, but still the many Ford agencies were clogged with unsold cars.

★ ★ ★

His Problems Grew

BUT THAT was not the least of Ford's troubles. His half dozen stockholders were finding fault with the chief; he wanted to put most of the company's profits into plant expansion, or otherwise to invest it in the business. Instead of dividing ten million dollars among the stockholders, as had been done for several years past, Ford proposed they and he get along with $1,200,000.

The stockholders went to court to force Ford to distribute the company earnings. They also asked the court to enjoin the hundred-million-dollar expansion program Ford was proposing.

At the trial Henry Ford made clear that he was a new kind of mogul, or capitalist, or employer. He displayed in court heresies that would have brought quick apoplexy to a Vanderbilt, a Rockefeller, or a Carnegie. Ford told the court that the profits of the Ford Motor Company were neither his nor the stockholders'.

"After they (the employees) have had their wages," he said, "and a share of the profits, it is my duty to take what remains and put it back into the industry to create more work for more men at higher wages." He denied that either generosity or his conscience had anything to do with it. It was simply good business.

The opposing lawyers exhibited a Ford Motor Company statement showing profits of the year previous to have been a little more than fifty-two million dollars. Did he propose to give his stockholders a little less than one fiftieth of that amount? He did, indeed.

★ ★ ★

IT WAS too much for the court, perhaps too much for any court; and this particular court ordered Henry Ford to declare a dividend of $19,275,000. "It is not," said the court, "within the lawful power of a corporation to shape and conduct its affairs for the merely incidental benefit of stockholders and for the primary purpose of benefiting others."

The stockholders forthwith got their dividend, which amounted to a matter of $688 for each dollar of cash originally invested, or 68,800 per cent. But the Ford Motor Company lost its president. Henry Ford suddenly resigned, though retaining his seat on the board of directors.

Ford's resignation was made public with a statement to the effect that he, Henry Ford, was leaving to devote his time to "other interests," which were not named. With that he went off to visit his friend, the naturalist John Burroughs, in California.

He remained there several months; and because his resignation had created something of a stir comparable to the assassination of a president of the United States, newspaper reporters trailed him and Burroughs at their bird watching.

Now and again Ford was glad to meet the press and to hint mysteriously at what he might be thinking about. He told the inquiring reporters that nobody, not even he, Henry Ford, had as yet built a really good automobile. He had half a mind, he said, to start a new company, a concern with no stockholders to harass him. With his experience and certain new ideas that had come to him he, Henry Ford, ought to go far.

All of this and much more of Ford's musings went directly into the daily papers, often on their front pages. What the Ford stockholders thought of it isn't of record. It seems safe to say that they were frightened.

Harry Bennett, Ford's handy man of all work, says that Henry's musings about a new company put the directors into a panic and they were glad to "sell out to him pretty much on his own terms."

In any case, the minority stockholders did sell out to Ford, and went their way, each a multimillionaire. One would like to know if they drove off in Model T cars.

Just when Ford himself came to the inevitable conclusion about Model T does not seem to be known. The stockholders did not drive him to it, for now he had no stockholders. The Ford Company had become and was long to remain a Ford family property.

But when he did make up his mind about Model T, it was no halfway measure. He would not change Tin Lizzie. He would build a new car. It would be even better than Model T. It would be called Model A.

The vast plant at River Rouge, which had been turning out 1,800,000 copies of Model T a year, was shut down tight. It remained silent for many months, while Chevrolets were rolling in increasing numbers over the new highways with which the nation and the states were subsidizing the automobile industry, much as they had earlier aided the railroads with land grants.

Mixed now with the Chevrolets and the Model Ts were the new products of Walter Chrysler's factory.

HE WAS NOT ONLY A TINKER, HE WAS A THINKER, TOO

. . . he predicted that wheat would lead to plastics

THE PROMINENT FROM EVERYWHERE CAME TO SEE HIM

. . . in 1941, the Duke of Windsor called on him

Then, one day in 1928, after a buildup which more than one newspaperman referred to as the "Second Coming," Ford's Model A went on the market. It cost a little more than the Model T had, but times were flush, so good, indeed, that within thirty days after the first showing, Ford was making 6,000 cars daily.

Henry Ford's reputation was such, says Harry Bennett, that "500,000 customers made a down payment on the Model A before they knew its price or had even seen it." New York City papers reported that Madison Square Garden was a bedlam on the day Model A was exhibited there, while in St. Paul some twenty-five thousand people turned out in subzero weather to gaze on the new wonder.

★ ★ ★

MODEL T had lasted almost twenty years. Model A lasted only five. Ford's competitors made it obsolete, not in performance but in appearance. Shrewd as he was in many ways, Henry Ford found it difficult to accept any fact that came from a source completely alien to his thinking.

Hence fashion or style he dismissed with the same countryman's snobbishness that prevents a Georgia cracker from wearing anything but a "wool hat."

What had been happening, though Ford ignored if ever he knew it, was that most Americans wanted a new-style car not every twenty years, or every five years, but annually. Ford's competitors were largely responsible for this acquired taste.

Thus Model A went the way of Model T, only much quicker; and the Ford plant shut down again, this time to come out with the V-8. It was doubtless as good a car as any other at its price. The trouble was, all makes of cars were good. The Ford Motor Company had become one, and not the largest, of the so-called "Big Three" with General Motors and Chrysler.

★ ★ ★

Size Of His Empire

BY THE TIME Model A made its appearance, Henry Ford's empire was generally believed to be the greatest industrial enterprise in the world. The River Rouge plant alone covered 1,100 acres. In it were employed more than a hundred thousand men, most of them robots. The company operated thirty-five branches in the United States. Thirty-one of these were assembly plants.

Then, because Ford had to get his material cheap if he was to build good cars at low cost, his empire included his own timber lands, ore mines, smelters, and mills, ships and a railroad, a host of subsidiary manufacturing plants, and a rubber-producing tract in Brazil of six million acres. He operated branches in at least thirteen foreign countries.

These branches employed a total of 8,000 men. Ford's direct pay roll in the United States totaled 165,000 employes. Bennett estimated that approximately half a million men and women were directly or indirectly dependent on the Ford Motor Company for employment.

During its first quarter century the Ford Company profits came to one billion dollars. Henry Ford was in no manner astonished. He told his friend, Garet Garrett, that "a business absolutely devoted to service will have only one worry about profits. They will be embarrassingly large."

★ ★ ★

THE FORD profits were embarrassingly large, yet of all of America's very wealthy men, Henry Ford almost alone seems to have escaped the charge of being a bloated capitalist, as the popular phrase had it.

This may have been due in some part to the fact he neither looked nor acted nor thought like a Morgan or a Rockefeller, or even a Jim Hill. His was a bucolic figure, and at heart he was a rustic. He hated banks and bankers.

If he ever thought of himself as the champion of anything, it was as the champion of the man with the hoe, or the hammer. Far from being classed with the moneybags of the nation, Ford was considered a radical, perhaps a revolutionary.

Archie Sinclair, an organizer and editor for the IWW, a crew not given to kind words for industrialists, hailed Ford above Marx. "Agitators from John the Baptist to Earl Browder have made a lot of noise," Sinclair wrote, "but accomplished little. Social change comes about by the acceleration of energy conversion. The man most responsible for social progress is Henry Ford. He eliminated distance and brought city and county dwellers into close communication."

★ ★ ★

First Union Contract

YET FORD was almost implacable against the labor unions. They would interfere with his manufacturing methods. His was a monarchy. He knew what was best for workingmen, and to defeat the new automotive unions, he established a "service division" compared to which the old-time detective operatives were crude and inefficient.

Ford also fought the so-called Wagner labor act through the courts, and lost each time. Though his son Edsel, and his advisers, pleaded with Ford to accept the unions, it was as difficult for him to understand that unions had come to stay as it had been years before to realize that the Model T was outmoded.

When Ford did surrender, and signed a contract with the UAW, he gave the union everything it asked for and a lot it had not planned to demand. The Ford-UAW contract was said at the time to be the most liberal of any in the automotive industry.

Whatever Henry Ford's ultimate ambition may have been in the world of manufacturing, the unions defeated it. His ambitions seemingly were predicted on running his assembly line faster and faster to make cheaper and cheaper cars. When the unions stepped in to regulate the speed of the line, Ford could carry his basic idea no farther.

★ ★ ★

AT THE time of his death, which came in 1947, Henry Ford was eighty-four years old. The Ford Motor Company was still a family affair. What Ford himself was "worth" in money is impossible to know.

Statements appeared in financial pages saying that a billion dollars would not be far wrong. To spend the Ford personal income he had long since established the foundation that bears his name.

It was most fitting that on the night Ford was stricken, a great storm broke over Dearborn, the powerhouse went out, and the last of America's three billionaires died in the light of a kerosene lamp.

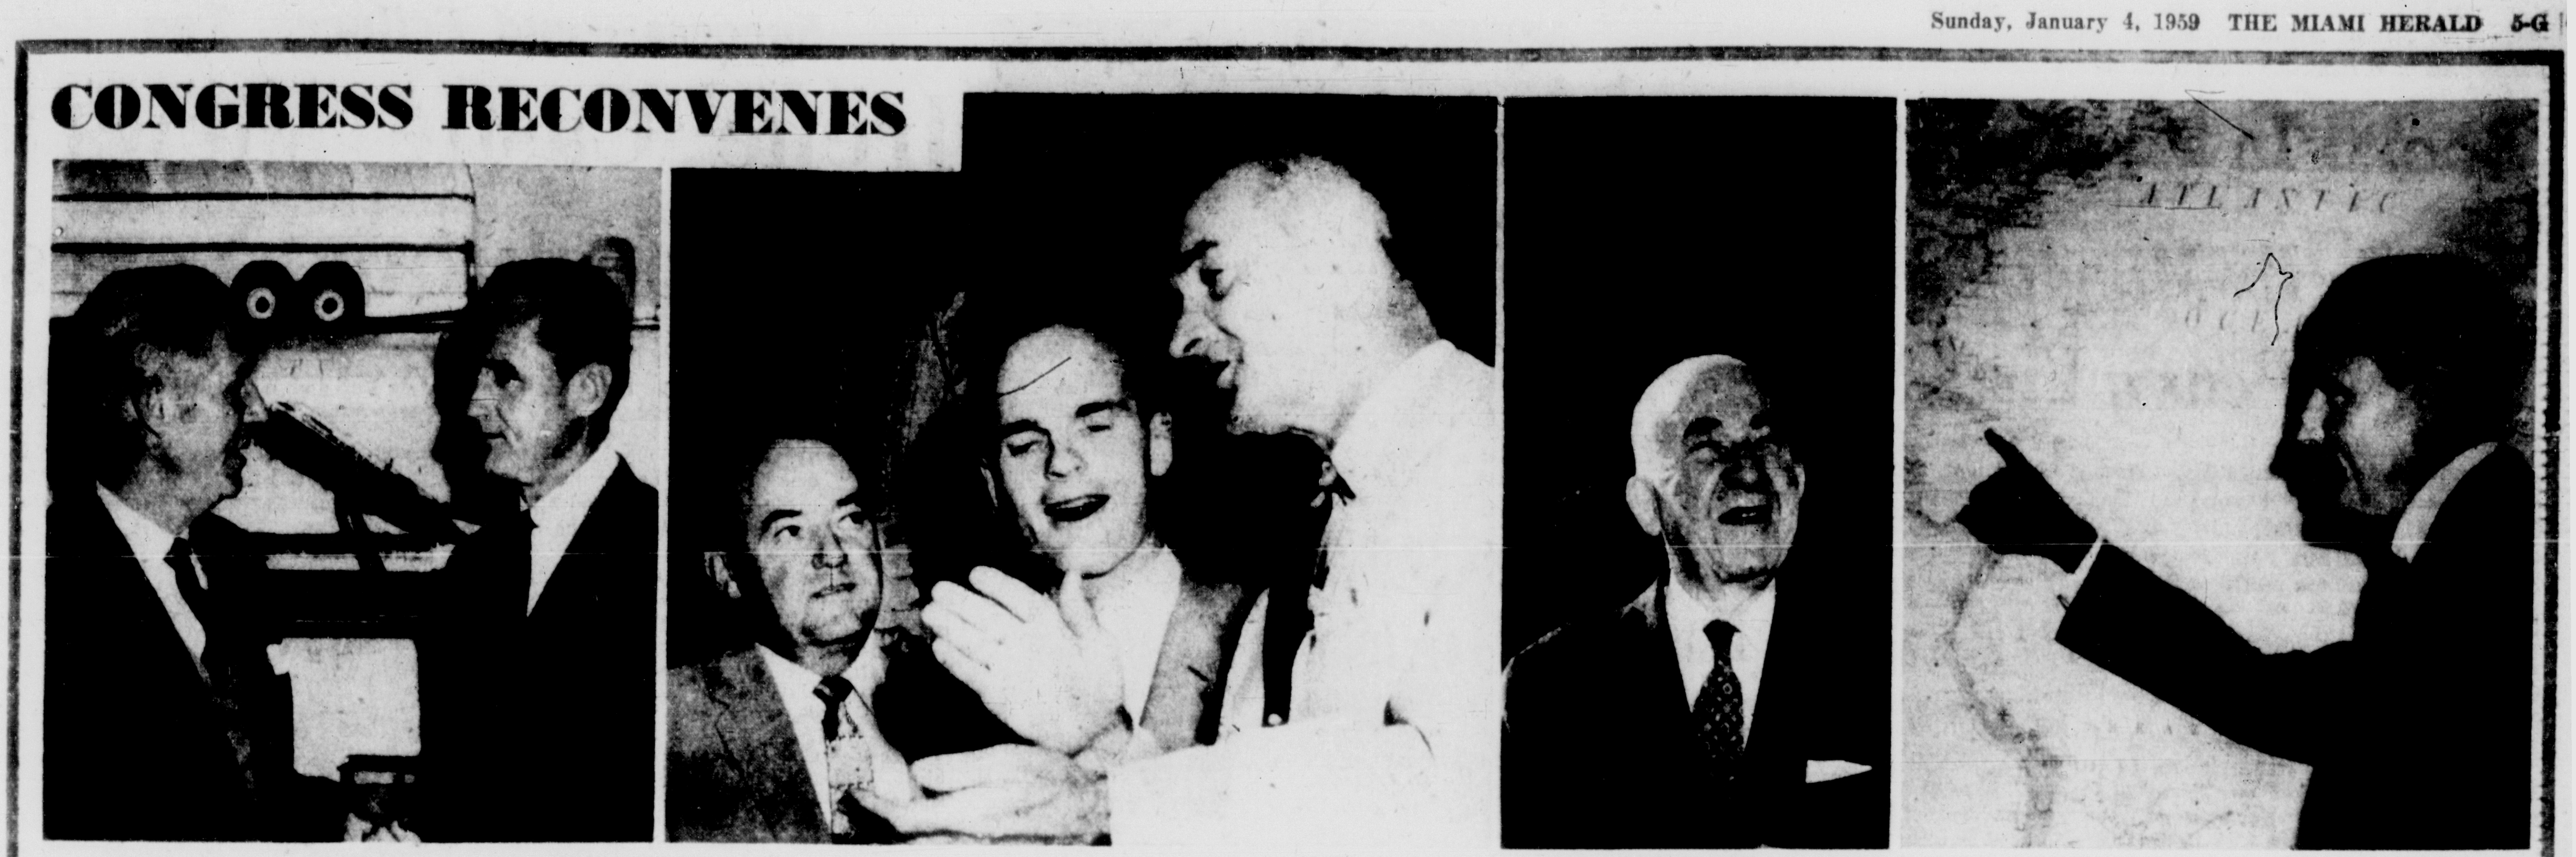
CONGRESS RECONVENES



This weekend, 98 Senators and 436 Representatives will head for Washington, to be on hand for Wednesday's opening of the 86th Congress. Prominent among issues waiting their action are: Foreign policy, particularly that part of it dealing with Latin America; aviation and transportation; the President's new budget, to name just a few. Prominent among the men who must carry the burden of leadership on these and other issues are those shown from left to right: Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, Oklahoma Democrat, and Florida's George Smathers; Lyndon Johnson, Senate majority leader and from Texas, talking here with Wisconsin's Democratic Sen. William Proxmire and Minnesota's Democratic Sen. Hubert Humphrey; Ernest Gruening, one of Alaska's first two senators; and once more Sen. Smathers putting the emphasis where he thinks it belongs: On Latin America. Smathers plans to introduce a new program for better relations with our neighbors.

IN THE SCHOOL BATTLE

The Most Critical Front Is Virginia

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

RICHMOND, Va. — In Arlington, a woman with children of school age says, "a year, or even two years, without any schools is a cheap price to pay if it staves off integrating."

In Front Royal, an accountant says, "it's no longer a question of whether we want segregated schools. That's out. The question now is whether we are to have any public schools at all."

In Richmond, the governor and attorney - general search for legal ways to preserve segregated schools if or when the courts strike down the state's "massive resistance" laws.

* * *

IN FOUR cities, people organize a "Save-The-Schools" movement, even at the cost of some integration.

In South Norfolk, Jim Ream, 17, high school senior class president, polls the students, displaced from their own school in Norfolk and says, "they are entirely in favor of segregation."

In Norfolk, Miss Mary D. Johnson, a high school teacher for 35 years, says of the students' sentiment, "they're divided."

All over the state, men debate possibilities —

* * *

"SET up private schools with tuition grants to students provided by the state" . . . "Let each community decide for itself what kind of schools it wants" . . . "Close the Negro schools."

And warn of implications beyond the state—

"Closing the schools is already diminishing our chances of getting new industry, which we sorely need" . . . "Unless this problem is bridged, it means the end of the Western Alliance. Americans cannot fight communism unless we are united among ourselves."

This is the critical ground now in the vast and dangerous struggle between the federal government and the Southern states over admitting Negro children to white schools.

* * *

THAT struggle took a more spectacular form in Arkansas, primarily because of the Little Rock riots last year. But today, the broader implications lie in Virginia for three principal reasons:

1. Virginia was the first state to close its schools when federal judges ordered Negroes admitted to institutions in three communities.
2. Among the students, opposition to integration appears far deaper and more widespread in Virginia than in Arkansas.
3. In Arkansas, some integration already had taken place before the Little Rock explosion. Virginia with a brilliant tradition of leadership, has had no integration.

At the moment, high schools and junior high schools in Charlottesville, Norfolk, and Warren County are closed. These were the communities where federal judges ordered integration to begin.

NIGHT CLASS IS OVER
. . . in South Norfolk, Va.

* * *

NEARLY 13,000 white students are either out of school entirely or getting substitute education in a night high school in South Norfolk, private classes in churches, a youth center, and in tutoring groups in private homes.

How are they reacting?

Very well, on the whole, teachers and public school administrators told this correspondent.

But the Norfolk School Board, in a resolution to the city council, said in part:

"Our White children are being denied their education and are being lulled into a second rate substitute for a well directed and properly accredited education.

* * *

"THOUSANDS of parents are being severely inconvenienced and suffering an unnecessary financial burden by being compelled to pay tuition to neighboring schools and make-shift tutoring groups.

"Our business economy has suffered and this condition will grow more acute each day our schools remain closed."

The resolution called on the city council to join with the board in petitioning Gov. Lindsay Almond to return the schools to the city for operation "in accordance with the present order of the United States District Court."

* * *

J. J. BREWBAKER, superintendent of schools in Norfolk, told me:

"The private school system is inadequate. There are probably a few children who are doing better than in a classroom. But in most cases, there is no science lab, no special areas of instruction such as in music and art. They just can't give a complete education."

Apart from the adequacy of the private schools, what was the effect on public opinion throughout the state of closing the schools?

"People are bitter," said Harry F. Byrd Jr., publisher of the Winchester Star. "They're more determined than ever. In a good many cases, it isn't only the fact that federal courts ordered the schools to enroll Negroes, it's the way it was done."

I found wide streaks of this sentiment around the state.

* * *

A HIGH school boy in Norfolk, said, for example:

"I'm not so concerned about a Negro getting into school as I am about how he get there. I don't think the courts have the right to do this."

P. B. Young, Negro newspaper publisher in Norfolk, said:

"Feeling is much worse than it was a year ago. Are the whites more hostile? Much more. Negroes have no desire to retaliate."

The schools were closed by the governor under powers granted by the so-called massive resistance laws.

Suits testing these laws were brought before a special Federal District Court and the State Supreme Court. Decisions are pending, but most Virginians believe they will be ruled unconstitutional.

* * *

TODAY various plans are being studied and discussed for "parallel" school systems —segregated private schools supported by tuition grants from the state plus regular public schools, integrated if necessary.

Gov. Almond said:

"There is no alternative other than to establish a commission composed of members of the general assembly to work out a program. There are a lot of conflicting views there. After they have reached some conclusions, I will offer my own ideas, looking to a program to submit to the general assembly.

Watkins Abbit, fiery segregationist legislator from Appomattox said:

"I can't imagine any commission appointed by the governor coming up with a program for any integration."

M. W. Armistead III, president of the Roanoke Times-World Corp., and also a segregationist, said however:

"It seems to me that Virginia's only way out of the existing intolerable deadlock is to accept the court's decision in principle (although we may detest their judgment) and give to parents the option of sending or not sending their children to integrated public schools."

* * *

DR. Colgate Darden Jr., president of the University of Virginia, sees the problem from still another aspect — the implications of the cold war. He said:

"Unless this problem is bridged, it means the end of the Western Alliance. We are the strongest unit in the Western coalition. We cannot fight that power in the East (Russia) unless we are united at home.

"We've got to have some give and take. Where the position is as unyielding as it now seems, there is violence lying at the end."

Darden said he never felt segregation could be maintained, especially after the Supreme Court decision of Sept. 29 which ruled out "evasive schemes" for defying court orders to integrate.

"The issue now comes down," he said, "to whether to abandon public education or accept some integration."

* * *

SOME Virginians are prepared to abandon public education.

Said William J. Story, superintendent of schools in South Norfolk:

"If it comes to a question of integrated schools or none at all, I will go without public schools. I will go without everything to preserve the principle that government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed."

Thus, Virginia is today the most critical front on the battleground of Southern education.

Growing Pains

are part of life all over the world. And they belong to all ages. But those that have to do with youth are more severe than others. For, here they can make or break a whole new generation. The two stories on this page deal with such growing pains: Education (in Virginia) and juvenile delinquency (in Japan).

Bells Of Love Warn Children

By MARK KURAMITSU
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO — Every night the chimes sound through the dark alleys and neon-lighted spots of crime and violence.

They are the Chimes of Love, appealing to the restless youngsters to go home.

The chimes are part of a campaign started a few years ago by mothers in the large industrial city of Osaka to combat the postwar rise in juvenile crime.

* * *

NOW the movement has spread to more than 200 Japanese cities. It has the support of government and police agencies.

Says a welfare ministry official:

"The ministry is all for the campaign and hopes it will be pushed even more intensively and promulgated throughout the country. The campaign will greatly contribute to the prevention of juvenile crimes and keep children away from vice."

A Tokyo metropolitan police spokesman says there isn't evidence to show it has done any immediate good, but that he has confidence in the long-range effects.

* * *

THE Osaka campaign was launched by Mrs. Takao Sudo, a family court mediator and a member of the Osaka education commission.

The city's mothers and various organizations donated $8,333 in May 1955 to buy a big church bell for the city hall.

The bell was named "Myo-Tsukushi - No - Kane" (The Chimes of Love of Mothers) and on it were inscribed the words:

"Ring to echo
"Through the streets at night
"So sweet and so gentle . . ."

The bell was patterned after London's Big Ben. It rings at 10 p.m., appealing to youngsters to go home.

* * *

"THE Chimes of Love campaign is a spiritual movement," says Mrs. Sudo, "so it is not wise to debate how effective it has been in lessening teen-agers' crime.

"I hope the day will come soon when we will not need the chimes."

In Tokyo, last August, a "Go home" chimes tower was erected on top of a big department store in Shinjuku, one of Tokyo's more notorious spots, by mothers and shop owners who contributed to a building fund.

The driving force behind the Shinjuku movement was Nagao Shimizu, chairman of the Tokyo metropolitan city assembly and former police official.

THE TOWER THAT 'TALKS'
. . . to Tokyo's children

* * *

"RESIDENTS, mothers' associations and shop owners in the Shinjuku section desired to clean up the area," Shimizu explains. "They decided first to erect signboards at street corners appealing to the kids to 'go home at 10 p.m. tonight.'

"To promote the cleanup more extensively we all decided to build the chimes tower with an electrically-controlled chime system to carry our appeal."

The Shinjuku movement immediately spread to other wards in the city.

In nearby Meguro, some 60,000 mothers donated 14 cents each to build a 60-foot chimes tower atop the Meguro ward office on Nov. 10.

* * *

THE chimes are carried by nine speakers throughout the area, playing daily a song called "The Chimes of Tomorrow" at 7 a.m., 5 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The melody can be heard for a distance of 2½ miles.

Mrs. Kurako Tomita, a government-appointed juvenile probation official who launched the Meguro campaign with two other mothers, says:

"We hope the chimes' soft melody will awaken the conscience of juvenile delinquents or boys and girls who are about to commit crimes.

* * *

"WE hope our sons and daughters will grow up to be good and honest citizens by listening to the chimes."

Mothers in Meguro are planning to establish two more towers to "let residents in every corner of our residential area hear the chimes."

The chimes play the song:

"The morning is bright,
in the sky of hope
"Today, too, justly and pleasantly
"The chimes echo toward tomorrow.
"The chimes echo toward tomorrow."

Ex-Miami Teacher Pens a Vivid Story

ANYBODY AROUND who attended first grade at Edison Elementary school while Miss Jeannette Hodges was teacher? All in all, she was there 20 years, taught two generations their ABC's, and is today retired and settled near Christmas, Fla., where she was born. Since she retired in 1946, a dozen years have rolled by but the reason for mentioning her is that she has written a charming book of early life in Florida, her very early life on her grandpa's farm near Orlando.

"He had all kinds of land," she says simply, "lowland for cane and rice, hammock for oranges, the whole lower part of Florida for his cattle. He sold syrup and sugar and rice for cash." Back Country, (Pageant, $3) is told gently and naturally, as a child talks, without any attempt at literary style.

* * *

Had to Shoo Rice Birds

MISS HODGES is now past 70 but she remembers her childhood with that transparent clarity which only memory gives. On the first day of school she started out with a dozen slate pencils and a peppermint stick of candy.

Miss Nancy was a very nice teacher even though it turned out that she was a Yankee. She was interested to hear that the little girls couldn't stay in the afternoon on account of the rice birds. Every year the rice birds came by the thousands and if the children didn't scare them off they would eat up all the rice shoots.

"I used to wish we could live in the county seat so I could wear my Sunday shoes every day and carry my dinner in a little wicker basket instead of a bucket," says Miss Hodges. "There was plenty of social life in Hammock Ridge though not quite what we have today. People didn't have music at dancing parties but they danced just the same, and sang the accompaniments.

Jeannette Hodges
. . . taught here till '46

"There were quilting parties and when Grandmother took the quilt off the frame she gave it to a young man who threw the quilt over the head of the girl of his choice.

* * *

In Trouble? Just Holler

"THE NIGHT of the candy-pulling, after the grinding was over, was a big time for both children and adults. You knew it was fall when you had fried turkey breast and houses were so far apart that people devised the Alliance Holler, a kind of improvised S.O.S. When you heard the Call, given in a special loud voice, you knew people were in big trouble.

"Cows wandered far and wide and when uncle and the boys rode out after them the ladies packed their saddlebags with coffee, bread, potatoes and gingerbread and shelled oats for the horse."

Miss Hodges tells a running story, marriages and christenings, funerals and floods, parties and quiet mornings when "a drove of paroquets came over the house, flying south . . . We ran out into the yard to see dozens of green and red and yellow birds flying over . . . like a huge patchwork quilt flung into the air . . . They are about the nicest things that happen because the children at Hammock Ridge do not see the inside of a store as much as once a year. When a peddler comes, Grandmother buys a toy . . . Once it was cooky cutters. Charlotte's was a sheep and mine a hen."

This may not be literature but it is something just as good — a complete and pleasurable picture of days that are gone, by one who has lived them.

ALL KINDS of queer questions come up in our line of work like, for instance, the one from Leotha, O., as to where is there a crossword puzzle book based on the Bible. "I have an old aunt in Georgia who is an expert on the Bible," the writer comments, "and also crazy about crossword puzzles. She wants to know if they aren't ever combined."

The Bobbs Merrill Publishing Co. has made Indianapolis a book center for 120 years. Last week it was sold to Howard W. Sams and Co. which claims that it will continue the fine reputation of a house that is proud of having published the first best seller, When Knighthood Was in Flower as long ago as 1899. It sold over a million copies and over a million children will remember Bobbs tenderly on account of the Oz books. How about that? Do children still read them?

At present, Bobbs has 1,250 titles on the market including the Book of the Month club selection, Mistress to an Age, about Madame de Stael.

How Charwoman Buys Paris Gown

MRS. 'ARRIS GOES TO PARIS, by Paul Gallico (Doubleday, $2.50)

Paul Gallico, erstwhile sports writer, has developed into one of our major fairy tale spinners. He has that same kind of innocent trustfulness that distinguishes Hans Christian Andersen, and he threads a hairline through sentimentality, so his books are believable.

Paul Gallico
. . . and friend

Mrs. 'arris, the London charwoman who has longed all her life for a Dior model gown, finally saves up enough money for a trip to Paris.

By pinching pennies, going without lunch, often without shoes, sitting up nights with sick showgirls, she has the equivalent of $1,400 on the day she wanders into the elegant Paris establishment. Inevitably she is high hatted by the manager and the graceful French attendants.

How she finally gets a seat at the first Paris showing, makes friends with millionaires, adopts a young couple in distress, is invited to exclusive French homes and finally smuggles the most beautiful gown of all past the British customs, is Gallico at his best.

In this work-a-day world of violence and unhappiness it is a relief to find a writer — and a top-flight one, too — who honestly believes that people are honest, kind and lovable and makes us believe it too.

What happens to Mrs. 'Arris? Oh, she gives the gown to a poor chorus girl who is trying to make an impression on a rich patron, finds herself richer by the affection and good wishes that come pouring into her humble flat from her friends in France.

You can't any more analyze Gallico's prose than you can a snow flake . . . it melts in your hand. But, oh, how lovely while it lasts!

Success --- and Failures, Too

Irene Castle Views Tempestuous Years

CASTLES IN THE AIR, by Irene Castle, as told to Bob and Wanda Duncan, (Doubleday, $4.50)

This is another of the let-down-your-hair-and tell-all autobiographies. Many will remember Irene Castle as the darling of the Twenties, the girl who practically invented ballroom dancing as well as bobbed hair. With her husband and partner, Vernon Castle, she made Castles In the Air, on the roof of the 44th Street Theater, the mecca of fashionable New York.

She also instituted the Castle Walk and the Maxine. Her gowns, made by Lady Duff Gordon, were avidly copied by the elite and her first one was given to the Metropolitan Museum as a memento.

Vernon Castle, English by birth, young, slender, unassuming, enlisted in the Royal Air Force and was killed in World War II. Irene's life, since that day, took a decided switch as did, apparently, her personality.

With her fourth husband, George Enzinger, she lives in the Ozarks, is 65 and her name is prominently associated with Orphans Of The Storm, a rest house for animals. Always an animal lover, she has devoted much of her life to fighting for their rights in the courts and out.

In fact, her marriage to Robert Tremaine, whom she wed after Vernon Castle, collapsed partly because the neighbors in Ithaca, N. Y., objected strenuously to her more than 60 dogs. Her next marriage to Frederic McLaughlin went on the rocks almost before it began.

"We went to the Orient on our honeymoon where he sulked all the way," she reveals. "I left him, returned to America, later had my baby."

She returned to Freddie but hated life in Lake Forest, Ill. where all they did, as she reports, was to "give dull dinners."

Today the once famous dancer, looking back on her life of broken romances, expensive journeys to many countries and friendships with the famous, is quite frank about her failures. By her own admission she was an indifferent mother to her two children.

One has the impression of restlessness and disillusion for the little girl who was once America's bright and shining star.

Another Clinton, Tenn?

Yankee Racist Stirs Up Town

THE INTRUDER, by Charles Beaumont, (Putnam $3.95).

This is the story of Clinton, Tenn. and Little Rock, although the name of the town is not mentioned. Young, lean and rather good looking Adam Cramer came by bus to the little town of Caxton, 4,000 inhabitants, a drowsy, typically Southern community. He carried with him a pistol, a suitcase, a few sport shirts and sox and put up at the Union Hotel.

This is where he meets Ella McDaniel, daughter of the town editor, a naive, pretty and not-too-bright girl who takes over the telephone after school. Adam is up to no good. It takes him only a few days to organize the town, to make them see that going to school with Negro children would be the ruin of their own.

Most of them fall into line quickly. Would they stand for the mongrelization of the white race, shrills Cramer, obviously modeled on racist John Kasper, at an open air meeting? Only the editor Tom McDaniel, and the principal of the high school, try to keep their heads.

For the rest, simple people with simple tastes, "it gave them something to be against . . . something to occupy their thoughts that would otherwise be diffuse."

The story runs the now familiar pattern. A few Negro children, most of them students superior to the white children of the town, are escorted to school by the principal. The newspaper supports them.

What is it, asks the editor, that stays so close to the surface that a few words from a Yankee stranger can incite them to murder?

It is the question the whole country has been asking. Beaumont does not attempt to answer. He reminds us that "newspapers are more powerful than all the bombs in the world. They can hurt, heal, kill, crucify, resurrect . . . tell us whom to hate and whom to love."

The stupid little daughter of the town editor is selected by the troublemaker, Cramer, to incite the first attempted rape. Events follow closely. A crackpot professor up in New York, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the state legislature all get into it.

The novel reaches no conclusion, any more than did the actual event in Arkansas. But it is a terrifying picture of what is going on.

New England Life of Past Well-Painted

THE SEASONS OF AMERICA'S PAST, by Eric Sloane (Funk, $6.50).

Reveiewed by Nixon Smiley

This is a well-done book about the way of life in America's Northeast in days gone by. The writer has done a great deal of research to put down accurately an account of rural living in the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries.

Sloane's ability as an artist has helped him to tell his story, because he has illustrated the farm tools, the houses, the games people played, kitchen utensils, old fireplaces and such things as maple sugar making in clear pen and ink drawings.

His paintings of the seasons, in color, are sure to make any former New Englander become filled with nostalgia.

The only objection we found to the book was the writer's tendency to preach his theories about the way the country is going to the dogs.

Perhaps a little realism would have helped the writer here. For no matter what our desires may be we can never return to the past, except through books like this.

How to Meet Reptile Clan

A FIELD GUIDE TO REPTILES AND AMPHIBIANS, by Roger Conant (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston, $3.95). Descriptions and illustrations of all the turtles, lizards, snakes, frogs, toads, salamanders, and even the alligator and the crocodile, fill this latest in the field guide series.

Most of the illustrations are in color, and there are clear drawings that show important identifying details.

There are chapters on collecting, care in captivity, and, just in case you intend to handle poisonous snakes, there's a chapter on how to treat snake bite.

Another Fine Biography

Churchill's Earlier Years

WINSTON CHURCHILL: THE YEARS OF PREPARATION, by Lewis Broad, (Hawthorne, $6.00)

Reviewed By Mike Morgan

No man alive has been in the mainstream of history for so long a time, or influenced its currents to such an extent, as Winston Churchill.

Few men alive have had such a spate of books written about them. And, as Lewis Broad notes, any biographer of Churchill faces a formidable task in depicting a man who probably writes better than any of his biographers and who has all the necessary source material at hand.

Why then the book? Because, explains Broad, Churchill would not, in his own memoirs, give himself the credit which the world owes him. This explanation can be argued.

Oddly enough, Broad, who has been chronicling Churchill for 25 years, did not have this flattering appraisal of him 25 years ago. He once set out to write an expose of the English statesmen. But this last revision of the "expose" is one of the richest tributes Churchill has yet received in print.

This is the story of Churchill's involved and many-faced career from his birth to the eve of World War II. It is a lively, spirited delineation of not only Churchill, but the scores of famous figures with whom he fought or worked with on the great stage of world politics.

It is a tremendously exciting story of his genius in fields other than statesmanship; his early days when as a junior officer he wrote brilliantly, and scathingly of the army, of his journalistic coups; his dash and verve as an officer in the Boer War from which he emerged as a national figure.

The chapter dealing with his first forays into politics; his sensational rise as a young man to the front row of British leaders; his role in World War I—all flow with an absorbing interest. Churchill's remarkable agility in switching political parties, and generally ending up with an enhanced position, is explained wittily and with penetrating documentation.

But above all, Broad conveys to a large degree, those influences within and without the restless spirit of Churchill which helped shape him—and in turn helped shape the history of our times.

Romain Gary Bares Life Of a Lady

LADY L., by Romain Gary (Simon and Schuster $3.50)

Romain Gary, who received the Croix de Guerre and is a chevalier of the Legion of Honor, is also the French consul general in Los Angeles and one of the most versatile writers alive.

His last novel, the superb Roots of Heaven, was about elephants. His present one deals with a lady of quality, one of those ageless, distinguished, charming English matriarchs who, at 80, commands an estate and a social position that is almost regal.

Sir Percy Rodiver, the poet laureate, has come for years to her sumptuous drawing room and the fancy seizes her to tell him about her past. A great lady? Member of the British aristocracy? Not at all.

She was born Annette Boudin, daughter of a laundress and a professional revolutionary, in one of those Paris streets that border on Montmartre.

Gary draws, with the perfection of an etching the bizarre career of a French prostitute who became a great lady. Her passion for a notorious Apache, the robberies and assassins, the abductions and sordid crimes were as common to these underworld characters as the cheap wine they drank.

Like criminals in other lands they achieved wealth, educated their lovely Annette in expensive schools and fashionable salons.

Her metamorphosis into a grande dame, grandmother of cabinet ministers and statesmen, hostess to the elegant society that only traditional English upperclass life can produce, is told with both skill and charm.

It is a short book, only 215 pages, contains flashes of both humor and insight.

'Peyton Place' Has Many Names

Peyton Place, the hot best seller by Grace Metalious, goes under strange names in foreign lands.

In Paris it's literally The Pleasures of Hell: in Munich it's Glowing Fire Under the Ashes and in Hong Kong they have it billed as The Cold And Warmth in the Human World.

Novel Won Harper Prize

Teacher Finds Love in India

ELEPHANT HILL, by Robin White (Harper, $3.50)

This $10,000 Harper prize novel which was selected from more than 800 contestants will, inevitably, be compared to E. M. Forster's A Passage to India. It may also be compared to White's first book, A House of Many Rooms which, to perceptive readers, may seem the finer piece of work.

The author, a missionary's son, was born in India, returned to the United States at the age of 16. Thus, his interpretation of his native country is instinctive and somehow carries far more conviction than his depiction of the American characters.

Beth Sumner, an unmarried school teacher of 35, has taken a year off to visit her sister's family at Kasappur, a little-known town in the interior of India where her brother-in-law is a medical missionary.

On the train she meets Mr. Alagarsami, an Indian merchant of discrimination and intelligence. His destination is the same as hers but, on arrival, Beth finds that he is the bitter enemy of her sister's family. The reason, a little confusing, is that they have adopted his baby without his consent.

The casual train acquaintanceship seems doomed from the start. Beth will not be encouraged to see him again. Needless to say, she does, and their encounters in the old Indian city, the budding rapprochement between East and West, make up the bulk of the story.

Mr. Algarsami's private life, his dominant old mother (apparently they exist in all cultures) his tyrannical uncle determined to run the business, the old office in the big, cool store is a complete contrast to the missionary's big bungalow, several servants and healthy, extroverted children, one of whom belongs to the Indian merchant.

White is at his best in describing Indian life, a hierarchy so complete and so alien to Western thought. He is at his worst in the depiction of his American heroine and her family. Although they are integral to the story they are merely sketches, not people.

The one scene with Beth and her Indian friend in the old temple on Elephant Hill so closely resembles the cave chapters in A Passage to India that White must have studied this masterpiece. Or do all Indian books have cave scenes?

But, unfortunately he is no E. M. Forster. He does not probe deeply into the vast layers of custom and thought that separate the two races. His picture of Mr. Algarsami the elderly merchant who wants to marry Beth completely dominates the story.

Poetry Book Is Britain's Best Seller

LONDON—(AP)—The fastest selling thing in British bookshops just now is a book of poems.

"John Betjeman's Collected Poems," the work of a versatile author and television personality, is selling at the phenomenal rate of about 1,000 copies daily.

"It's an absolute mystery," the writer exclaims.

His publisher says there's been nothing like the instantaneous success—the book has only been out three weeks—since publication of Lord Byron's Childe Harold.

What is Betjeman's attraction?"

A London critic described him as the best bad poet now living.

He loves pathos and tenderness. He describes buildings and suburban life. Middle-class homeowners can understand what he's writing about. He has a confident light touch. For example:

"Pam, I adore you. Pam, you great big mountainous sports girl,

"Whizzing them over the net, full of the strength of five . . .

"See the strength of her arm, as firm and hairy as Hendren's;

"See the size of her thighs, the pout of her lips, as, cross and full of pent-up strength, she swipes at the rhododendrons."

Betjeman is now writing the story of his life in verse. He says the autobiography will go only up to 1930 when he was 24.

"At that period you get mature," he explains.

Sharp, Witty Mikoyan Just Missed Execution by Stalin

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK — "One of the items, however, which we do not intend to export to America is — revolution."

The grinning speaker was Anastas Ivanovich Mikoyan. The year was 1946. The listeners were a committee of the United States Congress visiting Moscow. The chuckles that greeted the wisecrack were not so much a tribute to its humor as a polite sign of appreciation that at least one Russian official was trying to be affable. This was a bold step in the days of Josef Stalin in a country where there was nothing to smile about.

I was there as a translator. Mikoyan, a dapper little Armenian, sat behind his broad desk in his ornate office in the old Ministry of Foreign Trade Building across Dzerzbinsky Square from the dread police headquarters — the infamous Lubyanka.

His mannerisms told much about him. He was quick and deft in his movements. There was an air of great nervous energy about him. He seemed to have a great deal of self-confidence. He answered questions quickly and sometimes retorted sharply. He seemed to understand quite a bit of English.

There is much to be said about Anastas Mikoyan, but some characteristics stand out with particular vividness.

He is tough. At the age of 20 after he was graduated from a seminary for priests of the Armenian Church he joined the Bolshevik underground in his native Trans-Caucasus. This was in 1915. He was sent to rough and tumble Baku, oil capital on the Caspian Sea, where he helped organize strikes, fought on the barricades during revolution and civil war. He still has a crooked nose from a blow received during street fighting.

He is a cynic. He grew up and was educated in Georgia where there is contempt and hostility for Armenians. He has made his career among Russians who also have prejudices against Armenians. A convinced Communist, he has had to deal with such widely different types of capitalists as Nazis, British Socialists and Americans.

An intimate for years of Stalin, he watched while Stalin killed off friends and enemies, and at the last, just before Stalin's death, felt the cold breath of fate on his own neck.

He is a hard bargainer. On occasion he has skinned the shirts off Western businessmen who fancied themselves the best horsetraders in the world.

He is adroit. The fact that today he is alive and in a position of influence and power bears witness to his skill at political and physical survival. Alone among Stalin's cronies and drinking companions, he plays a vital role in Soviet policy formation today. Alone among the many non-Slavs including Georgians, Jews and others who helped lead the revolution, he continues to be among the leaders today, 41 years later.

He is accustomed to dealing with Westerners. During the lengthy periods when Mikoyan had supervision over Soviet foreign trade he has personally conducted many of the most important trade negotiations with businessmen and government officials for the Soviet government.

During World War II, Mikoyan had the closest business relations with American and British officials.

In fact, he has had more experience with Westerners than any other top ranking Soviet leader.

Mikoyan is the only important Soviet leader to have visited the U.S. He came in August 1936, and stayed several weeks touring various sections of the country. At that time it was not unusual for Russians to come to the U.S. and no one made much of it. Mikoyan then was commissar of internal trade and his purpose was to get information on food processing and packaging.

When he returned to the Soviet Union he declared: "Where can we Bolsheviks learn to perfect our food industry? Experience' shows that we can't learn much from Europe where there is much backwardness and hand production. But we can learn much from America and for a long time to come."

Among specific things Mikoyan took back to the Soviet Union with him was the technique of freezing foods. Russia started its frozen foods industry with American help. Meat packing techniques were imported by the Mikoyan meat packing factory in Moscow.

A Soviet product called "kornfleks" was developed but Russians didn't know what to do with it and generally used it in their soups. Even an automat restaurant was set up—in the Ministry of Foreign Trade.

If he would, Anastas Mikoyan could write one of the 20th century's most fascinating autobiographies. The first part of it would cover his life from his birth in 1895 in the family of an Armenian carpenter in the village of Sanain, not far from Tiflis, the capital of Georgia and not far from Armenia itself. The name is pronounced Mee-koh-yann. His family was large. It is said there were 13 children. Young Anastas was designated for the priesthood which, at that time, was viewed as a career through which a young man could advance himself and his family. He entered the seminary of the Armenian Church in Tiflis. Another divinity student of Tiflis, from a different seminary, Josef Stalin, was already hard at work in the revolutionary movement of the troubled Trans-Caucasus. Anastas was graduated from his seminary in 1915 and like Stalin entered the revolutionary movement instead of the church.

The second part of the autobiography would cover the years as a revolutionary from 1915 until 1926. This was the period during which his nose was broken in street fighting. This was when he got his start in the party apparatus as chief of party organizations in Baku, Nizhny Novgorod, southeast Russia and the North Caucasus. This was when he became a leading figure in Stalin's political machine.

In 1926 he was called to Moscow. From then until 1953 is the third part of the biography. All those years he was supervising or running foreign trade, internal trade and the consumer sector of the economy in general, excluding agriculture. There were the daily sessions with Stalin over a drink, with both these non-Russians — the Georgian and the Armenian — no doubt making sarcastic jokes about the Russians they were ruling. Later there were purges which Mikoyan escaped while his most intimate friends perished. In 1953 there was the time when Mikoyan saw the end approaching for himself. And then came Stalin's death.

The years since Stalin's death in 1953 are the fourth and unconcluded part of the life of Anastas Mikoyan. The first big crisis came in June, 1957, when a large majority of the party's presidium was aligned against Nikita Khrushchev. But Mikoyan, who had picked Stalin as the winner in the early '20s, bet on Khrushchev — and helped him win the day. Now he is a first deputy premier.

THE PROBLEM of New Year's Resolutions is Larry Thompson's topic in his column today (page 25). Having given the matter a great deal of serious thought and personal research, he proposes a revolutionary idea, a whole new concept.

Cutting straight through to the core of the question, he suggests that New Year's Eve or New Year's Day is scarcely the time to make resolutions which, inevitably, are soon shattered. In handling anything so fragile as a resolution it is only sensible to postpone such action until a quiet, calm day, say Jan. 4.

Of course, they could no longer be called New Year's resolutions; of necessity, they'd have to be re-named Jan. 4 resolutions, but that's a minor matter which could be worked out in time.

He gives some pretty convincing reasons for adopting this system in his essay on the subject which will appeal to everyone who is now viewing the crumbled remains of his own high (a pun or not, as you like) resolves of Dec. 31 last.

GEORGE ROBEY, manager of the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament, gives some advice today on how to win fishing fame in the tournament (page 5).

It isn't hard to get fishing advice in these parts. Friends, neighbors, relatives and every stranger you meet on dock or pier, all have a "system" they're willing to share. The fact that they've never caught a fish that weighed over three pounds deters them not one whit. Still, it isn't so easy to get fishing know-how straight from the horse's mouth (no offense, George!), and you must admit that tournament info couldn't come much straighter than from the tournament manager.

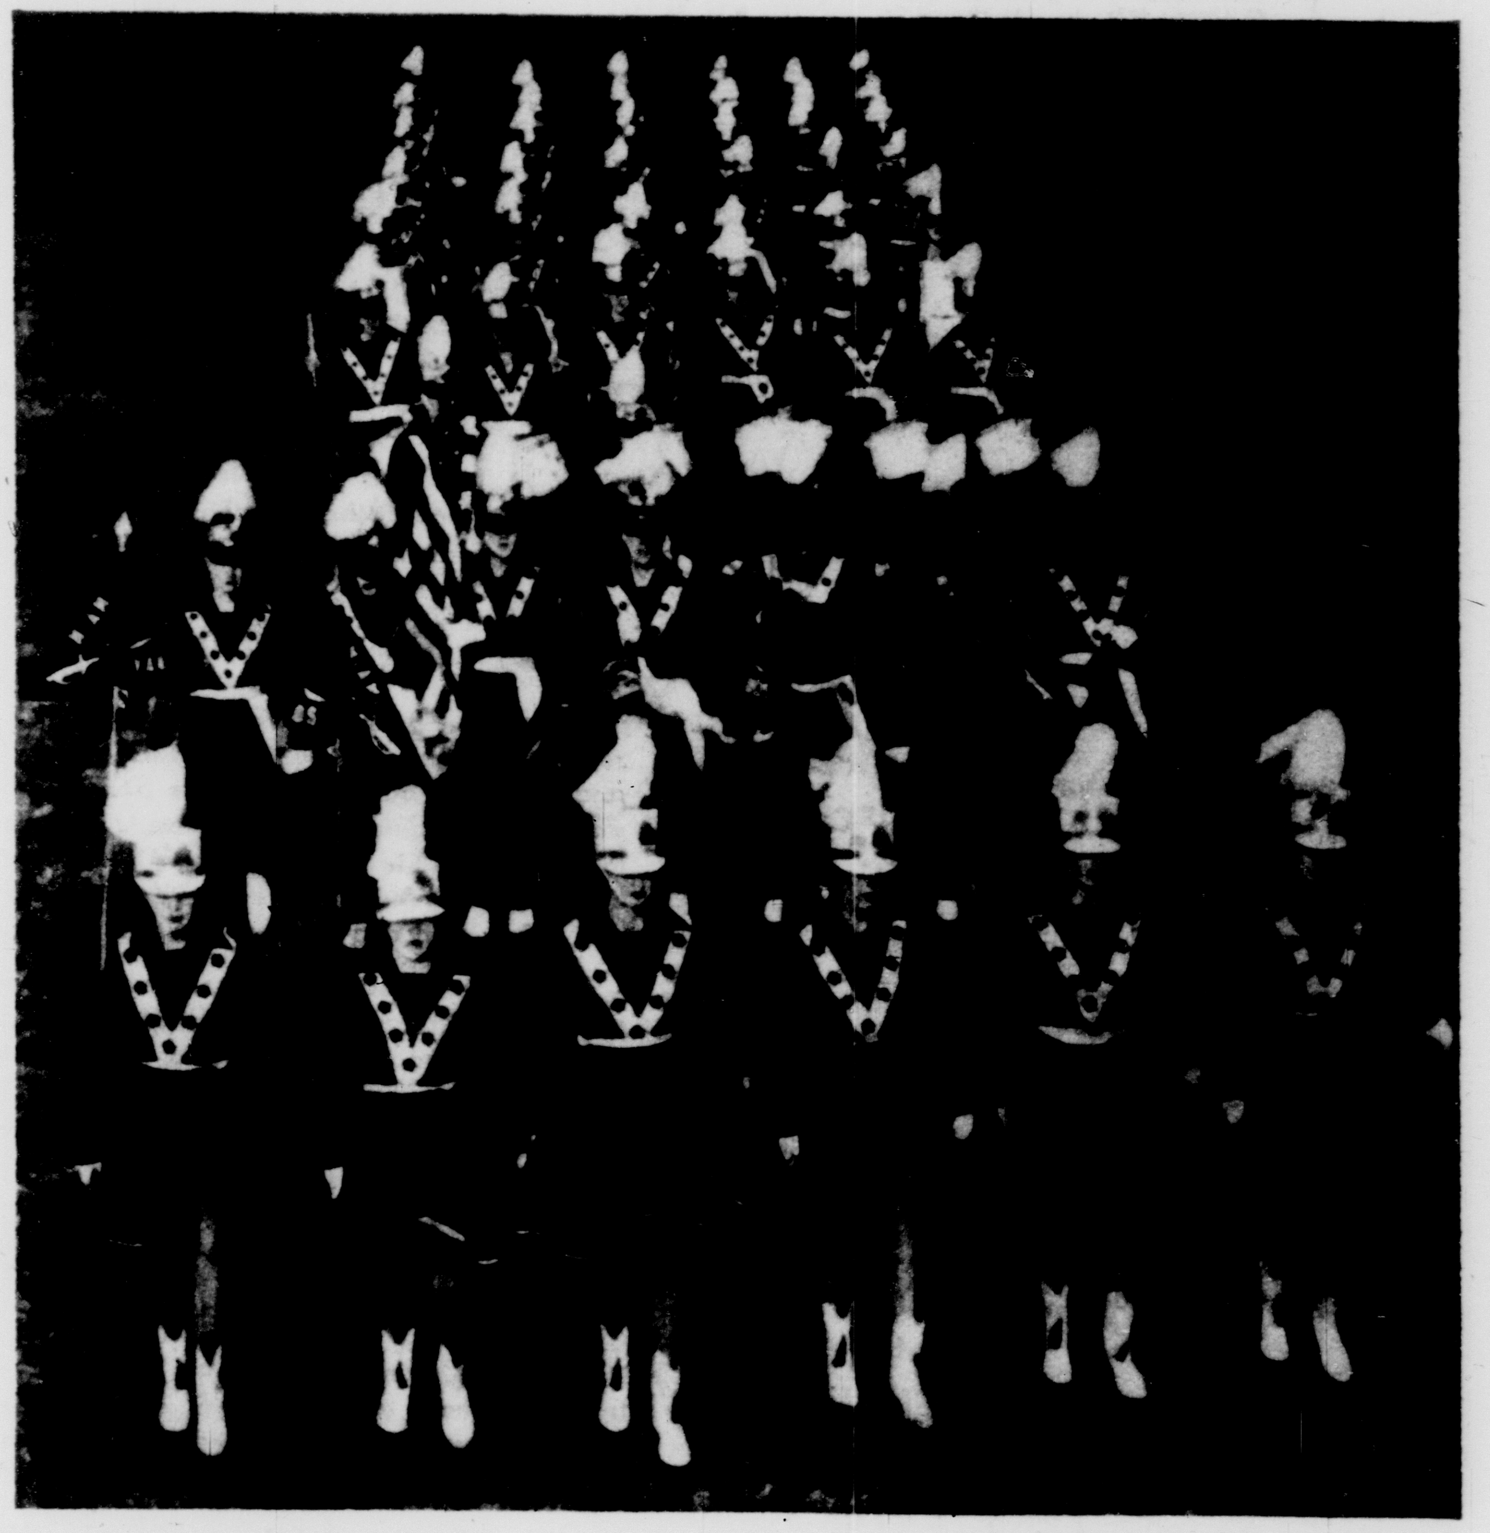
With Blare of Bugle and Roll of Drum

Vanguards Orbit Again!

By Jack Bell



AFTER SOME LEAN YEARS, THE CORPS DREAMS AGAIN OF GREATNESS

. . . oldest active junior drum and bugle corps in nation, it has 28 years of continuous service

THIS IS a story of The Vanguards, a corps that died, but wouldn't stay dead: the Greater Miami Boys Drum and Bugle Corps. Even World War II, followed by a disastrous fire that burned every uniform and instrument failed to kill the spark that once carried the group into every corner of the nation.

The present group — 125 strong — chose the name Vanguards because they're America's oldest active junior drum and bugle corps, activated in 1930. During the peak—following a New York trip which included a concert for President Hoover in Washington — the Corps trained 325 boys. Then came World War II, lean days and lost interest. In 1956 when Ed Burke took over as official musical director, he had just 10 boys who had kept the Corps alive, just about breathing, through the lean years.

Today the Corps of 125 includes 30 juniors, just taken in and getting training. Last summer 'twas like ye good old days, a gala journey to the American Legion convention in Chicago. Gradually interest has been revived. A recent meeting of parents brought out 60. Once more boys are asking to join. Once more Miamians are becoming aware of the new life of the Corps, recalling the glorious days when it was tops anywhere it went. And it went often.

★ ★ ★

WAY BACK YONDER in 1930 the Corps was started, boys 12 to 21, by a group of citizens headed by Bob Fennell. Caesar LaMonaca, still leading the Bayfront park orchestra, was musical director, and a good one. Fennell virtually gave up his livelihood to devote necessary time to the Corps as business manager. For years, when the Boys Drum 'n Bugle Corps came to mind we thought of Fennell.

'Twas in '32, after two years of drill and practice that the New York trip was arranged. It aroused such enthusiasm that when the boys returned, hundreds more wanted to join. LaMonaca, realizing he couldn't increase the size of the Corps and keep it the crack outfit that had won such praise in New York and Washington, divided the eager young musicians into three parts: a 140-piece band made up of the older boys, the Corps of 125, and a harmonica band of 60 young lads. All three played extensively, and at times LaMonaca had them together for concerts.

Another big light of the Corps was a trip to Chicago in 1934, to play at the World's Fair. Henry L. Doherty hotels (Miami Biltmore here) paid for the trip for 266 boys.

In 1939 another whoo-per-do trip carried the Corps to New York and the World's Fair. Our famous early-era mayor, Ev Sewell, went with them on that trip, tall hat 'n all. So did Fred P. Cone, our Cracker governor. During the Florida ceremonies at the Fair, Ed Ball of duPont interests and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker of Eastern Airlines also participated.

★ ★ ★

THE NEXT all-important trip was international, a part in the annual Carnival in Havana, in 1946. It was a tremendous success in every way, including a concert in addition to the Carnival spot.

'Twas in 1947 that Miami newspapers, civic leaders and church leaders lauded the Corps: "Seventeen years and 3,000 youths trained and graduated and not a delinquent."

In 1948 the show was back in Havana for the Carnival, accompanied by Mayor Robert Floyd, now circuit judge.

It seemed that any time the boys got an invitation somebody — usually City of Miami — came up with the money.

★ ★ ★

THEN CAME disaster. On March 30, 1948 Dade County Armory burned down, taking every bit of Drum and Bugle Corps equipment—$40,000.

They never got it back. There were dozens of drives, benefits, concerts — but $40,000 is a lot of money. The Corps kept going. But in July 1949 LaMonaca was fired by Fennell, who said he was getting out-moded. Several musical directors were engaged. The boys played, led parades, went to camp.

But it wasn't like the good old days. Demands for money were constant. They never got back to full instrument strength. After quite a lot of difficulty and frustration Fennell died in 1955, at the age of 72. He had given the last 25 years of his life to the Corps.

In Nov. 1956, when it seemed further effort was useless, a small group of dedicated parents decided to try once more. They asked Ed Burke to come over from the Harvey Seeds Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, as musical and drill director. Ed was dedicated too. He had gone into the Boys Corps as a youngster, and for several years after LaMonaca was dropped, was assistant director.

★ ★ ★

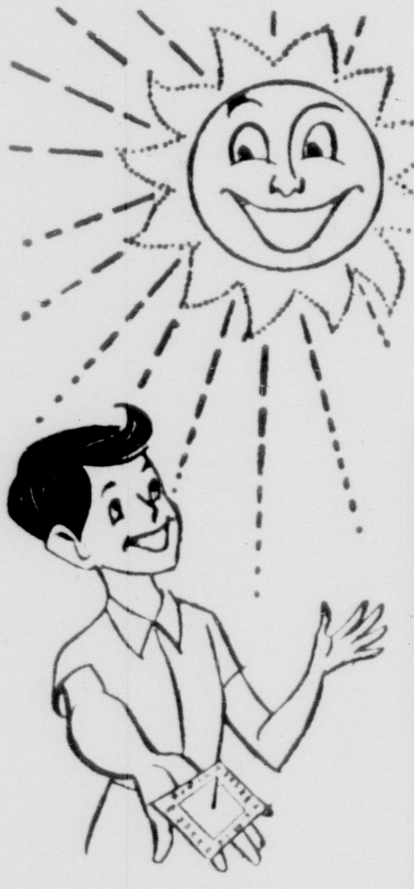
ED HAD A small Parents assn. headed by Bob Sullivan. They tried to get public aid but weren't too successful. An attempt to get into the Orange Bowl parade was thumbed down by Ernie Seiler who said they "don't have the class they once had." 'Twas rather cruel—but true.

So the parents, friends and the boys themselves went to work and bought their own uniforms. They practiced the music. They drilled for their formations. They won the support of the County Commission and appeared in all their old-time splendor at the American Legion convention in Chicago, last summer.

Now? Well, the big need is bugles and drums. The equipment they have is 10 years old, some bugles older. They do get, as the boys say, "beat up a little." So they're on another drive: $6,000.

So far as enthusiasm and attention to business they're set. They've been practicing two nights a week. And with the end of football season will practice Tuesdays and Thursdays, 7 p.m., 125 kids who love music and like to march. There's a new president of the Parents Association now, Jack Fulenwider.

SCIENCE FUN Puzzles and pastimes



Just for fun, to see how a sundial functions, duplicate diagram at right above. Insert toothpick at point O-O to serve as gnomon. Standing in sunlight with diagram in palm, point XII north. Observe shadow of gnomom on dial. Check watch or clock to compare reading as to accuracy.

Simple Sundials

"LET others tell of storms and showers, I'll only mark the sunny hours," states the inscription on a sundial. Some sunny moments may also be derived from making one. A fascinating new book, Time and Its Measurement, by Harrison J. Cohan, published by World Publishing Co., includes a plan for laying out a dial in simple steps, as described below. You may wish to adapt the idea, substituting the latitude at which you live, to fashion a dial of reasonable accuracy.

Illustrations redrawn from "Time and Its Measurement," by Harrison J. Cohan. The World Publishing Co.

1. [↑] Draw outline of dial larger than dial sought. See that line A-A is slightly below center of face. Space between lines C-C should equal thickness of gnomon, since shadow is cast by edges of gnomon. XII and VI may now be marked at points indicated.

2. Using protractor, draw line O-X at angle to C-C equal in degrees to your latitude (Ex.: 54°). Draw N-XII at right angle to O-X. Use compass to establish point P (XII-N equals XII-P).

3. With protractor, lay out a series of 15° angles from point P on line C-C. Indicate where each crosses line B-B. Draw lines from these points to O. These lines establish positions of I, II, III, IV, V. Repeat on opposite side of dial, making allowance for thickness of gnomon. Projection of lines above VI gives hours below.

4. Base of gnomon is equal to distance O-XII on dial. Angle N-O-XII to base is that of latitude where used (Ex.: 54°). Gnomon is mounted at right angle to base. Line O-XII must run north and south with the figure XII pointing north.

Crossed Figures

TO SOLVE this wits tester, proceed as in a crossword puzzle, using numbers instead of letters for answers. Insert a single digit in each square. The trick is to get answers that will function across and down.

ACROSS

1. Height of a square whose perimeter is 244 inches.
3. Crack code and compute: Dhfgs inqd sgam nmd gtmcqdc.
4. In bridge, there are — cards in a trick and — tricks in a Grand Slam.
6. The —th letter of the alphabet is the name of a kind of bird.
8. This one is up to you (U)!
9. Birthday date of a man of 60 who has had only 15 birthday anniversaries.

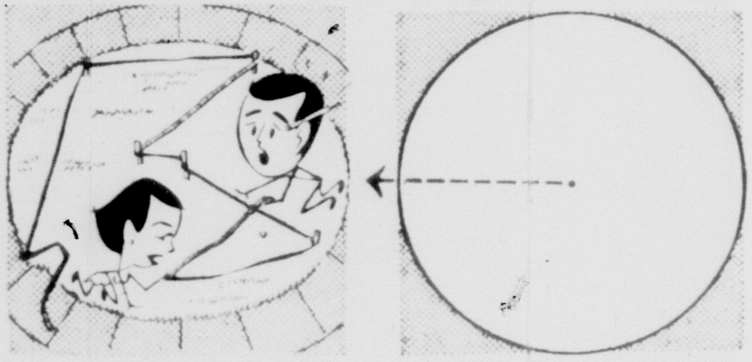
Plans Involve Going in Circles



PLANNING ahead on landscaping this year, Pete Moss's wife visualizes a circular flower bed in the middle of their circular lawn. Mrs. Moss wants the new garden to be exactly half the size of the lawn.

But Pete and his wife cannot arrive at a simple geometrical device for halving the lawn as stated. Can you help them?

Answer: One possible way is to draw two diameters at right angles and draw lines joining the extremities. Then draw a circle from the center to touch the sides of the square thus formed. Area of this circle will be half that of the lawn.

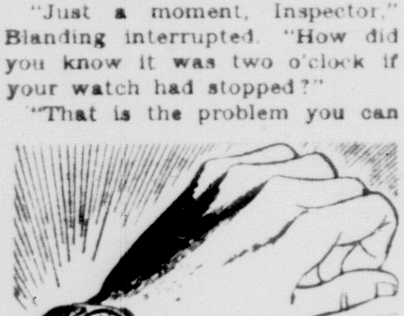
It's a Mystery

"YOU look tired, Inspector. Were you out late last night?" asked Detective Blanding.

"As late as two in the morning. But, I left the party which I was attending at one thirty according to my watch. I arrived home at exactly two, though the watch stopped at a quarter to."

"Just a moment, Inspector," Blanding interrupted. "How did you know it was two o'clock if your watch had stopped?"

"That is the problem you can try to figure out. I used my own watch for telling the time. In other words, I did not check with the position of the stars or the moon in the sky, with the estimated time required to cover the distance I travelled, and so on." Inspector Sharpe wound up his watch as he spoke.



"Was your watch accurate until the time it stopped?"

"Quite so. I had synchronized the watch against the watches of some of the other guests at the party. After I left I saw no other watch. Yet, there is a simple means that I used to know that it was exactly 2:00 A. M. when I got home. The watch stopped, incidentally, before I got there. I was still quite a distance from home when the watch stopped and I insist it was exactly 2:00 A. M. at the time I reached my house."

HOW did the Inspector know the correct time?

Answer: As soon as he got home, he wound up his watch. It began to go again and before he arrived at his office he compared it with another timepiece. His own watch was 15 minutes slow, the difference that had elapsed between the time his watch stopped and the time he had set it going. Since it was 1:45 when it stopped, then the elapsed 15 minutes would make the time of his arrival home exactly 2:00 A. M.

All Very Nice, It Seems

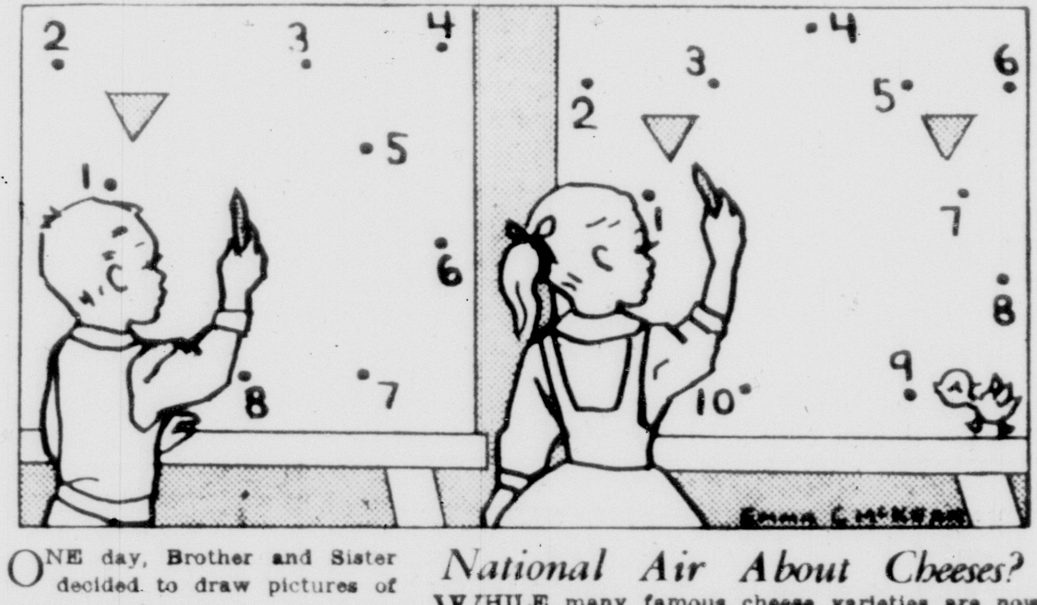
AT a recent and very formal gathering there were ten ladies present and a considerably larger number of men. All those present were introduced to each other formally.

Each man bowed to each lady, who returned the bow. Each man shook hands with every other man (except himself), and each lady kissed every other lady (except herself). Altogether there were 635 bows, handshakes and kisses combined.

How many men were there present? Ordinarily, this would not be a difficult problem, but you may make a mistake if you are not careful.

Answer: The result can be obtained by elimination. Each of ten ladies kissing the others makes 45 kisses. Again, as there are ten ladies, and each gentleman bowed to each lady and reverse, the number of bows must be divisible by 10. Therefore, the number of bows was 400, which gives 20 men. Twenty men shaking hands with each other, gives 190 handshakes which, added together, gives 635 in all.

DOTTY DIAGRAM FOR JUNIORS



ONE day, Brother and Sister decided to draw pictures of objects often seen on the table. What did they draw? To see Brother's picture, at left, begin at dot 1 and draw connecting lines from dot to dot, up to 8. To observe Sister's drawing at right, begin at dot 1 and draw to 2, 3, 4, etc., up to 10. Afterwards, color the drawing neatly with colored pencils or crayons.

Answer: Creamer and sugar bowl, respectively.

I am excited about a "good looks" cream for the whole family

At last—an all-family skin cream! Now one activated skin cream performs all these modern miracles. Makes hands look whiter, softer, younger, causes outward pimples, acne and enlarged pores to disappear; fades age marks and other weathered blemishes, guards skin against infection for hours at a time.

Fades Horrid Age Spots*

Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old, perhaps before you really are. Fade them out with new ESOTERICA, the new medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment under the skin to make it look white, smooth and young again. Younger folks may use ESOTERICA to retard age signs indefinitely.

Checks Enlarged Pores

Open, enlarged pores may cause your complexion to look burlappy, rough and unclean. Regular use of ESOTERICA helps shrink the opening to smooth out recesses. Here's a tip for men; Use ESOTERICA after shaving — stops razor-burn, soothes, refreshes. Its delicate fragrance soon disappears, yet the beneficial result is long-lasting because ESOTERICA works under the skin.

Clears up Acne* and Blackheads

Stubborn 'teen age pimples and black heads respond fast. ESOTERICA, the medicated cream clears up skin troubles where other creams have failed. *No longer need you suffer the embarrassment and loneliness caused by unsightly blemishes. Apply ESOTERICA at night — tomorrow, your mirror will reveal a clearer, brighter and smoother skin. It's "date bait." It's not a cover-up. It penetrates deep to work from inside out.

By Adrian Mitchum

I was utterly amazed the other day when I reviewed the latest reports about the dramatic and almost unbelievable results from a new and different kind of skin cream. According to these reports is seemed almost "like magic" the way it worked. Reports were so glowing, I can only report to you what I heard.

Ugly weathered brown spots, freckles and other darkened areas on the surface of the skin, caused by weather or neglect seemed to lighten before your very eyes. And, I'm told that in just a few days, they've faded away—almost completely.

Not only did this wonderful skin cream called Esoterica cause unwanted darkened spots to fade, but skin became softer, lighter and regained its moist, dew-like texture.

Even tiny wrinkles and crow's feet, so often tell-tale signs of approaching age, quickly began to fill out and become unnoticeable. Women of all ages reported wonderful results.

One lady reported, her husband had been bothered with a complexion potted with enlarged pores, redness—so often the first sign of age in a man's skin—skin that seemed to look muddy and unwashed. She urged him to try ESOTERICA and presto—in just two days his skin cleared—pores regained their natural size.

And a cosmetic salesgirl showed me the result of a personal test she had completed. For one week she applied ESOTERICA on one hand—on the other—ordinary hand cream. Today she showed me the result. The hand on which she had applied ESOTERICA was soft, white, smooth—looked 10 years younger than the other hand on which she had used ordinary cream.

And, another lady reported "black heads and ordinary clogged pores, horrid outward pimples that so often result from surface acne, which trouble 'teen agers, quickly responded to ESOTERICA. The results were so exciting on my youngsters, I told my friends about it—now they're all boosters for ESOTERICA."

And still another matronly lady of 50 reported. "I had several large brown spots and many small ones on my hands and arms. After a few days of ESOTERICA use, they are so faded you have to use a magnifying glass to find them."

At All JB Stores—Not At Little River or Miami Beach

Truly Amazing Results

No one, yet, has discovered all the possible uses for ESOTERICA. Every day a new use is revealed which is added to the ever-growing list of benefits. No wonder, for ESOTERICA is produced by a trustworthy 38-year-old laboratory devoted to helping clear skin and complexions through topical application of science's most advance "wonder drug." ESOTERICA penetrates to work from inside out and leaves skin clear, smooth and radiantly soft. It's fragrant, greaseless—economical, too. For best results, use it as an over-night cream and as a powder foundation. On sale in our cosmetic department.

GLEN HALL

By Lawrence Thompson

THE TIME to make New Year's resolutions is Jan. 4, not New Year's Eve. I observed the traditional date, and now I could, and should, make an entire new list. At least all of the four-day-old resolves have been broken and discarded.

Nothing need keep me from making out a new list of resolutions, but it wouldn't be fair for me to be competing against all the other resolutions with different postmarks on them.

One of my first resolutions this year was to be kind to the children. I realized that I had lost my temper with them too often, and I resolved to be a soft-spoken, understanding father.

In a companion resolution, I promised to be generous with them. Too often, I remembered, I had brought things home, such as a pencil or a magazine or a necktie, and instead of complying with their requests to hold or play with them, I had put them away with strict orders to the young fry to leave them alone. This often brought on ill feeling.

In the future, I resolved, I would share with the children.

* * *

MY RESOLUTIONS included one that I would not oversleep on my days off. Just because I didn't have to be at the office, I had formed the bad and wasteful habit of remaining in bed as long as possible on such mornings. I realized that I was throwing hundreds of man hours out the window by such a practice, and determined in 1959 it would be a different story. I would get up way before breakfast time on each day off, and get in a good day's work before my normal rising hour.

There were numerous others, such as keeping the lawn mowed and the hedge trimmed and doing all those odds and ends around the house I'd been promising to do for so long, but this shortened list gives the general idea.

It really was an imposing, respectable list of resolutions.

* * *

IT STILL was a fine list when we left for the New Year's Eve party.

By the next day it was torn to shreds, not a single resolution left intact.

I observed the resolution about sharing things with the children by insisting that my wife and I bring home a collection of noise makers. These had been a lot of fun at the party, while everyone was wearing silly hats, and I solemnly assured my wife that the New Thompson would get a big belt out of helping the children play with them.

I left them on the coffee table where they'd be sure to find them in the morning.

* * *

THEY FOUND THEM, all right, and at an ungodly hour. Although it did seem to be light outside, I am sure that the sun got off schedule and rose several hours too soon.

The children marched into our bedroom and began to shout and work their noisemakers.

"Look at what we found, Daddy!" they shouted, turning those infernal racket machines on in my ear, the one I use to hear with.

"Quiet!" I shouted, but they couldn't hear me over the din.

* * *

I SAT UP and shouted again, made a lunge and got one of the noise makers from the boy. At this he started to bawl, while the girls continued to work their bedlam machines.

"Make them stop!" I called to my wife, who was leaving me to my fate with an it-serves-you-right expression.

"Why did you let me leave these things where they could get them?" I demanded. "When I round them up, I'm going to throw them all away."

"Don't you remember?" she asked sweetly. "You aren't going to keep things from them any more. You are going to share things with them. You're going to have fun together."

"Get them out of here so I can get some sleep," I said, and put my head under the pillow. The noise came through, loud and clear.

"How about your resolution to get up early?" my wife asked.

As you can see, New Year's Eve resolutions aren't any good. They aren't durable and they aren't practical. Maybe Jan. 4 resolutions wouldn't be any better, but the idea might be worth trying.

Tournament Manager Tells:

How To Win Fishing Fame

By George Robey

LAST WINTER ON A warm afternoon 16-year-old Eric Geary of Miami hooked a huge tarpon while casting an artificial lure from a bridge over the Miami River in the heart of the city. The big fish headed for Biscayne Bay. It took most of the line on Eric's spin casting reel. The boy ran after his prize, climbing over walls and shrubs, trying to keep pace with the fish.

When he came to an insurmountable wall, he took to the river, swimming after the fish, holding his rod high in one hand and paddling with the other. He lost the fish but he won the Philip Wylie Tough Luck Trophy.

Eric Geary's experience is just one example of how angling fame can be won. Each year, from mid-December to mid-April, thousands of anglers try to make a name for themselves in the world-famed Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament.

Now in its 24th year and sponsored by The Miami Herald, the famous "Met" has grown to such stature that newspapers, radio, television and national magazines have an ear cocked for news about the success of contestants.

* * *

YOU DON'T have to be an expert to win fishing fame in the Met. Every year the records of the tournament are crowded with the names of beginners, young and old, who have caught big fish or released a sufficient number of choice varieties to win national recognition. Nearly 150 trophies, thousands of Citations and Sportsmanship Awards, and a carload of Year Books await fishing enthusiasts who enter the contest.

THIS BONITO TRIUMPHED IN FLY CASTING DIVISION

. . . 12-pounder caught by Ed Louys, Salt Water Sportsman magazine

RECORD 125-POUND TARPON SUBDUED WITH FLY ROD

. . . by Jerry Coughlan, Essex Falls, N. J., who competes every year

All you need to enter is rod, reel, line and bait — either live or artificial.

If you don't have a boat you can catch many eligible species from canal banks, bridges, causeways and beaches. Your own skiff and kicker will take you to other winning species in the bays, rivers and ocean shoreline waters.

Charter boatmen from the north Dade county line to Key West; and from the Bahama Islands of Bimini and Cat Cay westward to the Ten Thousand Islands of the Everglades on the West Coast, are registered in the Met tourney. Official weighing stations are conveniently located at fishing piers, docks, bait and sporting goods stores.

* * *

EVERYONE wins in the Met tourney. Anyone who catches even a small fish of the 33 eligible species is awarded a Year Book in which the name and angling success of the individual is inscribed.

It is easy to win other awards and recognition in the tournament. A trophy is awarded for the heaviest sailfish and four-color plaques for wall or desk are awarded for sailfish weighing 50 pounds or more. Sailfish under this weight win only a Year Book unless released. Turn them loose unharmed at the side of the boat and you win a Sportsmanship award which is more highly prized by most anglers than the Citation.

Trophies are awarded to anglers who release the greatest number of sailfish, tarpon and bonefish; and for the greatest number of all species turned loose except snapper, chiro, jack, grouper and barracuda.

* * *

THIS YEAR tournament officials are encouraging the release of unwanted fish. A new slogan, "Sport Increases With Fish Releases," appears on all printed matter. Those who win the Sportsmanship Award also win high commendation from the angling fraternity.

Here are some suggestions that will make it easier for you to win in the Met tourney:

(1) WRITE or phone Tournament Headquarters, Room 4, Fourth Floor, Miami Herald Bldg., FR 3-4411, Ext. 345, and ask for the illustrated booklet that describes the tournament in detail. It doesn't cost a cent.

(2) WATCH the Herald's fishing pages for standings of contestants from week to week. You'll be surprised to find that some of the fish you caught and didn't take the trouble to enter, would have been easy winners. Pay particular attention to the light tackle divisions — plug, spinning and fly casting—where the fields are wide open for record and winning fish in most categories.

(3) IF YOU are the owner of a Year Book from last season's tournament, you can tell by reading the lists of Citation winners under the various fish caught in the four divisions, how much your fish must weigh to be eligible for a Citation.

(4) READ the Rules and Regulations in the booklet or on the back of the angler's copy of the entry blank, available at all weighing stations. Notice that in the General Division (which includes trolling in the Gulf Stream and elsewhere with live, cut or artificial baits) there is no limitation on size of rods, reels or the strength of lines. There are practically no restrictions in the General Division except that rod and reel must be used to land the fish without help.

(5) NOTE that in all light tackle divisions — plug, spinning and fly — that all lures must be artificial except that pork rind is permitted. Any artificial lure to which cut or live bait has been attached to catch the fish, will be disqualified in the light tackle divisions and entered automatically in the General Division where it has less chance of being a winner.

(6) BE SURE to have a witness to all your catches and releases. This insures your due recognition as a winner of trophies, plaques and other awards.

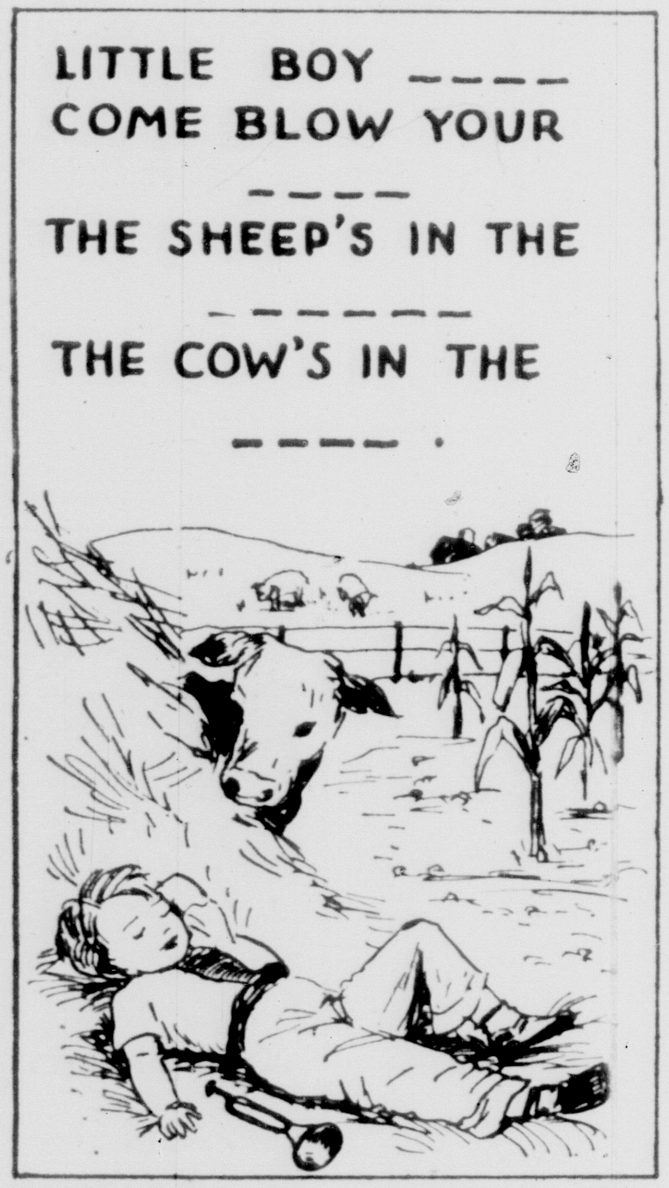
Stamp Collectors, This Contest's Aimed at You



RECOGNIZE THIS FAMOUS RHYME?
. . . then supply missing words

By Cappy Dick

SUPPLY the missing words and you may win a postage stamp album containing more than 400 pictures of fascinating stamps from around the world, plus spaces in which hundreds of stamps can be mounted. This is a valuable prize for any boy or girl who collects stamps or who wants to start a collection.

In the above picture is a scene that illustrates a famous rhyme well known to all boys and girls. Four words of the rhyme are missing. Can you tell what they are?

When you are sure you have figured them out correctly, print the words in the blanks. Then color the picture with your paints or crayons. Do this work as neatly as possible.

Clip the picture out and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Beneath it print your name, age and address. Finally address it to Cappy Dick at The Miami Herald, Box 630, and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

The contest judges will examine all entries and select the 10 correct ones that are the most neatly prepared. The stamp albums will be awarded to the boys and girls who sent those 10 entries.

Names and addresses of the winners will be published here and their stamp albums will be sent to their homes by mail.

At Last! Sailors Have Their Day

By Don Mucklow

THIS COLUMNIST has been criticized for not devoting some space to the sailboat enthusiast. No oversight was intended but I have always felt that the average "masted" skipper was of a class by himself.

With the rapid increase in the use of outboards by many uninformed persons, it has seemed of greater importance to deal with topics concerning their many problems of operations and safety. In view of the recent scoldings from the sailing fraternity however, more information about sailing will be forthcoming.

Sailing has grown in popularity, paralleling the increase in other fields of boating. There are also many rocking-chair sailors who devote their time to dreaming and reading of sailing.

A sailboat presents a new approach to boating. The mechanical mind is of little use in this sport if the sailor does not have a natural sense of balance. A sailor comes face to face with the wind, tide, waves and currents. He must use these forces as a means of propulsion in the desired direction.

Sailboats generally are classified according to the sail plan or rig. The basic types of sails are gaff and marconi. Most boats use the marconi sail since it is easy to handle.

* * *

THE VARIOUS rigs are described below.

A cat rig is a single masted vessel, usually a daysailor lacking accommodations. The mast is stepped forward and only one sail is carried.

A sloop is also a single masted vessel but with the mast set so that a jib is carried forward on the mast, in addition to the main sail.

Several sizes of jibs can be used, from small heavy weather ones to large Genoa jibs for lighter air. A spinnaker, a large parachute-type sail, can also be set when the wind is astern.

The cutter has one mast, but it is stepped farther aft than the conventional sloop. It usually uses two jibs, an inner sail called a staysail and the fore triangle known as a jib.

The yawl, a favorite with racing fans, is an efficient rig with the sails divided on two masts. The short mast, stepped aft of the rudder post, is called the mizzen. Sails carried are similar to those of the sloop or cutter.

The ketch, an easily handled cruising boat, is of the same general outline as the yawl, except the mizzen is stepped forward of the rudder post and it is larger.

The schooner, not so popular today, has two masts or more. The after masts are usually taller and many variations of sail can be utilized from spinnaker to topsails and "wobblers."

These craft can be rigged in either gaff or marconi. Such boats are usually workhorses and require a larger crew. The craft will not point as well as the more efficient rigs but will move with a beam wind.

* * *

THE SAILBOAT hull consists of two types—the keel and centerboard. Both have lateral resistance to prevent the hull from slipping sideways through the water.

The centerboard hull is usually of shallow draft and uses a metal or wooden board hinged on the forward end to raise and lower in a watertight well on the centerline.

A wider beam on this boat is required for stability. Larger centerboard boats carry inside ballast for additional stability.

The keel is normally of narrower beam than the centerboard and the keel is built into the hull, presenting lateral resistance and stability from the built-in weight of lead or iron.

The bottoms of all types of sailboats may be vee, round or arc-shaped. They may be keel or centerboard and range in size from eight-foot prams to as large as your crew and pocketbook allow.

Sailing is fun and the avid ragman normally scorns the so-called stinkpot sailor in his motorboat.

TO GET INTO the most exclusive "club" in Miami, somebody has to stick a knife into your heart.

The club is the Mended Hearts, Inc., which does NOT raise money. It is open only to persons who like to talk about their operations — successful mitral commisurotomies.

These people, like Miami's famed "TV Heart Lady," have undergone delicate heart surgery. Before surgery most were helpless invalids, victims of rheumatic fever. Now they live normal lives.

How does it feel to have your heart opened up? How does it feel to leave suddenly the hopelessness of a wheel chair for the golf course?

* * *

AUTHOR GEORGE LAWTON, who underwent the same heart surgery, once wrote:

"I have a friend who one foggy dawn many years ago was about to be executed by a firing squad on the banks of the Danube in Budapest.

"He and his fellow captives were digging their own graves under the eyes of drunken guards. My friend suddenly leaped on the guard nearest, him, seized the gun, clubbed him, and then dived into the river.

"The guards kept firing as he swam, but he escaped. He took a desperate chance and survived to live well. We understand each other."

* * *

IN MIAMI 38 mended heart owners — only four of whom are men — meet regularly to compare notes and celebrate their "rebirthdays" (dates of surgery).

One woman is now on a championship bowling team. Five years ago she could hardly lift a bowling ball. Another has returned to professional nursing, something she was forced to give up because she couldn't breathe properly. Several play golf. And all talk about their operations.

The main reason for the club, explained Mrs. Jack Ross, chairman of the local chapter, is to show persons similarly afflicted what heart surgery can do.

* * *

NOTHING IMPRESSES the candidate for surgery more than seeing a Mended Heart visitor walk without effort, talk without tiring and stand without sagging.

Mrs. Ross remembers well the lift she got when a Mended Heart visitor first saw her six years ago.

"Do you have any trouble since surgery?" she asked hesitantly.

"Yes," replied the tanned woman alongside her bed, "I can't hit a golf ball more than 200 yards."

By Nora Ophuls

IF F. Scott Fitzgerald were alive today he'd logically be traveling with the international sports car racing set.

This crowd lives the way it drives—fast, hard and as if every corner were the last. Tomorrow never comes and yesterday never was. It's today's living, today's driving that matters.

Sports car racing will never be the sport of kings—a king must die only for his country. It will never be a fad of the idle rich—one can't dabble in death. Sports car racing is a magnet to the man so overwhelmingly confident in his car, his mechanics, his own eyes, reaction time, judgment and skill that he's willing to hurtle himself over a twisting course at 145 m.p.h. with the unyielding earth only inches beneath him and another machine perhaps only inches behind him.

* * *

THE SPORTS CAR DRIVER means business. He isn't some speed-happy kid who threw together some cast-off fenders, bolts and gears for kicks. His car cost anywhere from $3,000 to $55,000 initially. He employs from two to ten mechanics, artisans all, to minister to his car at all times. He must keep racing once he starts, and travel thousands of miles to do it.

He may spend $10,000 on one race, conditioning the car, acquiring replacements for every part (some drivers bring along three sets of tires and a spare engine) and feeding himself and his entourage. Racing takes money.

Rising at dawn to practice, bending under the hood for hours before the race, gripping the wheel and shifting gears steadily for hours without letup, keeping ahead or dropping behind the relentless competition, waiting for a tire to blow or a clutch to fail—this grips every cell of a man. The international race driver never relaxes, but in an attempt to he must play as hard as he works.

Something inexplicable keeps a driver's eyes sharp, his muscles ready and his judgment precise. Something, not always eight hours sleep.

1959!!!!
HAIR CARE WEEK
JANUARY 5th-10th
IN MIAMI & FT. LAUDERDALE

Sponsored by Allison Hair & Scalp Specialists

"Announces the beginning of 1959 Hair Care Week" today, with hopes of getting everyone to become conscious of their daily hair loss and scalp disorders. Every year more and more Floridians are approaching baldness or have one of the many scalp disorders leading to baldness. "1959 Hair Care Week" is sponsored basically to get persons to do something about their hair before it is too late. There is no obligation when you visit Allison Hair Experts clinics. Mr. A. V. Williams invites everyone regardless as to whether they have scalp disorders or not to visit one of his two clinics and learn proper hair and scalp hygiene during hair care week. With this visit your scalp will be examined by a thoroughly competent trichologist and you will be told quite frankly as to whether you have a scalp disorder or not, if so, the proper treatment required. But most important of all, if you have no scalp disorder you will be told proper hair and scalp hygiene such as: when to shampoo, when to brush, how to brush and given advice on the use of tonics. Many years of combined experience plus the use of ultra modern scientific equipment makes Allison Hair Experts one of the nation's leading hair and scalp specialists. Don't delay, act today and call for an examination in private, at the clinic nearest you.

Methods

If examination by Allison experts show that your hair and scalp can be helped and treatments are started you won't have to wait long to see definite results.

Unsightly dandruff will vanish, itching scalp and falling hair decreases to normal. Best of all, the follicles of the hair will be freed to replace the hair you lose with healthly new hair

Hair-killing germs are destroyed, blood circulation is stimulated, and the process of normal hair growth is well begun.

After treatments end, you follow simple rules of scalp hygiene taught by your scalp specialist.

Out-Of-Town Clients

Allison Hair Experts offers a complete service to anyone with a hair and scalp problem. There are many people who are unable to visit their clinics who have hair and scalp problems. To these persons Allison offers a highly effective combination of home and office treatments so that these persons may take care of their hair and scalp in the proper manner.

First, you must have a personal examination by one of the thoroughly trained trichologists in a clinic. This scalp specialist will prepare the necessary special formula, provide the proper shampoo, antiseptic and all the necessary materials for you to use at home. A periodic check-up will be made to determine your progress so that you may get the best results.

A. V. WILLIAMS
Director of Scalp Specialists

Introductory $1.00 Examination & Trial Treatment — the Start To 1959 Hair Care

Allison Hair Experts home treatments have helped countless others and can help you.

During the week of Jan. 5th-10th, A. V. Williams, Director of Allison Scalp Specialists offers an introductory examination and trial treatment for only $1, so that you may convince yourself as to whether you should be bald or have a healthy head of hair. This offer is without any obligations to you whatsoever. This is merely a chance for you during this week to find out whether you can be or cannot be helped with your hair and scalp problem. Don't wait until it is too late, call for an appointment today.

Written Guarantee

You receive a Written Guarantee at Allison Hair Experts that clearly states you must be satisfied in 30 days or your money back!

You simply cannot lose at Allison Clinics! Each client accepted for treatment receives a legal written guarantee and if you are not thrilled with results, you pay nothing!

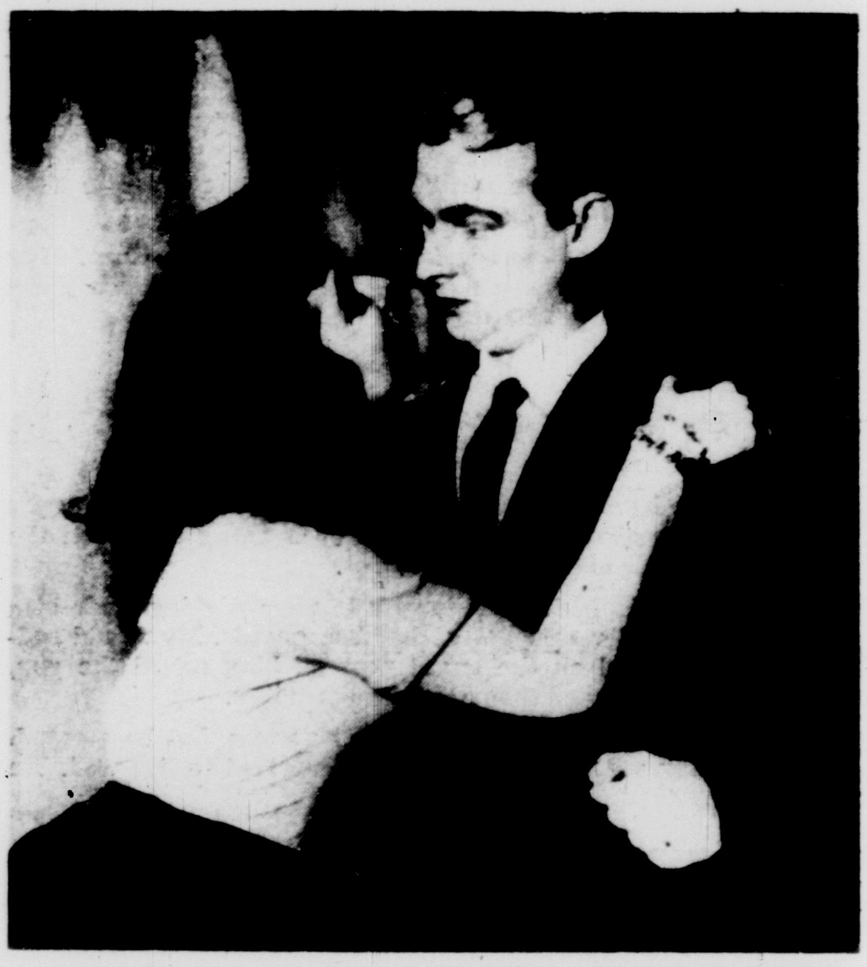
Mike and Elaine the Hottest Duo

Night Clubs a Hypo For Records

By Fred Sherman



COMEDY TEAM ELAINE MAY, MIKE NICHOLS
. . . fracturing bigger audiences

THE NIGHT CLUBS are supplying a stimulating hypo to television and the recording industry, both admittedly in need.

The intimate-type comics and the folk singers have collected a devoted following since the advent of the miniature revue back in the days of the Village Vanguard. With the big glamor names sputtering on TV, producers turned to the small clubs for fresh talent. Steve Allen, Garry Moore and Jack Paar have all exposed us to new faces.

The hottest duo today are Mike Nichols and Elaine May. I think their first big break came on Omnibus. Wherever it was, today they are fracturing bigger and bigger audiences. I recommend an album they made for Mercury called Improvisations to Music (MG-20376) This is no column for the reporting of hilarious conversation. Spin the record for laughs.

* * *

IF YOU dig folk singers, look for the Elektra label and an album called New Folk Sampler (SMP-2). It is an international collection from many Elektra albums; music of Kentucky, of Andalucia, of Mexico, of Israel and Africa.

* * *

ANOTHER Elektra bargain is called Folk, Pops 'n Jazz Sampler (SMP-3). This includes work by the New York Jazz Quartet, the Jazz Messengers, plus songs of the old west and some hillbilly blues.

* * *

THE GOSPEL beat and roll is strong on an album called The Gateway Singer in Hi-Fi (Decca DL-8742). This is the group which came out of the same San Francisco basement boite which spawned Mort Sahl. They have had wide acceptance since somebody smart took them to the Big City. On this album, there's nothing not to like. Listen to Shenandoah and their Kisses Sweeter Than Wine which is sung as a slow ballad.

* * *

FANTASY, a San Francisco label, has two fine folk albums. Don't overlook Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee (3254), straight blues with guitar and harmonica. The other album is called Odetta and Larry (32-52). Both the western ballads and the work songs are here in native dress.

* * *

FOR THOSE who recall fondly the great drum and bass work of the Kenton band of the late '40s, there's a Mercury album called Percussion at Work by Pete Rugolo, and his orchestra (EmArcy MG-36122).

Four of the nine numbers were written for the old Kenton band: Artistry in Percussion, Bongo Riff, Fugue for Rhythm Section and Chorale for Brass, Piano and Bongo.

The other five numbers also serve to illustrate the Rugolo talent for creating drama with drumbeat and big brass. Shelly Manne is on hand to recreate the Artistry in Percussion which is a highlight of the album. Another big moment comes on Funky Drums with the piano of Andre Previn contrasted against a triple-drum fabric woven by Manne, Larry Bunker and Mel Lewis.

Eileen Farrell's Voice Magnificent

By Doris Reno

ALL REPORTS have it that Eileen Farrell is magnificent in her live performances of Cherubini's "Medea," which she has more or less made her own in recent years, and the new Columbia 12-inch LP presenting her in excerpts from this opera will bear them out.

On this disc Miss Farrell sings the most important arias and concerted pieces from "Medea" with Arnold Gamson and the American Opera Society, with whom she first premiered her version of the opera. She is assisted by Andre Turp, tenor, and Ezio Flagello, bass-baritone.

The work is demanding, but Miss Farrell copes with it easily and splendidly. Her big rich voice never needs to force, and rides easily atop the music. She is always vigorous and at the same time artistic. This should be one of her cherished recordings.

* * *

MISS FARRELL'S performances on her first Wagner disc, an RCA Victor 12-inch LP, are not quite so successful.

On this one she sings "Brunhilde's Immolation" from "Die Gotterdammerung" and the Prelude and Liebestod from "Tristan and Isolde" with Charles Munch and the Boston Symphony, and unfortunately the orchestra drowns her at more than one point during the performances.

Neither is quite the same great splendid river of sound which emerges when one is listening to Farrell sing Italian opera, or the "Medea." Perhaps it is just an unfortunate individual recording, and the elan is not necessarily lost when Wagner works are in hand.

Farrell seems a natural for Wagner, but we had rather hoped she would not undertake it in quantity, as it would inevitably, in time, take that beautiful edge of freshness off her voice. Now we hear she is to do these roles at the Metropolitan — ah, well, we must wait and see.

Swim First, Walk Later

VALERIE AND HER MOTHER WHO TAUGHT HER TO SWIM
. . . she just HAD to learn for safety's sake, says Mrs. Richardson

TOT LOVES BEING THROWN IN WATER
. . . begs to continue game after mom is tired out

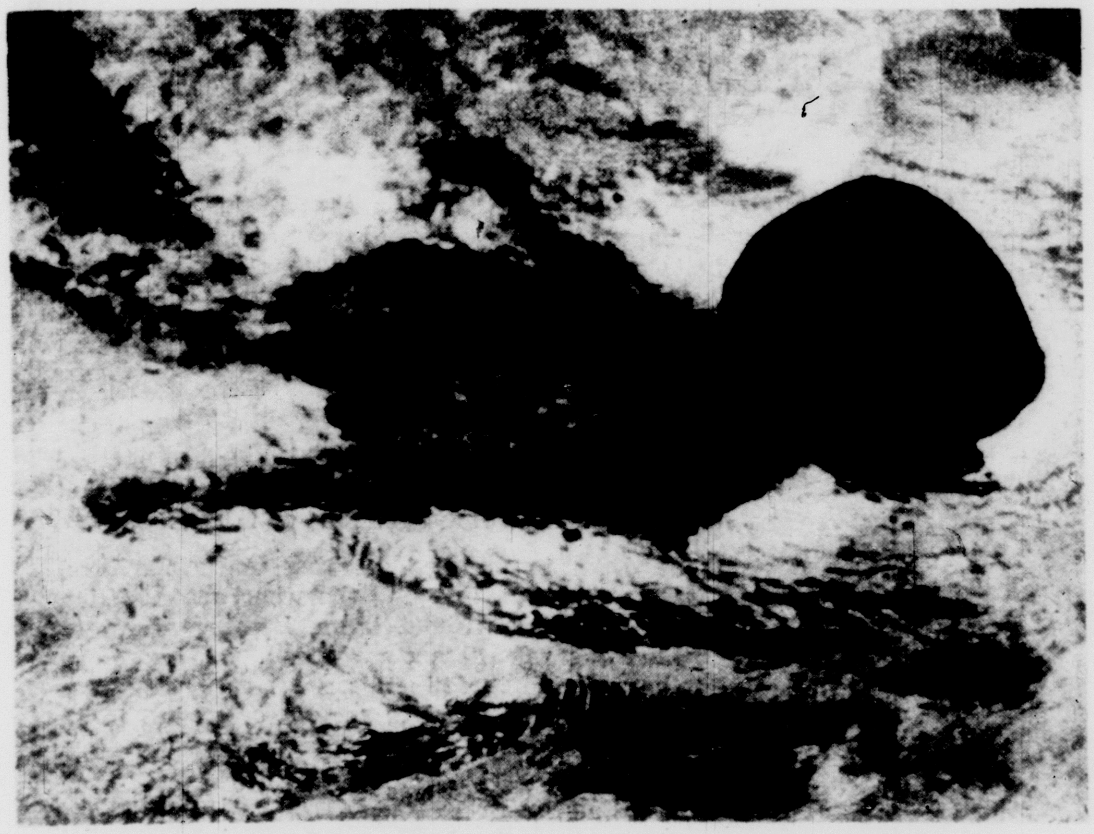
Photos by John Walther

WHEN LITTLE Valerie Richardson was 14 months old, she was still none too steady on her feet, but was already able to scud across the swimming pool like a little water beetle.

At the time these photos were taken she had arrived at the advanced age of 18 months and could leap in head-first or feet-first — or be thrown in for that matter — and come bobbing to the top as if she were made of rubber.

Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. Richardson, 5822 SW 50th Ter., report that since the pictures were taken Valerie has surpassed her own record. She now comes bob-bob-bobbing to the surface and crawls out of the pool even when thrown in with all her clothes on.

This latter feat was not a fun project nor do they encourage little Val to swim in her clothes habitually. It was rather a safety measure so that if she ever fell into the pool, she'd be able to get out without panicking.



VAL SCUDS ALONG LIKE A LITTLE BEETLE
. . . at first with head under, now knows how to breathe

KER-SPLASH! DOWN SHE GOES AND RIGHT UP AGAIN
. . . not only fun but teaches her not to panic if she falls in

Como Places, Welk Shows

Ernie Ford Is Voted TV's 'Star of Year' By Herald Readers

By Jack E. Anderson

THAT COTTON PICKIN' troubadour from Tennessee, Ernie Ford, is the viewers' choice as "Star of the Year."

Ford scored a clean victory in The Herald's poll to determine who was the outstanding television personality of 1958. The only real competition he had was from his fellow NBC star, Perry Como.

Perry Como

Como finished well behind him, however, to place second. ABC's Lawrence Welk was third, NBC's Dinah Shore was fourth, CBS' Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and ABC's Pat Boone tied for fifth place. ABC's James Garner (Maverick) was sixth.

★ ★ ★

IT'S ODD AND perhaps significant that Garner was the only cowboy to pick up a sizeable vote. CBS' James Arness (Gunsmoke) and ABC's Chuck Connors (The Rifleman) were the only other cowpokes who figured in the poll at all and they trailed badly.

Lawrence Welk

I don't think this necessarily means that westerns aren't as popular as the ratings services say they are. But I suspect there are so many, so much alike that most of their stars simply don't register with the viewers as memorably as other TV personalities do.

I haven't listed standings beyond sixth place because there were so many ties that the standings wouldn't mean much. But Red Skelton, Arthur Godfrey, Dick Clark, George DeWitt, Robert Young and Jerry Lewis were among runners-up.

Dinah Shore

WCKT's Bob Clayton topped the voting for a local TV personality, with WTVJ's Chuck Zink in second place. There were a few votes, too, for WCKT's Charlie Baxter in his capacity as the Sunday afternoon horror on The Dungeon.

One viewer sent in a vote for Sam Huff who, it turns out, is the line backer for the New York Giants pro-football team.

★ ★ ★

VIEWERS VOTING for Ford were lavish in their praise. Here are a few of the comments: "He expresses joyousness, fun, humor, a deep religious sense" . . . "His hymns are soul-stirring" . . . "He has a good clean show. No murder or shooting" . . . "Excellent character, superior singer, perfect father." There's just no getting around it. Ernie's the most.

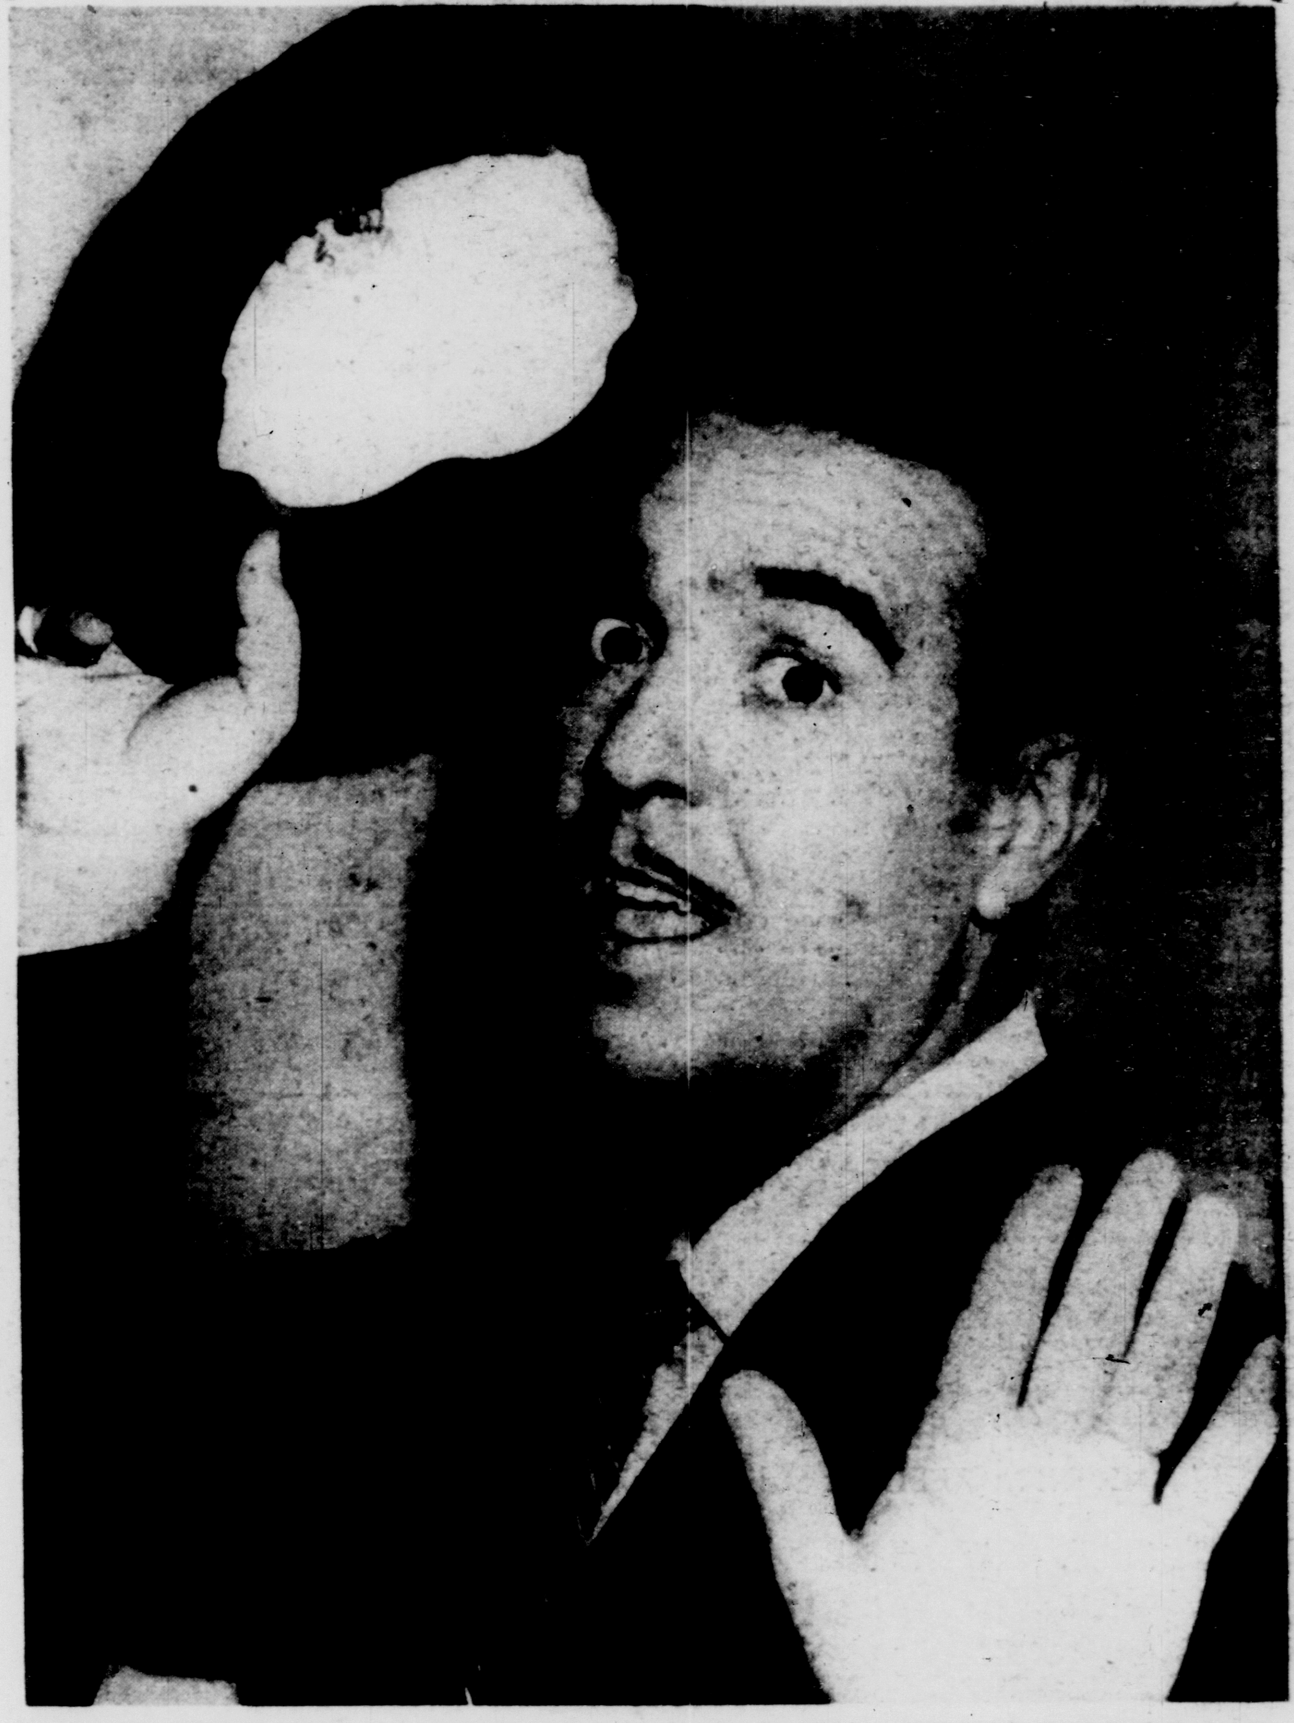
James Garner

Maverick's Garner got some interesting praise. One viewer described him as a "livin' doll" and another wrote, "he's a good actor and is most handsome and loveable — wow!" A regular matinee idol of the purple sage.

Some of the viewers' comments on Clayton were similarly lush and I'm not going to turn that crewcut's head by publishing any of them. The rest of the staff at WCKT has to live with him.

It's been an interesting and successful poll, so much so that we're going to make it an annual event.

He's the Winnah!



ERNIE FORD, THE VIEWERS' CHOICE AS OUTSTANDING STAR OF 1958

U.S.-Russia Report on CBS

"Where We Stand," a full-hour documentary comparing the relative strengths of the United States and Russia, postponed from last month, definitely is scheduled by CBS for 4 this afternoon over WTVJ (Ch. 4).

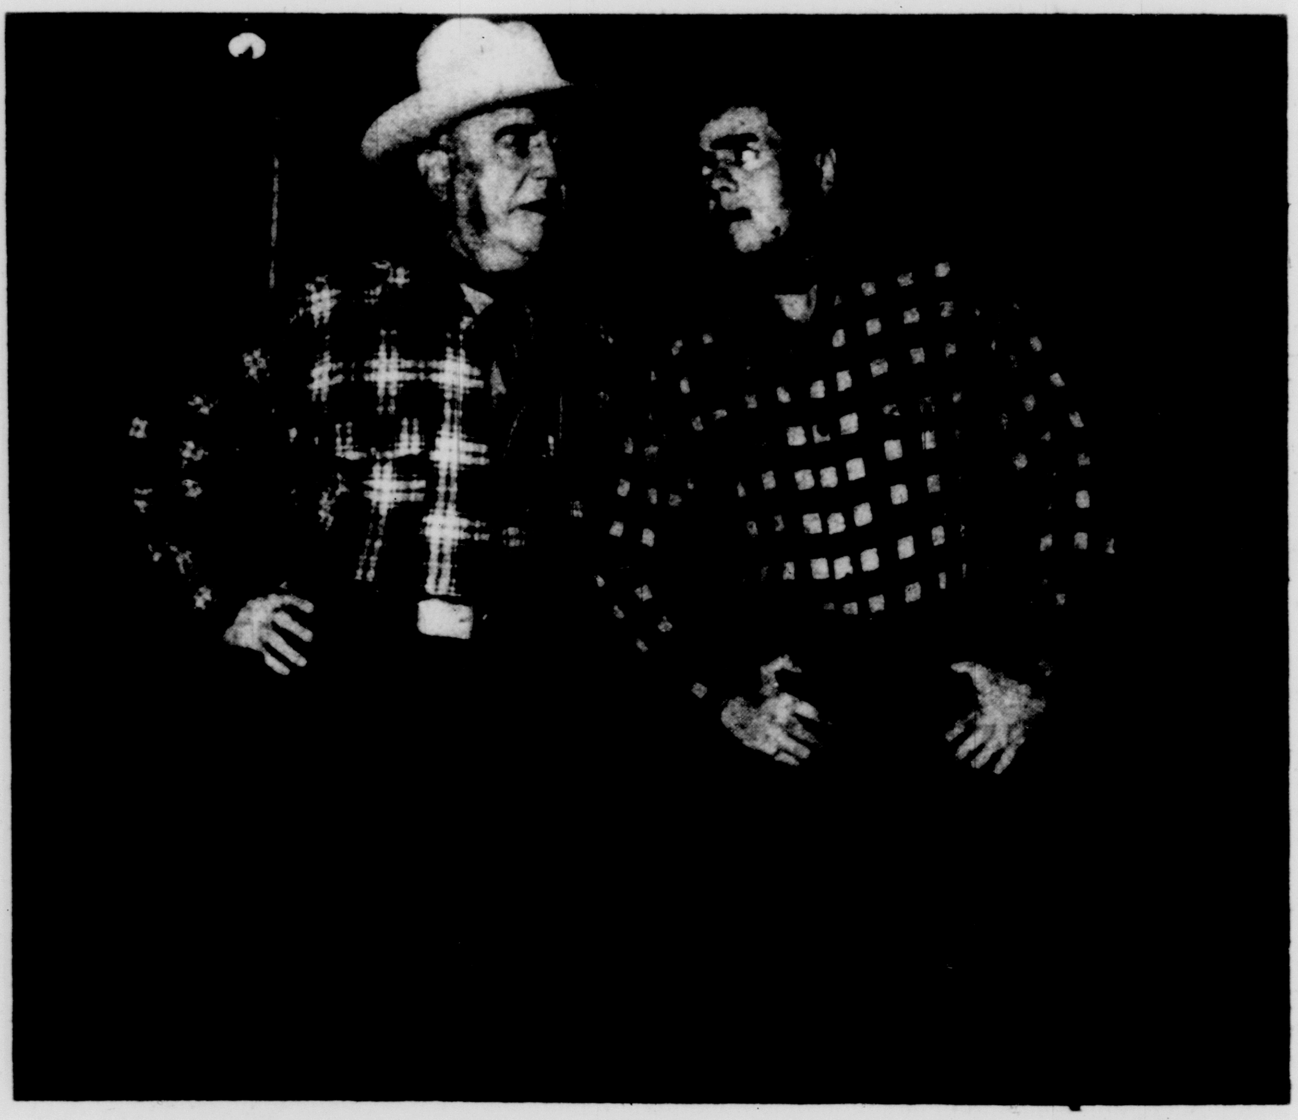
Walter Cronkite is narrator for the program which will probe the military, economic and educational activities of the two countries. Five of CBS' domestic and foreign correspondents will take part.

They include George Herman, and Paul Niven in Washington, D.C., David Schoenbrun in Paris and Richard C. Hottelet in New York.

Look Who's Going Thataway!

It was bound to happen. With westerns heading the herd, stars of other persuasion—north, east and south—were bound to be influenced and to start "thataway" themselves. Here is an unlikely posse of familiar faces—mainly comic—in unfamiliar cowboy garb, kidding the chaps off the regular riders of the range such as Marshal Matt Dillon, Paladin, Maverick and the others.

THIS FRAIL hombre is gallopin' Garry Moore, just in case you didn't recognize him. And he needs that cactus to support him in that rig.



THE COUPLE OF OLD PARDS are William Frawley and Desi Arnaz, trying to convince each other they're fresh out of the sagebrush and, from the looks of their respective stances, fresh off a couple of cow ponies.

YIPPEE! Get a load of the fancy duds on that Manhattan cowboy Danny Thomas—all tricked out for an episode in the far, far west.

THESE PISTOL PACKERS are mustachioed Red Skelton and stalwart Alan Ladd. Skelton's getting a not very successful lesson from Ladd on just how a rootin', tootin' bucko handles his shooting iron.

This Mother Knows Best

As Donna Reed Predicted, Her Family Video Show's Growing in Popularity With Nation's Viewers

DONNA REED IN SCENE WITH VIDEO SPOUSE, CARL BETZ

By Charles Mercer
Associated Press Writer

The history of television's family situation comedies is much like that of a new family in a community.

If the television family stays on the home screen long enough, remains cheerful and pleasant despite jibes of neighborhood wives — the critics — the viewing community eventually accepts it warmly.

One of the new arrivals on television this season is a pediatrician's family, the Stones, with "The Donna Reed Show" (9 p.m., Weds., Ch. 10).

As you might suspect, Miss Reed is Mrs. Stone, the doctor's wife. And, as you also might suspect, they've made quite a few friends and the doctor has established a practice — although the whole community isn't raving about them.

But things are looking brighter. Audience ratings of the filmed weekly series are beginning to climb.

Miss Reed, as intelligent as she is beautiful, is the author of this theory of viewer acceptance of TV families. When the theory is tested in the laboratory, it proves quite sound.

Example: The Danny Thomas Family, currently the most popular according to the rating surveys, endured side-street obscurity for its first two seasons.

"After our eighth show friends told us, 'it was your best yet. Now you're really working together,' " said Miss Reed, smiling reflectively.

"Actually, although that show was the eighth presented, it was the first one we filmed. I think that demonstrates that people were simply getting to know us — and so to like us."

Miss Reed is somewhat bemused by the fact that in her TV series she is playing light comedy for the first time — and enjoying it.

"I feel perfectly at ease in it," she says. "More at ease now than when I occasionally have to do some straight dramatic bit in the role."

Although no great changes are in the offing for the Stone family, she expects to become a bit more scatter-brained rather than the extremely efficient wife in forthcoming programs.

Miss Reed, like Mrs. Stone, is married and has children. Her husband, Tony Owens, is the producer of the series, and they have two sons and two daughters, ranging in age from one to 12 years.

A native of Denison, Iowa, Miss Reed grew up on her father's farm where she learned to handle a tractor, milk a cow and bake bread.

She was almost 17 before her mother would let her have a date, get a permanent or drive a car.

At the age of 18 she went to Los Angeles with $60 in her purse and the notion of becoming either a teacher or a business woman.

While attending Los Angeles City College she was elected campus queen — and, to her amazement, was offered three movie contracts within 24 hours.

Her climb in the movies was crowned in 1953 when she won an Academy Award for her role of a girl with questionable virtues in "From Here to Eternity."

The weekly grind of a television series prevents her doing movies. Recently she regretfully had to turn down a role opposite Frank Sinatra in his new picture.

All television series eventually come to an end, and when "The Donna Reed Show" goes the same route, Miss Reed says she will go back to the movies. "Or," she adds wryly, "I'll find a part on Broadway as a very bad girl for a change."

Clint Walker Better Come Back

Tide's Turning in His Favor, Says 'Cheyenne's' Ty Hardin

By HAL HUMPHREY

HOLLYWOOD—"If Clint's comin' back he'd better hurry. I've done 12 of these 'Cheyennes' and got only eight more to go," says Texas-bred Ty Hardin.

"I'm feelin' better now. A lot of people are beginnin' to like me. Some of them are even writin' letters sayin' they like my actin'."

This is happy salve for young Hardin, who inherited the role played by Clint Walker after the latter decided he couldn't take the working conditions at the Warner Bros. corral.

Up until now all of the mail deluging Warners, the ABC network and Hardin has been highly uncomplimentary. Clint's fans wanted no part of Hardin, or anyone else. It's interesting to hear Hardin talk about the mail, because when the Warners tell it there's never been more than three postcards and a note scrawled on an old saddle bag.

"Oh, there's been lot of mail, all right. Everybody's gettin' it. And I know I can't fill Clint's boots. I don't even attempt it. I'm just busy learnin' to act natural," says this neophyte with one year's acting experience.

Cinderella Man

What turned into a kind of martyrdom for Clint has made a Cinderella man of Hardin, who left Houston, Tex., only a little more than a year ago for a job in an aircraft plant here. The story of his break into movies would be a press agent's dream, if it weren't true.

TY HARDIN
. . . things looking up

Hardin was looking for a gun to go with a western outfit he was wearing to a Halloween party. Somebody told him the prop department at Paramount rented guns.

The gunshop manager told Hardin he should be in movies and called the casting department. After Hardin read a few lines they signed him. One of his first jobs was a bit part in "Buccaneer," which has just been released.

It was in May of this year that Warners saw him as a candidate to breathe on Clint Walker's neck. This didn't scare Clint, who still demanded what he thought were his rights, so Hardin took over.

He found things a bit uncomfortable when "all that mail" hit him, but Hardin suffers no complexes. "I'm a man that goes after all the hog, or not at all."

Even if Warners and Clint get things squared away, Hardin now seems destined to continue with his own series. There is talk that Clint might move back into "Cheyenne," but Hardin would alternate as "Bronco Layne."

"Someday I'd like to play some real dramatic Tyrone parts," says Hardin. "I could do it, too, because I'm versatile. But I'm at the mercy of the wheels here, and I like it that way. I'd be miserable if I was runnin' my own life."

Bosses Pleased

This is the kind of talk that makes the "benevolent rulers" at Warners smile paternally on their newest charge. He is a good boy. Oh, he could stand a bit more training on tact and diplomacy, maybe.

For example, Hardin hates to see his beloved Texas maligned by people who he feels don't understand what the Lone Star State is all about.

"Ain't that TV series they call 'The Texan' a stinker? That ol' boy who plays that sure don't know what a Texan is. I oughta have that title for my show," says Hardin.

And if Rory Calhoun is listening, I can tell him that this boy means it.

THIS BLISS won't last long between Danny Thomas and Lucille Ball when she pays a visit to the Thomas show with Desi Arnaz at 9 Monday night on WTVJ (Ch. 4). Advance reports are Lucy causes some real ructions in the Thomas household.

Y' NEVER KNOW:

Good Script No Assurance Of Success, Says Randall

By CHARLES DENTON

HOLLYWOOD — How often in the last five years have you brandished a fist at that blue-white screen in the living room and demanded in righteous exasperation:

"How the (censored) can they let a turkey like that get on the air?"

Simple, says Tony Randall. They thought it was pheasant.

Because the nerve wracking — to producers — truth is that no one can tell the difference between the two for certain until they are served to an audience.

If anyone could, all the critics in the country would be writing commercials.

Obviously, Tony pointed out with a sigh, no one sets sail on the TV channels in a ship he knows is leaking — no one, at least, with all the gears working in his think box.

"But basically all you have to start with is a script," he explained, "and a script bears no more relationship to a show than a blueprint does to a house. A blueprint is a drawing. A house is a building.

"In a sense, a script is only a drawing. There's no structure until you add people to it and present it. Then you find out if it's architecturally sound. If it isn't . . . Well, there's not much you can do about it then."

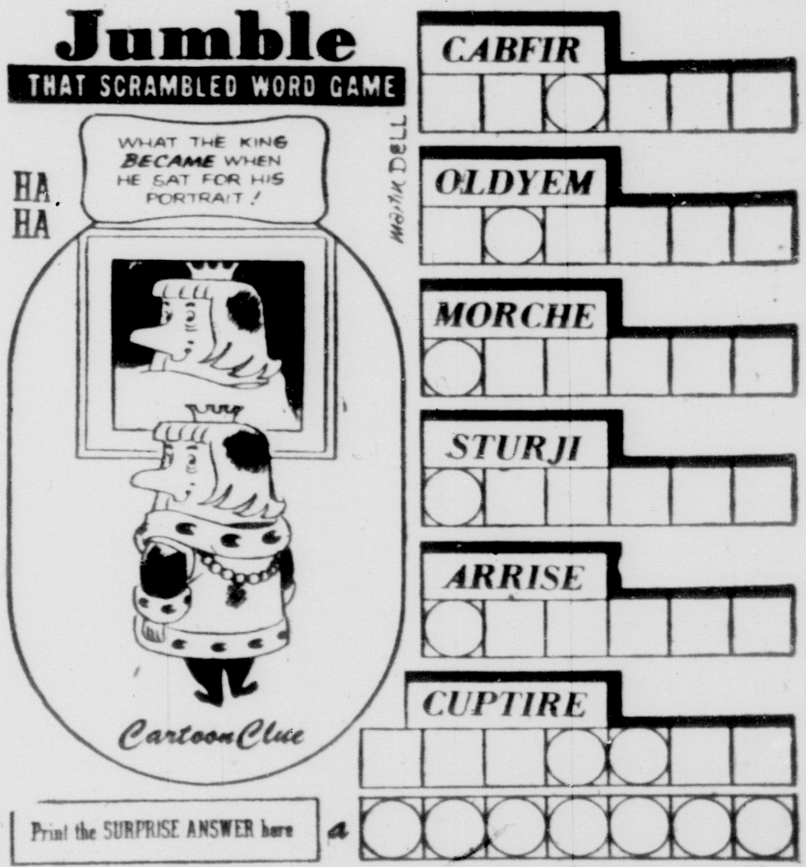
Randall, who cheerfully takes just such a calculated risk a week from Monday (Jan. 5) in NBC's Alcoa-Goodyear showcase, went on to say that this is particularly true of comedy.

Years ago, he recalled, friends of his went browsing through a stack of old Broadway shows looking for scripts that could be modernized for radio (You remember). Down deep in the bundle they found some of the late Leon Errol's great comedies. The scripts were loaded with empty pages headed simply "Mr. Errol's Business."

"What Errol did in those spots was strictly up to him," Randall said, "which illustrates that there's really very little a writer can do for you in comedy. In a serious play, the actor's job is to read the lines and let the writer's message come through.

"But the acting problems are five times greater in comedy because comedy comes from the comedian. When I act a comedy scene, for instance, I don't try to be funny — just honest.

"Trying to be funny is a ghastly error that most comedians overcome — eventually."



Unscramble the 6 sets of letters, making a word of each jumble. Print each word, a letter to a square, beneath each jumble. The letters you have printed on the circled squares may then be arranged to spell the surprise answer suggested by the cartoon clue. What is it?

Sonny's A Native

SONNY HIRSCH
. . . sports director

SONNY HIRSCH, sports director of WCKR, is one of those rare fellows, a native Miamian. He started his radio career in 1949 on WMIE and it's been a sportscasting career every minute of the way. Even when he went into service in 1953 for a 17-month hitch with the Army he ended up in the Armed Forces Network's sports department covering athletics both in England and France. After his discharge in 1955, he covered sports for the old WQAM and in 1956 became publicity director of the Miami Marlins, a job he still holds. Before signing with WCKR in 1957, he was sports director of the old WAHR (now WMET). At WCKR he succeeded Marshal Parsons as sports director. Sonny has a nightly 10-minute Sports Review program at 6:10. During the gridiron season he handles color and half-time interviews for the station.

A Lost Key No Problem

The propman of The Line-up, Marv Tomasino, never worries if he should lose the key to the handcuffs stars Warner Anderson and Tom Tully use so often when capturing criminals.

Reason is that the same key fits all sets of handcuffs, and all real policemen have the key on them at all times. Tomasino knows he can call on the regulars of the San Francisco Police Force if he ever misplaces his own key.

SOPRANO Lucine Amara sings the role of Nedda in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" on the Metropolitan Opera broadcast at 8:05 tonight over WGBS.

The Handsome Blonde Casting Director Tells How Actors Are Picked for TV

ROSE AND STORY EDITOR JACQUELINE BABBIN

By Ed Misurell

THERE are no new, young leading men in America today who speak the language well, said Rose Tobias thoughtfully. "When it comes to classical plays — Shaw, Thornton Wilder, Shakespeare — or even highly literate drawing room comedies, we're frequently stuck for actors."

After such a pointed statement from this off-camera toiler in the video vineyards, you would think that Miss Tobias would be high on the "have grudge, will hate you forever" list of aspiring performers. Yet, the opposite holds true to an amazing degree.

The attractive blonde is one of the most popular and highly courted young ladies in New York. Her phone rings constantly. Young actors of varied ages, handsome and talented, persistently ask for dates to see her.

The reason for this seemingly contradictory behavior is simple. Not only is Rose comely, shapely, intelligent and charmingly loquacious; but she is also casting director for Talent Associates, Ltd., the TV-packaging firm which produces the DuPont Show of the Month on CBS, The Armstrong Circle Theater, and a number of video specials during the year.

At this writing, Rose and three assistants were in the hectic process of hiring performers for the January 28 production of James M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows." "I'm sure we will be accused," she smiled, "of favoring British and Canadian actors by the time we are through. We have been in the past, you know, when we did "Tale of Two Cities," "Wuthering Heights" and "The Winslow Boy." What people forget, however, is that these are adaptations of classics. And when you do the classics you have to have actors who can really play them. We try very hard to cast with actors who are in New York. But once we run into the problem of mixing accents, we're dead."

The vivacious blonde's job begins when she is given a property by David Susskind, top man at Talent Associates "My assistants and I read it if it's a book or play," she explained, "or run it off if it's a movie. We get a good idea of what the characters are like and the types of performers we will need to portray them. Then we meet with the director and adaptor and discuss the subject further. David, too, takes an active part in the selection of the cast. The final choices, in any case, are made by group decision."

As a casting director, Rose is constantly on the search for new faces for the TV camera. She makes it her business to see as many plays on and off Broadway as she can. In addition, she spends a great deal of time watching TV dramatic shows. Whenever she spots an actor who impresses her, she makes a mental note of it. She is known in her field for her phenomenal memory.

When she tests an actor for a role, Rose cues them from a script. "I'm improving," she said with a smile, "but if my life depended on reading for the stage or television, I'd be done for. The hardest work I think I've ever done was to play a small role in a TV film some time ago. The show was being shot on a holiday and everybody made time and a half because I kept forgetting my lines and my cues. I was paid $175 for my day's work and I earned every penny of it."

Rose came to her present position after a number of jobs that were connected with show business. Born in Stuttgart, Germany, and brought up in Poland, she emigrated to the U.S. as a young girl and began to study ballet dancing. When things got a little tough financially, she got a job as a fashion coordinator with an advertising agency. "I couldn't afford to go to the theater," Rose recalled, "so I spent most of my spare time reading plays and picturing in my mind the actors I thought should fill the roles of the different characters."

Sometime later, Rose became in succession a program coordinator in radio, a member of the CBS casting department, a publicist for a European tour of a "Porgy and Bess" production, a writer on a CBS morning show and a talent coordinator for RKO. A year ago last September she went to work for Talent Associates.

Since there are so few live and film shows done in New York these days, the number of roles available for actors and actresses is very small, Rose points out. "That's why it's so important for any young performer looking to make a name for himself to learn, learn, learn English," she said. "Most of those stories about actors being discovered while having a malted in a drugstore are, I'm afraid, pure fiction.

DAVID SUSSKIND CHECKS ROSE ON CASTING PROBLEM

HER VIVACITY in personality and song has made NBC star Dinah Shore one of the most popular on television. Dinah's Sunday night show at 9 on WCKT (Ch. 7) is now one of the network's highest rated weekly presentations.

AUTHORITATIVE POINTERS are given by Capt. Norvin C. Evans Jr., USAF, to actor Ralph Meeker on the X2 for Meeker's portrayal in "Break-Off," an Air Force drama to be presented on the NBC's Loretta Young Show at 10 tonight over WCKT (Ch. 7). Capt. Evans is technical adviser for the drama.

Where's Gisele?

W. N. FOSTER, of Conroe, Tex., was a big Gisele MacKenzie fan and asks what Gisele has been doing since her show folded.

Gisele MacKenzie

Gisele has been doing guest shots with most of the variety shows and was seen with Jack Benny on Dec. 14. She is doing GE Theater's first musical comedy on Feb. 8 (already filmed) and is now going into rehearsal for an upcoming Broadway musical version of "Pride and Prejudice," to be called "First Impressions."

Chance of Ghost

MRS. DOROTHY GERMAN, of Philadelphia, asks if the man giving away the money on The Millionaire has ever had a chance to be seen on camera.

Not yet, though the producers are holding in reserve the possibility of letting him appear one night as a promotional gimmick.

Lawman Lowdown

MRS. M. LEE, of Miami, Fla., wants to know all about John Russell, the Lawman.

John Russell

John is a Los Angeles native, is 37, stands 6'4", is married, has two daughters and a son. Hobbies are golf and collecting guns. He is NOT Indian as some rumors have it. He made his movie bow in 1945 and was star of a previous TV series called Soldiers of Fortune.

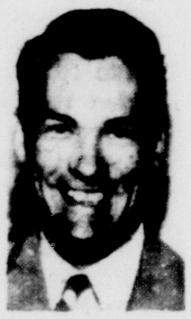
Last Chapter

WILMA MYERS, of Chicago, has read that Shirley Temple's Storybook will be going off the air and wants to know what's with Shirley.

The show thus far has not been renewed and it was presumed to be finished, as of Dec. 21. However, all the films will be shown again starting in January on ABC.

Covering Betz

LORRAINE RUBENSTEIN, of Philadelphia, wants to know a little more about Carl Betz, Donna Reed's TV husband.



Carl Betz

Carl has been around a spell, doing soap operas and Broadway shows, though never with any great prominence. When he was tested for the new part, he was turned down as looking too young. Then, after hundreds of others were tested, it was decided that he was the only actor available that would do, and the fan mail has apparently confirmed this opinion.

Radio Sets New Record

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The radio industry grew to record proportions in 1958 despite the recession and television progress, the National Association of Broadcasters reports.

It said all-time records were set for the number of stations, receivers and amount of money spent for radio advertising during the year.

The report said there were 150 million radio receiving sets in the nation—an increase of 10 million over 1957. Of the total, 100 million were in homes, 38 million in automobiles, and 12 million in public places. The NAB said better than 97 per cent of all American homes now have at least one radio.

The industry group reported that the number of commercial broadcasting stations grew to 3,307 AM's and 562 FM's in 1958 — an increase of 400 in the two categories.

The report listed these other radio industry highlights for 1958:

— Considerable headway was made for radio to obtain equal access to news coverage of courts and public proceedings. The American bar association agreed to study Canon 35 which has restricted camera and photography coverage of the courts.

— There has been an increase in editorializing by radio stations. A survey showed that about one-third of the broadcasters now carry editorial comments, 14 per cent of them on a regular basis.

— A growing numbr of stations aim for special audiences with an increase in those devoted entirely to music and news.

LOVELY ACTRESS Dana Wynter portrays Kate Croy, heroine of Henry James' famous love story, "The Wings of the Dove," to be presented on CBS' Playhouse 90 at 9:30 Thursday night over WTVJ (Ch. 4).

Jose Greco Troupe on Ch. 10

Jose Greco and his company of Spanish dancers will be the guest stars on ABC's Voice of Music program at 9 Monday night over WPST-TV (Ch. 10).

A group of flamenco guitarists and singers conducted by Roger Machado will accompany the dancers. As usual John Daly will be on hand as host.

The group will perform such Spanish steps as the Galician shepherd's dance, "Pastorale", the Andalusian dance, "Cordoba" and the "Wedding Dance" which originated in Valencia and Aragon.

A GOLDBRICKING war correspondent is played by Tony Randall and Alan Carney is his driver in "Coogan's Reward," the presentation on NBC's TV Playhouse at 9:30 Monday night on WCKT (Ch. 7).

New Western on Channel 7

"Black Saddle," a new western series about a one-time gunfighter turned lawyer has its premiere at 9 Saturday night on WCKT (Ch. 7).

Peter Breck portrays Clay Culhane the gun-packing itinerant lawyer who rides the back country of the old west from town to town defending clients.

Pretty Norwegian actress Anna Lisa has the role of an owner of a New Mexico hotel and Russell Johnson, the role of a deputy marshall in the weekly series.

President Displays the New Old Glory

Here It Is; Do You Like It?

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodelled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern territory.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out.

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a different design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained, was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Eisenhower added that the design adopted will have to be drastically altered if Hawaii comes into the Union.

Saturday's alteration marked the 25th time the flag has been changed since 1777 when the Stars and Stripes were first unfurled.

Since 1818, each new state has brought a new star to the field of blue.

6 Batista Officials Captured

Havana Still Paralyzed; Castro May Arrive Today

HAVANA, Cuba—Rebel military leaders and Cuban labor union officials promised Saturday that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Fidel Castro arrives."

And the rebel radio reported Castro, who spearheaded a successful revolution against President Fulgencio Batista, was en route from the interior to Havana Saturday night.

With him was Judge Manuel Urrutia, whom Castro has announced will be the provisional president of the new government.

It appeared possible he would make his triumphal entry into the city on Sunday.

And in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass declared that six captured officials from the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

The names of the captured six were not released immediately.

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

(Prio flew into Havana from Miami Friday morning).

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

'Point That Gun Away From Me'

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL

TRUMBULL

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and dowright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bonafide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory" sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Newborn Baby Is Stolen

Frantic Search In Brooklyn

NEW YORK—(AP)—The kidnaping of a baby girl $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours old from a Brooklyn hospital Saturday touched off a frantic citywide search — but to no avail.

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive. They urged taxi and bus drivers to keep a lookout.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby——please have her baptized a Catholic."

The mother's condition was described Saturday "as good as could be expected." The Chionchios have another daughter, Garardette, one year old.

'Rick' Asks Revision of Railway Act

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Eastern Air Lines board chairman, Saturday called for a revision of the Railway Labor Act and compulsory arbitration to avert the airline industry's labor troubles.

Rickenbacker urged the act be revamped to:

ELIMINATE loopholes "which now permit such a time lag between mediation and settlement that carriers can be forced to operate for months under duress of strike threats."

PROVIDE adequate governmental authority to allow service to continue until settlement is reached.

REQUIRE compulsory arbitration "for such disputes as cannot be resolved through mediation and other related provisions of the law."

Rickenbacker pointed to Eastern's recent 38-day strike for the need of new laws.

Red Claims Verified

We Don't Doubt It, U.S. Declares

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

Europe's Reactions Are Mixed

LONDON —(AP)— The Soviet Union's cosmic rocket spread mingled wonderment and misgiving across Europe.

Radio stations broadcast progress reports as fast as they flowed from Moscow. Newspapers charted the space voyage in front page displays.

As the rocket soared toward the moon, conviction grew that the Russians were unlikely to end up with a flop.

In Communist countries, from East Germany to Red China, commentators poured out praise for the Soviet Union.

Among Western European commentators, the realization grew that the space thrust could have far-reaching military implications.

Scientists in general warmly applauded the feat of Soviet technicians.

"This is confirmation of the ability of the Soviet Union to do this kind of thing in a very confident way," declared Dr. D. C. Martin, secretary of the British International Geophysical Year committee.

Another top British scientist, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he expected the $1\frac{1}{2}$ ton rocket to reach a spot where it would revolve around the sun as the Russians predicted. He is chairman of Britain's IGY Artificial Satellite Committee.

The world's largest radio telescope at Britain's Jodrell Bank picked up signals from the Soviet moon rocket.

Prof. Alfred Lovell, director, said special equipment was fitted to the telescope at short notice for a serious attempt to track the rocket today.

Ike Flies Back To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa — (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to his farm home Saturday after attending Alaskan statehood ceremonies at the White House in Washington.

The President made the round trip by helicopter. He had spent nearly six hours at the White House.

The Eisenhowers have been at the farm since the day after Christmas. They plan to spend the weekend here before returning to Washington.

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Soviet Union expressed confidence Saturday night its $1\frac{1}{2}$-ton cosmic rocket has conquered earth's gravitation and will orbit about the sun after bypassing the moon.

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship will never again fall back on the earth," Vice President Alexander Topchiev of the Academy of Sciences told Tass News Agency.

Topchiev based his statement on reports showing the space rocket had reached 176,540 miles or about four-fifths of the distance to the moon by 9 p.m.

The time set for soaring past the moon was 7 a.m. Moscow time Sunday (11 p.m. Miami time Saturday).

Premier Nikita Khrushchev hailed the project, saying it proves the Russians "are the first in the world to map out the way from the earth to the moon."

First announcements said the 3,239-pound rocket was aimed toward the moon. Later the Russians' estimated that the rocket was missing the moon by 3,750 to 5,000 miles.

Jubilant Moscow citizens called the new space traveler Lunik — a combination of Luna for moon and Sputnik.

Soviet Scientist Yakovlevich Martynov said the flight was "a true last rehearsal for the real cosmic journey" of man. But subsequent statements were more cautious, referring to manned flights to planets "in our generation."

Khrushchev told a Communist Party meeting in Minsk that the rocket showed "that the Socialist order stimulates the speedy development of economy, science, technology and culture."

Scientists in interviews with Tass, official Soviet News Agency, were quick to point out the soaring flight that began Friday far outstripped heights reached by four futile moon probes by the U. S. The U.S. Air Force Pioneer I reached 71,300 miles.

A government announcement predicting the rocket will go into orbit around the sun gave no scientific estimates of the distance of the orbit from the sun or of the satellite's life expectancy.

Prof. H. S. W. Massey, chairman of Britain's International Geophysical Year Committee on Artificial Satellites, said at London the orbit probably would be thousands of miles out from the sun. If it remained out of the sun's fiery, farflung atmosphere it might stay in orbit for millions of years.

World Reds Step Up Latin American Drive

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Staff Writer

MOSCOW — The central committee of the World Communist Party has launched a combined economic-political infiltration drive in Latin America aimed at splitting the Western hemisphere.

Reports circulating here in Moscow are that the Red Party leadership figures one of the best ways to undermine U.S. strength is to drive a wedge into South and Central America.

Targets at present appear to be Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela with lesser thrusts also being made in Chile, Colombia, Bolivia, Costa Rica and Guatemala.

The Communists have been repulsed repeatedly in their drives for a Latin American foothold, the most noteworthy example being their setback in Guatemala four years ago.

But now, behind an economic spearhead, they seem to stand a better chance for penetration.

Cloaked behind their economic offers for trade relations, is of course, their primary aim of political achievement.

Even if they can only develop Latin American "neutralism" in the East-West cold war, they will have achieved significant success.

Solidarity is vital to the U.S. in the Western hemisphere where the Reds in the past have been unable to line up more than token support. "Neutralism" would be a direct loss to the Western allies in their continuing fight against communism.

A gimmick in the Russian Communist strategy appears to be playing up the U.S. in Latin America as an "interventionist" power.

The Latins, who are strongly nationalistic, resent any intervention by their big powerful neighbor from North America. The Soviets hope to be able to convince the Latins that the U.S. is trying to dominate them.

Regardless of the facts, the Reds are assured of a sympathetic ear in many Latin capitals where resentment is deep-rooted over U.S. tariff barriers to South American minerals such as zinc, copper, petroleum products and the like.

One report here has the Communist Party claiming nearly 400,000 card-carrying members in the Latin countries. These are concentrated largely in the labor unions.

Biggest obstacle facing the Reds in both Central and South America is the high percentage of Catholics in those countries.

The Catholic Church, highly influential there, is an avowed foe of the Communist Party which has almost stamped out religion and belief in God here in the U.S.S.R.

Economically, Russia has worked out an agreement in Argentina to provide 100 million dollars credit toward the purchase of Soviet oil equipment. Moscow has indicated a willingness to make trade pacts with most of the other Latin countries.

Brazil is understood to be anxious for extended trade with the U.S.S.R.

Politically, the Reds have not fared too well in the Latin countries. However, since 1955, the Communist Party has been legalized in Venezuela, Colombia and Chile. This brings to eight the countries among the 20 Latin republics where the Reds can operate in the open.

It marks progress for the Red party which needs only the slightest encouragement to intensify its efforts.

The Latin-Communist situation is a menace which the U.S. State Department cannot afford to shrug off lightly.

Mikoyan Arrives Today; Berlin 'Feeler' Hinted

Red Envoy Seeking Way Out?

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in Washington today for high-level talks which some American officials believe may lead to a break in the Cold War crisis over Berlin and European security.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, one of those with whom Mikoyan will confer, was reported to be willing to consider any constructive Russian suggestions for easing tension in Europe and elsewhere.

Mikoyan, 63-year-old Communist veteran, also is expected to see President Eisenhower, but neither the White House nor the Russian embassy has confirmed a definite date for such a meeting.

Whether it was planned that way or not, Mikoyan will reach Washington in the wake of a big Soviet propaganda and scientific victory stemming from the Russian moon shot.

High officials said they know Russia is concerned over the growing military might of Western Germany, worried by mounting unrest in Soviet-occupied East Germany and probably forced the Berlin crisis in an effort to see whether the U.S. and its allies were willing to reopen the entire question of European security and armament reduction.

They said that Mikoyan, considered to be Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's right-hand man, may well be coming to sound out American leaders on some compromise solution.

Mikoyan himself, at a conference in Copenhagen earlier Saturday, indicated Khrushchev may be seeking a graceful way out of his demand that the U.S., Britain and France withdraw their forces from West Berlin by June 1 and permit it to become a demilitarized Communist-encircled "free city."

The wily Soviet Armenian diplomat said the Russian "proposal" had been "misunderstood" by the West.

He appeared, in the view of some American officials, to be paving the way for Russian acceptance of the Western counter proposal for a four-power discussion of Berlin within the broader framework of German reunification and European security.

'Flip' Its Wings

Jets Force Down Runaway Airplane

COLUMBUS, Ohio —(AP)— A pilotless plane that got away from its pilot at the Rising Sun, Ind., airport Saturday, was brought down about two hours later by Lockbourne Air Force Base jets. It crashed in an open field near Chillicothe in Ross county, about 50 miles south of here.

The Lockbourne jets made the plane crash by "flipping" its wings, base spokesmen said.

The pilots waited for an uninhabited spot in the farmland area before they approached to flip it over with their wings.

The pilotless Civil Air Patrol plane, an L16 reconnaissance type ship, headed northeast after getting away at Rising Sun. It had been sighted on Air Force radar scopes at an altitude of 16,000 feet most of the time until it was brought down.

Two armed F84 jets were sent aloft from Lockbourne when the plane reached the area of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, with the intent to shoot the plane down if flipping it over failed.

The plane was being "cranked up" by its pilot, Robert Murray, 33, when it took off. Murray said it had a full tank of gasoline and could stay in the air about three hours.

Murray said the plane, a single-engined craft, was being "revved up" and that apparently the throttle had been left on.

"Who was the pilot?" a reporter asked.

"It was me," he replied.

He said he had landed at the Rising Sun field a few minutes earlier, filled the tank with gasoline and was preparing to taxi the craft to a hangar.

The armed jets were piloted by Lt. Col. James A. Poston, commander of Lockbourne's 166th Fighter Squadron, and Maj. Paul E. Hoover.

"Bobby was a delightful man but a horrible husband," Mrs. McDaniel told Judge Joseph E. Cook.

Hoffa Pal Seized as Fugitive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive of justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture, with unimproved land going at $4,300 an acre.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Gambling Mob Flees From Cuba

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

They left Havana so quickly they left everything behind except clothes, cash, wives and girl friends.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

The new Castro government, say reports from Havana, is almost certain to destroy the gambling network.

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve, and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule."

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor; confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . . "

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops, they had only words of praise.

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

MIAMI READINGS AT 4:30 P.M. SATURDAY: Air 77 degrees; wind from the west at eight m.p.h.; sky cloudy; barometer 29.90 inches, and relative humidity 58 per cent.

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

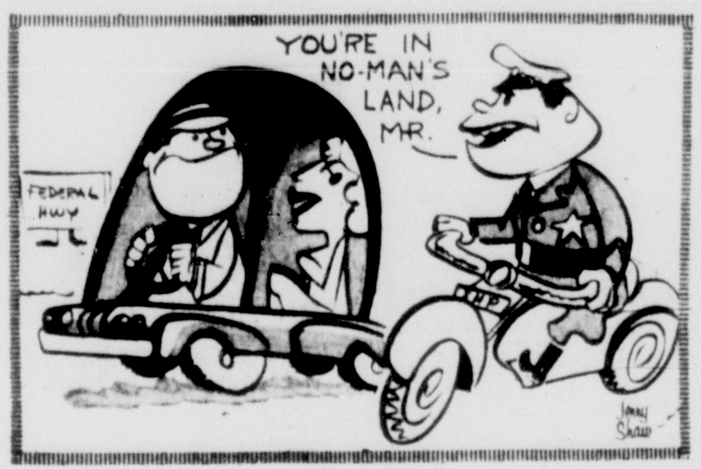
Half of Busy Highway Is Law No-Man's-Land

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer



YOU'RE IN NO-MAN'S LAND, MR.
FEDERAL HWY
FHP
Shaw

FORT LAUDERDALE—It's a downright confusing situation, police officials agree, and you'll be doing them a favor if you avoid having an accident in the southbound lane of Federal Hwy., a divided lane roadway.

At least keep out of trouble there until after the state Legislature meets.

Right now that section of the highway between Floranada Rd. and Oakland Park Blvd. is a little island unincorporated area completely surrounded by Fort Lauderdale and Oakland Park.

The northbound lane of the highway is in Fort Lauderdale. Oakland Park begins at the curbstone of the southbound lane.

Motorists traveling south to Fort Lauderdale are in-again, out-again and in-again the city. But for a while they're just no where.

"Quite a mess," said Sgt. John Hicks of the Florida Highway Patrol.

The FHP is the only police body which has the power of arrest in the strip. Fort Lauderdale patrolmen can't cross the center line and Oakland Park patrolmen can't leave the curbstone.

"But," Sgt. Joe Mackey of Fort Lauderdale police hastened to say, "if there is an accident there we will call ambulances and protect the scene."

Fort Lauderdale officials learned of the no-man's-land a couple of months ago.

The Fort Lauderdale city limit extends from the east to the center line of Federal Hwy. Officials here assumed it met Oakland Park there.

Buf two months ago, when Oakland Park police said they couldn't investigate an accident in the southbound traffice lane, Fort Lauderdale officials discovered the Oakland Park limits end at the west side of the highway.

Fort Lauderdale will take steps to annex the traffic lane at the next session of the Legislature.

"We'd rather have it than let it hang like this," Sgt. Mackey said.

"As far as I'm concerned they're welcome to it," Hick's said. "We have a squabble every time there's an accident there."

"There've been so many changes in the last year we don't try to keep up. We just go when they call us," Hicks said resignedly.

But, he pointed out, the situation could create a dandy of a jurisdictional dispute in the event of a serious mishap.

Jax Teenager Recounts Rebel Tour

'I Stepped Into Castro's Boots'

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Michael L. Garvey, 17-year-old high school senior, recalls the day he stepped into Fidel Castro's boots.

Garvey was one of three sons of Navy families who two years ago ran off from the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba, and joined Castro's revolutionary forces for three months.

He got to know Castro well, Garvey said, and one day when his new boots were hurting, Castro traded with him—giving the youth a pair already broken in, which the leader of the rebels had been wearing.

Garvey wouldn't talk about his experiences before, but now that the Batista government has fallen and Castro's forces apparently the most powerful in Cuba, the youth agreed to an interview with Richard Martin of the Florida Times-Union last night.

After planning to join the rebels, Garvey said he, with Victor Buelhman and Charles Ryan, left their homes at the Guantanamo base on Sunday Feb. 17, 1957, ostensibly to attend church services.

Instead, he said, they sneaked out of the base on a bus carrying Cuban workers and joined friends of "the movement" as the revolutionists were called.

"We believed the Castro movement represented something that would be for the better," Garvey said. "It's hard to describe with words. You had to be there to understand the conditions in the country. To me a dictatorship is bad anywhere."

After living a week with a family in Manzanillo, Garvey said they went with a party of rebels to join Castro's army in the mountains.

It wasn't easy to find because it moved often to avoid government troops, the youth said, and "we got blisters on blisters" looking for it.

Garvey said when they succeeded they were fitted out with uniforms, trained continually in mountain guerilla warfare but never saw action in the three months with Castro.

They met the rebel leader often, Garvey said, and found him "very intelligent, a graduate of a Cuban university — and independently wealthy."

"His object, of course, was to overthrow the Batista government," Garvey said, "But I think he was doing it for the people, not for himself. Now, only time will tell."

While the boys were with Castro's forces the U.S. Government was bringing about pressure for their release, Garvey said, and they were sent back with an American newsman, Robert Taber of Time magazine, who vistied the rebel leader's headquarters.

"I have no regrets — except for the worry I caused everyone," Garvey said. "If they put in a good government in Cuba, I'll be even prouder of the small part I played in it."

Oh, yes, he recalled, in those three months with Castro he grew "the prettiest, curliest red beard" a 15-year-old ever had.

Roadbuilding Outlook Bright for New Year

Tornado Warnings Lowered

Storm Batters Tampa Bay, Telephone, Power Lines Cut

TAMPA —(UPI) — Damaging winds and torrents of rain raked the Tampa Bay area early Saturday but the Weather Bureau lowered its Central Florida tornado warning when the storm failed to reach its anticipated fury.

The St. Petersburg-Tampa area was the hardest hit, as strong winds ripped off tree limbs, tore down wires, damaged store signs and were blamed for a $12,000 fire that destroyed a building at St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport.

But the storm turned out to be less fierce than was first anticipated when a tornado warning was issued Friday night for the area extending from Tampa to Cape Canaveral.

The warning was lowered at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Up to two inches of rain fell on Tampa Friday night and early Saturday and winds there were in excess of 35 miles an hour. Several electrical circuits were broken and two neighborhoods blacked out. Debris from trees littered some streets.

Across the bay at St. Petersburg, 1,500 telephones in one section of the city were put out of commission when part of a tree was blown into a transformer by winds that reached up to 40 miles an hour.

On fashionable Snell Isle, a big Australian pine was blown on powerlines and left some homes without electricity.

But the biggest damage was at the airport where the Gai-Mar Creations packaging plant suffered $12,000 in damages. The storm knocked out the building's electrical supply and when a power company crew managed to turn the power on, the building erupted in flames.

By the time firemen arrived it was destroyed. There was no immediate determination of the exact cause, but firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring, more than likely the result of the storm.

Farther to the south, the Bradenton-Sarasota area escaped serious damage. Some limbs were blown into the streets but the high tides and severe winds forecast failed to materialize.

Heavy rains and brisk winds but no damage were reported at Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Vero Beach and Orlando.

Daytona Beach had 1.43 inches of rain.

Trucks to Take Over

State OKs Cutting Tampa-Jax Trains

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Utilities Commission Saturday authorized Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains between Tampa and Jacksonville.

The trains, which serve Green Cove Springs, Palatka, Crescent City, Deland, Sanford, Maitland, Winter Park, Kissimmee, Haines City, Lakeland and Plant City, will be taken off Monday.

But the ACL will immediately institute a truck service to handle express in order to meet objections from fern growers, gladioli, fish and other shippers in Volusia and counties along the route.

The two trains to be discontinued handled very few passengers, but rendered a vital express service. The Utilities Commission said it would not have authorized their discontinuance without the substitute trucking service.

One of the trains to be taken off, number 80, leaves Tampa at 8:30 a.m. daily and arrives in Jacksonville at 5 p.m. The other, number 89, leaves Jacksonville at 10:45 a.m. and reaches Tampa at 6 p.m. They are principally used for transportation of mail and express.

Total passenger revenue from both trains last year was less than $12,000

Removal of the two trains will leave four Coast Line passenger trains serving the area, including the west coast Champion.

Under the plan for substitute motor carrier service, a truck will leave Orlando daily, except Sunday, at 9:30 a.m. and stop at Maitland, Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Longwood, Lake Mary, Lake Monroe, De Leon Springs, Barberville, Eldridge and arrive in Pierson at 11:59 a.m.

FSU Senate Studies Bid From Group

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A proposal to join the National Student Association, an organization supporting racial integration, is before the Florida State University student senate.

Student Senate President Mattox Hair has named a six-member committee to investigate the proposal and report.

The NSA is an association of the student governments of 400 American colleges and universities, aimed at exchanging information on common problems and to formulate student opinion.

Its annual congress recently adopted a resolution favoring integration. Such action is merely an expression of student opinion, however, and carries no power of enforcement in member schools.

The NSA opposes restrictions based on religion, race or creed for membership in fraternities and sororities.

The University of Miami is already a member.

Director Asks Why On Audit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — State Penal Director R. O. Culver says he will ask a full explanation from the superintendent of Apalachee, first offender prison, on a very poor audit report.

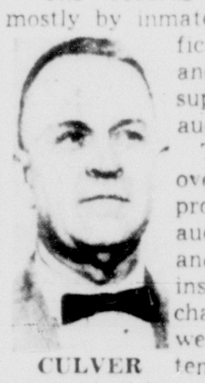
State Auditor Bryan Willis said Friday records at the prison were in such poor shape that it was almost impossible to keep an accurate check on equipment and spending.

No records were kept for some departments, Willis said, while other records were inadequate and of little value.

Culver said he will summon Superintendent Paul J. Eubanks to Tallahassee to explain. Culver did not indicate if he would seek Eubanks' dismissal.

But he said: "If this audit is just a little bit right, there needs to be some changes."

The audit covered a two-year period, ending June 30, 1957. The report attributed the poor record-keeping to low salaries, which made it difficult to hire qualified accountants.



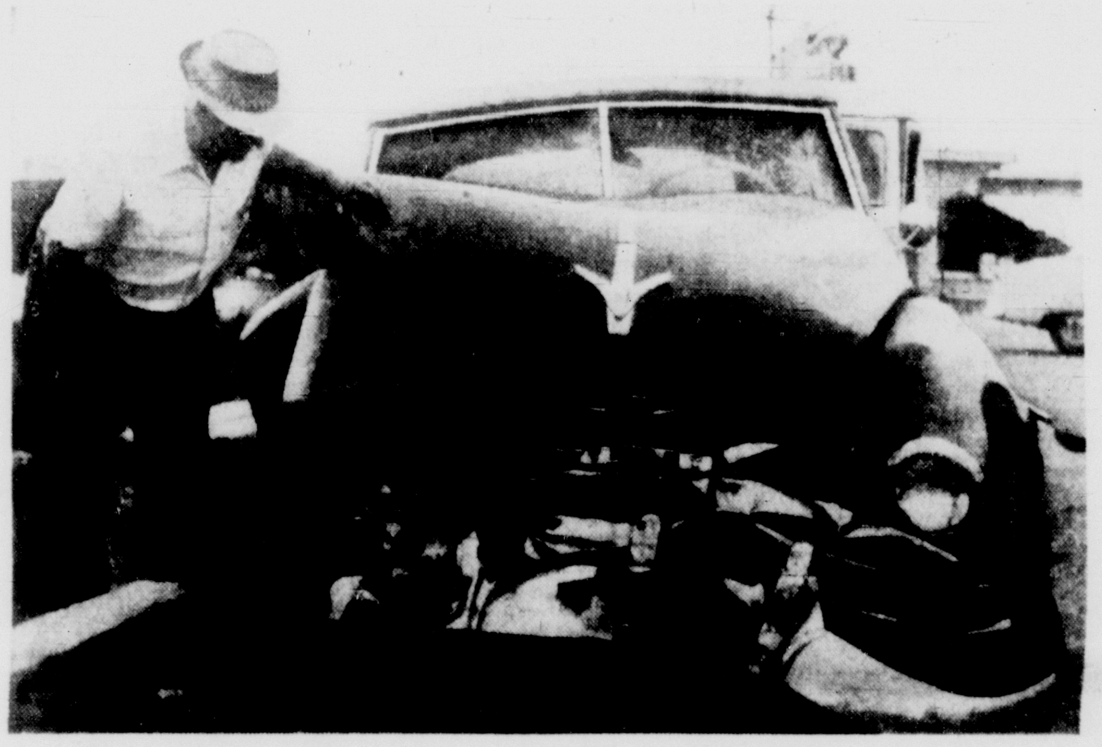
CULVER

"The records were kept mostly by inmates with insufficient training and little or no supervision," the audit said.

The prison overspent its appropriation, the audit reported, and in some instances, purchase orders were not written until the invoice had been received from the seller. The audit said purchases were made from special funds without Cabinet approval and one building was constructed without apparent sanction of Legislature or Cabinet.

Willis said supplies and equipment could be lost or stolen from the prison and nobody would be able to check it.

For instance, he said, 171,000 bricks were missing, and materials at some of the convict warehouses could be taken without being signed for.



Death Scene

A 24-year-old Hollywood waitress was killed Saturday morning when her car swerved into a head on collision with an oncoming auto. Carolyn Hines, returning from work at a Miami coffee shop, suffered a broken neck. Driver of the other vehicle, Lee Allen Woodward of Miami, suffered cuts and bruises. Late Saturday, the state's holiday weekend death toll stood at four.

Trying to Cut School Costs

Legislators Study Proposal To Abolish Free Textbooks

MARIANNA — (UPI) — A legislative interim committee, studying education with an eye to cutting some of Florida's soaring school costs, Saturday took a long look at the free textbook program.

Only concrete suggestion the lawmakers came up with after nearly six hours of meeting was the possibility of adding a few lay members to the State Textbook Selection Committee, now composed of professional educators.

The legislators, headed by Sen. L. K. Edwards of Irvine, delayed a controversial proposal to abolish the free textbook program and let pupils buy their own books.

Representatives of the State Education Department spent nearly two hours explaining how texts are selected, purchased and distributed to the various county schools.

Legislators and educators also heard criticisms of many of the textbooks which were studied by a subcommittee of the education committee and offered their own criticisms.

The committee made intense inquiries into the method by which texts are studied prior to purchase.

Fred Turner of the education department said more time is needed for study of proposed books by the Textbook Rating Committee. He said only five months is spent in the overall study and it might include more than 500 books from 32 publishers.

Sen. Tom Adams of Orange Park said the Legislature should consider requiring more time and also should consider adding a few laymen to the committee.

"Members of this committee are all busy people and we are naive if we expect them to go into the selection thoroughly in the length of time provided," he said.

"Teachers cannot teach material any better than is in the books," he said.

Turner said the department has under consideration already the proposal to add laymen to the selection group.

The department is asking the next legislature to increase the appropriation for free textbooks, from $5,000,000 to $8,500,000.

'Can't Be That Naive,' Judge Says

PENSACOLA — (AP) — A judge said that one would have to be "naive indeed" to believe F. M. Billing had no intention of trying to sway a member of a jury venire whom he telephoned the morning of a trial.

Billing was sentenced Saturday to 30 days in jail for allegedly trying to influence H. L. Coburger. Judge Ernest E. Mason of Court of Recrods set appeal bond at $500.

Billing, 56, admitted contacting Coburger, but denied asking anything other than that Coburger keep an open mind and give a fair trial to Ed Golden Jr., charged with assault.

Prices Drop

LAKELAND — (UPI) — A price cut on wholesale frozen orange concentrate Saturday appeared certain to cut retail prices and give the market a big boost, but there were no indications of a quick change in fresh oranges headed for concentrate.

This means, once the price cut reaches the consumer level, a six-ounce can of concentrate may sell for 20 cents instead of 25 cents, the recent prevailing price.

Hearing Set

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A preliminary hearing is scheduled Friday for Lawrence Henry Sunbrock, 48, Orlando promoter charged with misleading advertising of a rodeo he planned to stage here.

The city refused to allow the rodeo to open Wednesday night. A feature attraction, advertising said, would be Dennis Weaver, who plays "Chester" in the TV series "Gunsmoke."

Weaver said he didn't agree to appear at a rodeo, but at a "Gator Bowl Jamboree" and thought he was dealing with the Gator Bowl Association non-profit civic group which sponsors the Gator Bowl football game and allied activities. It doesn't have an event known as a jamboree.

Wager Tax Up

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Federal gambling tax collections in Florida last year were the second highest since the 10 per cent tax went into effect.

Laurie W. Tomlinson, district director of internal revenue, reported 1958 collections were $845,040, compared to $420,391 in the previous year.

Tomlinson said only a small amount of the money is paid on a voluntary basis and most of it results from investigations by federal agents.

4-Laning Record Set In 1958

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut said Saturday that 1959 finds Florida launched on a new era of road building. He anticipates total construction expenditures will be 169 million dollars compared with the 1957 record of $11,177,118.

Grotegut said 1958 was marked "by the greatest expansion of road building in the department's entire 43 years history in road projects actually put under contract."

Grotegut, former chief administrative aide to Gov. LeRoy Collins, became road chairman in the middle of 1958 when Collins said progress of the department had been good but had failed to meet his anticipation. Grotegut replaced Wilbur Jones, chairman since 1955, who now is director of the interstate system, a new job created last year.

The chairman said the department last year placed "special emphasis" on the state's four-laning program, doubling the mileage of four-laned highways over the previous year.

The year also was marked by a period of "rigid and realistic economies," Grotegut said, "in an effort to turn into road mileage every available dollar."

GROTEGUT

Summarizing the activities of the past year, the road board chairman said:

"We built more four lane highways than we constructed in any previous like period in our history and we have completed plans for additional four lane mileage which, by the end of this administration, will give us four times as much four laned highway as we had at the beginning of 1955.

"In 1958 our interstate program was stepped up to a pace we did not believe a year ago would be possible.

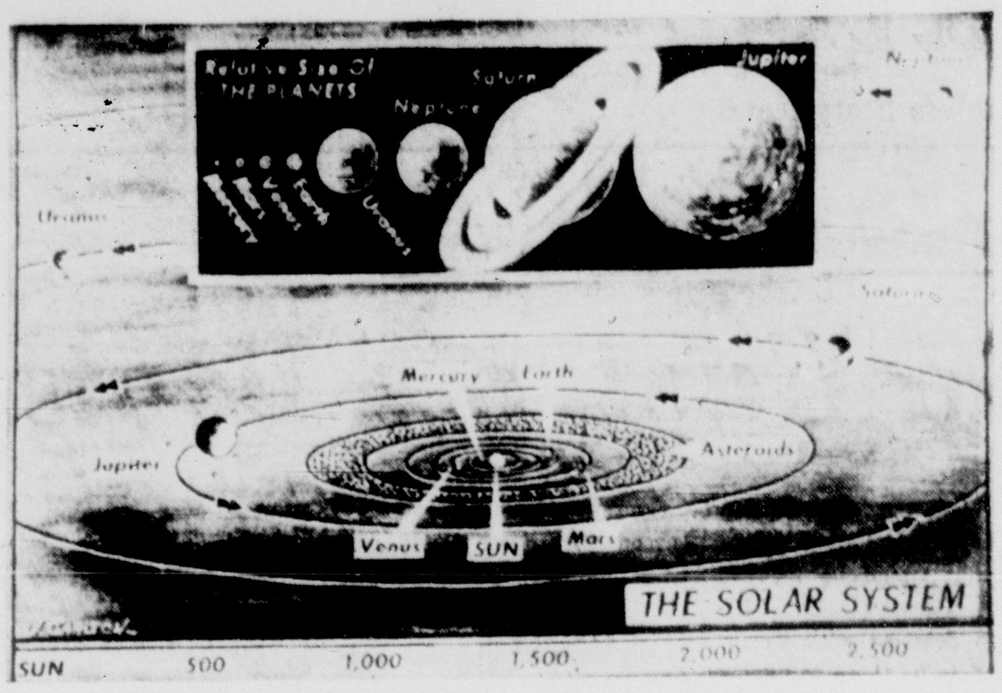
"In arriving at this record setting pace, every phase of the department's activities was increased in 1958. Our secondary road program was boosted to new levels of construction, as was work on projects paid for by bond issues.

Engineering plans and data developed during 1958 will help step up construction on the interstate, primary and secondary road systems. Bond projects also will increase in size and number this year to boost probable construction outlay on all systems, Grotegut said.

Construction has actually started on urban interstate and expressway projects in Miami, Orlando, Pensacola, St. Petersburg, Tampa and Jacksonville, he pointed out.

In breaking down construction totals for 1958, Grotegut said that $32,483,574 was put under contract for interstate projects; $57,078,441 on primary roads; $20,929,894 for secondary work and $2,685,205 in bond projects.

These figures, he said do not include expenditures for maintenance or other work than actual road construction which was placed formally under contract.



Something New is Being Added

. . . here's how solar system looks now

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

* * *

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

* * *

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

* * *

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON — (AP) — "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The father the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper. "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shoot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

* * *

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Banner-Waving Crowd Rallies in Havana's Central Park

Urrutia Assumes Presidency, Names Castro Military Boss

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — Once-exiled Cuban Judge Manuel Urrutia took over Saturday night as provisional president of Cuba, and immediately named Rebel Leader Fidel Castro commander-in-chief of armed forces.

Urrutia took the oath of office in a ceremony at the University of Oriente in Santiago as Castro, who sparked the revolution that toppled the Batista government, headed for Havana where cheering mobs of his followers waited to welcome him.

Uurrutia promptly received support from former President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was booted out of office in 1952 by Fulgencio Batista and who returned to his homeland Friday from Miami exile.

Prio called on his Autentico Party followers to put aside firearms and follow orders of the new government.

Rebel military leaders and Cuban labor union officials in Havana, meanwhile, promised that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Castro arrives."

Castro was heading for Havana from easternmost Oriente Province, where he revolution got its start, but his triumphant march was slowed by a series of tumultuous welcomes along the route.

He was to arrive late Saturday night or today.

After taking over the provisional government, Urrutia named Dr. Roberto Agramonte, former head of the Cuban Peoples (Orthodox) Party and one-time presidential candidate, to the important post of minister of state.

Others named to top posts in the provisional cabinet were Angel Fernandez, minister of justice; Raul Chibas, minister of finance; Raul Capero Bonilla, minister of commerce; Julio Martinez, minister of health, and Manuel Fernandez, minister of labor.

Prio said in a radio broadcast that his organization had cooperated in the overthrow of the Batista government, but that no member of the group wanted to participate in the new regime. He said he himself has no personal political ambitions.

While Castro headed for the capital, forces of his 26th of July movement took over the government offices in Havana. It was also reported that executions of some Batista army officers had started in the provinces.

But in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass in Havana said that six captured civilian officials of the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Can't You Point That Rifle Away From My Noggin?

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and downright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bona-fide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory," sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently, by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Rocket to Bypass Moon, Orbit Sun

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Soviet Union expressed confidence Saturday night its 1½-ton cosmic rocket has conquered earth's gravitation and will orbit about the sun after bypassing the moon.

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship will never again fall back on the earth," Vice President Alexander Topchiev of the Academy of Sciences told Tass News Agency.

Topchiev based his statement on reports showing the space rocket had reached 176,540 miles or about four-fifths of the distance to the moon by 9 p.m.

The time set for soaring past the moon was 7 a.m. Moscow time Sunday.

Topchiev gave the rocket's speed at 9,000 kilometers (5,589 miles) an hour. The government put the initial speed of the rocket at 11.2 kilometers a second (about 24,588 miles an hour).

Moscow radio said the moon rocket will reach the point nearest the sun — about 91½ million miles away — on Jan. 14.

It will take the rocket 15 months to orbit the sun, the broadcast added.

The Soviet Union's commentator Viktor Shragin told Moscow Radio's home listeners why America is "lagging behind" the Soviet Union.

"To know and to conquer cosmic space requires maximum unity, single-mindedness of purpose and close human cooperation," Shragin said.

"This is only possible under socialism, when both the means of production and political power belong to the people and not to a band of monopolists."

Premier Nikita Khrushchev hailed the project, saying it proves the Russians "are the first in the world to map out the way from the earth to the moon."

First announcements said the 3,239-pound rocket was aimed toward the moon. Later the Russians estimated that the rocket was missing the moon by 3,750 to 5,000 miles.

Jubilant Moscow citizens called the new space traveler Lunik — a combination of Luna for moon and Sputnik.

Soviet Scientist Yakovlevich Martynov said the flight was "a true last rehearsal for the real cosmic journey" of man. But subsequent statements were more cautious, referring to manned flights to planets "in our generation."

Newborn Infant Is Kidnaped

Garments Found; Frantic Hunt On

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two boys playing in a vacant store in Brooklyn Saturday found garments hospital authorities say were worn by a girl who was 2½ hours old when she was kidnaped from a hospital.

Sister Mary Kevin, night superintendent at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn, from which the baby disappeared, identified the articles as definitely those worn by the child. Two nurses also made the identification.

Detectives immediately launched a floodlighted house-to-house search in the area where the blanket was found. In all, 125 detectives and 25 policewomen were assigned to the case.

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby——please have her baptized a Catholic."

Red Claims Verified

We Don't Doubt It, U.S. Declares

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

Snowstorm, Cold Wave

Frigid Double-Punch Socks U.S. Midlands

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A giant snowstorm and a bitter cold wave socked the nation's midlands Saturday with a double-barreled punch from Texas to Michigan, stranding travelers.

Sub-zero temperatures accompanied the storm, which reached blizzard proportions over Kansas and Missouri, as it pushed slowly eastward. Snowfall ranged from two to seven inches and more, and blowing and drifting snow blocked roads and created hazardous travel conditions.

Cold wave warnings were issued from west-central Texas to Indiana, as the bitter frigid Arctic air, described by weathermen as abnormally cold even for mid-winter, pushed into the Southeast and headed for the Appalachians and the mid-Atlantic states.

Snow fell almost steadily in a belt from northwest Texas and east Colorado eastward through Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma into Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana. Roads quickly became snow-packed and, in some areas, highways were closed to traffic.

At Chicago, about five inches of snow blanketed the city.

Meanwhile, the cold wave plunged the temperature to as low as 49 degrees below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont., the coldest spot in the nation early Saturday. At Floodwood, Minn., a ranger station 40 miles northwest of Duluth, the mercury hit 38 below, while Virginia, Minn., recorded 30 below.

Let's Seek Peace, Nikita Asks Britain

LONDON —(AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a New Year's message published Saturday that Russia and Britain should join in efforts "to transform the continent of Europe into an area of lasting peace."

Khrushchev's message, released by British officials here, said:

"I sincerely hope that in the coming year, as a result of the joint efforts of all states (and, above all, of the great powers) notable progress will be made in eliminating international tension and freeing the human race from anxiety about its future and about the fate of generations to come."

Macmillan thanked Khrushchev for his "friendly" message and replied:

"I heartily reciprocate your hope that 1959 will see progress in international relations. We must all bend our efforts to this end. I firmly believe that if we try with goodwill to work together we shall find it possible to make progress."

It Becomes Official on Fourth of July

Here's New 'Old Glory'; How Do You Like It?

History of Our Flag, 9B
Alaska Takes It Calmly, 9B

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodeled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern terriroty.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out,

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a diffient design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Americans Fleeing Cuba Hit 'Bungling' Embassy

'It Wasn't Our Fault,' Aide Says

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Americans streaming back from turbulent Cuba, Saturday blasted the U.S. embassy in Havana for bungling their evacuation.

But a State Department spokesman in Washington said "it was not our fault."

Some among the 500 returnees who arrived at Key West by ferry charged that embassy personnel "treated us like a bunch of cattle."

In Washington, Clint Olsen, executive director of the State Department's inter-American affairs, shot back:

"They were damn lucky to get the boat."

Olsen said U.S. officials in Washington and Havana had worked out elaborate evacuation plans — including an airlift with a plane every 30 minutes.

"But when we tried to carry them through, the rebel forces blocked us," Olsen said.

He said negotiations were still in progress to get the planes into Cuba.

"Everybody who wants out will be able to leave by noon today," he said.

Walter M. Walters, State Department representative in Miami, said he had checked and found there were "no hardship cases reported on this end."

William Tieger, 1795 Normandy Dr., Miami Beach, echoed the sentiment of the critics.

"The information give us by the State Department was vague and confused."

F. A. Greve, Fort Lauderdale insurance executive, said, "They gave no cooperation. Everybody we talked to had different answers."

But Olsen countered that "there were many changes in instructions (from the rebels) which muddied the waters. Nobody in the rebel forces would take it upon himself to do this or that."

The spokesman said embassy personnel were "just interested in protecting American lives — not getting them out in luxury accommodations."

He said the department had received "not one single report" of any U.S. citizen being harmed.

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith could not be reached in Havana for comment.

He was called to Washington, D.C., early last month to frame plans for protecting U.S. citizens and safe-guarding their property in the event the Batista regime was overthrown.

Olsen said that conditions in Havana were such that no coordinated program could be worked out immediately with the rebels — but predicted that the evacuation problems were "just about solved."

Another ferry was preparing to leave Havana Saturday night with 500 more mainland-bound refugees. Another estimated 500 U.S. citizens still are in Havana.

Olsen said Cubana Airlines "is flying Cuban refugees from the former government over to the island and bringing our people back."

six were not released immediately.

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor, confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . . "

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops they had only words of praise.

"They treated us courteously, helped all they could. As a matter of fact, the only food we ate the past few days was a little bit the Rebels brought to the Americans in the hotel once."

They watched the battle rage on the Prado just one block away when the hold-out force of beleaguered Batista troops was dislodged after bloody fighting.

Nationalists Make Claim

Revolution in Tibet Reported Spreading

TAIPEI — (AP) — A revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to the Soviet puppet state of Outer Mongolia, the Chinese Nationalists said Saturday.

There are 100,000 insurgents fighting in Outer Mongolia, said Li Chung-hsin, a member of the Nationalist cabinet as chairman of the Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Commission.

If true, this would include about a tenth of the population in that country six times the size of state of Texas. It was walled off by the Russians after World War II and became a theoretically independent nation called the Mongolian People's Republic.

Li declared there were at least 600,000 persons in armed insurrection against the Communists in Tibet and neighboring areas, including those in Outer Mongolia. It was the first claim of anti-Communist uprisings in Outer Mongolia.

Previous reports, however, had said that uprisings in Inner Mongolia were spreading toward Outer Mongolia next door.

Li said 300,000 rebels were operating in Tibet and the provinces of Tsinghai, Sikang and Szechwan, 80,000 in Inner Mongolia, 70,000 in Sinkiang and 30,000 to 50,000 among Miao tribesmen and other minority groups in the northwest.

Resistance in Tibet, he declared, was built around a force of 35,000 organized Mi-mun (anti-tyranny) guerrillas. These guerrillas, he said, had the support of more than 300,000 Tibetans.

Hubby Shopped For New Model

DENVER, Colo. — (AP) — Mrs. Anita M. McDaniel, 52, won a divorce on the ground her husband, Bobby, 64, registered with a matrimonial agency as being unmarried.

She said her husband, a pipefitter, was continually receiving letters from women seeking him as a mate.

"Bobby was a delightful man but a horrible husband," Mrs. McDaniel told Judge Joseph E. Cook.

Ramon Novarro Held as Drunk

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — One-time movie heartthrob Ramon Novarro was jailed on a drunk driving charge Saturday after police said he flunked a sobriety test.

Novarro, 59, was stopped after officers said he ran a traffic signal. "Why did you stop me?" he asked. "I'm not drunk."

Novarro's last picture was in 1934.

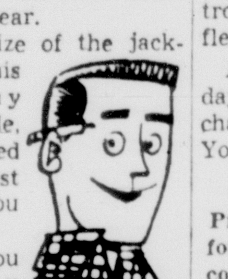
Start Off The Year With $700

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.



SUNNY

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

Havana Casino Mob Is Fleeing to U.S.

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

They left Havana so quickly they left everything behind except clothes, cash, wives and girl friends.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

"I understand," he said, "they worked both sides of the street, paying off Batista while buying guns for Castro."

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

U.S. Tracks The 'Lunik'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U.S. learned of the Soviet space rocket launching when a tracking station picked up a radio signal "apparently emanating from an unidentified space vehicle."

Announcing this Saturday, the Pentagon said the signals were first picked up early Friday afternoon.

Since then, a Defense Department statement said, "scattered reports from various U.S. stations principally in the U.S. have identified monitoring signals" on five frequencies. These frequencies are at approximately 70 megacycles, at 19.997, 19.995, 19.993 megacycles and at 212 megacycles.

The Pentagon said among the stations reporting radio tracking of the Russian rocket are the Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Millstone at Cambridge, Mass., Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and a number of stations reporting to the tracking center at Cambridge.

Russia Seeking Help From U.S.

MOSCOW — (AP) — Moscow Radio, with tongue in cheek, Saturday asked Americans for suggestions to help the Soviet seven-year plan.

The English-language broadcast beamed to the U.N. directed an appeal for advice and comment to American workers, farmers, intellectuals, clergymen and students.

P.S.: The purpose of the Soviet plan is to outstrip the U.S. in industrial production.

Army Buying More in Korea

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — American military purchases in South Korea are expected to total 30 million dollars during the one-year period ending June 30, 1959, the U.S. Army announced.

Its procurement agency said this was an increase of nearly seven million dollars over the same period in the previous year.

Hoffa Pal Seized as Fugitive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive from justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture, with unimproved land going at $4,300 an acre.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Prototype Of 'Tugboat Annie' Dies

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (AP) — Mrs. Catherine (Kate) A. B. Brown Sutton, 82, the prototype of Norman Reilly Raine's waterfront character, "Tugboat Annie," died Saturday in Jane Brown Hospital, where she had been a patient since 1957.

Mrs. Sutton, a warm, humorous and carefully groomed woman, was able with ease to command the 30 crewman of the old Providence Tow and Steamboat Co. of which she was president for 20 years. She had succeeded her husband, N. Howard Sutton ("Cap'n Nat" of the Raine magazine stories) on his death in 1923.

Kate, as she was known along the waterfront, was a native of New York and was a school teacher prior to her marriage before the turn of the century. Her tugboat concern had six ships operating in Narragansett Bay at one time and regularly hauled barges from Norfolk, Va.

Ike Flies Back To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to his farm home Saturday after attending Alaskan statehood ceremonies at the White House in Washington.

The President made the round trip by helicopter. He had spent nearly six hours at the White House.

The Eisenhowers have been at the farm since the day after Christmas. They plan to spend the weekend here before returning to Washington.

MIAMI READINGS AT 4:30 P.M. SATURDAY: Air, 77 degrees; wind, from the west at eight m.p.h.; sky, cloudy; barometer, 29.90 inches; and relative humidity, 58 per cent.

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain, which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains, and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

Lake Use Solution To Water

Melbourne Leads Way

(FIRST OF A SERIES)

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — This East Coast section has been fighting an uphill battle to provide an abundant supply of an important necessity of life — pure water — and the effort appears to be paying off now.

Engineers say Melbourne has found a new answer to this old problem because its new $6,750,000 water system, starting operations on March 1, will be supplied by Lake Washington, in the St. Johns River Valley.

This is a new wrinkle for the coastal area. Cities of the section depended on shallow wells for their water supply.

Eau Gallie still depends on shallow wells, but is having trouble meeting demand. Cocoa recently went to Orange County for a deep well field for a new water system.

Engineers point out the shallow well water supply is becoming more and more unreliable, while the demand for water continues to mount.

An extensive engineering study 10 years ago found the area sits on a huge salt basin that was once the ocean floor. Some communities and home owners who use their wells have already experienced salt intrusion. This is expected to become more serious in shallow well fields as population growth ups water demands.

These facts were also pointed out by Alfred LeFeber and Associates of Cincinnati, consulting engineers for Melbourne, when the decision had to be made on whether the new system would get its supply from wells or the lake.

Melbourne's experience with shallow wells is typical of what is happening throughout this area.

When the Navy drilled the original Melbourne wells, each produced 90,000 gallons per minute. Now, 10 to 12 years later, these same wells produce only 30,000 gallons a minute. The water head of each well also has dropped from 15 feet to 11 feet.

LeFeber engineers reported that "it appears that the wells are deteriorating progressively. Additional wells are needed in anticipation of the ultimate failure of existing facilities, as well as to meet increased consumption.

"The danger of salt water intrusion and contamination in a well water supply is ever present and is a matter of considerable concern," the report said, adding, "It is our opinion that a satisfactory shallow well water supply can not be developed to meet estimated demands."

Melbourne will be able to take 25 million gallons of water daily for a 30-day period from Lake Washington and only lower the lake level one inch. The city's treatment plant there is built to handle 12 million gallons daily.

Proposed state and federal water conservation work, slated for the north end of the lake in the river valley, would permit Melbourne to take 135 million gallons from the lake per day.

Melbourne's findings on new water supplies, engineers say, has helped cause the Central and South Florida Control District to change its goal from flood control to water conservation.

Melbourne Gas Pipeline Work Near

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Work on the Texas-to-Florida natural gas line will start in the Melbourne area soon, and a representative of the contracting firm for the installation was here Saturday seeking office and warehouse space.

John E. Whitmire, an official of Harbert Construction Corp. of Birmingham, said Melbourne would be the firm's headquarters while construction work was being done in this area.

The contractor's crew will operate from the Melbourne office for about three months, and the additional payroll to this area will amount to $25,000 weekly.

Whitmire also said that Melbourne may be the city to get a permanent servicing station for the pipeline, providing suitable building site facilities are available. This city will be the cross-state juncture of the main line.

Floridians Felt 'Naked' in Havana
. . . Joseph Mahls tell of Cuba terror

'Waiter Gave Us Fist Full of Bullets'

By AL FINKLESTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

"If you didn't wear a gun—you were naked."

Only the bullet spoke with authority when downtown Havana was rocked and ravaged by rioting mobs New Year's day, said Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mahl of Cocoa Beach.

They arrived at Key West Saturday aboard the SS Havana, which was pressed into service to evacuate Americans from the Cuban capital. Mr. Mahl operates a bowling alley at Cocoa Beach.

"I ask the head waiter at the Hilton Hotel for change," said Mahl, "and he hands me five fingers of bullets."

He said "everybody . . . but everybody . . . carried a gun . . . and their trigger fingers were itchy."

Looting "punks" and self-styled Cuban "hoods" splattered their hotel lobby windows with rounds of machine gun fire.

"We dug foxholes," Mahl quipped, "right through that marble floor."

His wife, Marie, said "you never saw so much mink hit the deck so fast."

When the fusilade was over, mink-bedecked and silk-suited guests "sneaked like foxes" to the hotel's upper floor ballroom, where they took cover, Mrs. Mahl said.

There, they were "given the best" of treatment from the hotel's staff of bus boys, waiters and office personnel.

"They did the very best they could with what little they had in the way of protection," Mahl said.

Their only complaint, they said, was that "insufficient and inadequate information" was supplied by the U.S. Embassy in Havana.

"I really believe," Mahl said, "they didn't believe, or didn't want to believe, how trying the situation was to the trapped American tourists."

Would they go back?

"Yes, sir," said Mrs. Mahl, "it is still a beautiful place to visit."

Long Meet Slated By Officials

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART — Martin county commissioners anticipate an all-day meeting Monday, with nearly 30 items on an agenda. A Dec. 23 meeting was cancelled because of lack of a quorum.

The special meeting will start at 10 a.m., with a newly elected commissioner, Marvin H. Rowell, taking the oath of office. He is expected to be elected chairman for the next six months. The commissioners rotate the chairmanship and the vice-chairmanship.

Commissioner Seymour Gideon, who has been recovering from a heart attack suffered in Dec. is expected to attend and is slated to be elected vice-chairman.

The five-man board also includes E. J. Arnold, Charles Leighton, and Guy F. Boyd.

A public hearing on the proposed improvement of Palm City Loop Rd. will be held by the State Road Department.

Other items on the long agenda include replacing members on the Palm City and Port Sewall zoning boards; opening bids for widening Sewall's Point Rd.

Re - appointments of members of the Martin County Library Board; report on a road to the Boy Scout Camp in Jonathan Dickinson Park.

Request for rights-of-way bids for four laning U.S. 1 south of Stuart; progress report on rights-of-way for the Indiantown bridge.

Commission Attorney William R. Scott will report on lend-leasing new hangars at the county owned airport, as well as cost of purchasing lots in the airport area.

House Burns, 10 Homeless

VERO BEACH — A family of 10 was made homeless when a fire destroyed their home south of Vero Beach Saturday afternoon.

The two-room house on Oslo Rd., about one mile west of Old Dixie Hwy., belonged to Leroy Grover, a Negro laborer. He and his wife have eight children, ranging in age from two to 12 years.

Vero Beach Fire Chief Guy Sullivan said the fire was believed to have started from a wood range. All the family's possessions were reduced to ashes, but none were injured.

Roadbuilding Outlook Bright for New Year

4-Laning Record Set In 1958

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut said Saturday that 1959 finds Florida launched on a new era of road building. He anticipates total construction expenditures will be 169 million dollars compared with the 1958 record of $111,771,180.

Grotegut said 1958 was marked "by the greatest expansion of road building in the department's entire 43 years history in road projects actually put under contract."

Grotegut, former chief administrative aide to Gov. LeRoy Collins, became road chairman in the middle of 1958 when Collins said progress of the department had been good but had failed to meet his anticipation. Grotegut replaced Wilbur Jones, chairman since 1955, who now is director of the interstate system, a new job created last year.

The chairman said the department last year placed "special emphasis" on the state's four-laning program, doubling the mileage of four-laned highways over the previous year.

The year also was marked by a period of "rigid and realistic economies," Grotegut said, "in an effort to turn into road mileage every available dollar."

GROTEGUT

Summarizing the activities of the past year, the road board chairman said:

"We built more four lane highways than we constructed in any previous like period in our history and we have completed plans for additional four lane mileage which, by the end of this administration, will give us four times as much four laned highway as we had at the beginning of 1955.

"In 1958 our interstate program was stepped up to a pace we did not believe a year ago would be possible.

"In arriving at this record setting pace, every phase of the department's activities was increased in 1958. Our secondary road program was boosted to new levels of construction, as was work on projects paid for by bond issues.

Engineering plans and data developed during 1958 will help step up construction on the interstate, primary and secondary road systems. Bond projects also will increase in size and number this year to boost probable construction outlay on all systems, Grotegut said.

Construction has actually started on urban interstate and expressway projects in Miami, Orlando, Pensacola, St. Petersburg, Tampa and Jacksonville, he pointed out.

In breaking down construction totals for 1958, Grotegut said that $32,483,574 was put under contract for interstate projects; $57,078,441 on primary roads; $20,929,894 for secondary work and $2,635,205 in bond projects.

These figures, he said do not include expenditures for maintenance or other work than actual road construction which was placed formally under contract.

Text Study Is Needed, 3 Declare

MARIANNA — (AP) — Three Dade County housewives leveled criticism at Florida textbooks Saturday in an effort to demonstrate that some books are adopted for school use without a thorough examination.

The presentation, made at the request of the legislative interim committee on education to get the parents' viewpoint, drew a mixed reaction from committee members.

One said the study was a waste of time. Others took the position it would make textbook committees more alert to possibly dangerous content in school books.

Some of the criticisms by the three were that personalized anatomy illustrations in eighth grade physicial hygiene books were "glorified pornography," that some textbooks questioned parental authority, that some authors and quotations were by persons on subversive lists, and that a strong federal government was emphasized over states' rights.

Singled out for special criticism was the high school social studies problem book, "American Problems Today," written by Robert Reinow, Albany, N.Y., professor and published by D. C. Heath and Co.

Mrs. N. J. Carden of Key Biscayne, one of the three housewives, said the book pictured the American Civil Liberties Union in a "Robin Hood role" and advocated FEPC and other forms of integration.

Sen. John Rawls of Marianna, a committee member, said he was particularly disturbed because the book, in his opinion, taught principles completely opposite to basic constitutional standards.

But Fred Turner, of the State Department of Education, said the matter quoted was merely set forth as one line of argument.

The committee asked Turner to prepare a rebuttal and submit it at the next meeting.

Rep. Robert Mann of Tampa, who contended the committee could spend its time more profitably on broader aspects of the educational field, proposed multiple, instead of single, adoption of textbooks to provide schools with another choice when they dislike a book.

In other phases of the discussion the committee was told that, if Florida's free textbook program is abolished, parents would have to put out $16.25 a year on the average for their child's books.

William H. Pierce, manager of the textbook services division of the education department, submitted figures estimating free textbook costs for the next two years at about 8.5 million dollars.

If free textbooks are eliminated for the last four grades, as some have proposed, a savings of about 2.5 million dollars could be made in the next two years.

Frank Scruby, research director for the committee, said some have suggested textbooks might be a good starting point in cutting back the skyrocketing costs of education.

However, no decision was reached on any phases of the program. Scruby said the committee would begin holding closed sessions at Tallahassee soon to prepare recommendations for the Legislature.

The housewives, who studied 43 adopted textbooks during three weeks, were Mrs. Oscar A Kennedy Jr., Mrs. Mickey Farkas and Mrs. Carden, all of Key Biscayne.

They said they had no training as teachers and were pointing up the criticisms to show the parents' attitudes toward their children's books.

The committee instructed Scruby to draw bills, calling for multiple adoption of textbooks and for liberalizing the law relating to rebinding of textbooks.

At the suggestion of Sen. Wilson Carraway of Tallahassee the committee, instructed Scruby to get information on the North Carolina plan for student drivers of school buses. Carraway said he believed use of student drivers would cut Florida's bus driver bill from 3.5 million dollars to one million dollars a year.

Tornado Warnings Lowered

Storm Batters Tampa Bay, Telephone, Power Lines Cut

TAMPA —(UPI) — Damaging winds and torrents of rain raked the Tampa Bay area early Saturday but the Weather Bureau lowered its Central Florida tornado warning when the storm failed to reach its anticipated fury.

The St. Petersburg-Tampa area was the hardest hit, as strong winds ripped off tree limbs, tore down wires, damaged store signs and were blamed for a $12,000 fire that destroyed a building at St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport.

But the storm turned out to be less fierce than was first anticipated when a tornado warning was issued Friday night for the area extending from Tampa to Cape Canaveral.

The warning was lowered at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Up to two inches of rain fell on Tampa Friday night and early Saturday and winds there were in excess of 35 miles an hour. Several electrical circuits were broken and two neighborhoods blacked out. Debris from trees littered some streets.

Across the bay at St. Petersburg, 1,500 telephones in one section of the city were put out of commission when part of a tree was blown into a transformer by winds that reached up to 40 miles an hour.

On fashionable Snell Isle, a big Australian pine was blown on powerlines and left some homes without electricity.

But the biggest damage was at the airport where the Gai-Mar Creations packaging plant suffered $12,000 in damages. The storm knocked out the building's electrical supply and when a power company crew managed to turn the power on, the building erupted in flames.

By the time firemen arrived it was destroyed. There was no immediate determination of the exact cause, but firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring, more than likely the result of the storm.

Farther to the south, the Bradenton-Sarasota area escaped serious damage. Some limbs were blown into the streets but the high tides and severe winds forecast failed to materialize.

Heavy rains and brisk winds but no damage were reported at Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Vero Beach and Orlando.

Daytona Beach had 1.43 inches of rain.

Trucks to Take Over

State OKs Cutting Tampa-Jax Trains

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Utilities Commission Saturday authorized Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains between Tampa and Jacksonville.

The trains, which serve Green Cove Springs, Palatka, Crescent City, Deland, Sanford, Maitland, Winter Park, Kissimmee, Haines City, Lakeland and Plant City, will be taken off Monday.

But the ACL will immediately institute a truck service to handle express in order to meet objections from fern growers, gladioli, fish and other shippers in Volusia and counties along the route.

The two trains to be discontinued handled very few passengers, but rendered a vital express service. The Utilities Commission said it would not have authorized their discontinuance without the substitute trucking service.

One of the trains to be taken off, number 80, leaves Tampa at 8:30 a.m. daily and arrives in Jacksonville at 5 p.m. The other, number 89, leaves Jacksonville at 10:45 a.m. and reaches Tampa at 6 p.m. They are principally used for transportation of mail and express.

Total passenger revenue from both trains last year was less than $12,000.

Removal of the two trains will leave four Coast Line passenger trains serving the area, including the west coast Champion.

Under the plan for substitute motor carrier service, a truck will leave Orlando daily, except Sunday, at 9:30 a.m. and stop at Maitland, Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Longwood, Lake Mary, Lake Monroe, De Leon Springs, Barberville, Eldridge and arrive in Pierson at 11:59 a.m.

30 Days for Calling a Juror

'Can't Be That Naive,' Judge Says

PENSACOLA — (AP) — A judge said that one would have to be "naive indeed" to believe F. M. Billing had no intention of trying to sway a member of a jury venire whom he telephoned the morning of a trial.

Billing was sentenced Saturday to 30 days in jail for allegedly trying to influence H. L. Coburger, Judge Ernest E. Mason of Court of Recrods set appeal bond at $500.

Billing, 56, admitted contacting Coburger, but denied asking anything other than that Coburger keep an open mind and give a fair trial to Ed Golden Jr., charged with assault.

Prices Drop

LAKELAND — (UPI) — A price cut on wholesale frozen orange concentrate Saturday appeared certain to cut retail prices and give the market a big boost, but there were no indications of a quick change in fresh oranges headed for concentrate.

This means, once the price cut reaches the consumer level, a six-ounce can of concentrate may sell for 20 cents instead of 25 cents, the recent prevailing price.

Hearing Set

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A preliminary hearing is scheduled Friday for Lawrence Henry Sunbrock, 48, Orlando promoter charged with misleading advertising of a rodeo he planned to stage here.

The city refused to allow the rodeo to open Wednesday night. A feature attraction, advertising said, would be Dennis Weaver, who plays "Chester" in the TV series "Gunsmoke."

Weaver said he didn't agree to appear at a rodeo, but at a "Gator Bowl Jamboree" and thought he was dealing with the Gator Bowl Association non-profit civic group which sponsors the Gator Bowl football game and allied activities. It doesn't have an event known as a jamboree.

Wager Tax Up

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Federal gambling tax collections in Florida last year were the second highest since the 10 per cent tax went into effect.

Laurie W. Tomlinson, district director of internal revenue, reported 1958 collections were $845,040, compared to $420,391 in the previous year.

Tomlinson said only a small amount of the money is paid on a voluntary basis and most of it results from investigations by federal agents.

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

★ ★ ★

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

★ ★ ★

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

★ ★ ★

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON —(AP)— "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The farther the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper. "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

★ ★ ★

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

★ ★ ★

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Happy Reunion

Lana Turner, left, and her daughter, Cheryl Crane, 15, excitedly embrace at Los Angeles International Airport as Cheryl and Helen Redding Demaree, right, returned from a visit to Cheryl's father, Stephen Crane in Montreal. Crane is the former husband of Miss Turner and the fiance of Miss Demaree.

Her Life Was Miserable So She Tried Bank Robbery

People

By Herald Wire Services

MRS. VERA WILSON, 57, told New York police she held up and robbed one bank and tried to rob another because she "wanted to get out of the miserable life I was leading."

That's the nearest to an explanation that investigators had from the wan, middle-aged widow in black, accused of two brash forays on midtown banks in the last month.

She was booked on charges of assault and robbery.

She was homeless, penniless and friendless, she said—she "had to do something."

But the case had puzzling overtones. The sedate, gentle-seeming woman was comparatively well groomed in black knit suit and beret. Her nails were long, well cared for, her makeup tasteful.

She identified herself as a widow without a family, and said she had survived for the last year by begging, sleeping in subways and bus and rail terminals.

"I can't figure it," said Detective Lt. Arthur E. Schultheiss, scratching an ear. "She's sure not the kind we usually have in here. She's very meek and tender spoken, a woman you'd accept as a member of your family."

Yet she readily admitted, police said, that she robbed one Manhattan bank of $3,000, and tried unsuccessfully Friday to rob another a block away — in both instances, she maintained, to end her lonely poverty.

Judge Denounces Sophia as Bigamist

SOPHIA LOREN, Italian film star, and her husband, Carlo Ponti, have been legally denounced in Rome for bigamy, court sources disclosed.

SOPHIA

The denunciation was filed by Judge G. Guasco late in December, the sources said.

The denunciation means that the couple could be arrested and tried on criminal charges of bigamy if they return to Italy. They also could be tried in absentia.

Miss Loren and Ponti were married in a proxy ceremony at Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 17, 1957.

Under Italian law, Ponti is still married to an Italian woman. The director obtained a Mexican divorce from his wife but such divorces are not recognized by Italy.

'Most-Liked' Banker Admits Theft

LAFAYETTE, Tenn. — (UPI) — Officials of the Citizens Bank here checked their books Saturday trying to learn the "full story" of the embezzlement charge against the "most-liked" employe of the bank.

William P. Meador, 30, was arrested Friday and charged with embezzling $48,615 over a period of 10 years. He was released under $1,000 bond.

Meador said he got "just a little bit" of the money, and indicated that there were others involved.

He said the full story would come out when the FBI completed its investigation.

"We're checking all the books used during the time one of our former employes was here — that's all I can say," was the comment of J. W. Taylor, cashier and vice president of the bank.

Meador used two sets of ledgers, Taylor said, and when auditors showed up for routine checks Meador knew about it ahead of time "and just changed ledgers."

But he failed to do it in November.

"I asked him why he didn't substitute the books and he told me, 'You've heard about everybody slipping up sometime. I just slipped up,'" Taylor said.

Director Asks Why On Audit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — State Penal Director R. O. Culver says he will ask a full explanation from the superintendent of Apalachee, first offender prison, on a very poor audit report.

State Auditor Bryan Willis said Friday records at the prison were in such poor shape that it was almost impossible to keep an accurate check on equipment and spending.

No records were kept for some departments, Willis said, while other records were inadequate and of little value.

Culver said he will summon Superintendent Paul J. Eubanks to Tallahassee to explain. Culver did not indicate if he would seek Eubanks' dismissal.

But he said: "If this audit is just a little bit right, there needs to be some changes."

The audit covered a two-year period, ending June 30, 1957. The report attributed the poor record-keeping to low salaries, which made it difficult to hire qualified accountants.

CULVER

"The records were kept mostly by inmates with insufficient training and little or no supervision," the audit said.

The prison overspent its appropriation, the audit reported, and in some instances, purchase orders were not written until the invoice had been received from the seller. The audit said purchases were made from special funds without Cabinet approval and one building was constructed without apparent sanction of Legislature or Cabinet.

Willis said supplies and equipment could be lost or stolen from the prison and nobody would be able to check it.

For instance, he said, 171,000 bricks were missing, and materials at some of the convict warehouses could be taken without being signed for.

Teachers For Traffic School Set

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Five specialized teachers are available to start the state's fourth countywide driver training school here, Court of Crimes Judge Thomas Tompkins said Saturday.

The committee preparing plans for the school will meet Thursday to conclude details. The program will be presented to a meeting of all municipal judges Jan. 13.

The committee has met with educators and received "invaluable assistance" from agencies in Los Angeles, Chicago and St. Louis, Tompkins added.

The school is designed to promote highway safety through instruction of traffic violators.

First Broward Traffic Death of 1959

. . . Carolyn Hines, 24, died in this Saturday smashup

Finds Car Wreck, It's His Daughter

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA — Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hines weren't particularly concerned when daughter Carolyn, 24, a waitress, failed to return from work Saturday morning. They knew she had been working a lot of holiday overtime.

At his usual time, 7:35 a.m., Mr. Hines left his home at 4700 SW 25th Ter. for the office. Three blocks away, at 28th Ave. and Griffin Rd., the stunned father was staring at the limp body of his daughter on the ground beside her demolished car. She had been in a head-on collision, just five minutes earlier.

Police had not arrived. A passerby, undientified, frantically tried to aid the accident victims. Within minutes, an ambulance arrived and took Miss Hines to Memorial Hospital in Hollywood, where she was pronounced "DOA" — dead on arrival.

Death was caused by a broken neck, the county medical' examiner's office said. The fatality was the first in Broward County for 1959.

Mr. Hines, hoping against hope at the scene that life was still in his daughter's still body, learned of her death at the hospital.

"She lay there, but there wasn't a thing I could do," said the distraught father.

"She probably fell asleep at the wheel. She was supposed to come home Friday night and we thought she was putting in more overtime. We weren't concerned," said Mr. Hines.

Driver of the other car, Floyd J. Holden, 44, of 2333 Griffin Rd., told trooper J. E. Parrish, Miss Hine's auto, traveling last, swerved suddenly into the opposite lane and struck his car head-on.

Holden was in good condition at North Broward General Hospital at Fort Lauderdale with lacerations. A passenger in his car, Lee Allen Woodard, 49, of 18830 NE 25th Ave., Miami, was admitted to the hospital with a dislocated right hip.

"She was one of the best waitresses we had," said Harry Morris, manager of the Rancher Coffee Shop, 1780 NE 126th St., North Miami. Morris said Miss Hines worked there six months and "never missed a day."

She was off at 10 p.m. Friday, and added, "if she worked through the night it was strictly on her own."

"She had been substituting for other girls over the holidays," said her father. "She liked to help out."

Besides her father and mother, she is surviviced by a brother, William of Chicago, Ill. Services will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Wadlington Funeral Home in Hollywood, with burial in Hollywood Memorial Gardens.

F. A. Martin Rites Set In Chicago

FORT LAUDERDALE — The death of Fred A. Martin, 67, of 4901 SW 18th St., while visiting in Detroit was reported here Saturday.

Mr. Martin, who died Thursday, was a former champion rollerskater and a founder of the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association, according to a friend. He came here from Detroit four years ago.

Survivors include his wife, Nettie, two sons and three daughters. Burial will be Monday in the Oakwood Cemetery at Chicago.

Charles E. Buoya

HOLLYWOOD—Charles E. Buoya, 88, a retired railroad detective of 1910 Grant St., died Saturday. He came here 20 years ago from Buffalo, N.Y. Survivors include his wife, Mabel. Services are pending at Wadlington Funeral Home.

FORT PIERCE—Chase Logan Condrey Jr., 41, of 126½ Alma Ct., died Friday. He came here from Ocala six months ago. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chase Logan Condrey of Orlando, a brother and two sisters. Services and burial will be in Orlando with the Yates Funeral Home in charge here.

Olga H. Christ

FORT PIERCE—Mrs. Olga H. Christ, of 312 N. 18th St., died Saturday. She lived here five years, coming from Warren, Ohio. Survivors include her husband Hercules; a daughter, Mrs. Athanas Russakis of Fort Pierce, two grandchildren, two sisters, and a brother. Services will be Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at the Baird Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Stephen J. Anthony of St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church of Palm Beach officiating. Burial will be in Fort Pierce Cemetery.

Pair Face Second Set Of Charges

FORT LAUDERDALE — More charges have been added to the growing list against Guido di Bona, 23, of 1022 NE 33rd St., and Donald (Porky) Baines, operator of Porky's Hideaway, night club on N. Federal Highway.

Deputy sheriffs Saturday morning arrested Baines and Di Bona. They said Baines and charged with a second count of receiving stolen property and Di Bona was again charged with receiving stolen property, plus additional charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny and arson.

Earlier in the week both men were charged with receiving stolen property after several thousand dollars worth of jewelry and furs was found hidden in a fireplace at Porky's Hideaway and $1,100 worth of jewelry was brought up from the bottom of a lake nearby.

Police said the jewels found in the lake were stolen last February from the home of Mr. and Mrs. James L Babbitt, 3313 SW 15th Ct. Babbitt was a bartender at Porky's at the time.

Police say they suspect Di Bona in the Babbitt theft, in which a total of $11,000 worth of jewels was missing. Chief Criminal Investigator Ben W. Grigsby of the sheriff's office said he is also suspected of attempting to set fire to a model home in the Sterritt Homes Subidivision, 5100 N. Andrews Ave. in April.

Sidney H. Vought

FORT LAUDERDALE — Sidney H. Vought, 72, of 4816 SW 12th St., died Saturday at Holy Cross Hospital. A retired mechanical draftsman, he came here eight years ago from Philadelphia. He is survived by four sons, Howard, Richard and Bruce of Fort Lauderdale, and Robert of Atlantic City; a brother, and a sister, Mrs. Edna McDovitt of Ventnor, N.J. The Fairchild Funeral Home is in charge. Burial will be in Roslyn, Pa.

Helen A. Jorgenson

FORT LAUDERDALE — Graveside services for Mrs. Helen A. Jorgensen, 66, of 349 NW 30th Ave., who died New Year's Eve at Toledo, Ohio, will be at Lauderdale Memorial Gardens at 2 p.m. Tuesday. Born in Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. Jorgensen came here four years ago from Michigan. She is survived by two sons, a daughter, and a niece, Mrs. Steadman O. Taylor of Fort Lauderdale.

More Loot Uncovered By Divers

By EDWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Divers for the Broward County sheriff's department, who have had a busy week of discovering sunken stolen goods, donned their gear again Saturday and hit pay dirt.

At the bottom of Snake Creek Canal, at the end of Pembroke Rd., they found two safes, a cigaret machine, and assorted papers, including 725 dollars worth of defense bonds, issued in 1945.

William Spittler and Robert Holloway, deputy sheriffs, searched the 10-foot deep canal after $341 in partially burned money was found Friday by three youngsters, playing near the canal.

Police believe the money was from a safe opened by an acetylene torch, and decided to search the canal for the safe.

Deputy Jess Crum said papers indicated the safes had been taken from Waco Motors and Walker's Cypress Bar and Package Store, both Miami concerns.

Crum said records show the Waco safe was taken Dec. 30, but the date of the Walker's job is not yet known.

During the past week divers have been taking jewels and other items almost daily from a gravel pit near a night club.

Sheriff J. A. Lloyd said that, as far as he can determine, there is no connection between the property found in the lake and that found in Snake Creek.

Deadline Set For Farmers

FORT LAUDERDALE — Farmers have until Jan. 30 to apply for federal cost-sharing aid on approved conservation practices.

The county is allocated $36,900 under the 1959 agricultural conservation program. The total for the state is $2,789,000.

The federal contribution averages about 45 per cent of the project cost, County Agent Robert Pryor reported.

"During past years, assistance requested by farmers greatly exceeded available funds," he added.

Banner-Waving Crowd Rallies in Havana's Central Park

Urrutia Assumes Presidency, Names Castro Military Boss

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — Once-exiled Cuban Judge Manuel Urrutia took over Saturday night as provisional president of Cuba, and immediately named Rebel Leader Fidel Castro commander-in-chief of armed forces.

Urrutia took the oath of office in a ceremony at the University of Oriente in Santiago as Castro, who sparked the revolution that toppled the Batista government, headed for Havana where cheering mobs of his followers waited to welcome him.

Uurrutia promptly received support from former President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was booted out of office in 1952 by Fulgencio Batista and who returned to his homeland Friday from Miami exile.

Prio called on his Autentico Party followers to put aside firearms and follow orders of the new government.

Rebel military leaders and Cuban labor union officials in Havana, meanwhile, promised that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Castro arrives."

Castro was heading for Havana from easternmost Oriente Province, where he revolution got its start, but his triumphant march was slowed by a series of tumultuous welcomes along the route.

He was to arrive late Saturday night or today.

After taking over the provisional government, Urrutia named Dr. Roberto Agramonte, former head of the Cuban Peoples (Orthodox) Party and one-time presidential candidate, to the important post of minister of state.

Others named to top posts in the provisional cabinet were Angel Fernandez, minister of justice; Raul Chibas, minister of finance; Raul Capero Bonilla, minister of commerce; Julio Martinez, minister of health, and Manuel Fernandez, minister of labor.

Prio said in a radio broadcast that his organization had cooperated in the overthrow of the Batista government, but that no member of the group wanted to participate in the new regime. He said he himself has no personal political ambitions.

While Castro headed for the capital, forces of his 26th of July movement took over the government offices in Havana. It was also reported that executions of some Batista army officers had started in the provinces.

But in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass in Havana said that six captured civilian officials of the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Can't You Point That Rifle Away From My Noggin?

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and downright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bona-fide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory," sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently, by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Newborn Infant Is Kidnaped

Garments Found; Frantic Hunt On

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two boys playing in a vacant store in Brooklyn Saturday found garments hospital authorities say were worn by a girl who was 2½ hours old when she was kidnaped from a hospital.

Sister Mary Kevin, night superintendent at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn, from which the baby disappeared, identified the articles as definitely those worn by the child. Two nurses also made the identification.

Detectives immediately launched a floodlighted house-to-house search in the area where the blanket was found. In all, 125 detectives and 25 policewomen were assigned to the case.

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby——please have her baptized a Catholic."

Red Claims Verified

We Don't Doubt It, U.S. Declares

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

Snowstorm, Cold Wave

Frigid Double-Punch Socks U.S. Midlands

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A giant snowstorm and a bitter cold wave socked the nation's midlands Saturday with a double-barreled punch from Texas to Michigan, stranding travelers.

Sub-zero temperatures accompanied the storm, which reached blizzard proportions over Kansas and Missouri, as it pushed slowly eastward. Snowfall ranged from two to seven inches and more, and blowing and drifting snow blocked roads and created hazardous travel conditions.

Cold wave warnings were issued from west-central Texas to Indiana, as the bitter frigid Arctic air, described by weathermen as abnormally cold even for mid-winter, pushed into the Southeast and headed for the Appalachians and the mid-Atlantic states.

Snow fell almost steadily in a belt from northwest Texas and east Colorado eastward through Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma into Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana. Roads quickly became snow-packed and, in some areas, highways were closed to traffic.

At Chicago, about five inches of snow blanketed the city.

Meanwhile, the cold wave plunged the temperature to as low as 49 degrees below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont., the coldest spot in the nation early Saturday. At Floodwood, Minn., a ranger station 40 miles northwest of Duluth, the mercury hit 38 below, while Virginia, Minn., recorded 30 below.

Let's Seek Peace, Nikita Asks Britain

LONDON —(AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a New Year's message published Saturday that Russia and Britain should join in efforts "to transform the continent of Europe into an area of lasting peace."

Khrushchev's message, released by British officials here, said:

"I sincerely hope that in the coming year, as a result of the joint efforts of all states (and, above all, of the great powers) notable progress will be made in eliminating international tension and freeing the human race from anxiety about its future and about the fate of generations to come."

Macmillan thanked Khrushchev for his "friendly" message and replied:

"I heartily reciprocate your hope that 1959 will see progress in international relations. We must all bend our efforts to this end. I firmly believe that if we try with goodwill to work together we shall find it possible to make progress."

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Soviet Union expressed confidence Saturday night its 1½-ton cosmic rocket has conquered earth's gravitation and will orbit about the sun after bypassing the moon.

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship will never again fall back on the earth," Vice President Alexander Topchiev of the Academy of Sciences told Tass News Agency.

Topchiev based his statement on reports showing the space rocket had reached 176,540 miles or about four-fifths of the distance to the moon by 9 p.m.

The time set for soaring past the moon was 7 a.m. Moscow time Sunday.

Topchiev gave the rocket's speed at 9,000 kilometers (5,589 miles) an hour. The government put the initial speed of the rocket at 11.2 kilometers a second (about 24,588 miles an hour).

Moscow radio said the moon rocket will reach the point nearest the sun — about 91½ million miles away — on Jan. 14.

It will take the rocket 15 months to orbit the sun, the broadcast added.

The Soviet Union's commentator Viktor Shragin told Moscow Radio's home listeners why America is "lagging behind" the Soviet Union.

"To know and to conquer cosmic space requires maximum unity, single-mindedness of purpose and close human cooperation," Shragin said.

"This is only possible under socialism, when both the means of production and political power belong to the people and not to a band of monopolists."

Premier Nikita Khrushchev hailed the project, saying it proves the Russians "are the first in the world to map out the way from the earth to the moon."

First announcements said the 3,239-pound rocket was aimed toward the moon. Later the Russians estimated that the rocket was missing the moon by 3,750 to 5,000 miles.

Jubilant Moscow citizens called the new space traveler Lunik — a combination of Luna for moon and Sputnik.

Soviet Scientist Yakovlevich Martynov said the flight was "a true last rehearsal for the real cosmic journey" of man. But subsequent statements were more cautious, referring to manned flights to planets "in our generation."

It Becomes Official on Fourth of July

Here's New 'Old Glory'; How Do You Like It?

History of Our Flag, 9B
Alaska Takes It Calmly, 9B

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodeled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern terriroty.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out.

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a diffient design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Americans Fleeing Cuba Hit 'Bungling' Embassy

'It Wasn't Our Fault,' Aide Says

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Americans streaming back from turbulent Cuba, Saturday blasted the U.S. embassy in Havana for bungling their evacuation.

But a State Department spokesman in Washington said "it was not our fault."

Some among the 500 returnees who arrived at Key West by ferry charged that embassy personnel "treated us like a bunch of cattle."

In Washington, Clint Olsen, executive director of the State Department's inter-American affairs, shot back:

"They were damn lucky to get the boat."

Olsen said U.S. officials in Washington and Havana had worked out elaborate evacuation plans — including an airlift with a plane every 30 minutes.

"But when we tried to carry them through, the rebel forces blocked us," Olsen said.

He said negotiations were still in progress to get the planes into Cuba.

"Everybody who wants out will be able to leave by noon today," he said.

Walter M. Walters, State Department representative in Miami, said he had checked and found there were "no hardship cases reported on this end."

William Tieger, 1795 Normandy Dr., Miami Beach, echoed the sentiment of the critics.

"The information give us by the State Department was vague and confused."

F. A. Greve, Fort Lauderdale insurance executive, said, "They gave no cooperation. Everybody we talked to had different answers."

But Olsen countered that "there were many changes in instructions (from the rebels) which muddied the waters. Nobody in the rebel forces would take it upon himself to do this or that."

The spokesman said embassy personnel were "just interested in protecting American lives — not getting them out in luxury accommodations."

He said the department had received "not one single report" of any U.S. citizen being harmed.

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith could not be reached in Havana for comment.

He was called to Washington, D.C., early last month to frame plans for protecting U.S. citizens and safe-guarding their property in the event the Batista regime was overthrown.

Olsen said that conditions in Havana were such that no coordinated program could be worked out immediately with the rebels — but predicted that the evacuation problems were "just about solved."

Another ferry was preparing to leave Havana Saturday night with 500 more mainland-bound refugees. Another estimated 500 U.S. citizens still are in Havana.

Olsen said Cubana Airlines "is flying Cuban refugees from the former government over to the island and bringing our people back."

six were not released immediately.

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

Nationalists Make Claim

Revolution in Tibet Reported Spreading

TAIPEI — (AP) — A revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to the Soviet puppet state of Outer Mongolia, the Chinese Nationalists said Saturday.

There are 100,000 insurgents fighting in Outer Mongolia, said Li Chung-hsin, a member of the Nationalist cabinet as chairman of the Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Commission.

If true, this would include about a tenth of the population in that country six times the size of state of Texas. It was walled off by the Russians after World War II and became a theoretically independent nation called the Mongolian People's Republic.

Li declared there were at least 600,000 persons in armed insurrection against the Communists in Tibet and neighboring areas, including those in Outer Mongolia. It was the first claim of anti-Communist uprisings in Outer Mongolia.

Previous reports, however, had said that uprisings in Inner Mongolia were spreading toward Outer Mongolia next door.

Li said 300,000 rebels were operating in Tibet and the provinces of Tsinghai, Sikang and Szechwan, 80,000 in Inner Mongolia, 70,000 in Sinkiang and 30,000 to 50,000 among Miao tribesmen and other minority groups in the northwest.

Resistance in Tibet, he declared, was built around a force of 35,000 organized Mi-mun (anti-tyranny) guerrillas. These guerrillas, he said, had the support of more than 300,000 Tibetans.

DENVER, Colo. — (AP) — Mrs. Anita M. McDaniel, 52, won a divorce on the ground her husband, Bobby, 64, registered with a matrimonial agency as being unmarried.

She said her husband, a pipefitter, was continually receiving letters from women seeking him as a mate.

"Bobby was a delightful man but a horrible husband," Mrs. McDaniel told Judge Joseph E. Cook.

Ramon Novarro Held as Drunk

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — One-time movie heartthrob Ramon Novarro was jailed on a drunk driving charge Saturday after police said he flunked a sobriety test.

Novarro, 59, was stopped after officers said he ran a traffic signal. "Why did you stop me?" he asked. "I'm not drunk."

Novarro's last picture was in 1934.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor, confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . ."

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops they had only words of praise.

"They treated us courteously, helped all they could. As a matter of fact, the only food we ate the past few days was a little bit the Rebels brought to the Americans in the hotel once."

They watched the battle rage on the Prado just one block away when the hold-out force of beleaguered Batista troops was dislodged after bloody fighting.

Start Off The Year With $700

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.

SUNNY

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

Havana Casino Mob Is Fleeing to U.S.

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

They left Havana so quickly they left everything behind except clothes, cash, wives and girl friends.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

"I understand," he said, "they worked both sides of the street, paying off Batista while buying guns for Castro."

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

Russia Seeking Help From U.S.

MOSCOW — (AP) — Moscow Radio, with tongue in cheek, Saturday asked Americans for suggestions to help the Soviet seven-year plan.

The English-language broadcast beamed to the U.N. directed an appeal for advice and comment to American workers, farmers, intellectuals, clergymen and students.

P.S.: The purpose of the Soviet plan is to outstrip the U.S. in industrial production.

U.S. Tracks The 'Lunik'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U.S. learned of the Soviet space rocket launching when a tracking station picked up a radio signal "apparently emanating from an unidentified space vehicle."

Announcing this Saturday, the Pentagon said the signals were first picked up early Friday afternoon.

Since then, a Defense Department statement said, "scattered reports from various U.S. stations principally in the U.S. have identified monitoring signals" on five frequencies. These frequencies are at approximately 70 megacycles, at 19.997, 19.995, 19.993 megacycles and at 212 megacycles.

The Pentagon said among the stations reporting radio tracking of the Russian rocket are the Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Millstone at Cambridge, Mass., Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and a number of stations reporting to the tracking center at Cambridge.

Army Buying More in Korea

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — American military purchases in South Korea are expected to total 30 million dollars during the one-year period ending June 30, 1959, the U.S. Army announced.

Its procurement agency said this was an increase of nearly seven million dollars over the same period in the previous year.

Hoffa Pal Seized as Fugitive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive from justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture, with unimproved land going at $4,300 an acre.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Prototype Of 'Tugboat Annie' Dies

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (AP) — Mrs. Catherine (Kate) A. B. Brown Sutton, 82, the prototype of Norman Reilly Raine's waterfront character, "Tugboat Annie," died Saturday in Jane Brown Hospital, where she had been a patient since 1957.

Mrs. Sutton, a warm, humorous and carefully groomed woman, was able with ease to command the 30 crewman of the old Providence Tow and Steamboat Co. of which she was president for 20 years. She had succeeded her husband, N. Howard Sutton ("Cap'n Nat" of the Raine magazine stories) on his death in 1923.

Kate, as she was known along the waterfront, was a native of New York and was a school teacher prior to her marriage before the turn of the century. Her tugboat concern had six ships operating in Narraganset Bay at one time and regularly hauled barges from Norfolk, Va.

Ike Flies Back To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to his farm home Saturday after attending Alaskan statehood ceremonies at the White House in Washington.

The President made the round trip by helicopter. He had spent nearly six hours at the White House.

The Eisenhowers have been at the farm since the day after Christmas. They plan to spend the weekend here before returning to Washington.

MIAMI READINGS AT 4:30 P.M. SATURDAY: Air 77 degrees; wind from the west at eight m.p.h.; sky, cloudy; barometer, 29.90 inches; and relative humidity, 58 per cent.

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain, which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains, and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

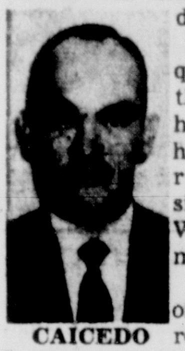
Around Island

Full Effect Of Revolt Unknown

By HENRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — It may be weeks, possibly longer, before the full effect of Cuba's revolution on our island can be fully determined.



CAICEDO

There's no question that the Cuban upheaval could have important repercussions on Key West, only 90 miles away.

The blowup of the Batista regime sent fragments spiralling into Key West almost immediately.

First off came the noisy celebration of the local Fidel Castro partisans. Then within hours began the influx of Batista's cohorts, seeking asylum in this country.

They came by sea and air and kept practically every federal agency here working 'round the clock.

OFFICIALS OF of the Immigration Department, Border Patrol, Customs, U.S. Navy, the Monroe Sheriff's Department and Key West Police had an overload of unexpected work.

Airport Manager George Faraldo also put in many overtime hours supervising the unusual night-time activities at the airfield.

And trailing all these officials was the press, trying to get accurate information on the situation to clarify an overall chaotic situation.

From the outset, the troubles in Cuba managed to turn a quiet New Year's holiday into a frantic work day for many a Key Wester.

But the deeper—and possibly more harmful consequences—are yet to come.

BIGGEST QUESTION mark hangs over Q Airways, which suspended its services between here and Havana immediately. From wire service reports it appears that most its planes scattered all over the map carrying the fleeing Batista-men.

What is worse, Batista himself was reportedly a strong investor in the airline, the only one connecting Havana and Key West. If true, then rebel reprisals could cause suspension of the service.

This would hurt Key West immeasureably, from both ends. It would practically kill the blooming Cuban tourist traffic which the Chamber of Commerce has been nourishing so carefully here.

And secondly, it would remove a big attraction for bringing the tourist on down the Keys. Without the added incentive of that $10 flight to Havana, many visitors may not decide to travel to Key West.

A Loudspeaker

THE FIRST STEP to materialize the proposed Navy-Key West advisory board has been taken.

Letters have been mailed from City Clerk Victor Lowe's office inviting the Navy, the Navy League, the Ministerial Association and the Chamber of Commerce to appoint representatives to the board.

These representatives, along with the city manager and the chief of police will comprise the board, an excellent idea of Commissioner Bill Chappell.

Chappell has emphasized that he sees the board more as a link between the city and the individual Navy personnel here rather than a city-official Navy powwow.

"The idea is to take up the relationship — the gripes — between the city and the Navy individual with the aim in mind of doing things to help him be happy here," Chappell explained.

For the individual, whose voice is often lost in the roar, the new board may prove to be quite a loudspeaker.

Trawler, 2 Men Lost off Cuba

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — The 67-foot, $40,000 fishing trawler Stormy Weather has broken up on the rocky shoals in Yucatan Strait off the west coast tip of Cuba and two crew men are feared drowned, the Coast Guard reported Saturday.

The missing men are Capt. Richard Gowens, Jr., 21, and Joseph Pinkney, 24, both of Tampa.

Floridians Felt 'Naked' in Havana
. . . Joseph Mahls tell of Cuba terror

'Waiter Gave Us Fist Full of Bullets'

By AL FINKLESTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

"If you didn't wear a gun—you were naked."

Only the bullet spoke with authority when downtown Havana was rocked and ravaged by rioting mobs New Year's day, said Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mahl of Cocoa Beach.

They arrived at Key West Saturday aboard the SS Havana, which was pressed into service to evacuate Americans from the Cuban capital. Mr. Mahl operates a bowling alley at Cocoa Beach.

"I ask the head waiter at the Hilton Hotel for change," said Mahl, "and he hands me five fingers of bullets."

He said "everybody . . . but everybody . . . carried a gun . . . and their trigger fingers were itchy."

Looting "punks" and self-styled Cuban "hoods" splattered their hotel lobby windows with rounds of machine gun fire.

"We dug foxholes," Mahl quipped, "right through that marble floor."

His wife, Marie, said "you never saw so much mink hit the deck so fast."

When the fusilade was over, mink-bedecked and silk-suited guests "sneaked like foxes" to the hotel's upper floor ballroom, where they took cover, Mrs. Mahl said.

There, they were "given the best" of treatment from the hotel's staff of bus boys, waiters and office personnel.

"They did the very best they could with what little they had in the way of protection," Mahl said.

Their only complaint, they said, was that "insufficient and inadequate information" was supplied by the U.S. Embassy in Havana.

"I really believe," Mahl said, "they didn't believe, or didn't want to believe, how trying the situation was to the trapped American tourists."

Would they go back?

"Yes, sir," said Mrs. Mahl, "it is still a beautiful place to visit."

Long Meet Slated By Officials

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT

STUART — Martin county commissioners anticipate an all-day meeting Monday, with nearly 30 items on an agenda. A Dec. 23 meeting was cancelled because of lack of a quorum.

The special meeting will start at 10 a.m., with a newly elected commissioner, Marvin H. Rowell, taking the oath of office. He is expected to be elected chairman for the next six months. The commissioners rotate the chairmanship and the vice-chairmanship.

Commissioner Seymour Gideon, who has been recovering from a heart attack suffered in Dec. is expected to attend and is slated to be elected vice-chairman.

The five-man board also includes E. J. Arnold, Charles Leighton, and Guy F. Boyd.

A public hearing on the proposed improvement of Palm City Loop Rd. will be held by the State Road Department.

Other items on the long agenda include replacing members on the Palm City and Port Sewall zoning boards; opening bids for widening Sewall's Point Rd.

Re - appointments of members of the Martin County Library Board; report on a road to the Boy Scout Camp in Jonathan Dickinson Park.

Request for rights-of-way bids for four laning U.S. 1 south of Stuart; progress report on rights-of-way for the Indiantown bridge.

Commission Attorney William R. Scott will report on lend-leasing new hangars at the county owned airport, as well as cost of purchasing lots in the airport area.

House Burns, 10 Homeless

VERO BEACH — A family of 10 was made homeless when a fire destroyed their home south of Vero Beach Saturday afternoon.

The two-room house on Oslo Rd., about one mile west of Old Dixie Hwy., belonged to Leroy Grover, a Negro laborer. He and his wife have eight children, ranging in age from two to 12 years.

Vero Beach Fire Chief Guy Sullivan said the fire was believed to have started from a wood range. All the family's possessions were reduced to ashes, but none were injured.

Roadbuilding Outlook Bright for New Year

4-Laning Record Set In 1958

By JOHN L. BOYLES
Capital Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Road Board Chairman Joe Grotegut said Saturday that 1959 finds Florida launched on a new era of road building. He anticipates total construction expenditures will be 169 million dollars compared with the 1958 record of $111,771,180.

Grotegut said 1958 was marked "by the greatest expansion of road building in the department's entire 43 years history in road projects actually put under contract."

Grotegut, former chief administrative aide to Gov. LeRoy Collins, became road chairman in the middle of 1958 when Collins said progress of the department had been good but had failed to meet his anticipation. Grotegut replaced Wilbur Jones, chairman since 1955, who now is director of the interstate system, a new job created last year.

The chairman said the department last year placed "special emphasis" on the state's four-laning program, doubling the mileage of four-laned highways over the previous year.

The year also was marked by a period of "rigid and realistic economies," Grotegut said, "in an effort to turn into road mileage every available dollar."

GROTEGUT

Summarizing the activities of the past year, the road board chairman said:

"We built more four lane highways than we constructed in any previous like period in our history and we have completed plans for additional four lane mileage which, by the end of this administration, will give us four times as much four laned highway as we had at the beginning of 1955.

"In 1958 our interstate program was stepped up to a pace we did not believe a year ago would be possible.

"In arriving at this record setting pace, every phase of the department's activities was increased in 1958. Our secondary road program was boosted to new levels of construction, as was work on projects paid for by bond issues.

Engineering plans and data developed during 1958 will help step up construction on the interstate, primary and secondary road systems. Bond projects also will increase in size and number this year to boost probable construction outlay on all systems, Grotegut said.

Construction has actually started on urban interstate and expressway projects in Miami, Orlando, Pensacola, St. Petersburg, Tampa and Jacksonville, he pointed out.

In breaking down construction totals for 1958, Grotegut said that $32,483,574 was put under contract for interstate projects; $57,078,441 on primary roads; $20,929,894 for secondary work and $2,685,205 in bond projects.

These figures, he said do not include expenditures for maintenance or other work than actual road construction which was placed formally under contract.

Text Study Is Needed, 3 Declare

MARIANNA — (AP) — Three Dade County housewives leveled criticism at Florida textbooks Saturday in an effort to demonstrate that some books are adopted for school use without a thorough examination.

The presentation, made at the request of the legislative interim committee on education to get the parents' viewpoint, drew a mixed reaction from committee members.

One said the study was a waste of time. Others took the position it would make textbook committees more alert to possibly dangerous content in school books.

Some of the criticisms by the three were that personalized anatomy illustrations in eighth grade physicial hygiene books were "glorified pornography," that some textbooks questioned parental authority, that some authors and quotations were by persons on subversive lists, and that a strong federal government was emphasized over states' rights.

Singled out for special criticism was the high school social studies problem book, "American Problems Today," written by Robert Reinow, Albany, N.Y., professor and published by D. C. Heath and Co.

Mrs. N. J. Carden of Key Biscayne, one of the three housewives, said the book pictured the American Civil Liberties Union in a "Robin Hood role" and advocated FEPC and other forms of integration.

Sen. John Rawls of Marianna, a committee member, said he was particularly disturbed because the book, in his opinion, taught principles completely opposite to basic constitutional standards.

But Fred Turner, of the State Department of Education, said the matter quoted was merely set forth as one line of argument.

The committee asked Turner to prepare a rebuttal and submit it at the next meeting.

Rep. Robert Mann of Tampa, who contended the committee could spend its time more profitably on broader aspects of the educational field, proposed multiple, instead of single, adoption of textbooks to provide schools with another choice when they dislike a book.

In other phases of the discussion the committee was told that, if Florida's free textbook program is abolished, parents would have to put out $16.25 a year on the average for their child's books.

William H. Pierce, manager of the textbook services division of the education department, submitted figures estimating free textbook costs for the next two years at about 8.5 million dollars.

If free textbooks are eliminated for the last four grades, as some have proposed, a savings of about 2.5 million dollars could be made in the next two years.

Frank Scruby, research director for the committee, said some have suggested textbooks might be a good starting point in cutting back the skyrocketing costs of education.

However, no decision was reached on any phases of the program. Scruby said the committee would begin holding closed sessions at Tallahassee soon to prepare recommendations for the Legislature.

The housewives, who studied 43 adopted textbooks during three weeks, were Mrs. Oscar A Kennedy Jr., Mrs. Mickey Farkas and Mrs. Carden, all of Key Biscayne.

They said they had no training as teachers and were pointing up the criticisms to show the parents' attitudes toward their children's books.

The committee instructed Scruby to draw bills, calling for multiple adoption of textbooks and for liberalizing the law relating to rebinding of textbooks.

At the suggestion of Sen. Wilson Carraway of Tallahassee the committee instructed Scruby to get information on the North Carolina plan for student drivers of school buses. Carraway said he believed use of student drivers would cut Florida's bus driver bill from 3.5 million dollars to one million dollars a year.

Tornado Warnings Lowered

Storm Batters Tampa Bay, Telephone, Power Lines Cut

TAMPA —(UPI) —Damaging winds and torrents of rain raked the Tampa Bay area early Saturday but the Weather Bureau lowered its Central Florida tornado warning when the storm failed to reach its anticipated fury.

The St. Petersburg-Tampa area was the hardest hit, as strong winds ripped off tree limbs, tore down wires, damaged store signs and were blamed for a $12,000 fire that destroyed a building at St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport.

But the storm turned out to be less fierce than was first anticipated when a tornado warning was issued Friday night for the area extending from Tampa to Cape Canaveral.

The warning was lowered at 7 a.m. Saturday.

Up to two inches of rain fell on Tampa Friday night and early Saturday and winds there were in excess of 35 miles an hour. Several electrical circuits were broken and two neighborhoods blacked out. Debris from trees littered some streets.

Across the bay at St. Petersburg, 1,500 telephones in one section of the city were put out of commission when part of a tree was blown into a transformer by winds that reached up to 40 miles an hour.

On fashionable Snell Isle, a big Australian pine was blown on powerlines and left some homes without electricity.

But the biggest damage was at the airport where the Gai-Mar Creations packaging plant suffered $12,000 in damages. The storm knocked out the building's electrical supply and when a power company crew managed to turn the power on, the building erupted in flames.

By the time firemen arrived it was destroyed. There was no immediate determination of the exact cause, but firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by faulty electrical wiring, more than likely the result of the storm.

Farther to the south, the Bradenton-Sarasota area escaped serious damage. Some limbs were blown into the streets but the high tides and severe winds forecast failed to materialize.

Heavy rains and brisk winds but no damage were reported at Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Vero Beach and Orlando.

Daytona Beach had 1.43 inches of rain.

Trucks to Take Over

State OKs Cutting Tampa-Jax Trains

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Utilities Commission Saturday authorized Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to discontinue two passenger trains between Tampa and Jacksonville.

The trains, which serve Green Cove Springs, Palatka, Crescent City, Deland, Sanford, Maitland, Winter Park, Kissimmee, Haines City, Lakeland and Plant City, will be taken off Monday.

But the ACL will immediately institute a truck service to handle express in order to meet objections from fern growers, gladioli, fish and other shippers in Volusia and counties along the route.

The two trains to be discontinued handled very few passengers, but rendered a vital express service. The Utilities Commission said it would not have authorized their discontinuance without the substitute trucking service.

One of the trains to be taken off, number 80, leaves Tampa at 8:30 a.m. daily and arrives in Jacksonville at 5 p.m. The other, number 89, leaves Jacksonville at 10:45 a.m. and reaches Tampa at 6 p.m. They are principally used for transportation of mail and express.

Total passenger revenue from both trains last year was less than $12,000.

Removal of the two trains will leave four Coast Line passenger trains serving the area, including the west coast Champion.

Under the plan for substitute motor carrier service, a truck will leave Orlando daily, except Sunday, at 9:30 a.m. and stop at Maitland, Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Longwood, Lake Mary, Lake Monroe, De Leon Springs, Barberville, Eldridge and arrive in Pierson at 11:59 a.m.

30 Days for Calling a Juror

'Can't Be That Naive,' Judge Says

PENSACOLA — (AP) — A judge said that one would have to be "naive indeed" to believe F. M. Billing had no intention of trying to sway a member of a jury venire whom he telephoned the morning of a trial.

Billing was sentenced Saturday to 30 days in jail for allegedly trying to influence H. L. Cobuger, Judge Ernest E. Mason of Court of Recrods set appeal bond at $500.

Billing, 56, admitted contacting Coburger, but denied asking anything other than that Coburger keep an open mind and give a fair trial to Ed Golden Jr., charged with assault.

Prices Drop

LAKELAND — (UPI) — A price cut on wholesale frozen orange concentrate Saturday appeared certain to cut retail prices and give the market a big boost, but there were no indications of a quick change in fresh oranges headed for concentrate.

This means, once the price cut reaches the consumer level, a six-ounce can of concentrate may sell for 20 cents instead of 25 cents, the recent prevailing price.

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — A preliminary hearing is scheduled Friday for Lawrence Henry Sunbrock, 48, Orlando promoter charged with misleading advertising of a rodeo he planned to stage here.

The city refused to allow the rodeo to open Wednesday night. A feature attraction, advertising said, would be Dennis Weaver, who plays "Chester" in the TV series "Gunsmoke."

Weaver said he didn't agree to appear at a rodeo, but at a "Gator Bowl Jamboree" and thought he was dealing with the Gator Bowl Association non-profit civic group which sponsors the Gator Bowl football game and allied activities. It doesn't have an event known as a jamboree.

Wager Tax Up

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Federal gambling tax collections in Florida last year were the second highest since the 10 per cent tax went into effect.

Laurie W. Tomlinson, district director of internal revenue, reported 1958 collections were $845,040, compared to $420,391 in the previous year.

Tomlinson said only a small amount of the money is paid on a voluntary basis and most of it results from investigations by federal agents.

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

* * *

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

* * *

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

* * *

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON — (AP) — "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The farther the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper, "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

* * *

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

* * *

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Banner-Waving Crowd Rallies in Havana's Central Park

Urrutia Assumes Presidency, Names Castro Military Boss

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — Once-exiled Cuban Judge Manuel Urrutia took over Saturday night as provisional president of Cuba, and immediately named Rebel Leader Fidel Castro commander-in-chief of armed forces.

Urrutia took the oath of office in a ceremony at the University of Oriente in Santiago as Castro, who sparked the revolution that toppled the Batista government, headed for Havana where cheering mobs of his followers waited to welcome him.

Uurrutia promptly received support from former President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was booted out of office in 1952 by Fulgencio Batista and who returned to his homeland Friday from Miami exile.

Prio called on his Autentico Party followers to put aside firearms and follow orders of the new government.

Rebel military leaders and Cuban labor union officials in Havana, meanwhile, promised that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Castro arrives."

Castro was heading for Havana from easternmost Oriente Province, where he revolution got its start, but his triumphant march was slowed by a series of tumultuous welcomes along the route.

He was to arrive late Saturday night or today.

After taking over the provisional government, Urrutia named Dr. Roberto Agramonte, former head of the Cuban Peoples (Orthodox) Party and one-time presidential candidate, to the important post of minister of state.

Others named to top posts in the provisional cabinet were Angel Fernandez, minister of justice; Raul Chibas, minister of finance; Raul Capero Bonilla, minister of commerce; Julio Martinez, minister of health, and Manuel Fernandez, minister of labor.

Prio said in a radio broadcast that his organization had cooperated in the overthrow of the Batista government, but that no member of the group wanted to participate in the new regime. He said he himself has no personal political ambitions.

While Castro headed for the capital, forces of his 26th of July movement took over the government offices in Havana. It was also reported that executions of some Batista army officers had started in the provinces.

But in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass in Havana said that six captured civilian officials of the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Can't You Point That Rifle Away From My Noggin?

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and downright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bona-fide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory," sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently, by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Red Rocket May Orbit Sun

And Lunik Jumps Over the Moon...

Newborn Infant Is Kidnaped

Garments Found; Frantic Hunt On

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two boys playing in a vacant store in Brooklyn Saturday found garments hospital authorities say were worn by a girl who was $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours old when she was kidnaped from a hospital.

Sister Mary Kevin, night superintendent at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn, from which the baby disappeared, identified the articles as definitely those worn by the child. Two nurses also made the identification.

Detectives immediately launched a floodlighted house-to-house search in the area where the garments were found. In all, 125 detectives and 25 policewomen were assigned to the case.

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby—please have her baptized a Catholic."

Red Claims Verified

We Don't Doubt It, U.S. Declares

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

Snowstorm, Cold Wave

Frigid Double-Punch Socks U.S. Midlands

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A giant snowstorm and a bitter cold wave socked the nation's midlands Saturday with a double-barreled punch from Texas to Michigan, stranding travelers.

Sub-zero temperatures accompanied the storm, which reached blizzard proportions over Kansas and Missouri, as it pushed slowly eastward. Snowfall ranged from two to seven inches and more, and blowing and drifting snow blocked roads and created hazardous travel conditions.

Cold wave warnings were issued from west-central Texas to Indiana, as the bitter frigid Arctic air, described by weathermen as abnormally cold even for mid-winter, pushed into the Southeast and headed for the Appalachians and the mid-Atlantic states.

Snow fell almost steadily in a belt from northwest Texas and east Colorado eastward through Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma into Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana. Roads quickly became snow-packed and, in some areas, highways were closed to traffic.

At Chicago, about five inches of snow blanketed the city.

Meanwhile, the cold wave plunged the temperature to as low as 49 degrees below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont., the coldest spot in the nation early Saturday. At Floodwood, Minn., a ranger station 40 miles northwest of Duluth, the mercury hit 38 below, while Virginia, Minn., recorded 30 below.

Let's Seek Peace, Nikita Asks Britain

LONDON — (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a New Year's message published Saturday that Russia and Britain should join in efforts "to transform the continent of Europe into an area of lasting peace."

Khrushchev's message, released by British officials here, said:

"I sincerely hope that in the coming year, as a result of the joint efforts of all states (and, above all, of the great powers) notable progress will be made in eliminating international tension and freeing the human race from anxiety about its future and about the fate of generations to come."

Macmillan thanked Khrushchev for his "friendly" message and replied:

"I heartily reciprocate your hope that 1959 will see progress in international relations. We must all bend our efforts to this end. I firmly believe that if we try with goodwill to work together we shall find it possible to make progress."

MOSCOW — (AP) — Russia announced its $1\frac{1}{2}$-ton cosmic rocket zoomed to within its nearest point to the moon Saturday night as it hurtled sunward to become what the Soviets hope will be man's first artificial planet.

Moscow radio which flashed out the word said that the big space ship reached the nearest point at 9:59 p.m. (Miami time). It added that "possibly radio contact with the rocket will cease within 24 hours."

The broadcast said earlier that the nearest point at which the moon would be 4,660 miles — not much greater than the distance between Moscow and New York.

The radio said that as the rocket passed, a lunar telescope aboard the space laboratory sized up the pock marks on the moon.

Moscow radio earlier quoted Alexander Topchiev, vice president of the Academy of Sciences, as saying "it is now fully clear that the Soviet moon rocket will become a satellite of the sun, the first artificial planet."

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship will never again fall back on the earth," Topchiev declared.

The Tass statement announced:

"On the 4th of January, the Soviet cosmic rocket passed the nearest point to the moon on its trajectory.

"Instruments and transmitters of the rocket continue to work normally and are reporting to earth receiving stations valuable scientific material. The scientific tasks set before launching of the cosmic rocket have been completely carried out."

Topchiev gave the rocket's speed at 9,000 kilometers (5,589 miles) an hour.

Moscow radio said the moon rocket will reach the point nearest the sun — about $91\frac{1}{2}$ million miles away — on Jan. 14.

It will take the rocket 15 months to orbit the sun, the broadcast added.

The Soviet Union's commentator Viktor Shragin told Moscow Radio's home listeners why America is "lagging behind" the Soviet Union.

"To know and to conquer cosmic space requires maximum unity, single-mindedness of purpose and close human cooperation," Shragin said.

"This is only possible under socialism, when both the means of production and political power belong to the people and not to a band of monopolists."

It Becomes Official on Fourth of July

Here's New 'Old Glory'; How Do You Like It?

History of Our Flag, 9B
Alaska Takes It Calmly, 9B

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodeled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern terriroty.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out.

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a different design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Americans Fleeing Cuba Hit 'Bungling' Embassy

'It Wasn't Our Fault,' Aide Says

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Americans streaming back from turbulent Cuba, Saturday blasted the U.S. embassy in Havana for bungling their evacuation.

But a State Department spokesman in Washington said "it was not our fault."

Some among the 500 returnees who arrived at Key West by ferry charged that embassy personnel "treated us like a bunch of cattle."

In Washington, Clint Olsen, executive director of the State Department's inter-American affairs, shot back:

"They were damn lucky to get the boat."

Olsen said U.S. officials in Washington and Havana had worked out elaborate evacuation plans — including an airlift with a plane every 30 minutes.

"But when we tried to carry them through, the rebel forces blocked us," Olsen said.

He said negotiations were still in progress to get the planes into Cuba.

"Everybody who wants out will be able to leave by noon today," he said.

Walter M. Walters, State Department representative in Miami, said he had checked and found there were "no hardship cases reported on this end."

William Tieger, 1795 Normandy Dr., Miami Beach, echoed the sentiment of the critics.

"The information give us by the State Department was vague and confused."

F. A. Greve, Fort Lauderdale insurance executive, said, "They gave no cooperation. Everybody we talked to had different answers."

But Olsen countered that "there were many changes in instructions (from the rebels) which muddied the waters. Nobody in the rebel forces would take it upon himself to do this or that."

The spokesman said embassy personnel were "just interested in protecting American lives — not getting them out in luxury accommodations."

He said the department had received "not one single report" of any U.S. citizen being harmed.

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith could not be reached in Havana for comment.

He was called to Washington, D.C., early last month to frame plans for protecting U.S. citizens and safe-guarding their property in the event the Batista regime was overthrown.

Olsen said that conditions in Havana were such that no coordinated program could be worked out immediately with the rebels — but predicted that the evacuation problems were "just about solved."

Another ferry was preparing to leave Havana Saturday night with 500 more mainland-bound refugees. Another estimated 500 U.S. citizens still are in Havana.

Olsen said Cubana Airlines "is flying Cuban refugees from the former government over to the island and bringing our people back."

six were not released immediately.

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

Nationalists Make Claim

Revolution in Tibet Reported Spreading

TAIPEI — (AP) — A revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to the Soviet puppet state of Outer Mongolia, the Chinese Nationalists said Saturday.

There are 100,000 insurgents fighting in Outer Mongolia, said Li Chung-hsin, a member of the Nationalist cabinet as chairman of the Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Commission.

If true, this would include about a tenth of the population in that country six times the size of state of Texas. It was walled off by the Russians after World War II and became a theoretically independent nation called the Mongolian People's Republic.

Li declared there were at least 600,000 persons in armed insurrection against the Communists in Tibet and neighboring areas, including those in Outer Mongolia. It was the first claim of anti-Communist uprisings in Outer Mongolia.

Previous reports, however, had said that uprisings in Inner Mongolia were spreading toward Outer Mongolia next door.

Li said 300,000 rebels were operating in Tibet and the provinces of Tsinghai, Sikang and Szechwan, 80,000 in Inner Mongolia, 70,000 in Sinkiang and 30,000 to 50,000 among Miao tribesmen and other minority groups in the northwest.

Resistance in Tibet, he declared, was built around a force of 35,000 organized Mi-mun (anti-tyranny) guerrillas. These guerrillas, he said, had the support of more than 300,000 Tibetans.

Novarro's last picture was in 1934.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor, confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . ."

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops they had only words of praise.

"They treated us courteously, helped all they could. As a matter of fact, the only food we ate the past few days was a little bit the Rebels brought to the Americans in the hotel once."

They watched the battle rage on the Prado just one block away when the hold-out force of beleaguered Batista troops was dislodged after bloody fighting.

Start Off The Year With $700

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

SUNNY

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

Havana Casino Mob Is Fleeing to U.S.

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

They left Havana so quickly they left everything behind except clothes, cash, wives and girl friends.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

"I understand," he said, "they worked both sides of the street, paying off Batista while buying guns for Castro."

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

U.S. Tracks The 'Lunik'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U.S. learned of the Soviet space rocket launching when a tracking station picked up a radio signal "apparently emanating from an unidentified space vehicle."

Announcing this Saturday, the Pentagon said the signals were first picked up early Friday afternoon.

Since then, a Defense Department statement said, "scattered reports from various U.S. stations principally in the U.S. have identified monitoring signals" on five frequencies. These frequencies are at approximately 70 megacycles, at 19.997, 19.995, 19.993 megacycles and at 212 megacycles.

The Pentagon said among the stations reporting radio tracking of the Russian rocket are the Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Millstone at Cambridge, Mass., Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and a number of stations reporting to the tracking center at Cambridge.

Russia Seeking Help From U.S.

MOSCOW — (AP) — Moscow Radio, with tongue in cheek, Saturday asked Americans for suggestions to help the Soviet seven-year plan.

The English-language broadcast beamed to the U.N. directed an appeal for advice and comment to American workers, farmers, intellectuals, clergymen and students.

P.S.: The purpose of the Soviet plan is to outstrip the U.S. in industrial production.

Army Buying More in Korea

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — American military purchases in South Korea are expected to total 30 million dollars during the one-year period ending June 30, 1959, the U.S. Army announced.

Its procurement agency said this was an increase of nearly seven million dollars over the same period in the previous year.

Hoffa Pal Seized as Fugitive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive from justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture, with unimproved land going at $4,300 an acre.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Prototype Of 'Tugboat Annie' Dies

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (AP) — Mrs. Catherine (Kate) A. B. Brown Sutton, 82, the prototype of Norman Reilly Raine's waterfront character, "Tugboat Annie," died Saturday in Jane Brown Hospital, where she had been a patient since 1957.

Mrs. Sutton, a warm, humorous and carefully groomed woman, was able with ease to command the 30 crewman of the old Providence Tow and Steamboat Co. of which she was president for 20 years. She had succeeded her husband, N. Howard Sutton ("Cap'n Nat" of the Raine magazine stories) on his death in 1923.

Kate, as she was known along the waterfront, was a native of New York and was a school teacher prior to her marriage before the turn of the century. Her tugboat concern had six ships operating in Narragansett Bay at one time and regularly hauled barges from Norfolk, Va.

MIAMI READINGS AT 4:30 P.M. SATURDAY: Air, 77 degrees; wind from the west at eight m.p.h.; sky cloudy; barometer, 29.90 inches; and relative humidity, 58 per cent

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain, which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains, and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

Dip of Patronage

Five Judgeships About to Open In Metro Setup

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

The 11-man Metro Commission's six freshmen members will have their first chance to take a dip from the patronage well when Metro's courts are enlarged and its planning department activated early this year.

Metro Court appears certain to add five more $13,500-a-year judges to its present three soon after the State Supreme Court's mandate on its county-wide powers is handed down.

* * *

THE HIGH COURT HAS ALREADY RULED, in the suit brought by Miami Shores Village, that Metro can enforce its traffic code inside the municipalities. The Supreme Court will rule on a rehearing plea, and then issue the formal mandate to parties concerned in the suit.

GIBSON

SNOWDEN

Appointment of a civilian advisory board by the commission is the next step in setting up Metro's planning shop.

Tuesday the commission will vote on an already informally-approved resolution enlarging this board from 10 to 11 members. There are 11 commissioners, and they agreed they didn't like the idea of one member's being shut out when the time came for naming the powerful board.

* * *

PLANNING ADVISORS ARE NON-SALARIED, receiving $15 "expenses" for each meeting they attend. It's not the monetary compensation but the powers of this board which makes appointments so desirable.

The advisory board provides the legislative commission with a check and balance against the planning department appointed by the administrative county manager.

As the Metro planning ordinance is set up, the advisory board will have virtual veto power over the "master plan" for Dade County development, prepared by new Planning Director Paul Watt.

* * *

THE MASTER PLAN WILL BLUEPRINT the county's land use, transit and road development, recreation facilities, and the financing of public improvements — all matters of vital interest to commissioners.

Law prohibits commissioners from influencing the appointment of the administration's planning staff. A commission member could be removed from office for trying to get persons of his choice on Watt's 17-to-19 man staff.

Commission desires in master planning will be expressed through the advisory board it will shortly name. This board has final say-so on the drafting of the plan. Commissioners can only send sections it doesn't like-back for further study.

* * *

NAMING THE NEW JUDGES could be a contest among eight Metro commissioners. The three existing judges were choices of Commissioners Edwin Mason, John McLeod and Ralph Fossey.

Shut out the first time, "old" Commissioners Charles Hall and Faris Cowart must now make themselves heard over as many as six new voices.

A Dade County Bar Association spokesman said Friday he hopes the commission will again ask the bar group to screen its judgeship nominations.

"But we won't take the initiative and ask the new, enlarged commission to do this," said Michael Isenberg, chairman of the bar association's courts committee.

* * *

ISENBERG SAID THE COMMISSION already knows of the association's "willingness to help" and still has its previous list, submitted last September, of attorneys considered "best qualified" for judgeships.

When the first Metro judges were being appointed, the bar association urged the commission to choose "only the best qualified men of the profession."

The commission submitted a list of 14 attorneys to the bar group. Senior Judge Ed Strickland, former law partner of Commissioner Edwin Mason, had already been named. The bar association praised his appointment, and chose five "best qualified" from the list of 14.

* * *

THE COMMISSION APPOINTED CHARLES SNOWDEN and Jack M. Turner from the list of five.

One man from the list, Robert R. Taylor, has since died. The other two recommended by the lawyers' group are Henry K. Gibson and Albert Saperstein.

"That list still stands, as far as we are concerned," Isenberg said.

The issue which has kept the commission busy since its enlargement to 11 members in October, airport concession contracts, may have its last inning at a special meeting Jan. 9.

Three Dade Women Draw Up List

School Books Called 'Subversive'

By PHIL MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

Florida school children are getting their learning from "subversive" textbooks, three Dade County women charged Saturday.

Reporting to the legislative Interin Committee on Education at Marianna, they singled out social studies books, plus a health text they said contained an illustration that was "a little too complete."

The three women, Mrs. Oscar Kennedy, Mrs. N. J. Carden and Mrs. Michael Farkas, studied 43 books. They made an oral report to the commitee, supplemented with marginal notes made in copies of the tests.

United Press International reported the legislators "spent hours" mulling over the books at the final meeting of a two-day session called to discuss school financing.

Questioned by telephone in Marianna, Mrs. Kennedy could not recall the names or authors of any of the books with the "subversive learnings."

Some of the authors had belonged to groups listed by some investigators as subversive, however, she said.

"Of course there are also some good books, too," she said.

One of the books singled out for criticism was "American Problems Today," which recently replaced another book dropped from the state list after critics complained about its political leanings.

"American Problems Today" mentions class conflicts and calls the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People the "Robin Hoods" of the American Conscience.

Two Dade social studies teachers queried by the Herald said, however, the books lack any dangerous tendencies.

"How silly can some people be?" asked one. "You can object to any book if you look for things that you don't agree with and take them out of context."

Dade Supt. Joe Hall also refused to be alarmed by the charges.

"As far as I know, we aren't using any subversive books," he said.

Local school authorities have no choice over the textbooks used which are adopted at the state level. A Dade administrator, Miss Birdie McAllister, is a member of the State Textbook Rating Committee, but refused to comment on the charges.

"As a member of the committee, I'm not supposed to comment," she said.

At Saturday's meeting, the Dade women also critized a fourth-grade history book as having "confused make-up and vague references."

However, Rep. Robert Mann of Hillsborough took issue with some of the sweeping criticisms and cautioned the legislators that there are "two sides" to every criticism.

Mann said he had made a "quick study" of two of the books mentioned by the women as having subversive learing and found they had taken some of the statements out of context.

He said he doubted if the women's presentation had been worth all the time the committee spent on it when there were so many other problems it needed to deal with.

But the committee chairman, Sen. L. K. Edwards of Irvine, said he thought the problem was worth every minute spent on it.

Rex Farrior of Tampa, a lay member of the committee, also defended some of the books. He said that an adequate textbook must deal with both sides of any question.

Sullivan: Gambling Barons Plotting to Pry Open Dade

Plan Tied To Change In Havana

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Bigtime syndicate-styled gambling barons are plotting to pry open Dade County, Crime Commissioner Dan Sullivan warned Saturday.

Sullivan said he expects a concerted underworld attempt to revive the lush casino operations of the pre-Kefauver days.

He tied in his prediction with the collapse of Havana's gambling empire.

"They saw the handwriting on the wall," Sullivan said. "They knew Batista's downfall was coming.

"The attempt here a few months ago to legalize gambling was a piece from the same fabric. I am not saying those particular people worked with gangsters," he said, "but the gangsters certainly were sympathetic."

Sullivan labeled that attempt a "trial balloon that went dead."

"You can expect another attempt at the state legislature this spring," he said.

The Havana hoodlums wanted Miami opened as an "insurance policy" of sorts even before the revolution, he said.

The probable trouble spots include Motel Row, north of Miami Beach proper.

MORE

The usual wintertime influx of hoods from the North is migrating in that direction. The law there is spread thinner and gangsters stand less chance of being recognized.

The way things stand now, most of the local sin is unsyndicated and unorganized.

Miami Beach, renowned tourist mecca, possesses a plentiful supply of call girls, bookies, B-girls, floating crap games, and private club gambling by residents.

"But it is mostly on a sneak basis," said Sullivan.

He has long contended such things go on only with unofficial sanction from city officials.

A tough B-girl ordinance, passed with much hullabaloo a year ago, is a case in point. It has resulted in exactly one conviction. One B-girl went free when her shrewd lawyer pointed out police failed to prove she was a woman.

With the Havana upheaval, however, Sullivan expects woes worse than B-girls.

Dade's racket intelligence squad, he said, needs strengthening. "It spends too much time on subversive activities, dynamiting and bombing cases, and shipment of arms to Cuba. It should concentrate on keeping track of racketeers."

Friends Provided Flight From Cuba

By RICK TUTTLE
Hollywood Bureau Chief

HOLLYWOOD — A 26-year-old Hollywood employe, who returned Saturday from revolution torn Havana, said the U.S. Embassy was doing little to help stranded American tourists.

Miss Diana Dez of 2650 Grant St., said only her own knowledge of the city and her Cuban friends had helped her get aboard a Cubana Airlines plane Saturday afternoon.

Her only aid from American Embassy officials was notice of where names were being taken for departing flights, she said.

"If I had waited for their help, I'd still be there," she said.

Miss Dez, a water department employe, landed in Havana New Year's Eve. It was her fifth trip to the Cuban capital within a year.

"My friends and I had a lovely time Wednesday night," she said.

"Then Thursday morning the shouting woke me up. I looked out the window. The street was full of people who were shouting 'Long live Fidel Castro. Long live the 26th of July.'"

She was staying at a small hotel on the Prado. She heard shooting soon afterward, and from her balcony saw rebel soldiers closing in on a building to the north. She learned later the guerillas had cornered about 25 secret police there.

As she watched the fighting, one rebel soldier fell to the pavement. He was carried away on a stretcher. The skirmish lasted about two hours, she said.

Miss Dez had her first square meal in two days when she reached home. She said she had had only coffee, served by the manager of the hotel, since Thursday.

Miss Dez said she was stopped twice by soldiers as she walked to the Hotel Nacional after the American Embassy told her she might be able to get a flight there.

"But the rebel soldiers were always courteous and kind," she said. "I think Castro will do a lot of good for the Cuban people."

She said two rebel soldiers helped her get a taxi when she left the Nacional.

Saturday morning, as she left her hotel for the Havana airport, rebel soldiers pushed her back inside and shut the door behind them. They said Batista men, in a black car, were circling the block, shooting at people.

Miss Dez heard two shots shortly afterward. A few minutes later her taxi driver said it was all right to leave.

On the way to the airfield, the cab was stopped and two men in the taxi with her—guests at the hotel who had joined her in the cab—who explained again about the black car and the shooting, which they said, was by Batista followers. The taxi was black.

Miss Dez said she would be going back to Havana soon.

"Things will be quiet again in a week or so," she said.

Pupil Influx In Brevard Said Critical

MELBOURNE — The Brevard County public school system is expecting the biggest influx of new students in its history, when classroom doors open Monday after the two-week holiday vacation period.

Dr. B. Frank Brown, county director of education, said officials are seeking classroom space for more than 430 children, brought by parents on annual winter vacations.

"This influx comes at the most critical time—when the schools are already packed," Brown explained. "We hope this is the last big influx we'll have this year."

He said congestion will be eased when the new Sea Park elementary school is finished this year, and when other schools are opened next September.

However, "these schools will give us no immediate relief. I guess we'll just have to make the best of it right now," commented Brown.

Students will be assigned where there is space, regardless of school district lines, the official said.

No Refuge For Pilots

FORT LAUDERDALE — Aircraft Executive Leonard J. Povey said Saturday he is not offering asylum to Cuban Air Force pilots fleeing that country.

Povey, who trained pilots for Batista in 1934, said, "that was a long time ago. I hope they all find someplace to go, but I'm afraid I can't help them.

"I had a job to do there in 1934 and I did it. That was the extent of my relations with those men," he added.

Povey, who is president of Aircraft Acceptance Corp., made his remarks following a Herald story Saturday in which he said he was "misunderstood."

Who Hit Tommy?

Mrs. Thomas Fillyaw, of 11510 W. Biscayne Canal Dr., tries to ease the pain of her seven-year-old son, Tommy. The boy was struck in the back by an automobile and knocked unconscious while playing beside the street in front of his home. One tire of the car left tread marks on Tommy's shirt, but the boy escaped without critical injury.

Committee of Attorneys To Study Rights Defense

FORT LAUDERDALE — A special committee of the Broward County Bar Association will investigate the absence of committing magistrates from the county's judicial system.

The issue was reported in The Herald Saturday, following charges the legal rights of arrested persons are being ignored.

The law requires arresting officers to take defendants before a magistrate "without unnecessary delay." It requires the magistrate to inform them immediately of the charge and their rights.

The county hasn't had magistrates since the jusitce of the peace officers were abolished two years ago.

Attorney R. M. Gardner, chairman of the bar committee, said Saturday: "We are lacking a fundamental link in the democratic process. We must do something about it."

The committee was formed last month to recommend legislation for relief of Broward's overburdened courts.

Under current procedure, an arrested person who cannot make bond may wait up to seven days before arraignment in Criminal Court.

"Every hour is an infringement on liberty," Gardner said.

Ray Sandstrom, former assistant county solicitor, who first attacked the absence of magistrates, offered to debate the issue with judges.

Referring to the "without unnecessary delay" clause, Sandstrom declared: "this means that if you're arrested at 3 p.m., you go before a magistrate that afternoon."

Man in Space Within a Decade

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

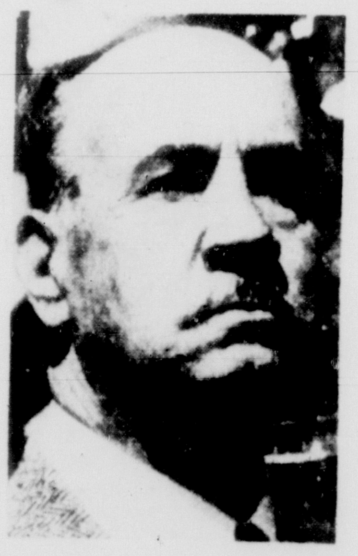
FORT LAUDERDALE — Dr. Igor Sikorsky, a pioneer of the air age, predicted Saturday men may become space travelers within a decade.

"It will certainly happen in your lifetime," he told a 34-year-old reporter.

Sikorsky, who worked on his first aircraft engine 50 years ago, was not dismayed by the sunbound Russian rocket.

"This country is not lagging behind," he said. "Our rockets failed narrowly—by a speed margin of only two or three per cent."

"Of course," he cautioned, "The Russians are not behind us, either. But they have had failures, too. Only they know how many."



Dr. Igor Sikorsky
... Monday speaker

The Russians may be the first to send a man to the moon, he said. — "Because they might just let him stay there."

"We're more concerned with getting him back," the veteran pilot-designer added.

Sikorsky will address the new South Florida section of the Institute of Aeronautical Engineers at Bahia-Mar here Monday night.

E. L. Eveleth, program chairman of the 7 p.m. banquet, was associated with Sikorsky for 12 years.

Now living and working in Connecticut, Sikorsky said there are "unlimited possibilities" for the cargo crane helicopter he hopes to produce this year.

"It will handle a load of any size or bulk, free of barriers that obstruct ordinary traffic," he explained.

Helicopters will play an essential part in South Florida's growth, he added.

"The advent of jet airliners makes a better means of transport from the terminal to the heart of cities absolutely necessary," Sikorsky said.

University of Miami Professor John D. Gill, chairman of the new section, said visitors to Monday's meeting "represent probably the greatest cross-section of aviation people to get together in Florida."

Glades Drilling Time Extended

An extension of time for drilling two oil wells in Dade County's Forty-Mile Bend field has been granted to increase chances of bringing in a gusher.

Trustees of the State Improvement Fund granted a two-month extension to Commonwealth Oil Co. and Coastal Petroleum Co. The companies had been scheduled to start drilling of the first well by Feb. 15.

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

* * *

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

* * *

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

* * *

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON — (AP) — "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The farther the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper. "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

* * *

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."

Milk High? Blame Cows And Climate

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — If you pay more for milk in Florida than you did in Cleveland, you've got nobody to blame but the cows and the climate.

Your dairyman is probably making less money than his counterparts anywhere else in the U.S.

Authority for that is Howard G. Eisaman, federal milk marketing administrator here.

"The spread of profit between what distributors pay farmers for milk and what distributors sell the milk for here is one of the lowest spreads in all of America," he said.

Consumers get a break here they don't get elsewhere, he said.

If you figure that milk sells for 27 cents a quart as it does here (delivered at home), the distributor clears $5.55 per hundred pounds of milk.

He pays $7 for a hundred pounds (11.62 gallons), and gets $12.55 for it. But out of that $5.55 margin must come the costs of processing and packaging.

In 25 major cities throughout the country where milk sells for 25.6 cents (average), the distributor recovers $6.35 instead of $5.55. In those cities, distributors pay farmers $5.55 instead of $7 for a hundred pounds.

The $7 a hundred pound cost here is high, and it adds up to another way residents pay for Florida's subtropical climate.

The climate is not good for cows. Consequently, the farmers' cost of producing milk is higher.

The daily average yield from a cow here is 14.85 pounds of milk. The national average is 19.74.

According to William Graham, president of the Independent Dairy Farmers' Association, there is little for cows to eat here. Much of their feed must be imported, and they do not get enough roughage that way.

Studies show, Graham said, that 50 degrees is the temperature most conducive to milk production by cows.

Florida cows react to the temperature—they make more milk in the winter, when there's more market for it.

Consumers who take advantage of special sales when milk is offered for 29 cents a half gallon are paying less for their milk than the dairy did.

The 29 cents a half gallon price adds up to $6.74 a hundred pounds. Eisaman doesn't know for sure who absorbs the loss, but he feels it's probably the grocer who sells the milk.

A few comparative prices show that milk in Erie, Pa., costs 27 cents a quart; in Cleveland, 24 cents a quart; in New Haven, Conn., 28 cents, and in Milwaukee, 22 cents. All prices are home delivered, and are for milk which is 3.5 per cent butter fat. Milk here is four per cent butter fat.

"This is traditionally a high butterfat market," Eisaman said.

Eisaman, a milk drinker himself, is continually intrigued by the amount of interest stirred up by milk prices.

Farmers and distributors recently asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to continue the $7 price until July 1960, when a formula for establishing a price may be determined.

Eisaman feels the price set by his office for distributors and farmers has little bearing on the retail price of milk. He points to the 29 cents a half gallon sales as evidence.

'My Husband Wrote This to Me,' Sobs Ann White
. . . mother of seven charged with second degree murder

'Old Pin Ball Annie' Tells of Shooting Mate

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

"Old Pin Ball Annie is my heart's delight,
We go to her juke joint every night
To see her and Old Bill have a fight.
He struts around like turkey in the straw
And slams poor Annie on the jaw.
She hollers and screams with all her might
And it goes on all through the night.
Now Old Bill is gone and so is their song.
He's gone so far away
Poor Annie is blue
And we are too, for they took our show away."

* * *

"My husband wrote this to me a week before he died," said Ann White, 53.

It was scribbled in pencil on a wrinkled brown grocery bag.

The mother of seven is charged with second degree murder in the Dec. 14 slaying of Bill White, World War II amputee.

Mrs. White is the owner of the Bargain Mart, 2101 SW 57th Ave., West Hollywood. The couple lived at her home adjacent to the store.

Recalling the shooting of White, her third husband, the widow told The Herald:

"He took the day's receipts from the store. It was more than $500.

"I tried to stop him but he threatened me.

"I went to the house and took the gun from the linen closet."

At this point the auburn-haired Mrs. White's voice trembled and she broke into sobs.

Dabbing her eyes with the fingertip of a twisted black cotton mitten, she continued:

"I was outside the door of the Bargain Mart with the gun in my hand.

"He was walking toward the house with the money.

"'Don't take it', I told him."

"I shot.

"Bill turned and threw the money box at me. Cash spilled all around.

"I stopped to pick up the money and (then) I shot again. I must have lost my equilibrium —I didn't mean it."

One of the slugs from the .22 caliber pistol hit White in the back. He was dead when the sheriff's deputies arrived.

Nearly a month later, Mrs. White sat alone in her home.

Tears rolled down her lined face, across the shoulders of an imitation fur stole and landed soggily on the bosom of her black taffeta dress.

"I gave him a military funeral in Arlington Cemetery. I paid $100 for it. The plot next to him I saved for myself," she said.

Mrs. White, free under $1,500 bond pending arraignment Jan. 9, has been operating her grocery business "as usual". She is planning, she said, to bring the slain man's elderly mother here from Pennsylvania to live with her.

Clayton Nance, attorney for the defendant, said Mrs. White will plead not guilty. She has been up on one occasion for investigation of sanity but was held competent by the court.

White lost his leg in 1944 while serving with the Army. He made his peg legs himself, Mrs. White said.

She blamed the violent quarrels that punctuated their 18-month marriage on White's heavy drinking.

He was in constant pain, she said, and he had become an alcoholic.

But he was good and kind. "I shot Bill — but good Lord I lived for him. I had nobody else. I needed Bill and he needed me."

What Was the Fate of the Driftwood?

After 11 Years, Loss Still a Mystery

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA — Lengthening shadows of the handful of people on the dock broke in wierd shapes against the boat cabin as the evening sun dipped lazily in the west.

Preparing for the trip to Bimini was not new to the men or their wives, but the women were not going on this journey to the island. They watched as the men loaded luggage aboard. The vessel, the 39-foot Driftwood, stood motionless in the still water at the Dania yacht basin.

It was nearing 6 p.m. The day, warm and clear, was Friday, Jan. 14, 1948.

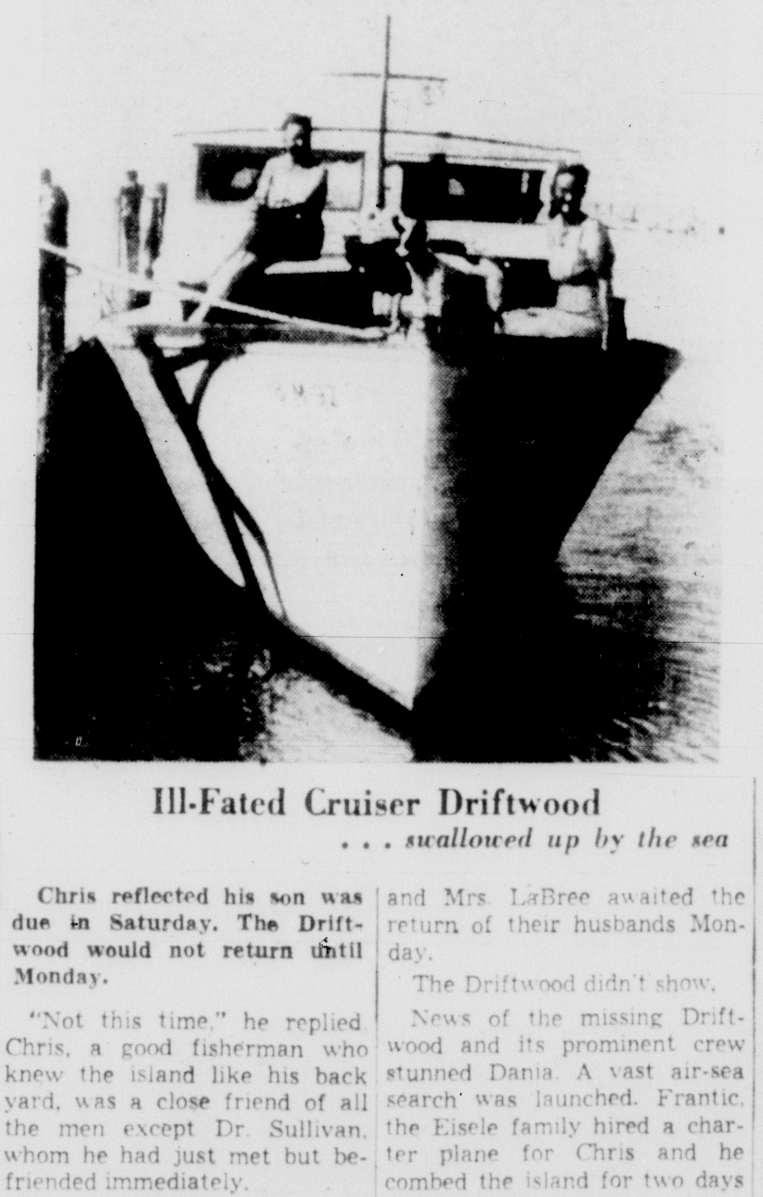
In the cabin Elmer Martin Christian, who canceled out because his Air Force son was due home from Germany, listened to the boat's two 100-gallon tanks fill up on gasoline from the dock pump. He deposited the last piece of luggage and emerged on deck.

"There's gas fumes down there," Chris reported. His report was drowned out amid the goodbys.

Five men boarded the vessel. They were:

Johnny Pellett, Hollywood auto agency dealer and owner of the Driftwood; Logan Eisele Sr., millionaire Nashville manufacturer; Paul Heckert, Dania building inspector; A. M. (Bert) LaBree, pioneer Dania real estate man, and Eisele's friend, Dr. Albert Sullivan of Nashville.

"Chris, we'll only be gone a few days. Your son will be here when we get back. Come on with us," implored Eisele.



Ill-Fated Cruiser Driftwood
. . . swallowed up by the sea

Chris reflected his son was due in Saturday. The Driftwood would not return until Monday.

"Not this time," he replied. Chris, a good fisherman who knew the island like his back yard, was a close friend of all the men except Dr. Sullivan, whom he had just met but befriended immediately.

The cabin cruiser slithered out of the yacht basin sharply at 6 p.m., its two brand new 115 horsepower motors purring.

Mrs. Pellett, Mrs. Eisele, Mrs. Heckert, Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. LaBree awaited the return of their husbands Monday.

The Driftwood didn't show.

News of the missing Driftwood and its prominent crew stunned Dania. A vast air-sea search was launched. Frantic, the Eisele family hired a charter plane for Chris and he combed the island for two days without seeing a sign of the Driftwood or any evidence of shipwreck.

Eisele, whose Nashville plant manufactures clinical thermometers, hypodermic needles and syringes, loved Dania and he had invested heavily in real estate.

He built the Dania Beach Yacht Basin and had plans for developing it into a luxurious yacht club. The Eisele family still has a 15-year lease that Eisele signed for the basin in 1946.

A factory the Nashville millionaire built near the canal, just east of the Seaboard Railroad tracks, stands as a monument to his dream of one day moving his plant here.

Heartbroken, the Eisele family sold most of the millionaire's holdings here after he disappeared, and shelved plans for the factory.

"He (Eisele) was a wonderful man," recalled T. F. Joynes, 310 NE First Ct. Joynes worked at Eisele's Nashville plant for a decade before he came here in 1948 hoping to get in on the ground floor of his boss's Florida venture.

Johnny Pellett, the captain of the Driftwood, was a respected skipper.

But 11 years after the ocean swallowed up the five men and their boat, a big question mark still hangs over what actually happened to them.

Theories will be swapped Jan. 14, 1959, just as the mysterious case has triggered conjecture yearly in the past.

At his Federal Hwy. mechanic's garage last week, Elmer Martin Christian looked at a picture of his son, Major William E. Christian, and reminded himself, "He stopped me from going."

Experts Say Future Bright

Everglades May End Up Cruise Hub

By ART ROBINSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Port Everglades may be on the brink of becoming the East Coast's cruise capital.

The first world cruise ship to touch at the port will make three stops there in 1959.

Anybody who wants to go and has the price ($650 to $1,900) can book passage from Port Everglades, circle the globe and get off at home.

In addition, the Port Authority will try to interest a half-dozen lines which operate ships between New York and Europe part of the year and cruises in the winter in using the port for their Caribbean cruises.

These include the Holland-American Line, Cunard, Home, Swedish-American and Norwegian-American. They all operate winter cruises from New York.

Every one of them will be watching the Furness Lines' experiment in operating the Ocean Monarch from the port this winter.

"They're bound to be interested, since the Ocean Monarch is booked solid for four of its five cruises and was nearly solid for the first one," said Robert S. McConnaughey, vice chairman of the port.

The port seems such an obvious point of departure for winter cruises that members of the Port Authority which takes over next week are almost giddy at the prospects.

"The possibilities are tremendous," said E. J. Crowells, who will be chairman.

"People can come here for a vacation and a cruise. As for me, I think I'd like to take the cruise first and then loll around here."

R. S. McConnaughey
. . . 'booked solid'

E. J. Crowells
. . . 'more to offer'

Both he and McConnaughey, feel Port Everglades has far more to offer than any other East Coast port for cruise ship passengers.

"They can land at the airport a mile away in a warm climate and leave from a warm climate," McConnaughey said.

"They won't have to fight the winter weather in New York and part of their cruise won't be in cold northern waters," said McConnaughey.

"I predict that by next winter we will be seeing the advent of a tremendous tourist ship business. I don't think most of the shipping lines are aware of the facilities we have here."

They're rapidly finding out. The world cruise ship which will visit here is the 21,300-ton William Ruys, operated by the Holland-American Line.

It will come here first April 28. Passengers on the first voyage will be unable to debark at Port Everglades. However, passengers leaving on it Oct. 2 from the port will return to the port 10 weeks later, Dec. 12.

R. T. Spangler, who is returning to his old position as port manager, has been in contact with the Holland-American Line and feels that it is interested in operating Caribbean cruises from the port.

He thinks it may also consider starting direct service between Port Everglades and Europe.

Getting additional lines will take "a selling job," he said. The port will have to develop information on the passenger potential and persuade the major lines that they can do a bigger business from Port Everglades than they can from New York, he said.

Mrs. Ingalls and Mayor at Hospital
. . . throw rugs just may become illegal

The Mayor's Down, Not Out

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — Feeling fit as a fiddle with his hip on the mend, Mayor Foster Ingalls welcomed in the new year from his bed in Memorial Hospital.

The mayor's been in the hospital since Dec. 11, when he fell on a throw rug in the bedroom of his home and fractured his left hip.

Prospects looked bright for spending New Year's at home, but minor complications developed at the last minute.

"I feel fine now, mentally and physically," said his honor.

The mayor's wife, Lee, has been by his side daily since he entered the hospital.

Friends throughout Broward County have sent him flowers and cards.

Hallandale's top government figure even has found time for city matters. He met with fellow commissioners recently and discussed the sewage disposal problem in the northeast section.

The mayor has a phone in his room, but Mrs. Ingalls, knowing how the phone rings at home, intercepts many of his calls to make sure her husband gets proper rest.

Back to that throw rug.

It just may become illegal to use them in Hallandale.

Big Christmas Bills? Credit Managers List Tips to Rescue Cash

By HENRY KINNEY
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — When those Christmas bills come streaming in, and you begin to picture credit managers as men carrying long, coiled whips try calling on the ones who are pressing you.

You may find that you can ease the pressure and protect your credit standing at the same time with a frank talk and a cooperative attitude.

"If you can get together, you probably can work it out," said one man who has been pursuing delinquent debtors over Broward County for 19 years.

"Go in and talk to your creditors," advised Thomas S. Graham, owner-manager of the Broward Adjustment Service, the county's oldest collection agency. "You'll get a good reception. Any store probably is anxious to keep you as a customer."

Even if your account should reach the point of being referred to an adjustment firm, it's not too late to bolster up your credit report. You and the collector probably can agree on a "satisfactory arrangement."

"Lay the cards on the table," suggested Graham and Joe Vason, manager of a Hollywood affiliate, the Hollywood Adjustment Service. "Show us what your situation is and what kind of payments you can make. Our clients will go along.

"Credit managers are very interested in the debtor's attitude."

Broward Adjustment is one of six such firms in the county. Graham established it as a one-man company in 1940. It is an affiliate of the Credit Bureau of Broward County, just across Broward Blvd., which Graham's brother, Joe, had established, also on a one-man basis, in 1931.

In the files of the bureau are the names of an estimated 80 per cent of adults in the county. It can obtain a credit report on anyone anywhere in the U. S. in a matter of hours.

New residents of Broward County who have left unpaid debts back home shouldn't delude themselves that they have escaped. If they have made arrangements with their creditors, their secrets are safe. But as soon as a bill becomes 30 days delinquent, the local credit organizations receive a report on it through various national agencies.

These reports are currently coming in at the rate of 40 to 50 a day — indicating that many new arrivals are no strangers to credit managers.

Tom Graham finds the county's delinquent debtors falling into two general categories: One, those who are just poor managers and overbuy for that reason. Two, those who can't resist attempting to keep up with the Joneses.

This tale of woe related by one debtor recently is an old story, told day in and day out with minor variations:

"We moved into a moderately priced waterfront house. We had no trouble meeting the mortgage payments. Our furniture was all paid for, and the car was paid for.

"But all up and down the street, in all the other carportes, were new cars. Ours was three years old. We couldn't hide it. So we traded it in on a better car.

"All up and down the street everybody had new furniture. Our furniture didn't look very good. People could look through this big picture window and see it. So we bought new furniture.

"In back of the house was a boat dock. Up and down the canal, everybody had boats. We didn't have one. So we bought a boat."

Disaster followed. Illness struck, work slacked off, the breadwinner's income dropped. The boat went, then the car. Only the new furniture was saved.

Graham has this advice for people who make a habit of buying on time payments: If a credit manager turns you down, he may be doing you a favor. Your credit report may be all right up to this point, but from his analysis it may show that one more installment payment out of the monthly budget would sink you.

Under the credit situation now prevailing in the county, doctors and hospitals are suffering most. They make up 80 per cent of Broward Adjustment's current business.

"The doctor is the last to get paid," Graham finds. "When people can't pay all their bills, they make payments on things that can be repossessed and let the doctor go."

An "alarming" situation of indebtedness among school teachers has developed since last summer, he finds. The company has in its files a list of some 28 who are termed "uncooperative" in the matter of paying bills, along with an approximately equal number who are cooperating. Most of the 28, Graham says, probably had credit troubles before they came to Broward.

Many local government employes of certain types also are coming to rest in the "uncooperative" files.

Graham feels that bill collecting has graduated from the pursuit and harassment tactics. "These days," he contends, "it's a selling job. You have to sell the debtor on protecting his credit.

"No one can go very far anymore without credit."

It Added Up To Fine Error

ANADARKO, Okla. — (AP) — Mrs. Oris Barney returned from the beauty shop to find a parking ticket on her car's windshield.

She promptly dropped the fine and ticket into the courtesy fine box on the street. Later she learned the ticket was a parking lot ticket her husband had forgotten to take off the car when he visited Dallas, Tex., a few days before.

1959 Looks Even Better, Officials Say

Booming West Hollywood Builds 1,990 Homes

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Residential construction in West Hollywood, one of the county's fastest growing areas, surged ahead at boom-time pace in 1958.

A whooping 1,990 homes were constructed, according to figures of the Broward Builders Exchange. Few areas in the U.S. measured up in home construction last year.

West Hollywood's 1958 home building picture defies comparison in South Broward. Hollywood, with the second largest home construction figure, reported 328 new homes, Hallandale, 84, and Dania, 59.

Total 1958 construction figure for West Hollywood is $17,664,876. That includes one of the county's largest shopping centers, a couple of chain drive-in restaurants, chain food store, service stations and apartments. The gigantic Grand Way Store nearing completion on south State Rd. 7 is not included.

The new year will top 1958 building, officials feel.

West Hollywood has great industrial potential. There are thousands of acres suited for industry between the west residential limits and U.S. 27.

Population is expected to take another great jump. Lois Carey, chamber secretary, figures West Hollywood's head count now is 37,000. Another 15,000 persons is practically promised in the next few years as Builder Sam Rizzo builds the 4,500 homes on the 1,050 tract he purchased recently from Dairyman J. N. McArthur.

Hollywood and Hallandale feel lucky that 1958 construction finished strong, although failing to catch up with 1957.

Hollywood's 1958 total is $16,232,253, more than six million dollars under the $22,455,963 for 1957.

The record cold 1958 winter chilled construction drastically the first few months of the year. Major reason for the 1957 high, however, was the single permit for the fifteen million dollar Diplomat Hotel on south beach. They don't come that big every year.

"I think we had a good year in 1958," said George Whitfield, Hollywood's chief building inspector. He is optimistic about the outlook for 1959.

High hopes for record residential construction are pinned on the Hollywood Hills section. First stage of development calls for 600 homes. Developers's goal: 6,000 homes.

The city may decide to sewer the undeveloped north beach. Both Whitfield and City Manager Joseph W. Watson say north beach growth is dependent on a sanitary sewer system. Proof: south beach.

Cold weather and a serious sewage disposal problem combined to plunge Hallandale's 1958 construction volume $600,000 below the previous year's total of $3,700,000.

Like Whitfield, Hallandale Building Inspector Tom Arthur feels the building picture will be brighter this year. Arthur has good reason to be optimistic.

H. B. Layne's Golden Isles development is expected to break out in a rash of residential construction. With sewers going in the troubled northeast section of Hallandale, hundreds of choice acres will be opened for development.

Dania's 1958 building report is highlighted by "big city" projects, such as the big co-op apartment on Federal Hwy. and a large motel.

The former farming community racked up a 1948 building total of $2,199,629, an increase over the $2,051,026 recroded in 1957.

The new year may establish a construction record if the commission follows through plans to install sewers in the choice east section.

Supermarkets Still Going Up

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Approximately 2,200 supermarkets will be built in the U.S. in 1959, according to Straus-Duparquet, Inc.

The firm, which designs and equips supermarkets, said the new stores will sell more specialized foods, such as gourmet items, and more non-food products.

Growing

LONDON —(AP)— Children in the Leyton district of London due to leave school this year are four inches taller and 24 pounds heavier than their predecessors in 1908, according to cal officer.

Talk of Franc(k)s and Pounds

Free Conversion Of The Pound—Lauderdale Style
. . . been working at it for weeks

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Those currency cutups which are shaking up Europe — devaluation of the French franc, and freer convertibility of the British pound—draw mostly yawns and wisecracks here.

Bakers and investors say the only persons actually affected are those with investments in Britain.

The pound convertibility also drew a yawn down at the Slenderama Beauty Salon, where operator Mal Horacek says she has been converting the pound for years.

"We convert them into firm flesh," she explained.

But she admits the British did her one better. They converted their pound in a day. Her version takes weeks.

At the dog house, Waitress Anne Dipersi was a little indignant when queried about the devaluation of the franc(k).

"Ours are still 25 cents—even if they're giving them away in France," she said.

Pompano Proudest Of College

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The acquisition of a 40-acre junior college site, and the city's allocation of $2,500 to prepare an industrial brochure were hailed as major civic accomplishments for the year by Lloyd Cassels, Chamber of Commerce president.

The chamber helped coordinate efforts between the School Board and six property owners who donated the $200,000 worth of property for the college. A chamber committee is now working to lobby the State Legislature for funds for the college.

The chamber's industrial committee will use the city's allocation to prepare a brochure to be used in seeking additional industries for the area.

Cassels claimed the need for additional light, clean industry, as offering the area one of the best opportunities to grow.

Elsewhere on the 34-project work program adopted at the beginning of the year by the 800-member chamber, progress has been rather good.

Of the projects the chamber endorses, about one-third, or 11 of them have been completed, or are in the process.

These include four-laning Atlantic Blvd. from A1A to Federal Hwy., beautification of Federal Hwy. and Atlantic Blvd.; better cleaning of the beaches; continued slum clearance; white-way lighting on major thoroughfares; additional sidewalks; beautification of the downtown area; extension of A1A from Atlantic Blvd. north to the ocean; and a new bridge across Pompano canal; annexation of additional lands; and improvement of facilities at the Recreation Park's "Deck."

Almost as great a list of hoped-for projects are dependent upon an important ingredient—money. From state, county, or local sources. Most of these are in the nature of highway improvements, and include:

Four-laning Atlantic Blvd. from Federal Hwy. to Dixie Hwy., a new bridge at Hillsboro Inlet; an Intracoastal Waterway bridge at NE 14th St.; extension of Sample Rd. to SR 7; four-laning of A1A; FEC railroad crossings at McNab Rd. and NE 23rd St.; and extension of Atlantic Blvd. from the turnpike west to SR 7.

The chamber members also want to see a convention-size hotel for the city, but realize that is dependent upon a sanitary sewer program, also endorsed by the chamber.

The chamber's annual work list is the result of balloting by the membership.

"Actually," Cassels said, "it is through discussion and meeting of the minds that a lot of these things come to pass."

Barbershop Champs to Give Concert

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Fort Lauderdale chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, new champions of the nine-state Dixie District, will sing a free concert at War Memorial Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

It will be a joint activity of the auditorium and the chapter.

All seats are reserved. Tickets may be obtained at the box office.

FORT LAUDERDALE — "Looking at Advertising Humorously" will be E. N. Orr's topic when he speaks to the Advertising Club Monday noon, Jan 5, at Pier 66 Yacht Club.

Pupil Learns How

LEXINGTON, N. C. —(AP)— Second graders from Dunbar Elementary School visited the Lexington Fire Department in the morning hours.

A fireman directed the tour. He showed them the trucks and the apparatus, explaining how it all worked. And he showed them how to turn in a fire alarm.

And, of course, a fire alarm came in at 3:25 p.m., after school was out. Twenty firemen and 11 volunteers rushed to the alarm box. There was no smoke, no fire anywhere.

The usual false alarm investigation was made and the unhappy culprit was found.

He, of course, was one of the seven-year-olds who had watched so interestedly the demonstration that morning.

Drainage Gets Plug

By RICK TUTTLE

Hollywood Bureau Chief

Proper storm drainage for just the Orange Brook section is going to cost more than $100,000.

City Manager Joseph W. Watson said this was a guess but he indicated he was being conservative.

WATSON

It will probably be handled by special assessment in the area from Hollywood Blvd. north to Taft St. and from Park Rd. east to the Seaboard tracks, he said.

City commissioners played it smart last week by authorizing the proposed drainage district while residents of the section were just getting things back in order from the flood.

A long dry spell might make the $100,000 look bigger and bigger and. . .

But don't feel badly, taxpayer.

If commissioners wanted storm sewers for the whole city, it would be a multi-million-dollar proposition. Watson thinks it would cost about $2 million for the downtown area alone.

This is because the Hollywood terrain in places is little more than a big bucket. Everytime it rains, the bucket fills up. There are few holes in the bucket.

If the entire city were to be storm sewered, $125,000 lift stations would be required.

Chief's Lottery Definition Backed

POLICE CHIEF Phil Thompson's stand on what constitutes a lottery has been backed up by State Attorney General Richard D. Ervin.

City Attorney August Paoli said two local business firm's which city detectives stopped from holding drawings were conducting what amounted to lotteries.

A lottery must have these three features:

Chance.

A consideration.

A prize.

Although the businessmen claimed there was no consideration in their cases, Ervin said the patronage created by the proposed drawings amounted to a consideration.

'Stop' Favored Over 'Yield' Sign

THE CITY will be testing yield right-of-way signs in the new Hollywood Hills section.

Although Mayor E. L. McMorrough would like to see them installed at many intersections, he has run into stiff opposition from Chief Thompson and Lt. Walter Nichols, the city traffic expert.

McMorrough contended motorists come to a "deader" stop at a yield sign than at a stop sign. The city is loaded with four-way stops at intersections.

Lt. Nichols cited national recommendations which clearly state that yield signs are not substitutes for stop signs.

"From 1948 through 1958, the city had 26 traffic fatalities," Lt. Nichols told the commission. "Sixteen of them were between 1948 and 1951." There was none in 1952.

He said there had been only 10 fatalities since 1952 when use of the four-way stops began.

"We had 350 less accidents last year than in 1957. Something is causing it," Lt. Nichols said.

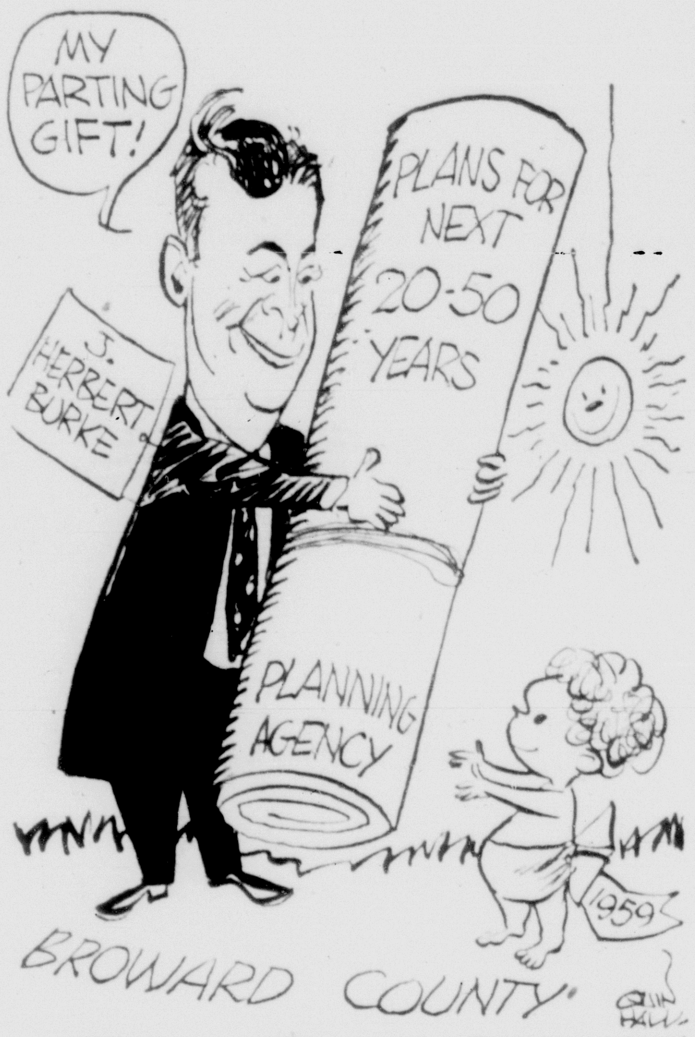
HENRY KINNEY

Planning Agency Ahead For Broward in 1959?



THIS MAY BE the year in which Broward County gets a long-needed planning agency.

Those who have been urging the establishment of such a thing for several years can take some hope from the fact that retiring County Commission Chairman J. Herbert Burke said as he left the chairmanship:

"We must look forward to our needs not only of today but those of 20 to 50 years hence. We must now plan ahead, for if we do not do so we will suffer as we are now doing because of the mistake and lack of planning of the past."

KINNEY

It can be assumed, apparently, that Burke will be a strong supporter of improved planning during his next two years on the board. New commissioner Frank Adler also has advocated it, and if those two can win some help from the other members, great gains in the field of planning may be accomplished.

The principal point that has always been overlooked or ignored, and must be kept in mind, is that planning must be somebody's full-time job. It can't succeed if it's left to the commissioners or tossed into some department which is mainly concerned with other things.

It must have, moreover, the support and understanding of the municipalities, since coordination of planning for the cities and the unincorporated areas has to go hand in hand.

If the commission should become seriously interested in setting up a planning agency, perhaps its first move should be a conference or a series of conferences with the Broward County League of Municipalities on the subject of what form the agency should take.

County-City Ties Needed

BURKE in his statement touched briefly on this matter of coordination with the cities. If his suggestions are taken to heart by the new commission, we may witness a significant change in the relationships between the counties and the cities.

"As county commissioners we must accept the offensive and no longer be on the defensive," he said. "We must undertake a program of mutual cooperation with our municipalities as well as with our representatives in both our State and Federal Legislatures."

Considering the number of occasions on which city commissions and the county board have been virtually at each other's throats in recent years, and the length of time it usually takes for a municipal government to work out a joint problem with the county government, this is sound advice.

* * *

Retirees Can Give Much

ANOTHER paragraph in Burke's statement also merits much consideration: "We should appoint citizens' committees as a method of pooling ideas, determining goals and mobilizing to reach a true solution to our problems."

It has been said many times that the people and governments of this area are allowing great resources to go to waste in not utilizing the innumerable successful business and professional men who have retired here. Their pool of knowledge of government, finance, planning, building, aviation and many other subjects is enormous.

Unfortunately, it's been the habit of too many of our governing bodies to seek the help of some of these men and then brush off their advice.

If they're to be brought into service as counselors or advisors, they should have some assurance that whatever conclusions they reach will get serious consideration.

Redhead Faces Drama Of 2nd Murder Trial

By PETER LAINE

Herald Staff Writer

THE STAGE is all set for another episode in the intensely human drama of Mary Welborn, a 23-year-old redhead with the mind of a child.

The curtain goes up Monday morning in Criminal Court. All the leading players will be there.

Mary herself, lost in the maze of legal argument, will be charged again with second degree murder.

Emerson Allsworth, now with the added prestige of a state representative, will try to make the charge stick.

Ellis Rubin, defense attorney, will probe restlessly among the prosecution arguments, pouncing on the weaker links in the chain.

Judge Louis Weissing will sit above it all, earnestly striving to see that both sides abide by the rules.

Six men, as yet unknown, will be charged with the responsibility of giving Mary an honest decision.

And there will be a host of bailiffs, matrons, clerks, deputies witnesses, reporters, coffee-break employes, official and unofficial spectators interested in seeing the law in motion.

Mary is accused of shooting a young engineer who gave her a lift on U. S. 27 Christmas Day a year ago.

Her first trial was washed out after three long days when a psychiatrist gave prejudicial testimony in front of the jury.

According to one official, five members of that jury were ready to return a second-degree murder conviction, and the sixth favored manslaughter.

MARY

* * *

A Dilemma

MARY'S a major problem for the state and for society.

The state has a thankless job focusing its skill against a girl with a tragic history whose sanity is disputed by experts.

Society has a problem if she is turned free penniless and defenseless into a harshly competitive world — a natural prey for evil.

* * *

She'd Be Free

THE CIRCUMSTANCES of Mary's arrest relate directly to the new debate on preliminary hearings, an issue that's vitally important to every citizen.

If Mary were smart and knew the angles, she'd have been free long ago.

She would have demanded to see an attorney, who would have told her to keep her mouth shut.

She would not have given the statement that is now the prosecution's big stick.

Tommy Nunn, expert investigator, testified last week that there was nothing at the scene of the shooting to indicate anyone was with the victim when he died.

* * *

Saw No Lawyer

AS IT WAS, Christmas Day 1957 fell on a Wednesday. Mary was arrested on the following Sunday.

The next Friday she gave police a confession.

The day after — Saturday, Jan. 4 — she saw an attorney for the first time.

* * *

Basic Right

THE LAW requires that an arrested person be taken without unnecessary delay before a magistrate who informs the defendant of the charge and his rights.

One of these rights is to refuse to say anything. Another is the right to the immediate aid of counsel.

But attorneys who should know say this procedure isn't followed in Broward County these days.

The average citizen last heard his rights spelled out in a high school civics class.

They're not easy to remember in the confusion of an arrest and the shock of landing in jail.

Nine out of 10 people can't tell you right now what they are.

Mary Welborn, woman with a child's mind, didn't know either.

Penalties Forgotten

POMPANO BEACH—What do you have to do to get punished for a building code violation in this city?

The building inspectors themselves are pondering this question in the light of recent developments.

Six weeks ago inspections revealed that 11 homes in a high class neighborhood were in violation of zoning regulations by having more rental units than were allowed.

No action was taken for several weeks, while attorneys for both sides discussed the matter.

Then the property owners involved filed a petition for rezoning, to make their illegal acts legal. The Zoning Commission turned them down—then the City Commission decided there should be a public hearing on the matter.

So the property owners have obtained another couple months use of their non-conforming buildings.

If their rezoning request is finally turned down, they'll probably argue "but we've got the units rented for the season, what can we do?" And the violations may well be allowed to continue on into the summer.

Then there's the case of a local nitery that wanted to decorate the place up a bit by putting a palm thatch roof over the front porch. The building inspector said no. The city manager said no. Letters were written. The man said he still wasn't going to take it down.

Finally Inspector Howard Lane swore out a warrant against the owner. In Municipal Court the case was given another week's continuance to allow correction of the violation.

Employes Crowd Parking Spots

ONE OF THE reasons most merchants usually go along with the idea of putting in parking meters is because there never is enough space in front of their establishments—primarily because employes use the space.

The same thing is true now of most shopping centers. A great many valuable spaces are taken up by empolyes autos while acres of employe parking space in the rear of the stores go unused.

Pedals Blamed for Accidents

STEPHEN D. MARTIN JR., acting municipal judge in Pompano, cited another frequent cause of minor accidents: Late model cars with power brakes have so large a brake pedal, there's hardly any space between that and the gas pedal.

She'll Make History

By DUANE JONES

Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County's first woman School Board member will be sworn into office at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

She is Mrs. Virginia Young, mother of three children, and a resident here since 1926.

Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Young, a Democrat, succeeds Board Chairman Robert Ferris, who did not seek reelection.

A former school trustee here, Mrs. Young has been a close observer of educational developments and problems for many years.

She served two terms as president of the West Side Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association, and is now legislative chairman of the Stranahan High School PTA.

Mrs. Young has served on numerous local and state educational committees, and actively supported the $18.5 million school construction bond issue passed here two years ago.

She also has been active in the Fort Lauderdale League of Women Voters, and is a former president of the city's Woman's Club.

While campaigning for a seat on the School Board, Mrs. Young pledged "A sound, business-like approach to all school problems."

She said board members should "face controversies calmly, with an inquiring, open mind, and with a determination to reach a solution in the best interests of youngsters being educated."

Mrs. Young has attended board meetings regularly for several years.

Juvenile Crimes Decrease

POMPANO BEACH—There were only 16 offenses committed by juveniles during December — the lowest total in many months.

M. J. Marinelli and G. P. Grande, officers of the Pompano Beach youth bureau, report three juveniles were given traffic citations, three were runaways, there were five juvenile disturbances, one grand larceny, two petty larcenies and two cases of vandalism.

The apprehension of a juvenile who had been plaguing the area with lewd telephone calls, was cited by the Youth Bureau as a major achievement during December.

Game of 'Tag' Expensive

5 Pounds on Your Car May Cost You Extra $5

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Many owners of 1959 automobiles will be paying an extra $5 for a higher classification license tag because the manufacturer built the car just a few pounds too heavy for a cheaper tag.

For example: If you own a new Plymouth Fury sport sedan, it weighs 3,505. If it weighed 3,500, you'd get by with a plain auto tag for $15. But because of those extra five pounds, you'll need a "W" tag, at $20.

There are several makes of automobile that come that close — within four or six pounds. But there are many others which miss a lower classification by less than 50 pounds.

But it won't do you any good to strip down the weight of your car.

The tag agency has a detailed chart giving the manufacturer's weight for each new auto.

On some Buicks you'll be only 56 to 61 pounds over qualifying for a $20 "W" tag.

Some Chevrolets are as little as 39 pounds over, requiring a "W" rather than a plain $15 tag.

Even a small car like the Rambler can require a "W" tag because of 45 pounds.

And then there's this matter of automatic transmissions, or factory-installed air conditioning. It is counted in the licensing weight, too.

For instance, a Ford custom Ranchero weighs in at 3,492, needing only a $15 tag. But with a Fordomatic transmission you add 20 pounds, and with an overdrive, 30 pounds — just enough difference to require a $20 tag.

And there's a Pontiac Safari station wagon that's just four pounds heavier than the maximum allowed for a "W" tag, requiring a "WW."

Another close one is the Edsel four door hardtop, which weighs 3,505 — just five pounds heavy enough to need a $20 tag.

When you get down to the low weight of some foreign autos, you have the same situation. For instance, a Simca convertible takes a $10 "D" tag, because it is six pounds too heavy for a $5 tag.

Get out the manual that came with your new car, and check this list, to see how close you come to missing a different price tag.

Autos up to 2,000 pounds take a $5, "T" tag.

From 2,001 to 2,500 pounds, a $10 "D" tag.

From 2,501 to 3,500, a $15 tag.

From 3,501 to 4,500 pounds, a "W", $20 tag.

From 4,501 and up, a $25 "WW" tag.

When a Fellow Needs a Friend

By FRAN LASLIE

WEST HOLLYWOOD — What are new toys when a guy has lost his best pal?

Little Mike London, 3, surrounded by barely touched Christmas gifts, faces his saddest new year.

He can't find his favorite buddy—Sport, a five-month-old Beagle hound.

Sport has been missing since Christmas from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe London, 6815 SW 16th St.

But Mike hasn't given up hope. Early every morning he tiptoes to the front door and hopefully calls for his puppy.

Mom and Dad have tried placating Mike with new guns, a cowboy suit and a classy jeep.

But he isn't easily soothed.

He squared his tiny shoulders Wednesday and said:

"Mama, I want Sport."

Mrs. London said the dog was last seen in the vicinity of Broward International Airport, not far from where he jumped from the London car.

The lost dog is tan, black and white.

'Vets' Sure of Future

CHICAGO—(UPI)—Today's veterinary student has his choice of research, industry or government service, and a virtual guarantee of job security.

Veterinarians, more important now than ever before, protect the nation's public health and its ever-growing livestock industry.

Jobs in the profession, estimated at twice the number of graduates available to fill them, include those in private practice, research and in industrial supervision.

Veterinary medicine is a six-year course. After two years at any accredited college, candidates enter a veterinary college for four years of specialized training.

Vocational Division Lists Class Schedule

FORT LAUDERDALE — Second semester schedule for the adult and vocational education division has been announced by Jim Burnsted, director.

Courses are offered at four sites — the Fort Lauderdale Adult Center at 400 E. Broward Blvd., the Stranahan Adult Center at SW 18th Ave. at Fifth Pl., in Fort Lauderdale, the Hollywood Adult Center at South Broward High School and the Pompano Beach Adult Center at Pompano Beach High School.

Registration for Hollywood classes will be Wednesday and Thursday after 7 p.m. The three other centers will register Monday and Tuesday after 7 p.m. Regular registration fee for each course is $1.50.

Classes begin Monday night, Jan. 12. A high school curriculum leading to a diploma is offered Monday through Thursday nights.

The schedules:

FORT LAUDERDALE ADULT CENTER
400 E. BROWARD BLVD.

First Baptist Church Believes in Missions

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The First Baptist Church at 1657 Monroe St. is mission minded.

"We've been fortunate to have a few dairymen in our church to donate the land," said the Rev. W. N. Gardner, pastor.

The dairymen are Henry Perry, Ben Butler and W. P. Waldrep.

Perry, the Rev. Mr. Gardner said, donated a three-acre tract for the Pembroke Rd. church; Butler gave two acres for a church at Sheridan St.; and Waldrep turned over two acres for a mission near Driftwood Acres in West Hollywood.

Membership of the mother church has remained high despite of the large following that leaves when a new mission is created.

When the Rev. Gardener took over the pulpit 12 years ago, First Baptist Church had 300 members. Today there are 600.

A $45,000 addition to the education building and refurbishing the auditorium highlighted a recent improvement program.

8future improvements call for airconditioning and construction of an auditorium. Two lots adjacent to the church are used for parking.

Three missions sponsored by the First Baptist are First Baptist Hall, Westside Baptist Church and Pembroke Road Baptist.

"We are proud of our mission work, and we are working for more," said the Rev. Gardner.

The clergyman came to Hollywood from a Navy chaplaincy. He was ordained in 1936 after attending the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He is married and has three sons.

Bad Day For Bank Bandits

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — Two would-be bandits did everything wrong in an attempt to rob a loan office here.

Armed with toy pistols, the pair ordered loan appraiser Ben Elliott to lie on the floor — next to a holdup alarm. Elliott sounded the alarm.

As they left, one of the bandits dropped the $581 loot and had to pick it up. He also tripped his companion, breaking the latter's glasses, and overlooked $2,900 lying on a counter.

As they fled in a stolen auto, they crashed into three cars, and came to a halt when they struck a fourth while headed the wrong way on a one-way street.

The men, William O'Malley, 48, and Albert Prowse, 31, tried to run in opposite directions but were collared by four policemen.

Friends Meet After 42 Years

NOGALES, Ariz. — (AP) — Lucas Loucopoulous of Bartlesville, Okla., stopped at a Nogales restaurant en route to a California vacation.

In a talk with the waitress, he learned the restaurant owner's name was Peter Paptis.

Loucopoulous gave a loud shout and he and Paptis had a happy reunion. Both are natives of Greece and both worked in the same cafe in Memphis, Tenn. They hadn't seen each other in 42 years.

Guy Gorilla Gorilla's Grooming for 'World's Finest' Title

LONDON — (AP) — A huge hunk of too friendly flesh named Guy Gorilla Gorilla is getting the big star buildup as the world's most magnificent animal. But all he gets out of it is peanuts.

Gorilla Gorilla is, in fact, a gorilla. Gorilla Gorilla is the familys' Latin name. In English it's just plain gorilla.

A month ago Guy was unknown, brooding massively in the monkey house at London Zoo. Occasionally he would turn to spit at passing humans. Even this was frustrating because plate glass protects them.

Everything changed after TV braintruster Sir Julian Huxley, zoologist brother of novelist Aldous Huxley, announced that Guy was the finest animal he ever set eyes on.

"Sad yet noble . . . magnificent in his silent strength," Huxley called him. And after 13 years of obscurity Guy was suddenly as celebrated as any rock'n' roll idol.

Papers print his picture. Schoolgirls line up to toss peanuts over the glass screen and down his cavernous throat. Radio men arrive to record his occasional snort.

Guy thinks it's great.

POMPANO BEACH — Statistics showing only $7,730,798 worth of construction here in 1958, a 39 per cent drop from the $12,637,902 of 1957—are a bit misleading.

There was $4,907,104 less construction of all kinds for the year, but the $2,010,111 worth of public buildings counted in the 1957 permits account for almost half that difference.

While total valuation of homes constructed in the year was less than in 1957 ($3,818,892 against $4,498,567), there were more homes built, 234, compared to 206 in 1957.

Other comparative statistics for the two years:

Duplexes: 1957, 272 valued at $2,214,084; 1958, 54 valued at $482,564.

Apartments: 339 in 1957, $2,293,060; 172 in 1958, $1,311,860.

Business buildings: 116 in 1957, $1,966,017; 104 in 1958, $1,219,400.

Industrial buildings: Three in 1957, $90,000; three in 1958, $103,000.

Additions: 40 in 1957, $353,521; 150 in 1958, $305,350.

Miscellaneous permits: 128 in 1957, $240,576; 378 in 1958, $407,149.

A total of 119 buildings were demolished in the northwest section of town under the city's slum clearance program.

Carpet Note

A new kind of filament yarn, textured Caprolan, a plastic substance formed in a continuous strand, is being used in new nylon carpets that collect little dust and do not shed or pull.

Tunesmen Back at Pal's With Zip and Rhythms

By PATRICIA BROWN
Herald Columnist

NIGHTBEAT activities continue at a merry clip with new acts bowing in last week and more coming up.

Pal's Restaurant-Lounge rang in the Tunesmen New Year's Eve, a return engagement for the group with a well-earned reputation for top-flight musical fare augmented by a good blend of voices.

The boys are hep in all directions — a real pro outfit which has lost none of its zip since it closed a successful run in this spot last April.

Hotel Diplomat has come up with a triple feature in Lilo, Billy de Wolfe and the Johnny Conrad Dancers. Lilo, of course, rates highest on the decibel score sheet. This is the French pastry (starred in the Broadway production of Can-Can) who has stamina, personality and a voice that might easily shatter a chandelier at 10 paces.

Lilo's belting her songs in the elegant Cafe Cristal with assurance and pure showmanship — the repertoire laced with razzamatazz and bits of French nostalgia.

The Conrad Dancers and Billy de Wolfe, all sturdy troupers, manage to hold their own, rounding out a show that is pure delight.

THE NEW Lorelei Room (former Mermaid Lounge) opened last weekend after extensive remodeling and redecorating and you won't recognize the old place. Only familiar faces on the premises are on the covey of mermaids still disporting themselves along the painted wall over the bar.

Bossman Jim O'Hare brought in Pops Singer Joe Valino and Thrush Nancy Lee for the opening; Jackie Jay takes over Monday night. Jackie, a comic, blows down from the Barclay Hotel in Toronto, is reportedly an easygoing entertainer with a batch of clever material.

Incidentally, anybody need a fancy sign? Jim's got a couple of old "Mermaids" he doesn't know what to do with.

UPCOMING: Marksmen to Four O'Clock Club for a return engagement Tuesday, same date, Barbershoppers "Evening of Harmony" at War Memorial Auditorium . . . Rusty Warren to the Beach Club Thursday . . . Mid-month brings Gwen Vari to Bahia Mar Lounge; "Smiling Fritz" and maybe a short chorus line of milkmaids to Grandma's . . . Lenny Herman to Marie Antoinette Jan. 20.

PALM BEACH'S Royal Poinciana Playhouse opens its 10-week season Jan. 26, continuing a policy of presenting recent or current Broadway productions with Broadway stars.

The million and a half dollar playhouse, said to be America's first new professional legitimate theater in 30 years, is also expected to house several pre-Broadway productions.

Celebrity Room has been enlarged and redecorated, the restaurant-lounge now under the direction of Nino.

ANYTHING to the rumor that Ralph Flanigan is picking up a band and will hit the area come February? And that Lad Richards will be back with his calypso band at Danny's Jamaican Room after successfully skirting an agent's take for commission?

DON'T THROW away your old hi-fi set yet, fellas, but sooner or later it's going to be as obsolete as high button shoes. Newcomer to the field of sound, stereo, is gaining ground faster than its exponents ever anticipated.

Straws in the wind: The show biz folk who endorse it hook, line and amplifier, with one of its most ardent disciples Preacher Rollo.

Preacher frequently brings along his own stereophonic equipment to a job. Turns out the jazz drummer has been absorbed with principles of sound ever since he got curious and tore the family radio apart 20 years ago.

Currently he's building electronic equipment as a sideline, called "Preacher's Wall of Sound," which utilizes a middle channel amplifier and speaker to eliminate what he calls "the hole in the middle." He's also devised a new small speaker which will fit into one cubic foot of air space.

Preacher was up this way last week for the trial run of the new yacht ordered by Harry Blum of Beam Distilling Co. Preacher supplied a stereo system with all the component parts "tropicalized" to withstand the elements. Jazzman thinks it may be the first set of its kind.

HERE AND THERE: Eddie and Claire Davis at the Beach Club through Wednesday . . . Organist Bob Allen making the dinner music at Bahia Mar Restaurant . . . Joe La Clair at the Sea Garden . . . Johnny Aladdin at Palm Beach Towers . . . Vernon, the Irish palmist, still holding hands at the Yankee Clipper . . . Mary Seymour, wife of the Sea Shore's manager, commuting between Lauderdale and a beeg job in New York.

MAI KAI'S MOLOKAI bar has Greta back as bearer of the colossal mystery drink. Cindy, former "mystery girl," has gone into the Ziegfeld show down at the Carillon. And wasn't that Zsa Zsa Gabor sampling the Polynesian fare at Mai Kai with Harold Chaskin, Miami Beach playboy and millionaire tile contractor?

Disneyland Adding Six Attractions

ANAHEIM, Calif. — (UPI) — Walt Disney has launched a $5,500,000 construction program to expand his Disneyland playground by six new attractions.

The projects include a full-scale monorail, first of its kind in the U.S.; a voyage beneath "the polar ice cap" in a submarine; a 14-story reconstruction of the Matterhorn, complete with bobsled and skyway rides through glacier grottos; two new super "autopias," and a massive new lake.

In announcing the expansion program—largest since the fun spot opened in 1955—Disney said the target date for completion is early next June.

The program will boost the total investment at Disneyland to $28,600,000.

Ex-Ambassador To Discuss East

FORT LAUDERDALE — Stanton S. Griffis of Palm Beach and New York, former ambassador to Egypt, will discuss the current situation in the Near East in a lecture at the Fort Lauderdale Art Center Thursday at 8 p.m.

His appearance is one of a series of monthly talks which the center is offering for members.

Griffis, an investment banker who holds executive positions with several large corporations, also was the U.S. commissioner of Arab relief.

He was in government service from 1942 until 1951, on various missions to Europe, as ambassador to Poland, Egypt, Argentina and Spain, special representative to Sweden, and American Red Cross commissioner in the Pacific area during World War II.

He is the author of a book, "Lying in State," published in 1952.

Leasing Is Their Business

SAN FRANCISCO —(UPI) — The pilot of a twin-engine transport plane in Colorado and the skipper of a barge off the Virginia coast have one thing in common.

The craft they command both belong to a behind-the-scenes enterprise in the business world, the United States Leasing Corp., an eight-year-old firm that rents out everything from bulldozers to cash registers.

Unlike the leasing of property, and even fleets of automobiles, the leasing of a wide range of machines, store fixtures and equipment is fairly new.

Leasing became feasible because of "tight" money policies and because companies sought to avoid being saddled with equipment that became obsolete before it could be depreciated.

Lt. Gen. Charles B. Stone, USAF, Ret., chief executive officer of U.S. Leasing, points out that "some firms in the electronics and missiles fields lease all equipment, right down to the stapler on the secretary's desk."

In leasing business equipment, the firm needing it specifies whose material it wants and then makes a lease agreement for a reasonable period. U.S. Leasing then pays the seller at the standard price when the equipment is delivered to the lessee. When a lease is up it may be extended at a lower rate.

Gen. Stone adds that while leasing costs more than outright purchase, the cost must be weighed against the increased earnings that result from keeping working capital liquid.

WATCHTOWER OFFICIAL TO SPEAK

FORT LAUDERDALE — Francis R. Eldridge, New York, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, will speak at 3 p.m. today and Jan. 11 at Kingdom Hall, 507 SE 11th Ct.

The talks are public.

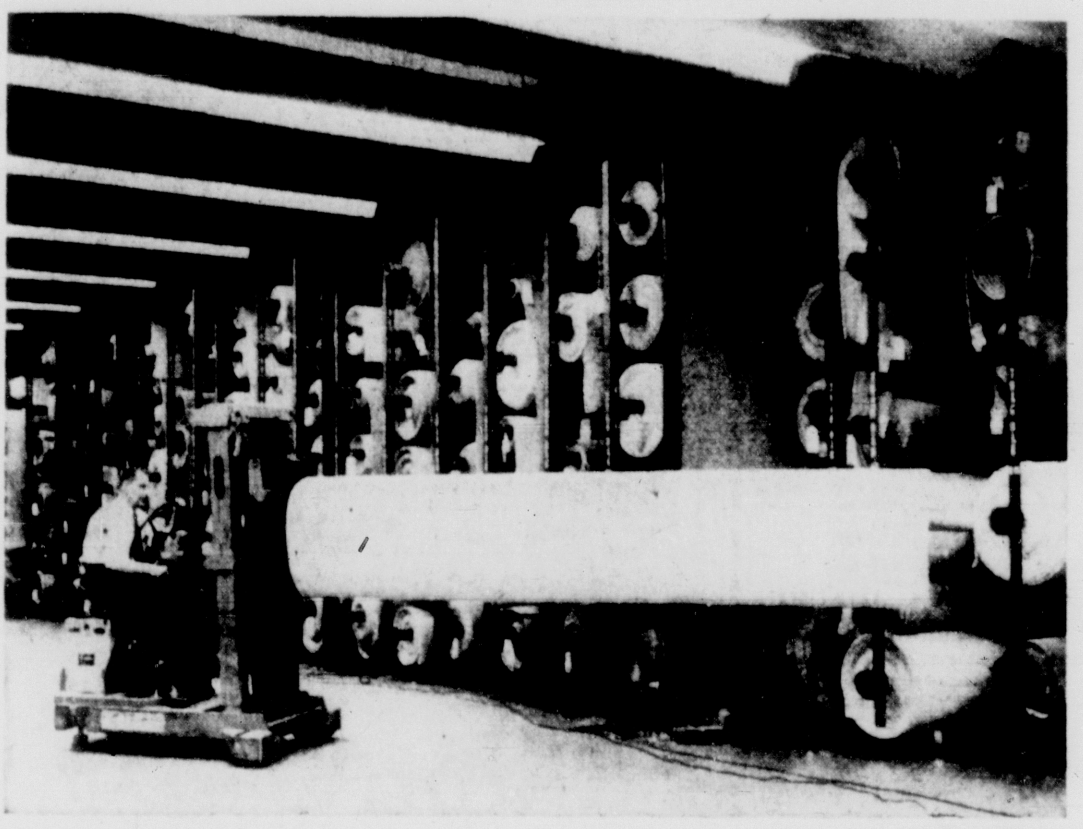
BROWARD BUSINESS REVIEW

The Miami Herald

FOR INFORMATION REGARDING THIS ADVERTISING SECTION CALL JA 3-7341



WINTER VISITORS will be amazed when they see the large selection of carpet styles, colors and prices at the Harry Rich showroom. The Loadmobile, shown above in front of the gigantic Trak-Rak, is but one of the modern carpet handling methods utilized at this beautiful store, located at 8300 Biscayne Blvd., Miami.

Modern Facilities, Methods Make Harry Rich Nation's Leader in Carpet

Behind every successful business there usually is one man whose energy, initiative and imagination burn so brightly that those who serve under him do so with confidence, loyalty and enthusiasm.

Customers and competitors often ask how Harry Rich, president of the carpet company bearing his name, can operate successfully the largest carpet showroom in the nation in a market the size of Miami. One quick answer is, because of Harry Rich. There are other answers of course.

Harry Rich has the most modern facilities for carpet handling in the United States. He has brought warehouse handling methods into the retail showroom. Examples of this are the Loadmobile fork-lift truck, especially adapted to carry rolls of carpet, and the huge Trak-Rak. On this mechanical marvel are stored some 500 rolls of broadloom carpet of every price, color and weave desirable.

Only a retail showroom of extraordinary size, in this case 23,000 square feet of space, can such a device be accomodated. With little effort a decorator-trained salesman can slide out one section and unroll a length of carpet sufficient to enable a customer to see the merchandise in its proper perspective.

Rich maintains his position in the carpet business because he has built an enviable reputation on the solid foundation of customer satisfaction. Volume sales make volume purchasing possible. This in turn means lower prices to the customer for quality merchandise.

Every item sold by Harry Rich is represented honestly. When a salesman tells a customer that the carpet being shown is first quality the customer can have complete confidence in that statement. This is true of statements made if the carpet is a remnant or a "factory second."

It is only natural that customers who have been faithfully served should tell their friends of their pleasant and profitable experiences. As a result of this chain reaction, the name and fame of Harry Rich have passed far beyond the strict confines of Miami as his market.

Interesting comments concerning the above-average personnel and facilities of the Harry Rich establishment at 8300 Biscayne Blvd., Miami, are well known to those who see and hear of them. News-worthy accounts of Rich's civic interests and activities frequently appear in the press. Residents of Florida's east and west coast communities and winter visitors are reminded that a cordial welcome always is extended to visit the showroom whenever possible.

It is particularly interesting to know that many who come from the north to enjoy Florida's sunshine find that they may buy carpet from Harry Rich and have it shipped to their homes for less money than they could buy it in their local stores. Complete facilities are available to make shipments to any state in the U.S., as well as anyplace in Canada and South America.

The Harry Rich showroom is open every day, except Sunday, until 5:30 p.m. On Monday and Friday the closing hour is 9 p.m.

HOUSED IN BUILDING pictured above, are retail salesrooms and modern packing plant where fruit from Flamingo Groves is prepared for shipment. Wray gift-packed baskets and boxes are known from coast to coast.

Flamingo Groves Have Country-wide Reputation for Finest Quality Fruit

Floyd L. Wray, president of Floyd L. Wray's Flamingo Orange Groves, recently was asked why the general area of the eastern shore of Florida, in which his famous citrus groves and Botanic Garden are located, frequently is called "the Gold Coast."

"Any one of a number of reasons might suffice," said Wray, "but I like to think that whoever coined that phrase had just visited Flamingo Groves and had seen acre after acre of beautiful tangelo trees, full-fruited and at the peak of all their golden glory.

"Since Flamingo Groves and our Botanic Garden are so near the coast line, it is entirely possible that some inspired visitor could have named this entire area 'the Gold Coast.' He, or she, would have seen mile upon mile of golden fruit at its very best, in this part of Florida."

Floyd L. Wray's Flamingo Orange Groves cover approximately 460 acres producing the finest quality citrus fruit, including oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tangelos and tangerines. These groves were started commercially in 1926 principally to supply fruit in carload lots to northern markets.

As time went on, however, the picture gradually changed. Some fruit still is sold to producers of concentrated orange juice and canned grapefruit juice, but by far the largest part of each year's crop goes to meet a new demand.

Gift boxes and baskets today are being shipped to every state in the U. S. and to Canada. The tremendous popularity of these gift packages is attested by the fact that the Wray packing plant requires a very large part of the 75,000 boxes of fruit produced by the Flamingo Groves. Retail sales at the packing plant salesrooms and at the groves account for their respective shares. The packing plant, located at 3501 S. Federal Hwy. (U. S. 1) and the Flamingo Groves are under the personal supervision of William E. Wood, general manager.

Visitors are always welcome at the packing plant. An observation balcony makes it possible for the visitors to see every operation of a modern fruit packing plant and to follow the fruit from the moment it is delivered from the groves until it is packed in the beautiful boxes and woven baskets for shipment into the winter-bound north. Every shipment carries with it the guarantee of "arrival in perfect condition."

The Floyd L. Wray's Flamingo Orange Groves, as well as the Botanic Garden, located five miles west of Davie, is a "must" for winter visitors. The guided tour of the Garden with its magnificent display of rare tropical plants and fruits from foreign lands and an inspection of the citrus laboratory will be long-remembered treats.

Roadside signs on Route 84 west of Route 441, and on Route 441 south of the intersection of Routes 84 and 441, point the way directly to Flamingo Groves. Visitors are urged to bring their cameras.

Additional information may be had by calling the Fort Lauderdale retail store at the packing house. The telephone number if JAckson 2-0331.

Bayview—School in a Park—Answers Problems With a 'Home Look' Design

By DICK MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — The School Board knew it had architectural knots to untangle when a decision was made to build a school in Bayview Park.

Architect Charles F. McKirahan met the problems head-on by designing Bayview Elementary as a cluster-type school, thus meeting demands of limited acreage and fashionable surroundings.

Broward County's first cluster-style school will open Monday. The site, 1175 Middle River Dr., is in city-owned Bayview Park.

Designed to eliminate the "institutional look," the school has modern lines, including a gable roof.

McKirahan adopted a domestic approach to fit the school to its environs. The exterior appearance is not unlike that of a large home, and school authorities contend that this fact helps first graders to more readily accept the transition from home to school.

Bayview Elementary's layout affords the impression that the school is in one large building, but actually there are five buildings connected by contiguous covered loggias.

Large glass areas permit proper natural lighting, and overhangs are fashioned to provide some measure of sun control. Aluminum jalousies and projected aluminum sash help provide the desired ventilation.

A chain link fence is being hurried to completion along the bank of Middle River, west of the school.

Colors reflect the trend to modernized thinking about school construction. The stucco exterior is sand-colored, and the gable roof has green and white stripes. Green is a prevalent color throughout 15 classrooms, administrative suite and cafetorium.

Contract price of the 350-student structure was $263,420. A total of 319 youngsters, enrolled in the first through the sixth grades, will attend school Monday, moving over from Bennett Elementary.

Students are from areas east of Federal Hwy. north of Sunrise Blvd.

Although the site is relatively small, Bayview Elementary will benefit from its location. Through cooperation between the School Board and the city, Bayview Park will be available for recreational programs tying in with the school curriculum.

The cluster plan, entailing a compact placement of classrooms, reduces the space allocation for walkways.

Charles Lowery, school planner, said that despite a unique floor plan, Bayview is "basically typical of other schools we have built."

Miss Margaret Smith has been named principal of the "new look" school, which seems to possess the "character and originality" school planners strive for these days.

Sails Setting Up Sales For Real Estate Man

It was just a question of time, probably, until some more or less enterprising real estate man opened an office on a boat to serve this water-conscious part of the country.

No doubt many brokers have thought of it, but the first man actually to do it was Jack Coffey of South Atlantic Islands Inc.

Even Coffey's version of the idea is not a real estate office as we think of such offices, but he's come close enough to get some attention.

His headquarters is the Water Watch, a 54-foot racing schooner, which was berthed at Bahia Mar last week and will be bouncing in and out of other marinas along the Intracoastal as Coffey pursues prospects for waterfront and island property.

A boatman going expansively and expensively into the idea of a waterborne office might set up a fair-sized organization in the main salon of a houseboat such as some 80 and 100-foot craft docked at Bahia Mar. Coffey has to make out, however, in rather cramped quarters, a salon about big enough for three or four people and possibly room for a secretary and typewriter somewhere else farther aft. Sailing craft are not noted for generous living quarters.

Coffey deals in Caribbean and Bahama Island as well as Florida properties. He expects to be able to show prospects not only waterfront sites along this coast, but to take real live ones to places like Jamaica in the company's boat or its plane.

The thought occurred immediately to some of our landlocked brokers that anyone operating such an establishment could waste a good deal of time and money jaunting around with would-be clients who didn't buy. Coffey's reply to this apparently is a statement in his press release reading:

"Sould prospective buyers show interest and prove to be acceptable, transportation may be provided to the property . . ."

ANYONE considering the development of an FHA-insured cooperative, such as the Breakwater Towers, has to consider one requirement that might give pause: 50 per cent of the buyers must be veterans

This clause gave the Breakwater firm some concern at first. There seemed to be a low ratio of veterans among the early applicants.

As sales continued, however, the ratio grew and, as it turned out, the requirement was met without any special selling campaign on the part of the developers.

Apparently, as one official of the firm pointed out, because of the length of the World War II and Korean War periods, any given group of men in the U.S. today is just naturally 50 per cent or more veteran.

It's easy to imagine, however, that in an FHA co-op promotion where the prices get up near the luxury bracket, getting the necessary ratio might present a serious problem.

California, Midwest Get Broward Story Via TWA

IN THE EXCITEMENT of having Northeast Air Lines inaugurate direct flights to Broward International Airport last month, the local impact of Trans-World Airlines' new flights to Miami from the Midwest and Pacific Coast, which also began in mid-December, may have been overlooked.

TWA is selling Fort Lauderdale as well as Miami package tours in California and finding the response to them quite good, said Nancy Miller, a TWA representative who spoke to a real estate group at a Coral Ridge Properties breakfast.

Several local beach hotels are participating in the package, and the Schine hotel chain, with properties in Los Angeles and Miami, has begun advertising breakfast on one coast and dinner on the other.

There's a surprising amount of business travel between the two resort areas, Miss Miller said, in addition to a rather heavy traffic in entertainment people. It's expected that the new swifter passage back and fourth will bring about a quickening of interest by California and Midwest investors in Florida properties.

The real boom in this kind of traffic likely will develop, however, in the wake of two big advances which TWA is hoping for during 1959. One is approval of a nonstop route, which will cut the flying time from Los Angeles from 11 hours to about 9½.

The other is the introduction of jets, which will slash it to six or seven hours.

The Civil Aeronautics Board is to hold hearings this month on the nonstop route application, and TWA expects to put its Boeing 707 jets into service toward the end of the year.

The appearance of California investment capital in Broward County's real estate and commercial marts may turn out to be one of the business highlights of the new year, and it's logical to suppose that next season will bring here a noticeable number of West Coasters eager to try the South Florida brand of winter sunshine.

T-Shaped Home Overlooks Fairways

. . . model residence being erected in Sunset Isles

Home Near Sunset Golf Course Faces Links . . . Built to a 'T'

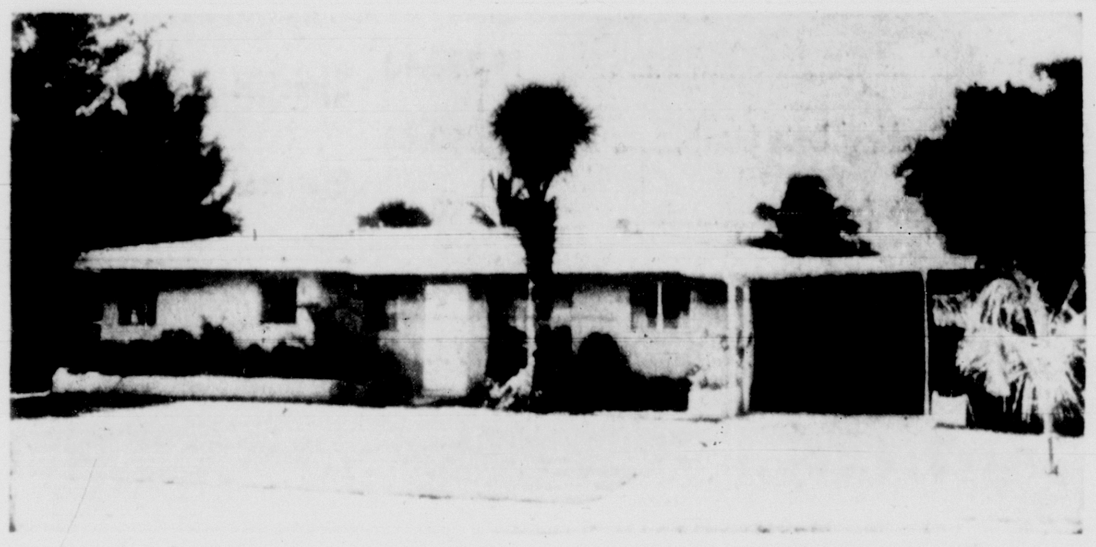
HOLLYWOOD — Appropriately designed in the shape of a "T," a model home under construction by Sunset Isles Properties faces the Sunset Golf Course.

The $29,500 three-bedroom, three-bath residence, on Arthur St., will be placed on display shortly after the first of the year, said S. J. Stone, SIP president.

A screened patio overlooks a fairway, and there also is a front patio enclosed by a low brick fence with a redwood trim.

Designed by Claus R. Moberg, the model is one of two in the $30,000 range to be offered in mid-January in Sunset Isles. Both homes are being built by the owner-builder of the 154-homesite subdivision.

All homes will have tile roofs and no two homes will have the same floor plan.



POMPANO BEACH home at 3205 Barton Rd. was purchased for $29,000 by Mrs. Marjorie F. Henderson. The residence, which has a swimming pool and cabana, was built by John Raymond and sold by Duane Strawbridge of Bateman & Co., Pompano Beach Realtors.

Furniture Gets New 'Cushion'

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Unlimited design possibilities in upholstered furniture are being opened up through a new manufacturing process based on the development of a pre-formed plastic frame, according to Futorian-Stratford Furniture Co. of Chicago.

The firm says its process permits shapings not previously practical with wood frame construction. Its first pieces with the new process are living room chairs, said to be stronger than conventionally constructed chairs and at the same time gracefully curved.

Building Up 87 Per Cent In Margate

MARGATE — Building permit figures for 1958 show Margate with an 87 per cent increase over the 1957 totals.

The figures, released by Mrs. Mary Hasler, town clerk, totaled $3,044,762 for 1958, compared with $1,624,769 for 1957.

Margate's figures are continuing to reverse the trend of lower building permit totals throughout most of the county.

New Life in the Sun Can Begin at 65 But the Young in Heart Need Help

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Life may begin at 40, but many must begin a new life at 65.

Very often they need help.

"The need is greater than it ever has been for bringing out the hidden resources of past retirement age people to help them enjoy the leisure activities that will give them a fuller life," said Temple Jarrell, superintendent of Fort Lauderdale's Parks and Recreation Department.

The past retirement age (many of them object to being called senior citizens) is one of the fastest-growing population groups, yet "there is no group backing them to help them obtain facilities they need," Jarrell said.

"They are not inclined to band together to indicate their needs, either," he said.

Jarrell's department is attempting to meet those needs with a variety of activities for older people, but he would like to be able to do even more.

"We need to develop a number of special interest programs and we need a building where activities can be held daily and nightly in one place," he said.

The Recreation Advisory Board has tentatively scheduled a $59,000 senior citizen's building to be constructed adjacent to the new library in Holiday Park. Jarrell envisions it as the first step of a community center where bowling on the green, croquet, horseshoes, and more shuffleboard courts will be available in addition to indoor facilities.

One of the reasons for the increased need for community recreation is a breakdown in family unity, Jarrell feels.

But that is a development that does not necessarily disturb grandparents.

"Older people are learning they don't have to live with their children. They can enjoy themselves on their own," said Mrs. Ruth Butcher, president of the 200-member Senior Citizens Club.

"But," said Mrs. Butcher, "they have to make friends and find activities."

"Old folks are getting smarter," she twinkled, "wouldn't live with their children if they didn't have a nickel."

Mrs. Butcher is not one to sit back and wait for old age. She is following one of the standard precepts of those who try to help older people plan their lives.

Mrs. Butcher has utilized a talent for making corsages that both keeps her busy and provides her with a little pin money.

Jarrell pointed out that many retired people who move here will participate in activities such as folk dancing and crafts that they never considered up North.

Mrs. Ruth Blackmore, who has worked with the Young As You Feel dance group since its inception, said many of the dancers who attend are dancing for the first time in 40 years.

"And we've had several romances and weddings, too," she said of her over-40 group.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Writer-Designer Couple on Visit From California

By GRIFF PRESTON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—A marital team of successful and noteworthy personalities visiting here are writer Ben Masselink and his wife Jo Lathwood, the sports clothes designer par excellence. Mr. and Mrs. Masselink are here from Santa Monica visiting his parents, the B. H. Masselinks.

A first novel for short story Writer Ben Masselink now in the process of publication by Little Brown, will be entitled "The Crackerjack Marines."

It's a satire "based on dramatic truth."

(It's being scanned right now by the legal eagles of Little Brown for "any relation to persons living or dead" etc. angle.)

Author Masselink knows his Marines first hand. He served with the marine corps in World War II.

Recent publications of Mr. M.'s work include a story in the January issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, several stories in the Saturday Evening Post and one due in the Ladies' Home Journal. A collection of Masselink stories, "Partly Submerged," was published in England last year.

On the distaff side of this delightful husband and wife team is Jo Lathwood, who has designed clothes for some of Hollywood's more glamorous stars including Anne Baxter, Sophia Loren, June Allyson and Donna Reed.

This summer, Miss Lathwood will become the designer for Cole of California, sports clothes with "some wonderful mad gay colors" and fabrics designed by her based on Polynesian weaves.

Jo, here for a first visit in two years, has some glowing words to say about Fort Lauderdale.

"The shops here are getting wonderful. They have Miami Beach skinned off the map by a mile," she said.

The Masselinks, who do their working in the summer and travelling in the winter, will take a Mexican trip this year when they leave here. They will go by car for a south of the border tour, ending up in the little village of Puerta Villarta, where they will settle down and absorb local color for several months.

Miss Hall Is Doing Own Album

THE ERNEST A. HALLS' talented and attractive house guest is Fern Hall, here from Hollywood, Calif.

Miss Hall, who has appeared in pictures with such stars as Rod Cameron, Scott Brady and Fred MacMurray, has temporarily deserted the wide-wide screen and "is doing her own album of 12 songs — everything from rock and roll to waltzes and ballads."

Just to give you an idea, two of the Hall patter ditties are called . . . "I'm Going to Burp My Baby Tonight" and "Who Put the Turtle in Myrtle's Girdle."

One of her songs, "Love Again, Live Again," has been earmarked for a big forthcoming picture production by a top Hollywood producer-director. (No advance information permitted right now, but the producer-director's initials are A.D.)

Fern Hall got her first introduction into the domain of the platter world with the help of redoubtable Hedda Hopper, a longtime good friend.

Right now, Fern is "waiting for her elephant." This is a promised present from the Maharajah of Baroda, a memento of a date she had with him at a Hollywood party recently. If and when the elephant arrives, she threatens to present it to her father, Ernest Hall.

PIZZA PSYCHOLOGY

Spaghetti Eaters Can Be Analyzed

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Amateur psychologists look at spaghetti eaters and give out with free character analyses.

Do you attack the pasta boldly and directly, or play around ambivalently with its strands on the end of your fork?

If you use both a fork and spoon, do you wind the spaghetti neatly around your fork and then with the help of your spoon, lift it efficiently and affirmatively into your mouth? Or do you roll it higgledy-piggledy over your fork and use your spoon to juggle the loose ends into your buccal cavity?

Do you start right in eating at the top, or do you skeptically look over your plateful while you decide from which side to approach?

After this breakdown, the culinary witch doctors advise: Forget inhibitions and eat pasta any way you like. Spaghetti protocol allows many a slip between the plate and the lip.

That this country has taken to spaghetti and other Italian food is sure. Witness the cook books on the subject and their wide sale.

Young Artist Finding Her Future in Florida

By MARGARET WALKER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Nancy A. Leslie, 25-year-old artist from Columbus, Ohio, believes young artists can make their future here.

In fact, she expects to be joined by a group of friends who have in mind an art colony in Broward County similar to those in the East.

Nancy moved recently to Pompano Beach, where she is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Leslie, 3270 Aqua Vista Dr. After a brief stay in California, she decided to come here, having visited South Florida for a number of years with her family.

A graduate of Ohio State University where she obtained her BS, FFA, BFA and MA, Nancy had excellent training in art. One of her teachers and advisers was Hoyt Sherman, originator of visual demonstration centers.

After her graduation in 1956, she spent a summer in Europe, then returned to Ohio to teach art at Marion High School.

"The wonderful Florida climate kept me from getting my PhD," said Nancy with a smile.

The talented young painter is busy in many mediums—oil, water color, egg tempera, a method Rembrandt used; encaustic, a method employed by the ancient Egyptians; charcoal, india ink, in fact, even household paint and soya bean paint.

"I like to experiment," declared the enthusiastic young painter, who is also a sculptor and potter. She pointed to a large, colorful canvas, The Bull.

"Do you know how that started out? It was a painting of chickens, and I worked on it for six months in college. Suddenly, three days before it was to be hung for exhibit I decided it didn't have any 'zoom.' So I painted over it, and the painting became the bull you see there."

An exhibit of Nancy's imaginative, beautifully executed work in varied mediums will be held for the next two weeks at The Gallery, 617 E. Las Olas Blvd.

"There should be an original painting in everyone's home," Nancy remarked. She deplores the fact that many superbly decorated homes here lack paintings.

Architects and decorators have bought Nancy's paintings for buildings and homes in the North. She's sure the trend is growing here.

They Hoop It Up in Paris

PARIS — (WNS) — The hula hoop has become so popular in Paris that the Hulahoop Sisters, Linda and Nadja, have become the bright new stars of the Champs Elysees.

At an amateur strip-tease performance in Montmartre, seven girls in succession utilized hula hoops as a distraction while undressing onstage.

The Hulahoop Sisters challenged cowboy Marc Traynor to a duel. They bet that they could keep their hoops rolling longer than he could twirl his lariat.

The girls won easily: Traynor complained that he couldn't keep his mind on his work.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CEREMONY

Miss Mary Rotz Bride Of H. William Cost

FORT LAUDERDALE — Trinity Lutheran Church was scene of the 6:30 p.m. wedding ceremony Saturday when Miss Mary Louise Rotz and H. William Cost repeated their vows.

The Rev. Dean B. Kasischke performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Rotz, 911 Alabama Ave., Melrose Park, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Beryl Cost, 1220 NE Second St.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with scoop neckline edged in velvet braid embroidered with seed pearls. Her illusion veil was caught to a crown of pearls.

Mrs. Glenn Pridgen, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jo-Ann Huber of Fort Lauderdale and Beth Ann Myers of Bethlehem, Pa. Debbie Pridgen was flower girl.

The attendants wore gowns fashioned after that of the bride in white, trimmed with red velvet ribbons. They carried red and white carnations.

Bruce Remsburg was best man for the bridegroom whose ushers included Glenn O. Pridgen and Ronald C. Rotz.

A reception was at the Plaza Club in Melrose Park. The newlyweds left for a tour of Florida.

They will live in Fort Lauderdale.

Family of 4 In College

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — (UPI)— Merwin F. Bennett, his wife and two children all are students at Mississippi Southern College.

They call it togetherness.

Bennett explained that he and his wife cut short their education to raise a family. They operated a dairy farm until the children, a son and daughter, wre old enough to enter college.

Mother and Dad then saw their chance and signed up, too.

Bennett and son Merwin are juniors, daughter Virginia is a sophomore and Mrs. Bennett is a freshman.

Men Do Housework, Survey Shows

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Man works from sun to sun and then frequently helps woman with her work that's never done.

Some males darn socks, do ironing, make beds and even clean house.

The fact that today's homemaker frequently also is the man of the house shows anew in a questionnaire study of 6,500 housewives in the metropolitan New York area. Purpose of the study: To determine their attitude toward the role of the two sexes in domestic chores.

Eighty-one per cent of the women said they performed jobs which they thought should be done by men. And sixty-one per cent answered that their husbands' jobs actually belong to women.

One of the questions concerned women's work men should not do. A Brooklyn housewife replied succinctly: "Have children."

"We didn't try to determine whether the men took on household tasks willingly, or whether a little hen-pecking was a factor," said a spokesman for the Savoy Home Institute which made the study. The institute is a service subsidiary of a car shampoo manufacturer.

Canopic Jars From Ancient Tomb
. . . date from 1500 B.C.

J.W. Birdwell's Hobby Collection Boasts 5,000- Year-Old Egyptian Art Jars and Flail

By MARGARET WALKER
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — An alabaster bowl more than 5,000 years old, canopic jars placed beside Egyptian mummies in the time of Moses, and a miniature model of a mummy dating back to 2100 B.C. are among a collection of Egyptian antiquities J. W. Birdwell bought last spring from the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

A sale of surplus treasures at the museum proved a boon to Mr. Birdwell, whose hobby has been Egyptology for a number of years. He was fortunate in being able to obtain more than the usual individual share of antiquities.

Tiny kohl jars in his collection are fascinating vessels which still contain henna and small slivers of wood.

These jars, from the Eleventh and Twelfth Dynasties (1500-1300 B.C.), were cosmetic "musts" of both men and women and remind us how ancient are our "modern" beauty aids such as eye shadow, eyelid liner, mascara, fingernail and toenail polish.

Well-groomed Egyptians, living or dead, were equipped with a number of essential ointments, pomades and perfumes. The jars in Mr. Birdwell's collection were found in an ancient tomb.

The turquoise canopic jars are as vivid and beautifully blue as they were when placed in the tomb of a wealthy Egyptian of the Middle Kingdom. Vital organs in those ancient times were anointed with preservatives resins, wrapped in linen bandages and enclosed in jars with covers in the form of the portrait heads of the deceased person. Four jars were sent to the Metropolitan Museum; two were sold to Mr. Birdwell. Paler blue in the jars denotes the restored parts of the pottery.

Arranged on stands similar to those used in the museum, the Birdwells' ancient objects include a flail (symbol of power), an implement composed of three long, tapered streamers suspended from the end of a short, whip-like handle.

The handles are gone, but the flail itself, in shades of pale green clay, looks as substantial as a contemporary piece of pottery.

Mr. Birdwell's flail is a funerary object similar to the flail of the God Ostris. Its presence in the burials of the Middle Kingdom was chiefly because of its association with this great god of the dead.

The small, clay model of a mummy embodies the ancient Egyptians' belief that the spirit of the deceased could return and use the model as its earthly form.

The graceful shape and the technically perfect execution and finish of the alabaster bowl indicates clearly how adept the Egyptians had become in the production of this fine ware 5,000 years ago.

When the Metropolitan Museum again presents some of its antiquities for sale later this year, Mr. and Mrs. Birdwell plan to be on hand to add to the collection at their home, 1760 SE 10th St.

TO PLAY COMPOSITIONS

Musicale to Honor Composing Members

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Morning Musicale will honor four of its members by presenting a program of their compositions at its meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Fort Lauderdale Woman's Club.

Kay Strickland White, well known as a vocalist and organist, will hear her anthem "How Lovely Are They Dwelling Places," which will be performed by a double quartet directed by Mrs. Douglas Guy, accompanied by Mrs. G. P. Nichols.

Mrs. Alfred Holt will be represented by a piano solo "Intermezzo" performed by Mrs. Russell McCaughan and a vocal composition "Love Song" presented by Mrs. Phyllis McNeela.

Geraldine Casterline Curphey, best known for her work as a minister of music at First Baptist Church and as former conductor of the Fort Lauderdale Symphony Chorus, is also a versatile composer. Her compositions will include an anthem sung by the double quartet and played by a string quartet and a group of piano solos which she will play.

Mrs. Beverly Davidson, who has had a varied career in music, will include in her list a sonata for flute and piano, a quartet for two violins, flute and piano, and some piano solos composed for her pupils. Mrs. White and Mrs. Davidson, who will perform the sonata, will be joined by William Reivo and Mrs. R. Northal Woods in the quartet. Mrs. Davidson also will play the piano solos.

Mrs. White, who studied first in Allegheny, N. Y., and then in St. Petersburg, has had wide musical experience. She was a recording star, and director of the Humming Bird Trio, traveled extensively with the USO and is well known as an organist.

Mrs. Holt, whose mother also was a professional musician, studied at Williamsburg College and later at the University of Miami.

Mrs. Curphey, after graduating from Stephens College, studied at the Sherwood School of Music and the American Conservatory in Chicago.

Mrs. Davidson, well known in Illinois before coming to Fort Lauderdale for her activities as a concert pianist and flutist in the Bloomington Symphony, received her degree in music from Illinois Wesleyan College. Later composition teachers included the well known Clarence Eidam, Dr. Henry P. Eames and Miss Jeanette Loudon.

Mrs. Rupert J. Hyde, vice president in charge of programs, reports the National Federation of Music Clubs will stress contemporary music in general and American in particular this year.

Mrs. Jeanne Scott will preside at the brief business meeting which will precede the program.

HONEYMOON IN MEXICO

Miette Korda Wed To Myron Burnstein

HOLLYWOOD—Miss Miette Korda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Korda of 1539 Tyler St., Sunday became the bride of Myron Burnstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Burnstein of Chicago.

Rabbi Samuel S. Lerer officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony at Temple Beth Sholem.

The bride wore a formal white satin brocade gown with princess waist and cathedral train. Her veil of fingertip illusion was caught with a crown of seed pearls.

Her attendants were Mrs. Margaret Chillag, her aunt, Mrs. Michael Ross, her cousin from Bayside, N. Y., and the Misses Judy Frankle, Linda Ban and Marilyn Silverstein of New York City, Miss Josephine Greene of Syracuse, N. Y., and Miss Rosemarie Africano and Miss Sandra Taylor of Hollywood.

Harold Burnstein of Chicago, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jay Simons, Jack Yeslow and George Chillag of Hollywood, Martin Rosenberg of Miami Beach and John Rau of New York.

A reception was at the Diplomat Hotel East.

The bride, a South Broward High School graduate, was graduated from Syracuse University. She is enrolled in the University of Miami college of law.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Antioch College, received his law degree at the University of Chicago. He is a partner in the law firm of Simons, Yeslow and Burnstein in Hollywood.

After a honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco, the newlyweds will live at 200 SE Third St., Hallandale.

Women Smokers: 'Ugly, Nervous'

BARCELONA — (WNS) — As soon as Carmen Poug of Barcelona inherited the family restaurant from her late father, she posted "no smoking" signs in all the dining rooms.

"Tobacco not only spoils the palate of the smoker, but also ruins the appetites and digestions of diners in the same room," she declared.

Sra. Poug allows men to smoke in the bar and coffee room adjoining the restaurant, but refuses this privilege to women.

"Women who smoke cigarets are ugly, nervous and irritable," she explains, "and I don't want them on the premises."

How Much Rice?

If you want enough cooked rice to fill an 8¼ or 9 inch ring mold, you'll have to start with 2 cups of raw rice.

High Price For a Kiss

MANILA —(WNS)— Victoriano Blanco, a 19-year-old Philippine boy, has decided that the price of stealing a kiss from a girl is too high.

He has just received a $50 fine plus a four-month jail sentence for his romantic thievery and now vows he will remain a bachelor.

Miss Von Ammon Weds D.C. Man

FORT LAUDERDALE — Making their home in Chapel Hill, N.C., are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings Perry, who were married Dec. 27 in the Church-By-The-Sea in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Earl Downey.

Mrs. Perry is the former Valerie Ann Von Ammon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ernst Von Ammon Jr., 5404 NE 22nd Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Matthew White Perry of Washington, D.C.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Barbara Boardman of La Porte, Ind. The bridegroom had his father as best man.

The bride wore a gown of champagne color in a ballerina length. Her headdress was a small feather hat with short veil. She carried white camellias and stephanotis.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents after which the couple left for Havana.

Mrs. Perry attended Smith College in Northampton, Mass. and was graduated from the University of North Carolina, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Her husband is a senior at the University of North Carolina, majoring in business administration. His fraternity is Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Nightmares A Signal Of Fear

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.
The Associated Press

A terrified shriek pierced the 3 a.m. stillness. Another and another, each louder and more frantic than its predecessor. Mother was beside her 3-year-old as fast as it was possible to get there.

Jerry was sitting up in his bed with a look of wild terror on his face. Mother picked him up, but he continued to scream. He was still asleep and unaware of his mother's presence.

To mother's bewildered question "Jerry, Jerry what's the matter?" Jerry answered not a word but tightened his hold around his mother's neck. Eventually his taut little body relaxed and he went back to sleep.

The next night he repeated the performance, and the next and the next.

Night terrors like Jerry's are a sign that there is some deep fear in the child, so deep that the child himself seldom knows what it is.

The almost universal cause of agonizing fear in a little child is fear of loss of parental love and protection.

Woman To Review Hurst Book

FORT LAUDERDALE — The women of All Saints Episcopal Church will begin their new year Monday with a book review coffiesta at 10:45 a.m. in the parish house on Tarpon Dr.

Mrs. Val Mikusch will review "The Anatomy of Me" by Fannie Hurst.

Jan. 14 the church women will have a luncheon and fashion show at 12:30 p.m. at the Beach Club.

Mildred Reilly will narrate the show, which will include door awards.

Mrs. Albert Dykes and Mrs. Harrison Friese are in charge of reservations.

Will It Keep?

You can keep a fully-cooked smoked ham for a couple of weeks in the refrigerator.

MR. AND MRS. Arthur Karl Weideman, Hallandale, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean Mills, to Frederick John Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Clarke of Antioch, Ill. The bride-elect attends Florida State University where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Her fiance attended Northwestern University and is a Naval cadet in flight training school at Pensacola.

Tickets for 'Rigoletto' to Go on Sale Monday

FORT LAUDERDALE — Tickets for Verdi's "Rigoletto," to be presented at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 2 at War Memorial Auditorium under the auspices of the Opera Guild, will go on sale at the auditorium box office Monday.

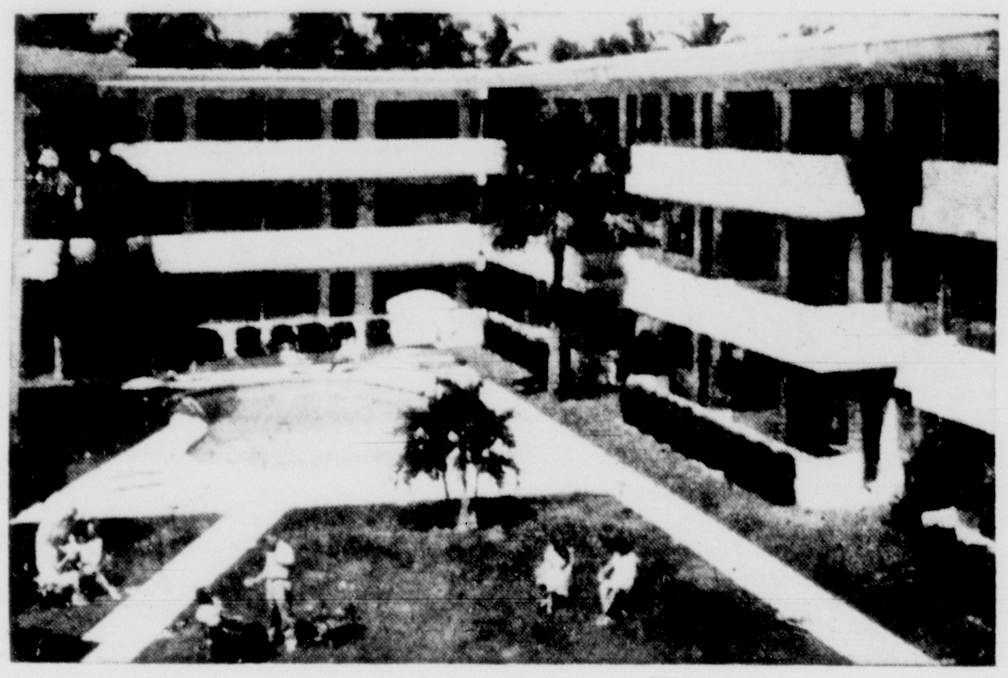
Mrs. R. O. Angle, co-chairman of the patron, sponsor and donor committee, will reserve seats in these classifications if requests are received promptly.

The opera this year will feature a cast of new young singers from the continent and the American stage. Giuseppe Taddei, La Scala baritone, will sing the title role. Munich's famous young coloratura soprano, Erika Koeth, will sing the role of Gilda, and Flaviano Labo, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will be the duke.

Others in the cast will include Basso Norman Scott and contralto Thelma Altman. New scenery from Peter Wolf Associates in Dallas will form the handsome background.

Other Oepra Guild committees are active, including the program committee headed by Mrs. Carl P. Weidling and Harry P. Greep. The group will hold its final session at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the board room of the Atlantic Federal Savings and Loan Association, 1750 E. Sunrise Blvd.

This committee is in charge of the elaborate souvenir booklet to be issued for the opera and cast, with program notes. The publication is backed by merchants.



FINANCIAL STABILITY

"We chose Riverview Garden because it is built on 'owned' land and was completely financed by White Development Corp. without mortgages or intricate financing maneuvers.

"Terms were arranged to fit our budget.

"We can sell our Riverview Garden apartment at any time, just as we would any other home.

"And maintenance is extremely low — only $38 per month for the one-bedroom apartment or $52 for the two-bedroom — a large part of it deductible for tax purposes."

Parties, Parties Bow Out Old Year, Welcome the New

By ALICE FOSTER
Herald Staff Writer

THE HECTIC, happy holidays are over. The horns and the holly have been tucked away for another year, and the last hurrah has been sounded for 1958.

Ringing the old year out to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne" were partygoers gathered at Dr. Wilson and Inge Atkinson's North Lake home for open house Wednesday. More than 60 were there.

Another New Year's Eve party group met at Dr. Marvin and Jean Allen's for cocktails, dined at the Plantation in Hallandale and welcomed the new year in at Dr. Yale and Georgia Citrin's home.

In the party were Dr. Jim and Lucy Bates; Dr. Don and Marie Bullington, Dr. Bill and Robin Hartley, Dr. Charles and Edie Adams, Dr. Joe and Selma Hopen, Dr. Bud and Maxine Tanis, Dr. Dan and Billie de La Penna and Dr. Milt and Carolyn Caster.

Kiwanians, Lions Join for Party

IN HALLANDALE, more than 80 persons attended the annual New Year's Eve party planned by the Kiwanis and Lions clubs.

The setting was Manero's Restaurant and a midnight buffet highlighted the evening.

Helping with arrangements were Tex and Nadine Curcie, Charles and Florence Norr, June and John Curcie, Art and Ellan Tiernen, Jack and Deloras Biber and James and Sue DeMar for Fort Lauderdale.

Collegions Meet at Uecker Home

ABOUT 50 of the young college crowd gathered at the home of Dick Uecker, son of Henry and Bertie, for a New Year's Eve celebration. Dick was home from the University of Florida for the holidays.

* * *

Fowlers Host Buffet Party

ANOTHER FESTIVE party Wednesday was the New Year's buffet at the home of Harry and Jean Fowler, Jr.

On the guest list were the Rev. and Mrs. William Gardner, Melvin and Kay Shipley, Becky and Howard Frew, Joe and Ruth Cremata, and Thure (Bud) and Peggy Anderson.

On the holiday scene were Myron and Opal Ashmore and their three children, who arrived Dec. 27 from Tallahassee. They divided their time as houseguests of George and Dot Conti and Hal and Ann Boylan and spent New Year's Day with Jean and Bill Berry.

Jessie (Mrs. Eugene) Gay had a coffee Tuesday for 25 of Opal's friends and to honor Margaret (Mrs. Harry) Wadlington's sister, Madeline (Mrs. James) Granger, visiting from Kentucky.

Open House at Calvin Residence

IT WAS OPEN HOUSE at the J. O. Calvin's Monday night for more than 100 young persons. The Calvin's son, David, home from Emory, their niece, Gail Harris, and Perry Cozens played host to the college and high school set.

Bud and Barbara Marsee had an informal buffet and bridge party Friday night entertaining Coach Mort and Virginia Brann, Edna Riddle, Lou and Doris Weischedel, Moe and Ella Fuller and Hal and Phyllis Phares.

Busy Two Weeks at Jacobsens

THINGS WERE buzzing for two weeks at the home of Howard and Florence Jacobsen. Their son, Eric, home from the University of North Carolina, and his houseguest, Jacob Zemon of Williamston, N.C., and their son, David, from the University of Florida, kept it a continual open house.

Martha (Mrs. J. Newton) Wall had a holiday gift that will always be extra special . . . a new granddaughter as a namesake.

Martha Allison was born Dec. 26 to Donald and Lynne Wall of Miramar.

Coincidence . . . a Call . . . Surprise

CALL IT MENTAL telepathy or just plain coincidence, but as June Justice (Mrs. Frank) Nagler was telling her drama group about an inspiring young student who she hadn't seen for 10 years, the telephone rang and Marilyn Herrin, the student, was calling from Bradenton.

June was hostess to Marilyn and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Herrin, Tuesday.

It was a time for reminiscence about their off-Broadway group in New York and also a birthday celebration for Marilyn who chose this visit with her former teacher as a gift.

They Found Turn at Farmhouse

IMAGINE TRAVELING south from New York with a map that read "turn right when you see a red farmhouse" or "take the first dirt road left." Bob and Cookie, Bruce's parents, the W. Henry Bruces of Hamburg, N.Y., tell many interesting experiences of their journeys southward, dating back to 1917 when this kind of map was the only guide.

The senior Bruces are here for the winter and have been coming to Florida for 41 years.

Bruce, who is retired in Hamburg, has a unique hobby—he raises 350 acres of Christmas trees. He says they cut them in October and November.

EXPERT (FEMALE) SAYS:

It's Time for Women To Make Own Shoes

PARIS —(WNS)— The battle of the sexes is being waged on a new front, and this time the issue is shoes.

"Men have failed to design beautiful and practical shoes for women," declares Eleanor Foster, an American girl who has become France's top body expert. "These crippling things are ruining both our health and our dispositions."

To counteract this, the pretty American blonde had decided that it's time women made their own shoes. And she started the ball rolling by designing what she calls "rhythmic shoes" — which women can make at home.

"My idea is to let the feet be as beautiful as they naturally are," she explained. "I will not try to force them into angular geometric contraptions conceived by a male mind."

Miss Foster complains that today's male-designed shoes have no soul, too much body and no cognizance of the beauty of the foot.

"Have you ever looked at the imprint of your own foot in wet sand?" she asked. "It is a work of art."

Milliner Steams and Stretches Hat Into New Shape
. . . Olga finds redesigning quite a challenge

They're Not 'Old Hat' To This Redesigner

By MARY RUNYAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — That swish hat you admired last night could be as old as the hills. That is, it could be from out of the era when flat bonnets were having a heyday.

But, what you might have seen was a recreated original. With a flick of the fingers, some steaming and stretching, Olga Glusenkamp is proving that no hat is too old to "pitch."

Olga specializes in hat remodeling, all the way from reconditioning, cleaning and sizing.

Although designing is an important part of her trade, she finds remodeling more challenging.

As she puts it, you can design a hat, put it on a mannequin and then wait for a sale.

"But when you're making over a hat which a customer has bought and worn, you have to cater to every whim to make the customer happy," she grinned.

However, Olga, who has been in the business for some 25 years off and on, isn't worried. She built up a fantastic trade in her former home in St. Louis and also at one time catered entirely to a hotel shop in Chicago.

Now she's trying her luck in Fort Lauderdale.

A good example of Olga's remodeling was the restyling of an old-fashioned tailored cloche, trimmed simply with a feather.

By steaming, she elongated the crown into an up to date model and, by adding a crushed bow, was able to make a completely new look from an otherwise outdated hat.

Another challenging aspect about redesigning, as Olga sees it, is working over an old hat to correspond with several different dresses in a woman's wardrobe.

"Many times, when they're having a hat recreated; a woman wants to get her money's worth. In other words, she wants to be able to wear the same hat with red, purple and perhaps beige."

AAUW To Hear Producer

FORT LAUDERDALE — John L. Price Jr., founder and producer of the new Palm Beach Musicarnival, will be speaker at the 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the American Association of University Women.

It will be held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Porter, 455 N. Victoria Park Rd.

A young show business veteran, Price has been active in theater for almost 20 years as an actor, writer, director and producer. His new Palm Beach Musicarnival is now in its initial winter season of bringing Broadway's best musicals to Southern Florida.

Other guests at the meeting will be Sue Ann Mitchell, Marilyn Miller, King Johnston and Linda Richardson, piano students of Gerald Snyder.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Roger Kerr, Miss Ethel Gordon, Mrs. Victor Hitz, Mrs. Paul Jacobus, Mrs. Edward Moore and Miss Mary McKinley.

Gulfstream Park Getting New Look for Race Season

Broward Sports

By DICK MEYER
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — Gulfstream Park will be called the "picture-book" track even more often during its 1959 meeting.

The track by the sea will have a "new look" when the South Florida horse racing scene shifts here March 4.

Foremost in the million dollars worth of improvements since the plant closed last April is a new infield turf course.

The revamped infield is to be extensively landscaped in time for the inaugural program.

Gulfstream President James Donn, a horticulturist, long ago decided that both horseflesh and horticulture fit into his idea of what is beautiful. This reasoning is largely responsible for the Broward track forging toward the front in quality of racing and in over-all attractiveness.

Track officials decided upon the improvements because they are optimistic over the March 4-April 22 campaign.

Despite inclement weather and recession talk, the track handled $53,770,451 last season, a mutuels drop of $710,710 from the previous meet.

In preparation for bigger crowds, the parking area has been resurfaced. More parking space is provided, and is being black-topped.

Donn said the parking plan is the finest at any race track, and will help fans get in and out of the park in a hurry. In its convenient location, Gulfstream has something to offer which other area tracks haven't, and this advantage is being played to the best effect with improved parking facilities. There will be 70 acres of parking, with 3,000 spaces.

Building of the turf course and expansion of parking accommodations resulted in 700,000 cubic yards of dirt being moved.

Fill was dredged from the infield lake to be used in building the grass track. The lake now is 30 feet deep.

The turf course, readied under direction of Vice President James Donn Jr., will be used for two feature races—the $25,000 added Donn Handicap and the Green Valley Handicap. The former will be scheduled during Blaze O'Glory Week, headlined by the $100,000 Florida Derby April 4.

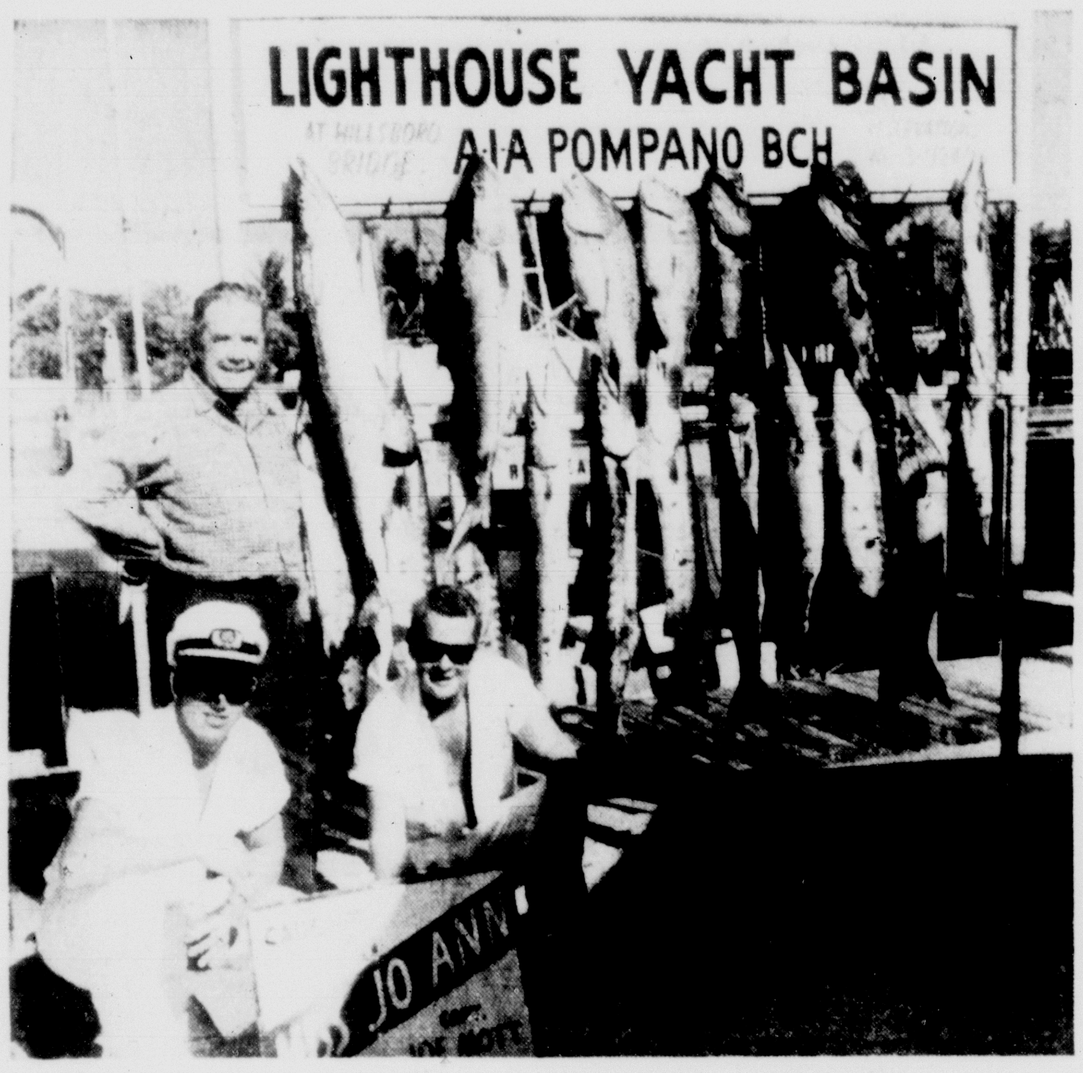
Donn predicts that the "new" Gulfstream will aid in extending the county tourist season.

"Our April business shows that more people stay here in the late season," the track prexy said. "Three years ago, our April handle hit 16 million, and we hope to do well again this time."

The turf course construction is on schedule. A tough fiber bermuda grass will offer one of the best grass course footings when the planting job is done.

"With a break in the weather, the turf strip will be ready for use by opening day," Donn Jr. declared.

The track will have a $1,618,490 purse distribution, including prize money for 16 stakes and handicap events aggregating $395,000 in added disbursements. A second $100,000 added race, the Gulfstream Park Handicap, is listed for March 21.



Success Story

Variety is the spice of fishing, says R. E. Pritchart (standing) of Pompano Beach. His catch includes kingfish, amberjack, snappers, grouper and barracuda and was made from the charter boat, Miss Jo Ann, with Capt. Joe Mott (left) and mate, Chuck Hayden.

29-½-Pound Catch

Visitor, 10, Snags Near Record Bonito

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 10-year-old visitor from East Haven, Conn., took the bonito lead in the Winter Fishing Festival last week with a catch just two pounds under a world record.

Using 30-pound test line, James Gustafson reeled in a 29½-pounder from the private boat Mallard.

James' catch was two inches longer than the record.

In another tournament change, Carl McLeod of Fort Lauderdale snared the No. 1 spot in the jack crevalle classification. He posted a 27-pounder, 15 pounds heavier than the prior leader.

Tournament Director Buck Kinnaird said fishing was better last week than during any period since the meet opened Nov. 1. Charter boats had a particularly busy week.

The tournament runs through April 30.

Who's Going to Be 'Miss Dreamboat?'

FORT LAUDERDALE — Marilyn Ehrhardt, 17-year-old Stranahan High senior, is the first entrant in the Miss Dreamboat Contest, to be held in conjunction with the Downtown Kiwanis Boat and Sports Show.

The show is set for Feb. 5-8 at War Memorial Auditorium. Unmarried girls over 17 are eligible for the dreamboat contest. The winner will reign over festivities.

Doris Hogan, coordinator of the beauty competition, is accepting entries at her modeling school. Girls may register through Tuesday, and finalists will be selected Wednesday at the Florida Theater.

Miss Ehrhardt recently won the Fort Lauderdale roller-skating queen contest and represented the city in national finals, where she won the talent division.

Kiwanians report that all exhibit space is sold, and that booths will be better stocked than in any of five previous shows. They predict at least 20,000 will attend this year.

Two for Road, Tickets That Is

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. — (AP) — James C. Thorpe, 19, paid two fines when he was stopped for speeding.

Accused by a radar patrolman of speeding, he was given a ticket; then when he drove away in a manner termed reckless by the officer, he was ticketed again after a chase.

Lost Bait

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (AP) — B. P. Gambrel estimates he lost about $500 in earthworms when someone opened an irrigation ditch and flooded the plot where he was growing them for fishermen.

Captain, Teacher to Receive Conservation Awards at Meeting

TWO BROWARD residents, Capt. Burnham G. Knight, veteran Pompano Beach charter boat skipper, and William M. McLane, biology teacher at Pompano Beach High School, will receive conservation awards at the monthly meeting of the Broward Rod and Gun Club Tuesday.

CAPT. BURNHAM

The awards, sponsored by the Sears, Roebuck Foundation, are presented annually to area conservationists for outstanding efforts. The program, statewide in scope, is under the auspices of the Florida Wildlife Federation. Roy Homerding advertising manager for Sears' Lauderdale store, and Thomas Grant, club conservation chairman, will present the awards.

Capt. Knight will be honored as the "outstanding conservationist of the area," for being instrumental in the release of more than 175 sailfish during 1958.

McLane is slated to receive the "outstanding conservation teaching program" award for his efforts in teaching students, through practical experience, fish management and research.

McLANE

Other items on the club's agenda call for committee reports and, installation of Jack McLeicer, president, and Ernie Hergenroether, vice president. As past president, will become a member of the board.

A sound and color movie entitled "Impossible Shot Made the Easy Way" will be shown. The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

Anglers Hitting

ANGLERS fishing on charter, drift and private boats out of the Cove Yacht Basin are doing OK on dolphin, kingfish, snappers and barracuda. Notable catches were made by Capt. John R. Medinga of Port Au Prince, Haiti, a 37¾ pound bull dolphin, and J. H. Adams, Chicago, 39-pound sailfish, from the drift boat Broadbill.

Sailfish were caught and released by Maurice Strauser, boat Mar T Moe, and Jack Swedyk and Dick Kadrey Jr., boat Sandee K. All are local sportsmen.

Action was lively in the barracuda division of the tournament with two changes in leadership during the week. Bobby Schachtel, Boca Raton youngster, copped the lead with a 16½ pounder caught on spinning tackle. On the following day, Martin Fahrberger, Glenview, Ill., connected with a 19-pound cuda fishing from the Hi Nella.

TOURNAMENT LEADERS

Sailfish, 43 pounds, W. Smith, Asbury Park, N. J., boat Sandee K.

Sailfish (small), 11, C. Stump, Deerfield Beach, boat Mar T Moe.

Blackfin tuna, 9, L. Feldman, York, Pa., boat Gra Lee.

Grouper, 31, Bobby Schachtel, Boca Raton, boat Broadbill.

Kingfish, 26, P. Comella, Pompano Beach, boat Broadbill.

Barracuda, 19, Martin Fahrberger, Glenview, Ill., boat Hi Nella.

Big Blackfin Decked at Pompano

THREE CHANGES in leadership plus a flock of excellent catches on kings and other species sparked last week's activity in the Pompano Beach Fishing Tournament.

A blackfin tuna weighing 23 pounds, one of the largest ever tagged in this area, was caught by G. J. Conners, Buffalo, N.Y., fishing from the drift boat Candie Kidd. The catch dropped the 19-pounder of Mrs. B. R. Grant, Cincinnati, out of the race.

Action was brisk in the men's division of the sailfish class. Roger L. Powers, Palmyra, N.Y., topped the field with a 75-pounder decked on a trip of the boat Anytime. The lead was formerly held by Joseph Nagle, Tenafly, N.J., with a 71½-pound sail caught last month.

The final change occurred in the barracuda division when a veteran anglerette, Mrs. R. W. Conley, Bradford Woods, Pa., boated a 31-pound cuda fishing from the boat Shirley Jane.

A total of 56 sailfish (24 released) were recorded by anglers from 12 states. Other catches of note included a 175-pound blue marlin by Jack Bonner, Indianapolis, boat Shrylee Marie; 44-pound dolphin, John R. Van Dyne, Sedalia, Mo., boat Rip Tide IV; 34-pound wahoo, Dr. Robert L. Bunn, Pompano Beach, boat Bo Jo; kingfish, 37 pounds, John T. Lynn, Coplay, Pa., boat Toss Up; 35-pound amberjack, Janet Hefter, Bellwood, Ill., boat Vera II; and a 31-pound cuda for Chris Lindeman, Ada, Mich., boat Shirley Jane.

Raymond C. Weibolt, Evanston, Ill., chalked up three sailfish releases. Anglers catching and releasing two sails were W. E. Anderson, Dallas, Tex., and Louis Hefter, Bellwood, Ill.

Others eligible for the "Red Flag Club" for their release of a salifish are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Conley, Bradfood Woods, Pa.; Jim Bohling, Munster, Ind.; Edward A. Monard, Morrisville, Pa.; R. C. Forney, Greenville, N.C.; Rupert E. Grischke, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.; Chris J. Lindeman, Ada, Mich.; Roy W. Duncan, Royal Oak, Mich.; Rose Y. Chard, Indianapolis; Dale P. Fosdick, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Thomas P. Lynch, Boca Raton; Gerald Lebing, Haddonfield, N.J.; Larry Dailey, Brecksville, Ohio; Henry P. French and Henry P. French Jr., Rochester, N.Y.; Russell Francis, St. Louis and Rex I. Moorhead, Fort Myers.

Boca Malletmen Meet Oak Brook at 3 Today

BOCA RATON — The Boca Raton polo season, offering Sunday afternoon games through April, begins today with a charity attraction matching the Boca Raton and Oak Brook, Ill., Clubs.

The Delray Beach Community Chest will benefit from the program. Chest officials say they will be "disappointed" if the crowd is under 2,000, and advance sales indicate this figure will be reached.

Another benefit game, between the same teams, is scheduled for next Sunday. The Fort Lauderdale Junior Service League will use the money for its various charities, and the event is being billed as "Fort Lauderdale Day."

All Sunday games start at 3 p.m. Exhibition matches are held periodically on weekends.

Team ratings of both Boca and Oak Brook aggregate more than 20 goals apiece.

Cecil Smith, playing the No. 2 position for Oak Brook, insists he will play unless an infected foot worsens by game time. If a replacement is needed, long-hitting Billy Mayer will ride in Smith's place.

Smith, a polo star for more than a generation, is one of two active 10-goalers in U. S. ratings. The other active malletman, Don Skene, currently is playing in Hawaii. A third 10-goaler, Delray Beach resident Stu Iglehart, is on the inactive list.

While the new Arthur Vining Field is developed for play in future seasons, the Boca Raton Polo Club grounds east of Federal Hwy. near Camino Real will continue to be used.

The Davis facilities, including two practice fields and five stables for 108 ponies, will enable Boca Raton polo to attract the top riders and mounts of this and other countries.

Today's lineups:

Boca Raton	Pos.	Oak Brook
Beveridge	1	Butler
Oliver	2	Smith
Barry	3	Harrington
Uihlein	4	Dalmar

WVU Sun Rising In West

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — (AP) — The West on West Virginia's basketball team is a 6-foot-3 junior named Jerry West whose all-around performances and clutch play the past two seasons have enabled WVU to be ranked in the upper echelons of college quintets.

A mere mention of this modest youngster's name is enough to bring a smile of delight to Coach Fred Schaus.

"I'd have few worries if I had a player like Jerry West on my team every year," Schaus says happily.

The 20-year-old West leads his team in scoring and rebounding, but it is in defensive play that he really shines.

"West is so great on defense that people seem to take him for granted," says Schaus. "He has the finest reflexes of any college player I've ever seen."

Because of his defensive ability, West is averaging little more than 20 points per game.

"We could put him in the pivot and he'd score a lot more," says Schaus. "But the guy is so good on defense, that we would rather have him play the corner."

It is only coincidental that West hails from East Bank, a small mining community near Charleston, the state capital and spawning ground of former WVU stars Mark Workman and Rod Hundley.

It was no coincidence that pompted the townspeople to proudly rename their community "West Bank" for one day in honor of West. You see, he led East Bank to the state high school basketball championship.

West had all sorts of college offers, but his sights were set on WVU long before word of his basketball prowess spread beyond the state borders.

West has a fine temperament for the game. He's a perfectionist who is always determined to win. This attitude enabled him to participate in 40 consecutive winning games over a span of nearly three years.

YM-Church League to Open Play

FORT LAUDERDALE — The YMCA-Church Basketball League begins another season this week, with five games scheduled in the Fort Lauderdale High gymnasium.

Girls' division games Tuesday night call for First Christian and Faith Lutheran to play at 7 and First Lutheran and Plaza Presbyterian to meet at 8.

Boys' games Thursday night are: 6:30 — Park Temple Methodist vs. First Methodist; 7:30 — Plaza Presbyterian vs. First Christian; 8:30 — Parkway Christian vs. First Lutheran.

Covenant Presbyterian, the seventh team, has an open date.

Hoop League Sets Tryouts

POMPANO BEACH — Tryouts for the Recreation Department's Midget League basketball will be Monday at the "Deck."

This is the fourth season for the league, for boys under 13.

The league will be composed of four teams: Recreation Park, 97 South Pompano, Lakeside and Hillsboro.

Defending champs of 1958 are the Hillsboro team, coached by Bill Moore.

Holiday Is Over

5 Cage Teams Slate Games

A flurry of basketball activity Tuesday ends the holiday layoff of prep games. Five Broward County prep quintets will see action, but only Pompano Beach and South Broward are billed for home contests.

Charley Ward's high-scoring Pompano Cagers host Lake Worth, while the bulldogs entertain North Miami.

In road tiffs, Fort Lauderdale visits West Palm Beach, Central Catholic tours to Hialeah, and McArthur of West Hollywood crosses, the Dade line to swap baskets with nearby rival Norland.

Friday's slate is headed by a resumption of the intense rivalry between Fort Lauderdale and South Broward. The teams play in the Flying L Gym.

The same evening, Pompano is due at Pahokee, and Stranahan and Pine Crest are to go to it on the Dragon floor.

Four games on Saturday climax a busy week. Central Catholic, at a distinct height disadvantage, will try to derail Pompano on the Tornado hardwoods; Fort Myers will call on Stranahan; Delray Beach Seacrest will visit the new McArthur Gym; and Pine Crest will be at Moore Haven.

Banner-Waving Crowd Rallies in Havana's Central Park

Urrutia Assumes Presidency, Names Castro Military Boss

By GEORGE SOUTHWORTH
Herald Latin America Editor

HAVANA, Cuba — Once-exiled Cuban Judge Manuel Urrutia took over Saturday night as provisional president of Cuba, and immediately named Rebel Leader Fidel Castro commander-in-chief of armed forces.

Urrutia took the oath of office in a ceremony at the University of Oriente in Santiago as Castro, who sparked the revolution that toppled the Batista government, headed for Havana where cheering mobs of his followers waited to welcome him.

Uurrutia promptly received support from former President Carlos Prio Socarras, who was booted out of office in 1952 by Fulgencio Batista and who returned to his homeland Friday from Miami exile.

Prio called on his Autentico Party followers to put aside firearms and follow orders of the new government.

Rebel military leaders and Cuban labor union officials in Havana, meanwhile, promised that the general strike which has paralyzed the capital "will end as soon as Castro arrives."

Castro was heading for Havana from easternmost Oriente Province, where he revolution got its start, but his triumphant march was slowed by a series of tumultuous welcomes along the route.

He was to arrive late Saturday night or today.

After taking over the provisional government, Urrutia named Dr. Roberto Agramonte, former head of the Cuban Peoples (Orthodox) Party and one-time presidential candidate, to the important post of minister of state.

Others named to top posts in the provisional cabinet were Angel Fernandez, minister of justice; Raul Chibas, minister of finance; Raul Capero Bonilla, minister of commerce; Julio Martinez, minister of health, and Manuel Fernandez, minister of labor.

Prio said in a radio broadcast that his organization had cooperated in the overthrow of the Batista government, but that no member of the group wanted to participate in the new regime. He said he himself has no personal political ambitions.

While Castro headed for the capital, forces of his 26th of July movement took over the government offices in Havana. It was also reported that executions of some Batista army officers had started in the provinces.

But in an exclusive interview with The Miami Herald, rebel military brass in Havana said that six captured civilian officials of the Batista regime "will be given fair trials."

Batista himself fled to the protecting wing of Dominican Republic Dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Can't You Point That Rifle Away From My Noggin?

By STEPHEN TRUMBULL
Herald Staff Writer

HAVANA, Cuba — Battle-tested veterans took over Havana's policing Saturday from trigger-happy boy patriots and the whole town breathed easier.

The bearded troops marched in as evacuation started for hundreds of stranded Americans who have been screaming to high heaven since their food, liquor and transportation were cut off Thursday.

Havana loves the tourists, but if any of them had been killed in the sporadic gunfire it would have been a permanent black eye for the town.

The taking over of policing by veterans was doubly welcomed. That chore has been in the hands of volunteers, some of them just downy-cheeked kids and downright trigger-happy.

Local reports have it that the transfer of policing to veterans is being speeded after the fatal shooting of two bona-fide Castro veterans by a group of the kid volunteers.

This reporter and Herald Photographer Tony Garnet are ready to buy that story.

We made an automobile trip across a part of the city between 1 and 2 a.m. Saturday. The nicest part of the trip was getting safely back to the Sevilla Biltmore Hotel.

We lost track of the number of times we were challenged and stopped.

These kids don't challenge like American soldiers. They do it with a gun pointed squarely at your noggin.

The password was a cumbersome thing. You were required to give the numbers 16 and 26, and then make a "V for victory," sign with your fingers. Some outposts also required a coded blinking of headlights.

A sequence like that is hard to remember while looking down the bore of a carbine or sub-machine gun held by a nervous youngster.

The food pinch from the complete strike is starting to hurt the home folks. And local people believe if it continues longer it may become a Castro blunder.

Right now the civilian population is good natured. But here, as elsewhere in the world, hungry bellies make inflamed minds.

Apparently, by official winking, many of the grocery stores in the poorer sections had small lines Saturday.

Patrons passed through side doors one at a time and came out with small bags of food.

Residents of the area said there was no profiteering, that the proprietors were taking care of regular customers at regular prices.

We believed it when two of them took us to a barred window where tiny cups of black coffee were being passed out for three cents each.

Red Rocket May Orbit Sun

And Lunik Jumps Over the Moon...

Newborn Infant Is Kidnaped

Garments Found; Frantic Hunt On

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two boys playing in a vacant store in Brooklyn Saturday found garments hospital authorities say were worn by a girl who was 2½ hours old when she was kidnaped from a hospital.

Sister Mary Kevin, night superintendent at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn, from which the baby disappeared, identified the articles as definitely those worn by the child. Two nurses also made the identification.

Detectives immediately launched a floodlighted house-to-house search in the area where the garments were found. In all, 125 detectives and 25 policewomen were assigned to the case.

The newborn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Chionchio was snatched from a bassinet in a fourth floor nursery shortly before midnight, apparently by a woman seen nearby a short time earlier.

The woman was described as a blonde, 30 to 35 years old, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black coat.

Fears were held that the infant might die unless fed a special formula. Details of the formula were printed by newspapers and broadcast by radio and television stations.

FBI men and scores of police checked everything from bars to churches, and particularly rooming houses, in the race to find the child alive.

Emil Fischer, a Manhattan druggist, reported to police that a blonde woman sought to purchase a bottle warmer from him at 9 a.m., but her description did not jibe precisely with that of the woman seen at the hospital.

The baby, to have been named Lisa Rose, was born in St. Peter's Hospital at 9:17 p.m. Friday. The mother Frances, 26, is a former school teacher.

The father, 28, is employed in the legal department of the Port of New York Authority.

"My baby, my baby, my baby," the mother cried when her husband told her softly the child had been stolen.

"I tried," he said, "to break the news to her gently. Nobody had said anything to her when I got there. It was terrible. She burst into tears and sobbed hysterically."

Later the mother told doctors: "I plead with whoever took my baby——please have her baptized a Catholic."

Red Claims Verified

We Don't Doubt It, U.S. Declares

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Defense Department authority said Saturday that reports from American tracking stations around the world tend to verify almost all Russian claims about the Soviet moon rocket.

This would mean that the Soviet rocket blasted into space Friday achieved "escape velocity" — nearly 25,000 miles an hour — which would carry it out of the earth's field of gravity.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower unstintingly praised Russian scientists and engineers for their achievement.

"The successful launching, as announced by the Soviets, of a vehicle designed to pass near the moon represents a great stride forward in man's advance into the infinite reaches of outer space," he said in a special treatment.

"To the scientists and engineers assigned to this undertaking, a full measure of credit is due and we congratulate them on this achievement."

The reports from the U.S. tracking network an apparently confirmed that the Red rocket achieved the tremendous speed attributed to it.

The Russians refer to the speed as "cosmic velocity." U.S. authorities call it "escape velocity." But both terms mean an object moving fast enough to keep travelling away from the earth indefinitely, despite the tremendous pull of gravity.

American missile experts also believe that the Soviets became the first to use an intercontinental ballistic missile in a multi-stage "deep space" experiment.

Top U.S. scientists said the rocket that sent 794 pounds of instruments and batteries hurtling toward the moon was probably a redesigned version of the launcher that placed 2,925-pound Sputnik III with its 2,134 pounds of instruments and batteries into an orbit around the earth.

MOSCOW — (AP) — Russia announced its 1½-ton cosmic rocket zoomed to within its nearest point to the moon Saturday night as it hurtled sunward to become what the Soviets hope will be man's first artificial planet.

Moscow radio which flashed out the word said that the big space ship reached the nearest point at 9:59 p.m. (Miami time). It added that "possibly radio contact with the rocket will cease within 24 hours."

The broadcast said earlier that the nearest point at which the moon would be 4,660 miles — not much greater than the distance between Moscow and New York.

The radio said that as the rocket passed, a lunar telescope aboard the space laboratory sized up the pock marks on the moon.

Moscow radio earlier quoted Alexander Topchiev, vice president of the Academy of Sciences, as saying "it is now fully clear that the Soviet moon rocket will become a satellite of the sun, the first artificial planet."

"The velocity and direction of the flight make it possible to say with confidence the space ship will never again fall back on the earth," Topchiev declared.

The Tass statement announced:

"On the 4th of January, the Soviet cosmic rocket passed the nearest point to the moon on its trajectory.

"Instruments and transmitters of the rocket continue to work normally and are reporting to earth receiving stations valuable scientific material. The scientific tasks set before launching of the cosmic rocket have been completely carried out."

Topchiev gave the rocket's speed at 9,000 kilometers (5,589 miles) an hour.

Moscow radio said the moon rocket will reach the point nearest the sun — about 91½ million miles away — on Jan. 14.

It will take the rocket 15 months to orbit the sun, the broadcast added.

The Soviet Union's commentator Viktor Shragin told Moscow Radio's home listeners why America is "lagging behind" the Soviet Union.

"To know and to conquer cosmic space requires maximum unity, single-mindedness of purpose and close human cooperation," Shragin said.

"This is only possible under socialism, when both the means of production and political power belong to the people and not to a band of monopolists."

Snowstorm, Cold Wave

Frigid Double-Punch Socks U.S. Midlands

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A giant snowstorm and a bitter cold wave socked the nation's midlands Saturday with a double-barreled punch from Texas to Michigan, stranding travelers.

Sub-zero temperatures accompanied the storm, which reached blizzard proportions over Kansas and Missouri, as it pushed slowly eastward. Snowfall ranged from two to seven inches and more, and blowing and drifting snow blocked roads and created hazardous travel conditions.

Cold wave warnings were issued from west-central Texas to Indiana, as the bitter frigid Arctic air, described by weathermen as abnormally cold even for mid-winter, pushed into the Southeast and headed for the Appalachians and the mid-Atlantic states.

Snow fell almost steadily in a belt from northwest Texas and east Colorado eastward through Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma into Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana. Roads quickly became snow-packed and, in some areas, highways were closed to traffic.

At Chicago, about five inches of snow blanketed the city.

Meanwhile, the cold wave plunged the temperature to as low as 49 degrees below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont., the coldest spot in the nation early Saturday. At Floodwood, Minn., a ranger station 40 miles northwest of Duluth, the mercury hit 38 below, while Virginia, Minn., recorded 30 below.

Let's Seek Peace, Nikita Asks Britain

LONDON — (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a New Year's message published Saturday that Russia and Britain should join in efforts "to transform the continent of Europe into an area of lasting peace."

Khrushchev's message, released by British officials here, said:

"I sincerely hope that in the coming year, as a result of the joint efforts of all states (and, above all, of the great powers) notable progress will be made in eliminating international tension and freeing the human race from anxiety about its future and about the fate of generations to come."

Macmillan thanked Khrushchev for his "friendly" message and replied:

"I heartily reciprocate your hope that 1959 will see progress in international relations. We must all bend our efforts to this end. I firmly believe that if we try with goodwill to work together we shall find it possible to make progress."

It Becomes Official on Fourth of July

Here's New 'Old Glory'; How Do You Like It?

History of Our Flag, 9B
Alaska Takes It Calmly, 9B

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Alaska became the 49th and largest state in the Union Saturday at historic White House ceremonies in which President Eisenhower unveiled a remodeled Old Glory.

The president unfurled the new U.S. flag emblazoned with 49 stars as he officially proclaimed statehood for the immense northern terriroty.

The design, kept strictly secret until the admission ceremonies at noon, consists of seven staggered rows of seven stars each. Instead of aligning in a rectangular pattern, the second, fourth and sixth rows are indented on the left and project that much farther to the right than the first, third, fifth and seventh rows.

The 13 red and white stripes honoring the original states are unaltered.

Eisenhower divulged that he personally preferred a different design but had accepted the recommendation of a special commission he named to work out the pattern.

* * *

THE FLAG becomes official on the Fourth of July and will not be flown on government buildings until then. An executive order also said it would be improper for individuals and private firms to fly it before that date. Meantime, the old 48-star flag can be properly flown until it wears out.

The solemn proclamation ceremony in the President's cabinet room was attended by proud Alaskan officials, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.).

Alaska is the first new state since New Mexico and Arizona entered the union in 1912. Statehood for Hawaii is next on the congressional schedule.

* * *

AS HE UNFURLED the new flag, the President told Rayburn that he preferred a different design but "I was overruled by all of my advisers."

His suggestion, he explained was for five rows of five stars and four rows of six stars. He said this would have made it easy to add a 50th star when and if Hawaii is granted statehood.

Americans Fleeing Cuba Hit 'Bungling' Embassy

'It Wasn't Our Fault,' Aide Says

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

Americans streaming back from turbulent Cuba, Saturday blasted the U.S. embassy in Havana for bungling their evacuation.

But a State Department spokesman in Washington said "it was not our fault."

Some among the 500 returnees who arrived at Key West by ferry charged that embassy personnel "treated us like a bunch of cattle."

In Washington, Clint Olsen, executive director of the State Department's inter-American affairs, shot back:

"They were damn lucky to get the boat."

Olsen said U.S. officials in Washington and Havana had worked out elaborate evacuation plans — including an airlift with a plane every 30 minutes.

"But when we tried to carry them through, the rebel forces blocked us," Olsen said.

He said negotiations were still in progress to get the planes into Cuba.

"Everybody who wants out will be able to leave by noon today," he said.

Walter M. Walters, State Department representative in Miami, said he had checked and found there were "no hardship cases reported on this end."

William Tieger, 1795 Normandy Dr., Miami Beach, echoed the sentiment of the critics.

"The information give us by the State Department was vague and confused."

F. A. Greve, Fort Lauderdale insurance executive, said, "They gave no cooperation. Everybody we talked to had different answers."

But Olsen countered that "there were many changes in instructions (from the rebels) which muddied the waters. Nobody in the rebel forces would take it upon himself to do this or that."

The spokesman said embassy personnel were "just interested in protecting American lives — not getting them out in luxury accommodations."

He said the department had received "not one single report" of any U.S. citizen being harmed.

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith could not be reached in Havana for comment.

He was called to Washington, D.C., early last month to frame plans for protecting U.S. citizens and safe-guarding their property in the event the Batista regime was overthrown.

Olsen said that conditions in Havana were such that no coordinated program could be worked out immediately with the rebels — but predicted that the evacuation problems were "just about solved."

Another ferry was preparing to leave Havana Saturday night with 500 more mainland-bound refugees. Another estimated 500 U.S. citizens still are in Havana.

Olsen said Cubana Airlines "is flying Cuban refugees from the former government over to the island and bringing our people back."

six were not released immediately."

Rebels Saturday occupied all principal buildings in Havana, the presidential palace, the capitol, the main army and national police headquarters, and even the Batista-built sports arena.

Commandante Victor Diego Paneque and Commandante Louis Martinez told The Herald "the capital is completely dominated by 26th of July organization forces, but we still have a few isolated groups causing disturbances."

Most of the trouble comes now from youths who are trying to jump on the victory bandwagon at the last minute. They get guns and armbands and they are trigger-happy. One late joiner Saturday proclaimed himself to be a commandante, but he didn't last long. They undressed him and carried him away.

Some criminals got out of jail along with the political prisoners and joined the victors. They were being rounded up again.

At military headquarters, Lt. Juan N. Otero was questioning all smooth-shaven boys with guns. The long-haired boys with beards were wearing proof of their participation in the movement.

"Don't think for a minute that the 26th of July Movement is not in control of the country," Otero said.

"We have nothing to do with the Autentico organization of former President Carlos Prio Socarras," Martinez said.

"These small groups of Directionario Revolutionario are working with us, and so are the men from the Second Front of Escambray."

"But it is the 26th of July Movement that controls Cuba now."

Martinez moved out of the military headquarters in the CMQ radio station and set up new headquarters in the big new sports arena which was built by Batista. He took a Herald reporter-photographer team with him.

When he departed, he left a captain in charge with the big order "If anyone fires his gun, put him in jail immediately." He was talking about his own men.

Nationalists Make Claim

Revolution in Tibet Reported Spreading

TAIPEI — (AP) — A revolt that began in the highlands of Tibet has swept across northwest China to the Soviet puppet state of Outer Mongolia, the Chinese Nationalists said Saturday.

There are 100,000 insurgents fighting in Outer Mongolia, said Li Chung-hsin, a member of the Nationalist cabinet as chairman of the Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs Commission.

If true, this would include about a tenth of the population in that country six times the size of state of Texas. It was walled off by the Russians after World War II and became a theoretically independent nation called the Mongolian People's Republic.

Li declared there were at least 600,000 persons in armed insurrection against the Communists in Tibet and neighboring areas, including those in Outer Mongolia. It was the first claim of anti-Communist uprisings in Outer Mongolia.

Previous reports, however, had said that uprisings in Inner Mongolia were spreading toward Outer Mongolia next door.

Li said 300,000 rebels were operating in Tibet and the provinces of Tsinghai, Sikang and Szechwan, 80,000 in Inner Mongolia, 70,000 in Sinkiang and 30,000 to 50,000 among Miao tribesmen and other minority groups in the northwest.

Resistance in Tibet, he declared, was built around a force of 35,000 organized Mi-mun (anti-tyranny) guerrillas. These guerrillas, he said, had the support of more than 300,000 Tibetans.

Hubby Shopped For New Model

DENVER, Colo. — (AP) — Mrs. Anita M. McDaniel, 52, won a divorce on the ground her husband, Bobby, 64, registered with a matrimonial agency as being unmarried.

She said her husband, a pipefitter, was continually receiving letters from women seeking him as a mate.

"Bobby was a delightful man but a horrible husband," Mrs. McDaniel told Judge Joseph E. Cook.

Ramon Novarro Held as Drunk

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — One-time movie heartthrob Ramon Novarro was jailed on a drunk driving charge Saturday after police said he flunked a sobriety test.

Novarro, 59, was stopped after officers said he ran a traffic signal. "Why did you stop me?" he asked. "I'm not drunk."

Novarro's last picture was in 1934.

Bloody Holiday For Family

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

A hungry, weary and excited Fort Lauderdale family flew into Miami Saturday from revolution-ripped Havana still shaken by a holiday in which they viewed history from their hotel balcony.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Greve and their 18-year-old son, Robert, were aboard the first Cubana Airline Viscount which brought in a load of Americans who were stranded in Cuba.

The planes also carried college students, sons and daughters of Americans living in Havana, who were returning from Christmas holidays.

"We were scheduled to return New Year's day," said Mrs. Greve. "We got up and heard a lot of noise, horns blowing and shooting and thought it was just part of the holiday celebration.

"But the shouting, firing and everything increased and suddenly we realized this was more than just a celebration. Especially when we saw men shooting at other men in the streets."

Greve, vice president of an insurance company, was unshaven and tired. But above all he was hungry.

"We haven't eaten in two and a half days."

As soon as they cleared customs, the family made fast tracks for the airport restaurant and talked about their frantic holiday.

They were staying at the Sevilla-Biltmore, right in the heart of the general rioting and one block from the presidential palace where a battle was waged by Castro's men and some die-hard Batista men.

"It was fantastic—the whole thing. When it grew into rioting we watched the people rip parking meters from the sidewalks and use them to smash and loot," said Mrs. Greve.

"The reason they went for the meters first was because Batista's relatives had the meter concession — and the meters were a symbol of the Batista rule.

"It was about 10:30 a.m. when rebels came to the hotel and smashed the lobby and gambling casino to bits, ruining everything.

"We were on the fifth floor, confused, scared to death. We would run to the window and watch the rioting going on. Then we would see what was going on in the hotel . . ."

Son Bob was busy stashing away a plateful of food while his mother talked and waited for her scrambled eggs.

She continued:

"There was lots of looting going on but the Castro troops tried to stop it when they came. We saw looters shot down."

For the Castro troops they had only words of praise.

"They treated us courteously, helped all they could. As a matter of fact, the only food we ate the past few days was a little bit the Rebels brought to the Americans in the hotel once."

They watched the battle rage on the Prado just one block away when the hold-out force of beleaguered Batista troops was dislodged after bloody fighting.

Start Off The Year With $700

By SUNNY FORTUNE
Herald Puzzle Editor

Here's a lucky number — $700 — to start off what could be your lucky year.

SUNNY

That's the size of the jackpot in this week's Sunny Fortune Puzzle, still unsolved despite the best efforts of all you fans.

Some of you came mighty close last time, though. J. R. Walsh of 11740 SW 70th Ave. missed by a letter, and Edith Earle, 2270 SW 11th St., lost by two.

Along with the solutions this week came New Year's greetings from Hazel Conway of Fort Lauderdale ("you should hide your head," she wrote).

And Kevin P. Devine of Hollywood asks that we go back to the more complicated form of the old puzzle.

"The new ones do not offer the challenge of the old ones," he said.

Well readers, both gentle and ferocious, the choice is yours whether you play for the challenge or the cash. How do you all feel about it?

Write and let me know—but not until you have turned to page 4-C and solved this week's $700 puzzle.

Havana Casino Mob Is Fleeing to U.S.

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

With the odds 100-to-1 that American gambling overlords can't make a deal with Castro, the Havana casino mob is fleeing to the U.S.

A report leaked out Saturday that underworld bigwigs chartered three planes for New York Thursday afternoon.

New York police, United Press International learned, found out and formed a welcoming party.

So the planes landed in Jacksonville. Presumably the hoods scattered to Miami, New Orleans, Las Vegas and other cities that have syndicate connections.

At least six of Havana's 13 plush casinos, all Batista-controlled, were smashed by jubilant rebels.

Others thus far undamaged have escaped only because of reinforced private police and Castro's order of no more looting.

The gambling industry, which frequently ran a one-to-two-million play a night, fears the jig is up.

Among those known to have fled are:

MEYER LANSKY, head of the Cuban gambling syndicate and veteran U.S. behind-the-scenes wire puller.

SANTO TRAFFICANTE, alias Louis Santos, operator of the swanky Sans Souci. New York police want him for questioning in the 1957 barbershop slaying of Racketeer Albert Anastasia. He has a home in Tampa.

JOSEPH SILESI, alias Joe Rivers, syndicate strongman who is also wanted for questioning in the unsolved Anastasia murder.

CHARLES (THE BLADE) TOURINE, another top figure in the gambling hierarchy. He also lives in Tampa.

They left Havana so quickly they left everything behind except clothes, cash, wives and girl friends.

Castro has long declared that the vast gambling enterprises would be broken up once the rebels took over.

"I understand," he said, "they worked both sides of the street, paying off Batista while buying guns for Castro."

But a knowledgeable Miami source said don't be too sure. He said the gambling overlords have survived two government turnovers.

U.S. Tracks The 'Lunik'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U.S. learned of the Soviet space-rocket launching when a tracking station picked up a radio signal "apparently emanating from an unidentified space vehicle."

Announcing this Saturday, the Pentagon said the signals were first picked up early Friday afternoon.

Since then, a Defense Department statement said, "scattered reports from various U.S. stations principally in the U.S. have identified monitoring signals" on five frequencies. These frequencies are at approximately 70 megacycles, at 19.997, 19.995, 19.993 megacycles and at 212 megacycles.

The Pentagon said among the stations reporting radio tracking of the Russian rocket are the Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N.J., Millstone at Cambridge, Mass., Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., and a number of stations reporting to the tracking center at Cambridge.

Russia Seeking Help From U.S.

MOSCOW — (AP) — Moscow Radio, with tongue in cheek, Saturday asked Americans for suggestions to help the Soviet seven-year plan.

The English-language broadcast beamed to the U.N. directed an appeal for advice and comment to American workers, farmers, intellectuals, clergymen and students.

P.S.: The purpose of the Soviet plan is to outstrip the U.S. in industrial production.

Army Buying More in Korea

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — American military purchases in South Korea are expected to total 30 million dollars during the one-year period ending June 30, 1959, the U.S. Army announced.

Its procurement agency said this was an increase of nearly seven million dollars over the same period in the previous year.

Hoffa Pal Seized as Fugitive

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Henry A. Lower, former Teamsters Union biggie and president of Florida's trouble-plagued Sun Valley, Inc., housing project, was arrested Saturday in Detroit as a fugitive from justice.

Lower, 56, already is facing two narcotics charges in Detroit and New Jersey.

Detroit police reported Lower's fingerprints match those of William A. Lowe, a 1953 escapee from a California road gang who had been convicted of cashing worthless checks.

Lower, however, insisted he is not Lowe.

A close buddy of Teamster Boss Jimmy Hoffa, Lower once served as vice president of a Detroit local.

He was the guiding light behind the Sun Valley, Inc., real estate project, located in an undeveloped area near Titusville, Fla.

Called as a witness before the Senate Rackets Committee, Lower testified much of the money used to finance the Florida deal came from treasuries of locals headed by Hoffa and Owen Brennan, an international vice president under Hoffa.

Some witnesses told the committee that Teamsters members were pressured into buying lots in the venture, with unimproved land going at $4,300 an acre.

The Teamsters connection in the scheme was first disclosed by The Miami Herald and Detroit Free Press, both Knight newspapers.

The project is in no way connected with Sun Valley Estates, operating in Dade County.

Prototype Of 'Tugboat Annie' Dies

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (AP) — Mrs. Catherine (Kate) A. B. Brown Sutton, 82, the prototype of Norman Reilly Raine's waterfront character, "Tugboat Annie," died Saturday in Jane Brown Hospital, where she had been a patient since 1957.

Mrs. Sutton, a warm, humorous and carefully groomed woman, was able with ease to command the 30 crewman of the old Providence Tow and Steamboat Co. of which she was president for 20 years. She had succeeded her husband, N. Howard Sutton ("Cap'n Nat" of the Raine magazine stories) on his death in 1923.

Kate, as she was known along the waterfront, was a native of New York and was a school teacher prior to her marriage before the turn of the century. Her tugboat concern had six ships operating in Narranganset Bay at one time and regularly hauled barges from Norfolk, Va.

Ike Flies Back To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to his farm home Saturday after attending Alaskan statehood ceremonies at the White House in Washington.

The President made the round trip by helicopter. He had spent nearly six hours at the White House.

The Eisenhowers have been at the farm since the day after Christmas. They plan to spend the weekend here before returning to Washington.

Statistics

MIAMI READINGS AT 4:30 P.M. SATURDAY: Air, 77 degrees; wind from the west at eight m.p.h.; sky cloudy; barometer, 29.90 inches; and relative humidity, 58 per cent.

National Summary

While Saturday afternoon found thermometers pushing to near the 80 degree level in south Florida sub zero weather extended across the region from interior Washington and Oregon across the upper midwest into Wisconsin and reached the Texas panhandle with the mercury hovering at 20 below zero at Great Falls, Montana.

Much colder weather is scheduled to push across the Appalachians to the Atlantic States today. Snow or flurries will accompany the cold surge across the midwest, heavy squalls are likely in the Great Lakes region, and freezing rain is indicated for parts of the Gulf states.

Rain, which hit the southeast Saturday night, is expected to spread into the mid-Atlantic region today and snow will punctuate the colder trend in New England.

Freezing rain is also anticipated in parts of Texas and Oklahoma with snow continuing through the central plains, and heavy snow warnings are in effect for southwest Kansas and nearby Oklahoma early today.

The colder air pushing southward over the Pacific states threatens a hard freeze in the valleys of central and southern California early today.

Bus Union Controversy Near Another Flare Up

NLRB and Court Decisions Are Due On Vote, Drivers

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — Developments which could have a decided impact on the Florida Cities Bus Co., the public transportation system for the area, could develop Monday.

In one instance, the National Labor Relations Board is scheduled to determine at a hearing here whether an election should be held to decide which union should represent bus company employes.

In a second, a decision in a long pending suit by former bus company drivers who claimed they were fired without cause and who are seeking back pay, might be handed down.

Florida Cities has been operating without a contract with any union since October. Mrs. Helen Combes, president of the firm, claims the company is 90 per cent non-union.

BUT THE Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators recently filed charges with the NLRB claiming the bus company violated a contract in existence a year ago.

The Circuit Court suit for reinstatement by the bus drivers and back pay has been pending in circuit court for months.

The complications developed recently when both the Teamsters Union and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen made overtures to bus line employes to represent them after the amalgamated contract ended.

THE NLRB hearing will be on a petition by the BRT that an election be held to determine the wishes of the employes for union representation.

Counsel for the Amalgamated members have announced they will oppose the setting of any election by the NLRB on the ground that Amalgamated was the representative union when the contract was voided and still is spokesmen to the employes.

Florida Cities serves upwards of 150,000 persons in the Greater Palm Beach area.

Cuba Exiles, Out of Touch, Linger Here

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — A little bit of Cuba was still concentrated in this resort town Saturday, with most of the refugees of the deposed Batista regime trying to make contacts with their island home.

Upwards of 40 — including former President Fulgencio' Batista's brother, Francisco, flew here from Havana New Year's Day.

Others who reached the Florida Keys by boat or plane joined the representatives of the deposed regime at the swank Biltmore Hotel Friday.

Saturday Batista, who held the title of governor of the Province of Havana, was trying to make contact with his secretary at home but was having little success.

Sources close to the refugees said that Gov. Batista had been unable to contact his brother nor had he received any word from others of the regime who scattered to the Dominican Republic and other asylums.

The group at the Biltmore was reportedly dwindling as many of the refugees found sanctuary in private homes or went to other cities to be with friends.

Cubans from Miami and Key West came to Palm Beach during the day to greet the refugees here.

Although there were reports the Cubans were carrying "suitcases full of American money," most of them said they could not afford to continue paying the high rates at the hotel.

The Biltmore ranks with the top hostelries of the Gold Coast and is just entering its new season.

The question of why the refugees selected the Biltmore as a place to stay was explained simply. Dan Taylor, who heads the West Indies Fruit and Steamship Line which plays between Havana and Florida ports, is also head of the big hotel.

The ferry line became a big factor in Florida maritime operations since World War II, at a time when Fulgencia Batista was Cuba's "strong man" and any U.S. firm doing business there would as a matter of course become acquainted with government officials.

Exiles Greeted 2 Ways

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

The Cuban revolution and its varied aspects has undoubtedly called for a delicate approach by the U.S. which watched the event from a grandstand seat in Florida.

PFISTER

The Palm Beaches, like Miami and other East Coast cities, are flooded with refugees whom cordons of police assure of protection and presumably, peace and quiet.

It isn't any secret, however, that police assigned to the job are hardly enthusiastic over it because of the touchy circumstances.

And not a few in the Palm Beaches have questioned why, when a Cuban pilot sought sanctuary in this country, he received a cold reception, while members of the deposed government — many of them just as military as the flier — were welcome with open arms.

Justice Done?

MARIE TORRES, the CBS gal writer who refused to divulge the source of certain information, is going to the bastille for ten days to purge herself of contempt of court.

The case points up that some members of the legal fraternity insist a news writer has no right to withhold a source of information, even though the barristers — who make practically all the laws —reserve such a right unto themselves.

Palm Beach, at times, has been plagued with "secret" meetings held by public officials who believe what they do is strictly their business.

Most of the big scale exposes in this country have been made by newspapers and writers who received the first tip in strict confidence.

You can confuse the picture with a lot of superlatives, but the fact is the writers protect their sources of information simply to protect the jobs of the informants — and sometimes the lives of their families.

Eva Stabb Dies In Hospital

WEST PALM BEACH — Mrs. Eva May Staab, 77, of 700 S. Olive Ave., died at a local hospital Saturday.

She came to this city four years ago from Chicago where she was a member of the First Methodist Church. She is survived by her husband, Nicholas, here, and four sons and three daughters in Illinois. The Vogel Funeral Home said rites will be held in Chicago.

William Davis

RIVIERA BEACH — William Joseph Davis, aged four, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Davis, of Avenue A, died in a hospital Saturday after a brief illness.

The child is survived by his parents; one sister, Mrs. Molly Morrison, and his maternal grandparents. Private rites will be held in the Northwood Funeral Home Chapel, with burial in Hillcrest Cemetery.

J. H. Turnbull

LAKE WORTH — John H. Turnbull, 76, of 321 N. Lakeside Dr., a retired carpenter, died in a West Palm Beach hospital Saturday after an extended illness.

A member of Masonic Lodges in Cleveland, he is survived by one daughter, Effie Jane Turnbull, this city. The E. Earl Smith and Son Funeral Home has charge of arrangements.

Ad Board Renews Evans Contract, Studies Publicity

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH—The city Advertising Commission voted Saturday to call for a contract from George Evans Co., Fort Lauderdale, for handling the $80,000 West Palm Beach advertising program for 1959.

The Evans Co. has handled the contract through the city advertising commission, a Chamber of Commerce adjunct, since municipal funds were alotted for that purpose five years ago.

C. W. Vaughn, chairman of the board, said the contract with Evans will apply only to paid space advertising and not to publicity as proposed by several agencies.

The reference was to a presentation made last month to the ad board by advertising and publicity agencies from various sections of the country.

The hearing of the various agencies followed in the wake of considerable criticism directed at the Chamber of Commerce for concentrating on a paid ad and billboard program instead of utilizing also a publicity program.

In that connection, Vaughn disclosed the ad commission and the executive committee of the Chamber will immediately launch a study to determine how other communities utilitize publicity programs.

A trip will be made next week to St. Petersburg and Tampa to consult the staffs directing publicity programs in those cities.

Vaughn said the question will receive further attention at the next regular meeting of the ad commission Jan. 15.

Until 1951 the city employed paid publicity directors to handle its ad and tourist promotion programs. The total outlay at that time was about $50,000.

In the interval the amount appropriated from tax monies by the city for the program has scaled up to nearly four times the 1951 figure.

Highway Parking Deal Due

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—The recurring question of what to do about Parking on S. Dixie Hwy. in the Datura-Hibiscus streets area is scheduled to get another airing before the city commission Monday.

But the agenda prepared for the prospectively brief board session indicated that this time something may be done about the dispute.

City Manager James J. Mott is scheduled to make a report at the meeting on the parking question — one that possibly could effect a compromise. What he will have to say about it has been kept a secret.

Parking is currently prohibited between Datura and Evernia in daylight hours but not between Evernia and Hibiscus. Merchants want the same priveleges in both blocks.

City Commissioner W. P. Holland operates a business in the block where parking is allowed, and said he would not be in favor of banning it altogether. The parking system was set up before Holland became a commissioner.

The commission is scheduled also to:

HEAR FROM the Seaboard Railroad regarding a municipal request for the establishment of grade crossings into the new westward expansion area.

RECEIVE A request from the county commission for cooperation from the city in setting up 12th St. and SR 9 interchanges.

3 Families Hunt Dog Poisoners

WEST PALM BEACH — Three families in the Garden Ave. area are aroused by the poisoning of their pet dogs. Howard Bahl, whose pet terrier, Tinker, was one of the victims, has offered a $50 reward for information leading to the poisoner. A chow owned by James Howell and a beagle owned by Robert Slomowitz, were other victims. A check by a veterinarian disclosed they had all died of strychnine.

40 Teams Will Dip Lines In Light Tackle Tourney

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Fishing tackle of the light variety began predominating here Saturday as more than 100 of the nation's top anglers started arriving for the opening of the 14th International Light Tackle tournament.

The event is scheduled to get underway Tuesday and the experts will include the Rod and Reel Club of Miami, defending champions who bested the field a year ago in Mexico.

Also included as entries are the Ocean City Light Tackle Club from New Jersey, runner-up last year, and the West Palm Beach Fishing Club team, which finished third.

P. A. B. Widener, tournament chairman, said visiting anglers will start into the Gulf Stream Tuesday morning for the beginning of the three day event.

Thursday has been set aside as Ladies Day, when wives of the visiting anglers will take part in a one day tournament. Other events are on the program Wednesday and Friday.

John Rybovich Jr., West Palm Beach, president of the association, said the tournament field this year is the largest in the history of the annual event. About 40 three-man teams are expected to be entered when the first lines are wet.

Anglers are competing for a number of individual and team awards, with scores based on points garnered for sailfish and marlin catches.

The awards will be present at a trophy dinner to be held Friday at the Sailfish Club of Palm Beach, host club and headquarters for the tournament.

Floridians Felt 'Naked'

Waiter Handed Me 5 Fingers of Bullets

By AL FINKLESTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

"If you didn't wear a gun—you were naked."

Only the bullet spoke with authority when downtown Havana was rocked and ravaged by rioting mobs New Year's day, said Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mahl of Cocoa Beach.

They arrived at Key West Saturday aboard the SS Havana, which was pressed into service to evacuate Americans from the Cuban capital. Mr. Mahl operates a bowling alley at Cocoa Beach.

. . . Cocoa couple saw riots

"I ask the head waiter at the Hilton Hotel for change," said Mahl, "and he hands me five fingers of bullets."

He said "everybody . . . but everybody . . . carried a gun . . . and their trigger fingers were itchy."

Looting "punks" and self-styled Cuban "hoods" splattered their hotel lobby windows with rounds of machine gun fire.

"We dug foxholes," Mahl quipped, "right through that marble floor."

His wife, Marie, said "you never saw so much mink hit the deck so fast."

When the fusilade was over, mink-bedecked and silk-suited guests "sneaked like foxes" to the hotel's upper floor ballroom, where they took cover, Mrs. Mahl said.

There, they were "given the best" of treatment from the hotel's staff of bus boys, waiters and office personnel.

"They did the very best they could with what little they had in the way of protection," Mahl said.

Their only complaint, they said, was that "insufficient and inadequate information" was supplied by the U.S. Embassy in Havana.

"I really believe," Mahl said, "they didn't believe, or didn't want to believe, how trying the situation was to the trapped American tourists."

Would they go back?

"Yes, sir," said Mrs. Mahl, "it is still a beautiful place to visit."

Industrial, Poll Places On Agenda

Herald Bureau

LAKE WORTH — City commissioners Monday — in their initial meeting after the long holidays — will set up a new zoning classification and arrange for the upcoming spring elections.

A public hearing is scheduled at 7 p.m. preceding the regular board meeting, on the question of establishing a light industrial zone.

In one action planned as a prelude to the municipal election City Clerk Ruth U. Fales will recommend that the city use the same polling places as the county, similar to the system now in effect in West Palm Beach.

In another, the board will have up for final action an ordinance establishing the polling places in each of the city's four precincts.

A drive is currently underway in Lake Worth to obtain new registrations of voters.

The board is also scheduled to take a step calculated to reduce child drownings. It is expected to put on first reading an ordinance that will require enclosures for all swimming pools.

Bicycle Tags

LAKE WORTH — Police Chief G. S. Sanders has announced that all 1958 bicycle license tags in this city will be valid until Feb. 1. Revision is planned for the current mandatory annual licensing ordinance so permanent tags can be issued. As an aside to the adults who long ago shucked their bikes, those 1959 auto tags go on sale Monday.

Ehricke Worked on Atlas

Missile Expert to Put PB Group in Orbit

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH—One of the original "Peenemunde missile and rocket" experts of World War II Germany will address the newly formed Palm Beach section of the American Rocket Society here Wednesday night.

He is Krafft A. Ehricke, who has been closely associated with the currently orbiting Atlas missile.

After working on the German V-2 rocket program at Peenemunde, Ehricke joined a group of experts invited to participate in the U.S. Army's rocket and missile program.

Presently a consultant to the Office of the Secretary of Defense, Ehricke is a member of American, German and British rocket societies and is engaged now in writing a three-volume text book on space flight.

He became an American citizen in 1954 and teaches space flight mechanics and space navigation at San Diego State College and engages in private research into space flight.

His subject at the 8 p.m. dinner meeting in the Pennsylvania Hotel will be "Astronautic Development in the near future."

There will be a display at the meeting of several automatic weapons and rockets from Eglin Air Force Base, in charge of Wirt D. Griggs, USAF Information Branch.

In addition to the rocket address, a charter will be presented and the following officers of the Palm Beach section will be installed:

Henry J. Barten, president; Roy R. W. Hill, vice-president; Stanley A. Mosier, secretary; Waygne H. Patterson, treasurer; Charles T. Roelke, Albert Weldon and Donald D. Pascal, directors. The dinner meeting is open to the public.

'Lunik' May Orbit For Million Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK —(AP)— Russia's fledgling planet might wheel around the sun for millions of years.

And it could tell scientists what space is like at distances of one or several million miles from earth if its radio voice is strong enough.

These were goals of the Army's Pioneer III moonshot a month ago. That rocket rose up only 66,654 miles.

Now Soviet scientists have given Earth a baby brother planet. It not only brings them tremendous prestige with a planet bearing pennants reading "U.S.S.R.—January 1959"—it can gather invaluable new knowledge about space itself.

The 3,000-pound planet, nicknamed "Lunik" by Russians, was launched with sufficient speed to keep climbing until it escaped from the earth's gravity, then to be pulled on an altered course by the sun's far greater gravity.

* * *

DEPENDING ON the orbit it assumes, it could circle the sun for perhaps millions of years. One day it might again come close enough to earth to be tugged home again and burn up in the earth's atmosphere.

Aimed toward the moon, it perhaps will come close enough to tell significant facts about the moon itself. It carried instruments to probe the moon's magnetism and radioactivity.

Moscow kept the objectives of the mission a secret, until Soviet scientists learned its actual projectory and ultimate fate.

If it coasts past the moon, as expected, the baby planet might detect a magnetic field extending from the moon. Scientists have wondered whether the moon possesses a strong magnetic field generated within a hot, fluid core, as the earth's magnetism apparently is.

* * *

ON ITS FLIGHT, the Soviet rocket is reportedly measuring cosmic rays, the gaseous material in space, radiation streaming from the sun and encounters with meteors.

Traveling out for incredible distances, it can supply giant-stride explorations of regions and space never before touchable.

A Moscow broadcast says the launching opens the way to using the moon as an astronomical observatory, or a way station in space for travelers on long trips to Mars or other planets.

* * *

JUST REACHING the moon truly would be an opening step. But first must come effective means of getting space travelers there and back. The Russians are progressing logically and stepwise toward getting man into space.

They have rocketed dogs 280 miles high and recovered them safely, they report.

But the Soviets have not yet said they have solved the problems in sending a man into orbit around the earth and home again, much less to the moon.

Soviets Given World Acclaim

'Americans Talk—Russians Act'

LONDON — (AP) — "Americans talk too much. Even their satellites talk.

"The Russians don't say anything until they get there."

This was a Swedish night watchman's reaction to news of the moon-bound Russian rocket.

The farther the 1½-ton Soviet rocket went on its mission, the greater was the praise for Russia building up from Communists and non-Communists around the world.

Scientists, writers and commentators saw little chance of its going astray.

A few in Western European capitals began to wonder: How soon will men go into space?

The anti-Communist Vienna newspaper Kurier leaped far ahead of the rocket and said in a banner headline early Saturday: "Soviets reach the moon."

The newspaper said Soviet success was a sure thing not only because of the calm confidence of their progress reports but "because Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrives in New York tomorrow."

"The rocket will reach the moon and Mikoyan New York at the same time," declared the paper. "What a great propaganda stroke." (Actually, Mikoyan is due in New York about seven hours later.)

The French newspaper Le Figaro said the Russians were too smart to take risks by announcing the shot before success was practically assured.

A writer for the London Daily Express said the major thing about the rocket was its military significance.

"Scientifically and politically the success of this Russian moon probe will be enormous. But the major dismay to the western powers will be in the military sphere," wrote Chapman Pincher.

Dutch newspapers hailed the launching. They thought the Russians' use of a bigger rocket than the ones used in U.S. efforts at moon probes would give them a good chance of reaching the moon.

A second Swedish worker shrugged his shoulders and said: "The Russians sent up the first satellite, so I suppose they will be the first to reach the moon, too."

Along with scientific details the Communist radios broadcast numerous propaganda slogans hailing the "superiority of the socialist system" and belittling American moon rocket attempts.

Moscow Radio said that in the Soviet capital jubilant students danced through the streets Friday night and led crowds to Red Square.

Early Saturday morning, a Moscow taxi driver taking an Associated Press staffer to his office said "swell" when informed of the launching.

Then he, like the Soviet scientific commentators on Moscow Radio, said, "the Americans didn't aim straight when they tried for the moon."

American Pellets Still Out in Space

NEW YORK —(AP)— Technically speaking, the Soviet rocket is probably not the first messenger to escape from the earth's gravity.

Two tiny metal pellets, about the size of BB shots, went roaming away from the earth on Oct. 16, 1957.

That day, the U.S. Air Force sent an Aerobee rocket up 54 miles then exploded it from charges in the rocket's nose.

The explosions boosted some of the fragments to estimtaed speeds of 40,000 miles an hour.

At least two of the bits of aluminum nose were observed photographically to be headed out on escape paths, spokesman of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center reported.

Perhaps they fell into the sun or went into orbits around the sun. A leader in these experiments was Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology.

No American rocket has reached the moon, but officials refuse to classify all four U.S. attempts or failures.

Two probes streaked a fair distance toward the moon and officials say, collected valuable information about the radiation around the earth.

Sodium Tail Light Identifies Rocket

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia's moon-bound rocket carried a special tail-light — a sodium cloud that gave it the appearance of an artificial comet.

The idea, the Russians explained, was to allow a visible cloud which could be observed and photographed as their experimental vehicle headed through space.

The Russians reported they had cut loose the sodium cloud in the early morning hours and that it had been photographed from the earth.

The Moscow Planetarium said bad weather over the Moscow area had prevented photographing the phenomenon there. But a Soviet scientist said a Central Asian observatory had recorded the picture.

At the distance of the moon, even an object of the size the Russians claim their satellite is, would not be visible from the earth.

American scientists, when informed of the Russian report about the sodium cloud, deemed it feasible. They said the American Air Force had done a similar thing in rocket experiments, though in the case of the rockets the altitude was only about 60 miles.

Sputniks 'Like Alarm Clocks'

'Throw 'em at Wall, They Still Tick'

LONDON — Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of modern rocketry, Saturday urged the United States to make basic technical changes in its rocket program if it wants to match Russia's latest space missile.

"If the Americans want to make a successful moon shot, they must build stronger rocket engines," the 64-year-old professor said in Germany.

"They have been putting too much emphasis on complicated gadgets."

Oberth, who retired to this small German town two months ago after working nearly three years as the United States Army's idea man at the Ballistic Missile Agency in Huntsville, Ala., said Russia's moon rocket was a "crude but powerful" vehicle.

"The Russian rockets remind me of simple alarm clocks — you can throw them on the wall and they'll keep on ticking," the 64-year-old scientist said.

* * *

"COMPARED WITH the Russian space vehicles, the American rockets are filigreed ladies' wrist watches that look nice but tend to stop frequently," he added.

One of Britain's top space scientists, Prof. H. S. W. Massey, said he thought Russia was "quite likely to get a vehicle as far as the moon."

"Their apparent inactivity in the moon shot field until now must have been the result of preparations for this project," Massey said.

Leslie Shepherd, chairman of the British Interplanetary Society, said he was not surprised by news of the Russian try at the moon but "the size of the final stage rocket certainly is a bit of a surprise."
